ELLEN'S HALF-DOLLAR.

A USEFUL LESSON.

Ellen Villiars was the orphan niece of a wealthy farmer, who had commenced the world with no capital but industry. Fortune smiled upon his labors, and he was soon able to purchase for himself a snug farm upon which he built a neat cottage; and went on year after year adding tract after tract of land to his wide domains, until he could look for miles around on his own possessions. A little village reared its head amidst a beautiful cluster of elm trees, and owned him as its master, and was also known by his name.

He had, in early life, selected one from amongst his neighbors' daughters, with whom to divide his cares and share his joys—and hand in hand they had journeyed on through life's tedious way, so immersed in the tumult of business, as not to perceive the vacancy around them. But at the age of fifty, Mr. Granger found that notwithstanding the bounteous gifts of Providence, there was a void in his breast—he had no smiling offspring to gather around his knee at dewy eve—no lisping prattler to greet his return.

However, he was not long left to mourn over his lonely state—the death of an only sister at this period, gave to his charge the orphan Ellen, and the old man entered, as it were, upon a new life.

There was no pain that Ellen's presence could not mitigate, no grief she could not assuage. No fears or threats could alarm him, save the fear of losing Ellen, the idol of his hopes, the centre of his affections.

Merry Christmas paid its annual visit to the young folks—and the corner allotted to Ellen for her play house, groaned beneath the weight of the tokens deposited there by numerous friends, for the purpose of delighting the fancy of the child, or gaining the favor of the wealthy uncle. Among the rest of the gifts was a bright half dollar, which she turned over and over, and laid it in her work-box.

Christmas sports and pastimes over, the toys and playthings lost their attractions, and Ellen sighed for something new, on which to bestow her attention.

She became pleased with a pretty doll, which she saw one of her playmates have, and expressed a desire to have one, as she said it cost only half a dollar, and she could purchase it at her own expense.

The doll was accordingly purchased, and Ellen called to receive her charge, and take good care of it until she needed something else.

Oh, my beautiful doll, and my half dollar, too, exclaimed Ellen in surprise, her beautiful eyes meanwhile beaming with delight toward her no less delighted uncle.

Six months after this, a neighbor called on Mr. Granger to solicit aid in relieving a family who had been reduced to beggary, by the intemperance of her husband; but his aid was sternly refused as the old gentleman said he had but little idea of wasting his sustenance on drunkenness and idleness.

The friend, unwilling to be put off, continued to plead for the starving wife and helpless children.

Ellen, who had been playing behind her uncle, was an attentive observer to all that was passing, and skipping gaily from her hiding place, bounded off with the swiftness of a fawn, and presently returned putting into the gentleman's hand her shining half dollar. Take this, said she, and buy them bread. See, she continued, I have all I want and half a dollar too.

Sweet child, said the gentleman, taking her in his arms, you are destined to be a blessing to those to whom you are related.

Take your money, child, said the uncle, and be assured it has purchased food for the hungry. Your uncle has all he wants, and wherewith to relieve the distressed.

The chilly blasts of winter had began to whistle around the dwellings of the poor. The frugal and thrifty farmer was making ample provision for his winter's store. And Mr. Granger, exact to a letter where his own interest was concerned, looked carefully over his rent-roll, and found some of his tenants at Grangersville in arrears. Bills were accordingly sent in with strict injunctions that the money should be forthcoming.

On the following morning a poor widow presented herself before her landlord, and, with streaming eyes, begged for a little longer indulgence.

But Mr. Granger, not remarkable for lenity, and wearied with importunities, declared his intention of seizing her cow if she did not, in a few days, settle the claim.

The poor woman returned home in great distress, as she well knew she could not raise the money, and her cow which furnished food for her children, must be lost.

In the evening, Mr. Granger took little Ellen on his knee, as was his custom before retiring—but the child did not return his caresses with her usual warmth, which led him to fear she was not well—upon being interrogated, she replied she was perfectly well.

After having sat some time upon his lap in deep silence, she looked up kindly in his face and said, Uncle, you have a great many cows, havn't you?

Yes, my child, replied Mr. Granger, I have twelve as fine ones in my pasture as ever a pail went under.

Then why, uncle, resumed the child, will you take Mrs. Green's cow, who has but one?

Oh! said Mr. Granger, I do not want the cow, I shall sell it for the rent that is due, for the house she lives in.

Oh! then uncle, said the delighted child, I will buy it, for you know I have a whole half dollar.

And what do you want with a cow, my darling? said Mr. Granger, patting her fondly on the head.

Oh! I should give it to poor Mrs. Green again, said Ellen, and then you know little Willy and Mary would not have to eat their bread alone, and go to bed—but can have their nice good bread and milk for their suppers. I did feel so sorry when you talked of taking their cow and leaving them nothing but their dry bread.

A tear was seen to glisten in the old man's eye—he sat for some moments absorbed in deep thought. Let me learn a lesson, he said, from this child. I have enough, and more than enough, this poor woman has but a scanty subsistence, and yet I would take from her to add to my well filled purse. I have toiled all my life like a slave, and have been too narrow hearted to enjoy the blessing that I have so diligently toiled for. I will, from this moment, close my account, and open wide my heart.

Ellen, my child, he said, your half dollar has bought the widow's cow.

And seating himself at his writing desk, he wrote Mrs. Green a receipt in full, and despatched a servant with it, that the poor woman might sleep comfortably that night, and the next day several poor families in Grangersville received the same treatment, and the old man often says that Ellen's half dollar has purchased for him more real enjoyment than all the money he ever spent.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
SATURDAY, JANUARY 1, 1853.

OUR WEEKLY—TO ADVERTISERS.
The first number of the Weekly Chronicle will be ready for delivery this morning.

Persons about making arrangements for yearly advertising, will do well to consider the advantages offered by the issue of the Daily and Weekly Chronicle. In addition to the fact that our independence of partizanship gives us an increased and varied circulation, the like of which can be attained by no party sheet,—we give advertisements the benefit of the circulation of both papers. Our terms are low—call and see.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

The New Year commencing this day, finds us so much engrossed in the management of a daily paper, and so identified with it, that we almost forget we have not always been so engrossed. Yet this is the first piece of moralizing from our columns to these readers on New Year's Day. We wish you a happy New Year with all our hearts—but we have no power to make you so, beyond our wishes, and our exhortations to walks in which happiness most abounds. They are the paths of contentment, industry and benevolence,—and in them every one may walk, if he will but set his face in the right direction, without looking back.—We remember the Statesmen, the Divines, the good men in private life, who began the year with us, but who have been numbered with the dead ere its close—and we consider that surviving great men, and all about us, are "men of like passions with" them, and that the order of Divine goodness demands that the present active generation shall pass, and be succeeded in its turn by that which is now rising.—Rightly viewed, the change of men should be deemed no more calamitous than the change of time. Yet it is sad to think that we shall no more see some faces on which our eyes have rested with delight—and a sad apprehension to fear that some on whom we now look with respect or admiration, must also fade from our vision.

But though the years change, time itself lives on—and though man dies, he lives again—and we shall see, and know, and love and enjoy, more, and better, those who were dearer than life itself.

CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS.

We learn from the Daily Patriot, that the House has passed the Bill dividing the State into three Congressional Districts. As reported, no county is divided, and the Districts are as follows:—

1st District, the counties of Rockingham, Strafford, Carroll and Belknap; 2d District, the counties of Hillsborough and Merrimack; 3d District, the counties of Cheshire, Sullivan, Grafton and Coos. The bill will probably pass in this form. The first District gave, last March, a Democratic majority of about 500, and the third about 700, while there was a majority of about 180 against the Democrats in the second District. The towns of Jackson and Bartlett, and Hart's Location, are intended to be included in the first District.

HARD CASE.—A clergyman is in jail in Senaca county, N. Y., on a charge of having seduced the daughter of the sexton of his church, and then refusing to support the illegitimate child, although possessed of considerable wealth. He declares his innocence, but the courts decided against him twice. The girl died broken-hearted on the 10th inst., declaring to the last that the minister had ruined her. Her name was Margaret Lott, and she was only 18 years old. The name of the reverend gentleman is not given.—Boston Post.

The name ought to have been given, by all means,—and it ought to be brought before the public now, by some paper in the county where the offence was committed. His exposure would do only justice to innocent men who may be confounded with him in the public mind.

HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY, for January, 1853, is laid on our table by Mr. J. F. Shores, Jr., the Agent, who will be happy to furnish this monthly to subscribers, for 25 cents per number.

The January number contains Memoirs of the Holy Land, by Jacob Abbott, illustrated by numerous engravings. Three Weeks in Cuba, illustrated, and containing information of special value at the present time. Napoleon Bonaparte, illustrated; Life in Paris; Whims of Great Men; Bleak House, &c. &c.

AMOS LAWRENCE, Esq., an eminent merchant of Boston, and one of the firm of A. & A. Lawrence, died on Thursday night, about a quarter before 12 o'clock. Mr. Lawrence has been as highly distinguished for his religious and charitable gifts and offerings as for his industry and success in business. His age was 67. He was out, apparently in his usual health and cheerfulness, on Thursday, in the streets of Boston, that were made sad the next morning, by the news of his death.

SPEEDY JUSTICE.—The house of Philander Marsh Westhampton, Mass., was broken open, and robbed last Sunday afternoon. Information was given to Mr. Ansel Wright, who forthwith repaired to the premises, and tracked the robber for a distance of some 4 miles, when he came up with him in a negro shanty, and found the stolen property on him. His name is Charles Shaw, aged 18. He was tried next morning before Justice Hodge and sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the house of correction.

BUTTER MAKING.

The price of butter is so high this winter, that our farmers will make all that they possibly can for sale. It has been customary in former years to sell the milk to milkmen, after the cows were fed on hay, from the long time it took to bring the butter, and the want of a rich color in the butter after it had turned.—We have often known the patience of the whole family exhausted, by churning four or five hours, and when at last the cream buttered, it was about the color of lard, and as tasteless as it was colorless. All this difficulty may be avoided by scalding the milk as it comes from the cows. It should be strained from the pail directly into a boiler placed over the fire, and should be brought nearly to boiling heat, although not allowed to boil. Then put it in the pans in the cellar as usual, and no more difficulty will be experienced in churning than would be in June. The butter will come solid and yellow, and would hardly be known from the best butter of the season. This we have from one that has tried it. We would recommend to all who make butter at this season, to make a trial and see if it is not so.—Middlesex Farmer.

Twenty years of experience in butter-making enable us to say that butter of good color and taste may be made in Winter, almost without fail. Our mode of operation, however, was not scalding the milk as above directed—but keeping the milk as near a given temperature as possible, and by churning the cream exactly at the degree of heat which we found best.

We had often exhausted, not only our patience, but our strength, in a long fruitless job of churning, in the days of youth—and as our experience advanced, we found, as every dairy-woman knows full well, that in June and September, when we make the best butter, the cream rises quickly in the pan, and the butter comes quick and hard in the churn.

When the weather is very hot, in July and August, butter will often come quick, but soft—and in winter it is apt to come slowly, and sometimes not at all, even with a whole day's churning.

It occurred to us, that if the cream to be churned in August or in January, could be brought down or up to the usual temperature of cream in June, we should save time in churning.

Observation showed that temperature to be about 48 or 50 degrees; and all our experiments in churning at that temperature, proved quite satisfactory. We then took another step of the same kind, viz., to keep our milk set in a room of about the same temperature. This was easily done by means of a blind and shutter between the kitchen and dairy, which were opened and closed so as to keep the dairy at the temperature required.

We kept our cream, as most farmers do, in a stone pot. This, in winter, we set into a pail of hot water—in summer, into a pail of cold, until a thermometer, plunged into the cream, said 50.

Then we churned—then beat out all the buttermilk, (without washing,) and salted with clean rock salt, pounded or ground fine. We had no butter that fell below A number 1.

MARY WARE.—A memorial of her has lately been published by Nichols & Co. of Boston. We have not seen the book—we did not know her,—but we knew and loved her husband, and so notice the memorial of his widow, "for auld lang syne."

Mrs. Mary Ware (says the Boston Chronicle) was consort of Rev. Dr. Henry Ware, Jr. She was born in Boston, on the 2d day of Oct. 1798, and died at Milton, in Feb. 1849. She was a lady of great eminence; and her social, intellectual and religious character is sweetly drawn in this work by Rev. E. B. Hall, of Providence. Mrs. Ware was united to her husband while he was pastor of the Second Church, in Hanover street, and when he was in the height of his popular renown. Her struggles, labors, and pleasures, are given mostly in her own words. It does not speak much for the hopes of the ministry, that the widow of such a man as Dr. Ware, who wore himself out in sustaining the denomination of which he was so noble an ornament, should be compelled, in the decline of life, to teach small children, to get her daily bread, and keep want away from her door. But such is the stubborn fact. The most popular minister finds his sun waning, and the "dark side of the pillar turned" towards him; and all he hopes is to leave an unspotted repute; for he must die poor, and leave only his name to his children. This truth comes out with touching fidelity in this memorial.

BROADWAY RAILROAD.—The City Government of New York are getting into a snarl, about the Broadway Railroad. On Thursday, Judge Emmett, of the superior court, issued an order commanding those members of the board of Aldermen who voted for the Broadway Railroad, in defiance of an injunction, to appear before the court on Monday next, and show cause why an attachment should not be issued against them.

The Board of Aldermen have also resolved that the Common Council have an equal authority and right to suspect and impute improper motives to any intended judicial decision of any Judge, and consequently to arrest his action on the bench, as such judge has in regard to the legislative action of the Common Council.

☞ The Daily Chronicle will not be for sale by the Carriers after January 1st. The only way to get the paper regularly, is to leave orders with our carriers or at the office to that effect.

BAPTISMS BY IMMERSION.—We understand that Elder Bradbury, of the Free Will Baptist Church, will baptize Rev. Mr. Stockman, to-morrow, between meetings, at Noble's Island.—Rev. Mr. S. was a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church,—but now becomes a freewill baptist.

The Advent Brethren will also baptize a member of that church, near the same time and place.

[Weather permitting, we presume, in both cases.]

Rev. Lemuel Willis is expected to preach in the Universalist Church to-morrow, being the commencement of his pastoral services in this city.

☞ We understand Rev. Mr. Brown is to preach in the Stone Church to-morrow.

Rev. Mr. Kenrick, of Charlestown, Mass. will preach at the North Church to-morrow.

MR. BODWELL'S LECTURE.—The subject of this gentleman's lecture before the Portsmouth Lyceum, next Tuesday evening, is to be, The Country and Rural People of England.—We need not bespeak a full house for him.

THE LIQUOR BILL.—On the indefinite postponement of this bill, the delegation from this city was divided. Messrs. Bartlett, Hackett and Langdon voted Yea,—and Messrs. Walker, Cheever, Dearborn and Moses voted Nay.

N H. General Court—Nov. Session, 1852.

[Abridged from the Patriot.]

THURSDAY, Dec. 30.

Hardy to school district No. 11 in Hopkinton; bill in amendment of railroad laws, relating to free passes, season tickets, &c.; bill to class Errol, &c., for choice of Representatives; bill relating to assessment of school tax.

HOUSE.—The following bills were read a third time and passed:—

Bill for dividing the State into three Congressional Districts.

Bill to incorporate the Langdon Manufacturing Company, at Manchester.

Bill to incorporate the Mad River Dam and Boom Company.

Bill to incorporate the Union Meeting House Society in the town of Madison.

Bill to sever a tract of land from Canterbury, and annex the same to Loudon.

Bill relating to the assessment of non-resident taxes—laid on the table.

Thirty-Second Congress—Second Session.

SENATE.—In the Senate, on Thursday, the chair laid before the Senate an invitation to attend the inauguration of the statue of Jackson; also a report of the secretary of the interior relative to the lunatic asylum in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Cass's resolution relative to Central American affairs was adopted.

Several bills reported from the house were finally acted on and passed.

Mr. Jones, of Tenn., offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling for the report of the board of officers who visited the Blue Lick Springs and other points, for the purpose of selecting a site for a military asylum.

Several private bills were passed, and the senate adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE. The Speaker laid before the House an invitation to attend the inauguration of the bronze statue of Jackson on the 8th of January.

Nothing of importance was done. Adjourned till Monday.

ADVERTISING.—Those who neglect the advertising columns of a newspaper, often lose some rare bits of fun. Take, for instance, the following trio of specimens, which we clip from the Exeter News Letter; of this week:—

"If I were a voice, a persuasive voice,
That could travel all" Exeter "through,
I would fly on the beams of the morning light,
And speak to men with a gentle might,
And tell them" that STAPLES has just received a prime lot of Honey, which, owing to the high price of dairy production, offers a very good substitute—for sale at the Won-nea-squam-sauke Saloon, formerly Squamscot.

From the busy toils at close of day
From care and strife to get away,
Where shall I go an hour to stay? but up to STAPLE'S, where Oysters of the first quality; also, Cakes and pies, Hot Coffee and Tea.

When hunger and thirst weaken the frame,
"And grief distracts my fevered brain,"
Where shall I quiet this gnawing pain?
Why, at Squamscot Saloon.

"The shades of night were falling fast,
As through" this little "village passed
A youth, who bore 'mid snow and ice,
A banner, with this" new "device"—STAPLE'S Molasses Candy is all the rage.

"His brow was" high, "his eye beneath
Flashed like a falchion from its sheath;
And like a silver clarion rung
The accents of that" well-known "tongue"—Call at STAPLE'S and get some of that Preserved Ginger, Canton Sweetmeats, which is a delicacy for the table, or a cure for colds and coughs.
Won-nea-squam-sauke Saloon, or Squamscot.

☞ Emma Snodgrass, the girl in pants, was arrested again in Boston yesterday morning, and sent to New York in the afternoon, at her father's instance. Another girl in the same trim, was arrested at the same time.

REFLECTION ON A PICTURE.—When Wilkie was in the Escurial looking at Titan's famous picture of the Last Supper, in the refectory there, an old Jerominite said to him, "I have sat daily in sight of that picture for nearly threescore years. During that time my companions have dropped off one after another, all who were my seniors, all who were my contemporaries, and many or most of those who were younger than myself. More than one generation has passed away, and these, the figures in the picture, have remained unchanged. I look at them till I sometimes think that they are the realities and we are but the shadows."

The Congregational Church at West Barnstable, Mass., is said to be the first Independent Congregational Church, under that name, in the world! It was organized in England in 1616. After long and cruel persecution, their second pastor, Rev. John Lothrop, with all he could collect of his scattered church and congregation, came to our shores, and settled first at Scituate, and afterwards, in 1689, removed to Barnstable. The heavy oak frame of the present house was raised in 1717. The house has been recently re-modeled into a convenient and beautiful place of worship, and dedicated on the 18th Dec.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

By the steamship Franklin, Captain Wotten, at Halifax, we have accounts from London, Southampton and Havre to the 13th instant, inclusive, and from Paris, by telegraph, to the 12th inst.

Owing to Sunday intervening between the departure of the last steamer from Liverpool and the Franklin, there is but little commercial or political news by this arrival.

The United States mail steamship Washington left Southampton on the 8th inst., for New York; in consequence of being struck by a heavy sea was compelled to return, and was promptly repaired at Southampton, and left that port again on the 13th inst.

The opposition throughout England to the tory ministry was on the increase, and there was no doubt if the government did not withdraw its financial scheme for amendment and reconsideration, that they would be defeated in the house of commons, and a resignation will follow.

Great activity characterises the manufacturing districts. Further arrivals of gold are reported. The continental news is not important.

ARRIVAL OF THE GEORGIA—TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS IN GOLD.—New York, Dec. 30.—The steamship Georgia, from Aspinwall, arrived at this port with $2,550,000, and $200,000 in the hands of passengers.

TELEGRAPHIC HUMBUG.—Baltimore, Dec. 30.—A fabricated report of the news per steamer Canada was sent South from Baltimore, announcing cotton as being firm and unchanged, causing heavy losses to the merchants of Macon, Montgomery and Columbus. The Charleston Courier exposes the cheat, and cautions editors and factors against relying on any reports except those emanating from the agents of the New York associated press.

AN IMPERIAL SHAVER.—Since the coup d'etat the French railway shares have advanced almost fifty per cent., while the Paris bourse has been animated with unwonted speculation. There was something unnatural in all this, and people are beginning to find it out. Louis Napoleon, it is said, did it all, and for his own benefit, politically and pecuniarily. It gave a certain eclat to his administration, and it filled his purse. When shares, &c., were low, he purchased largely, and then patronized the lines they appertained to. His agents filled London and Paris, and his gains are set down by shrewd and able speculators at £16,000,000. With £16,000,000 in his own chest, what may he not dare? But former defeats have taught him caution; he is not ready, and he can wait. The despots of Europe wait upon him, compliment him, court him, and dread him.—Boston Post.

"RESTORATION."—The Buffalo Republic, a prominent Democratic organ, in a labored editorial, urges that General Pierce owes it to the Democratic party of the State of New York, to place Martin Van Buren at the head of the State Department, he being one of the party, and the author of its system of organization!

BAD BILLS.—The Metropolitan Bank, of New York gives notice that the bills of the Farmers' Bank, of Onondaga county, and Merchants' Bank, of Oswego, are no longer receivable at that bank. The Courier and Enquirer states that the bill holders will probably lose 40 per cent. There are $171,000 in bills of these banks in circulation.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, speaking of Uncle Tom's Cabin says: "It is a little funny that a member of that family which of all others has set itself most strongly against the evils of the play house, should have furnished the material for dramatic exhibition more popular than any other of the age.

SINGULAR INCIDENT.—A few weeks ago, the following aged gentlemen happened to meet in the grocery store of Mr. John B. Pratt, and after making their purchases, fell into conversation with each other upon their personal history. They are all native citizens of Worcester, and a gentleman present had the curiosity to note down their respective ages, which were as follows: Wm. Eaton, Esq., 86; Samuel Sturtevant, 80; Capt. Lewis Barnard, 78; Maj. Samuel Graves, 76; Abel Flagg, 72; Joel Gates, 70; their united ages, 462.—Worcester Palladium.

The Portland Advertiser warns "down east" not to be gulled by a nice whiskered man, who, purporting to be a merchant from Cuba, has been fleecing the people of that city to the tune of his shaving, riding, and board bills. He wanted to buy large amounts of lumber, and succeeded in obtaining a little board.

A NEW PLATFORM.—Charles B. Ferguson was a candidate for constable in Georgetown township, California. His friends issued an address in his favor, and announced "by authority," that he is in favor of the next war, opposed to the cholera, in favor of high salaries, and opposed to uncurrent money and poor brandy. We have not heard the result of the election.

A female named Mary Clemens, who keeps a small store, was arrested in New York for dressing in male apparel. This is a very cheap and efficient way of advertising—for the papers give the street and number of her shop.

A French company has obtained permission from the Pope to build four bridges over the Tiber, at and in the vicinity of Rome. His Holiness is so much interested in the enterprise, that he has consented that one of the bridges be known as il pinto Pio Nino.

The St. Louis Intelligencer, referring to the statement that the hired girls of Pittsburg had sent home $35,000 to their relations in the Old Country within the six months previous, states that within twelve months, the emigrants from Ireland in St. Louis have purchased and transmitted home $110,000.

WOOL WADDING.—White and colored Wool Wadding of the best quality for sale at

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.
It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.
For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE IN NORWAY AND SWEDEN.—Rev. Dr. Baird, in a recent lecture before the Smithsonian Institute, according to the National Intelligencer, dwelt at some length on the subject of religious intolerance in the northern nations. He said he was ashamed to state that in Sweden, if a native should leave the national (or Lutheran) church and become a Roman Catholic, he subjects himself to twenty years imprisonment or exile. He does the same if he should quit that church to become a Methodist, Baptist, or Presbyterian. He spoke in the highest terms of the general virtue and intelligence of the Norwegians, but said that the article in their constitution, by which it is forbidden to a Jesuit or a Jew to set his foot in that country, is a disgrace to this nineteenth century.

Wit is brushwood—judgment is timber.—The former makes the brightest flame, but the latter makes the most lasting heat.

After it was ascertained that Gen. Scott was defeated, the young ladies of the High School in Springfield, Ohio, appeared in black shawls and other badges of mourning, as an evidence of their disappointment.

POISONOUS OYSTERS.—A disease supposed to be the cholera broke out with great fatality at Apalachicola, Florida, a short time since. The Albany (Ga.) Patriot states that seventy-five deaths occurred in ten days. The disease is now believed to have been caused by eating oysters procured in the bay near that place.—It is stated that a large portion of the oysters in the beds have become diseased since the late freshet, in consequence, it is thought, of the unusual quantity of fresh water discharged into the bay.

THE IMPROVED
EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscribers have commenced in warning the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best appanatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window Shade, Table Oil cloth, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

A BULLFIGHT AND A MORAL.

"Ralpho" tells the following tale in the Halifax Nova Scotia.

I remember when a lad at school, of once seeing a fight between two bullocks. I never shall forget it, although I could not have been more than eight years of age at the time. It happened on this wise:

Close by the school house—a very unpretending edifice it was—ran a deep and rapid river. Across it had been thrown a high, wooden bridge, the bandrailing of which time, and the winds, and the weather had entirely destroyed. It was one bright summer day—I remember it as it were yesterday—the hour of noon had arrived, and a frolicsome, romping, fun-loving company of lads were let loose, for an hour's recreation. The land on the opposite side of the river was owned by different persons and farmed by them respectively.—The bellowing and roaring of two bulls that had broken out of the inclosures on each side of the river, and were approaching each other along the highway, at a rate which would cause them to meet about the centre of this high bridge, beneath which, at some thirty feet, ran a deep and sluggish stream, between high and steep banks attracted our attention.

The more daring of us gathered near the bridge lining the fences to see the fight, and were not disappointed. Nearer and nearer approached the proud, pawing combatants to each other, and Bashan never produced two fiercer looking brutes than those I now describe. They tore the ground with their feet—they kneeled down ocasionally trying to gore the earth with their horns; they lashed their sides fiercely with their tails, but unobservedly of each other, for the high bridge obstructed their view. Presently, as they simultaneously ascended the respective abutments, they came full in sight of one another. The roar was mutual and actually tremendous. Every urchin of us sprang into the fields and ran; but gathering courage in finding we were not pursued, we as hastily retraced our steps; and there they were, both of them front to front, their horns locked together, fighting as bulls only can fight! It seemed to be an even match. Now one would press back his opponent a few paces, and presently you would hear quick, sharp, short steps, and his adversary would be pressed back in return. The struggling was hard, was long, was savage.

They began to wheel—in another moment they were faced at right angles with the old bridge, which shook, and creaked, and rocked again with their tramping, and the effects of the terrible strife.

It was the work of a single moment—one of the beasts—I never could tell which of them did it—one of them, however, as if conscious of his position, made a desperate, a terrible lunge forward, and pressed his antagonist back—back—back—there was but another step of plank behind him—between him and nothing—back still further he was pressed, and over he went headlong. Such a sight I never saw—I never again shall see—a bull off a bridge, falling at least thirty feet, over and over. He turned once or twice, probably—I thought he turned over fify times. There seemed so much horns and feet and tail flying through the air—but down he went, the water was deep and he disappeared.

The other bull didn't laugh, merely because bulls, as I supposed, could not. But we laughed. There he stood, looking directly down into the deep abyss below, and into which he had hurled his unlucky foe. He stood, however, but a moment, as if frightened at the prospect before him. He commenced to step backward—back—back—with his head in the same pugnacious attitude as when in combat—back another step and over he too went on the opposite side of the bridge, performing just as many and exactly as ludicrous somersets as his adversary had done a minute before. It beat all I ever saw.

In about five minutes both bulls might be seen, their tails trailing in the sand, dripping wet, and scratching up the steep, gravelly banks, each on his own side of the river.

"Them are bulls won't never fight any more," said a boy behind me. I turned around, it was red-haired Bob, as we used to call him, and every hair of Bobby's naked head, looked as if it was in spasms. But Bobby was right.

There are two political parties in Nova Scotia; I wish they had seen that fight as I saw it—that is all I have to say for the present.

NOBLE GENEROSITY.—The New York Evening Post states that during the late great fire in Sacramento city, Thomas Hunt, Esq., of the firm of Thomas Hunt & Co., New York, distinguished himself for his timely benevolence. Before the fire was stayed, he had placed a check for one thousand dollars in the hands of the Mayor, to be applied for the relief of the sick and destitute, after despatching his boat at an early hour to San Francisco, for provisions and succor. She returned immediately with a full freight of merchandise, and a donation of eight thousand dollars worth of goods, paid for from his own resources, which brought relief to hundreds in great distress. After the fire, for some days, no charge was made on his steamboat for passage to the Bay for sufferers, and no less than five hundred persons were transported free to their friends, or the shelter so nobly provided.—In addition to this, he ordered his officers to keep open house for all who sought food, by which many were saved from suffering and starvation.

No man in the world can be more useful in such a time of distress than a merchant who is both rich and liberal,—because he has the means in his hand, and knows how to use them to advantage.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, JANUARY 3, 1853.

Persons about making arrangements for yearly advertising, will do well to consider the advantages offered by the issue of the Daily and Weekly Chronicle. In addition to the fact that our independence of partizanship gives us an increased and varied circulation, the like of which can be attained by no party sheet,—we give advertisements the benefit of the circulation of both papers. Our terms are low—call and see.

LIQUOR LAWS UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

The decision of Judges Curtis and Pitman, at the Circuit Court of the United States in Rhode Island, was entirely adverse to the soundness and validity of the Rhode Island Liquor Law, which is almost an exact copy of that in Maine.

The decision goes to invalidate those provisions of the Maine Law which have made it more efficient than any former law enacted for the same purpose. These provisions are decided to be contrary to those sections of the State and national Constitutions which guarantee a trial by jury in Civil and Criminal Cases.—And it struck us as being rather remarkable, that if the same principles on which this decision rests, had been applied to the fugitive slave law, that would have fallen also. But it seems that what is fish in the one case, is flesh in the other.

We have always doubted, and have freely expressed our doubts, of the constitutionality of the Maine Law. But as better lawyers than we can pretend to be, thought otherwise, we would not be pertinacious.

If this decision is, as it now appears to be, a forerunner of one from the Supreme Court of the United States, which will sweep away all liquor laws except those that license the dealer "for the public good," we shall have an end of free trade in strong drinks. License laws may be passed in the several states as a means of raising revenue—but the community have little confidence in them as tending to promote temperance in any measure or degree worthy of consideration.

In such case, whatever efforts are made to diminish the gigantic evils of intemperance, must be moral and not legal.

The case decided, was an action for replevin, for certain spirituous liquors committed to the defendants, as constables of the city of Providence, by an order of the Court of Magistrates, to be destroyed according to the provisions of the 'Act for the Suppression of Drinking Houses and Tippling Shops.'

Judge Curtis held the order of forfeiture invalid; first, because there was no sufficient complaint; and secondly, because the plaintiff was deprived of his property by a criminal prosecution, in which he neither had nor could have, a trial by jury, without submitting to conditions which the Legislature had no constitutional power to impose. The Court also thought the order not simply voidable, but absolutely void; the magistrates having no jurisdiction over the proceedings. And they gave judgment for the plaintiff on the demurrer, with nominal damages.

The Boston Journal of Saturday evening, is not inclined to consider this decision so important, or so near final as we do. It says,

"Much misapprehension has arisen in the public mind regarding the late decision of Judge Curtis, in reference to the Rhode Island liquor law. The cause having arisen between parties residing in different States, (the plaintiff residing in New York,) brought it within the cognizance of the United States Court, and the law was decided unconstitutional, by the 10th and 15th sections of article first of the State Constitution.

The decision was therefore based on the fundamental law of that State, and not of the United States, and can have no bearing upon the law of this Commonwealth, or of that of Maine, except so far as the provisions of their constitutions correspond with those of Rhode Island.

The decision, even in the case adjudicated, is not final, as it may be carried up to the full bench of the Supreme Court; and although the decision of so profound a lawyer as Judge Curtis is entitled to the greatest weight, that decision, even in reference to Rhode Island, may be overruled by the court of last resort.

All this is true: but every State has some similar provisions as to trial by jury—and so also has the constitution of the United States. If this decision is not overruled, by the Supreme Court,—the liquor law must be remodelled or abandoned.

THE MUSICAL WORLD, AND NEW YORK MUSICAL TIMES, is a weekly sheet, published in New York by Dyer & Willis. It is scientific, artistic and literary. Every number contains four pages of choice Music; with criticisms, instructions, notices of Musical Works, Musicians, &c. FORESTER'S BOYS AND GIRLS MAGAZINE for January, 1853, begins a new volume. It is handsomely printed, on good paper, and embellished with wood engravings: its reputation is well established—and the present number is worthy of it. The publisher is Henry V. Deyen, 7 Cornhill, Boston, Mass.

SMALL POTATOES.

No doubt farmers wonder what we want with so many small potatoes in the city, and that they can find sale for such as they used to feed to pigs, at six shillings per barrel—about half price of good ones. We will tell them. They are bought by the bakers, and after being washed clean, are boiled or steamed, then mashed and mixed with water and passed through a sieve, leaving the skins behind, and mixed with flour and baked into "warranted pure Genesee flour bread." Very good bread it is too, notwithstanding one-third of the superfine flour is made of cheap potatoes. We are not informed whether the stale loaves, after being toasted and ground, are sold as pure coffee or not. Our impression is it is sold as mixed—say one fourth.—N. Y. Agriculturist.

Any profits which the New York bakers can make out of this operation, must be a small potato indeed, compared with a similar one almost forty years ago.

In the time of our last war with Great Britain, as our flour came by land from Philadelphia, it was very dear, rising to $15 or even $20 per bbl. Our loaves and crackers became small by degrees and beautifully less. All at once "Exeter Crackers" appeared and were hawked round among us in carts, and sold fifteen for ninepence, good size. Our bakers were frightened at first, but soon found out that their neighbors used boiled potatoes 1 part, flour 3 parts, and of course made quite a saving—for then potatoes were about 20 or 25 cents per bushel in the fall.

Our bakers took the hint, and our families also,—and potato bread was common in this neighborhood for several years.

DROWNED BOY.—The Newburyport Herald says that a boy was discovered about 8 o'clock on Thursday morning by Mr. Samuel Fenimore, and another person, passing along the mall at the time, struggling in the water on the edge of the ice in Frog Pond, near the Court House. They rescued him, and in drawing him from the water, drew up, entangled to his feet, the corpse of another boy about 9 or 10 years old, who had been seen on the frozen portion of the pond about an hour before, but who was seen to fall in by no one, and whose fate was not known to the rescued boy. The name of the drowned boy was Timothy Cusack; he was of Irish parentage.

The late Amos Lawrence was accustomed to devote all monies he received from jury duty and similar service to benevolent purposes. He was one of the Whig electors at the recent Presidential election, and after drawing his fees enclosed them to aid in the purchase of the slave woman and child in Baltimore, in behalf of whom an appeal was recently made to our citizens.

N. H. General Court—Nov. Session, 1852.

[Abridged from the Patriot.]

Friday, Dec. 31.

SENATE.—The Senate concurred in the House amendment to the resolution fixing upon Saturday, Jan. 8, as a day of final adjournment, and sent immediate notice down to the House.

HOUSE.—Mr. Bartlett of Portsmouth introduced Maj. Gen. Wool to the Speaker of the House, and Mr. Glidden of Unity, in similar manner, introduced Lieut. Tallmadge, Aide-de-camp to Gen Wool. Great interest was created by the presence of the gallant soldier. After remaining some half hour, Gen. Wool left—no business of interest being before the House to induce a longer stay.

The bill to unite the New Hampshire Central and Concord and Claremont Railroads, under the title of the "Merrimack and Connecticut River Railroad," was then taken up; the question being on the adoption of the amendments reported thereto by the Judiciary committee, which were acted upon separately.

This was debated at some length,—and an amendment which would have defeated the object of the bill, was negatived. No other question was taken.

The adjournment of the Legislature.—The joint resolution agreeing to an adjournment on Saturday, 1st January 1853, was taken from the table on motion of Mr. Barker of Westmoreland, and amended by substituting the 8th instead of the 1st January, and under a suspension of the rules, finally passed.

The Senate, on Friday afternoon, adjourned to Monday afternoon, and the House met on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, adjourning in season for the members to leave by the 10 o'clock trains.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.

Under this head the Dover Gazette gives the following view of the session thus far.

The Legislature has dragged "its slow length along" through another tiresome week, dishonoring the State and agonizing the people with stupid speeches and demagogue manœuvres for the special benefit of the federal party. Scarcely any business has been transacted, except to pass resolutions and adopt other measures in honor of Daniel Webster. The members, evidently looking with some anxiety to their own political "latter end," seem to have a decided penchant for weeping and woe, for eulogies and funeral obsequies.—We are much inclined to the opinion that they will "die the death" without a funeral or even "benefit of the clergy." The people are evidently praying for that interesting event.

After a session of six weeks, what have they done? At our present writing, comparatively nothing. They may do something before our paper goes to press; but, at present, all the great measures, essential to the interest and prosperity of the State, remain unacted upon, and the House, in particular, is occupied in rising up and sitting down, adjourning for two or three days and meeting again, and then listening to federal eulogies of Daniel Webster. That branch of the legislature is controlled completely by the low intrigues and contemptible management of a few federal leaders.

SPIRIT INTERCOURSE.

Messrs. Editors:—There has been much written and published on the subject of Spiritual Manifestations, and an increasing attention is being paid to the investigation of the Rappings and Tippings. A few evenings since I had the satisfaction of witnessing some experiments in spiritual writing and conversation, which would have convinced any reasonable person that the Rappings are not all a humbug. A table was held so firmly by the spirits as to require considerable exertion for a man to move it; and a number of messages from the spirit world were written by a medium. I shall not pretend to say what is the cause of these manifestations, but shall presume till I have seen more of them, that it is nothing more nor less than Mesmerism.—There is considerable interest felt on the subject in Portsmouth, and quite a number of Spiritual papers and magazines are taken.—Any explanation of the manifestations would gratify a large class of the community. X.

For the Chronicle.

CAUTION.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish through your paper, and any others that may think the notice worth extending, to caution the public against purchasing of a travelling agent lately in Portsmouth, Recipes for making Phosgene Gas. The agent was a man of middling height, light complexion, sandy hair, a smooth fast talker—and this is to inform persons interested that the Cards he gives with the Recipes are genuine cards of D. T. Mills & Co., 60 Court street, Boston, where the fixtures for burning the Phosgene Gas may be obtained. And having proved the whole affair an imposition, and finding that D. T. Mills & Co. acknowledge they know the tubes to be worthless, but refuse to refund the money—which I do not regret, (their share of the shave amounting to but three dollars) as it gives me the opportunity to bring the whole affair before the public—and as the agent is no doubt still at the same business, and has pretty extensive designs in other places—judging by his activity and success here—I take it to be my duty and pleasure to pay you for inserting this through the next week's Daily and Weekly Chronicle. SAMUEL DONNELL.

Portsmouth, Jan. 1, 1853.

GENERAL WOOL.—Major Gen. John E. Wool, commanding Eastern division U. S. Army, accompanied by his aid, Lt. Tallmadge, arrived in Concord on Wednesday evening, on his way to Boston. On Thursday he was waited on at his quarters, at the Eagle Hotel, by Gov. Martin and Council, and a large body of the members of the Legislature, and citizens who were desirous to pay their respects to the veteran General who has done his country such signal service on so many a well fought battle field. On Friday he accepted an invitation to visit the State House while the legislative bodies were in session, and was introduced to Speaker Kittredge and to the House. He also visited the Governor and Council at their Chamber. In the afternoon the distinguished General resumed his journey.—Daily Patriot.

A MINNESOTA NIGHT.—One is not filled with a perfect sense of the charm of our climate until he witnesses one of our moonlight nights. In winter they are nearly as bright as the day. The hills round about our meridian throw a strong reflection of the moon's light in upon our town, showing its features, rendered more charming in the softness of the light. The trees of the forest bespangled with frost set off the scene like a fairy land. The air is silent as death. The only sound that breaks the silence is that of an occasional owl, perched in the woods of the Sioux side.—St. Paul's Pioneer, Dec. 2.

GOLD COINAGE.—The amount of gold deposited at the mint in December, amounts to $3,330,000. The amount of gold coined during the month amounts to $5,570,705. The amount of gold deposited during the year amounts to $51,009,295. The amount of gold coined during the year was $51,505,638. The number of three cent pieces coined during December was 3,593,500. During this year, there were coined 18,663,500 pieces of that denomination.

Among the signs of "civilization" among our red brethren, the Minnesota Democrat says that, in a Council the other day, with Governor Ramsey, one of the Winnebago chiefs complained that the Chippewa Indians stole seventeen horses from his people some time ago, and what was worse, killed the horses, dried the meat, and sold it to them for jerked elk!

CIPHERING.—"How do you get on with your Arithmetic and Catechism?" asked a father of his little boy the other night;" how far have you got?" "I've ciphered through Addition, Substraction, Justification, Sanctification and Adoption!" answered the little fellow. It used to puzzle us a good deal, we remember, when a boy to "cipher out" the meaning of several of those last named sums.—Knick.

THE ADVANTAGES OF PRINTING.—Mr. B. a well known metropolitan printer, once told us that on one occasion an old woman from the country came into his printing office with an old Bible in her hand. "I want," said she, "that you should print it over ag'in. Its gettin a leettle blurred, sort of, and my eyes is not wot they wos. How much do you ax?" "Fifty cents." "Can you have it done in half an hour? wish you would, want to be gittin home, live good ways out of town." "Certainly." When the old lady went out, he sent round to the office of the American Bible Society and purchased a copy for fifty cents.—"Lor sakes a massy!" exclaimed the old lady when she came to look at it, "how good you've fixed it! it's e'en a most as good as new! I never see nothing so curous as what printers is."—Knickerbocker.

The names of the four seamen brought into Norfolk, charged with being engaged in the slave trade, (having belonged to the schooner Advance,) are Henry Howe, mate, of Newburyport; John Aslop, of Long Island; Jeremiah Hazzard, of Cape Henlopen; Stephen Malone and William Duncans, of New York, (the last four are negroes.) The men state that they were entirely ignorant of any intention of the Captain to go to the Coast of Africa.

Montreal, Dec. 31.—A house in McGill street, occupied by Mr. King, confectioner, was burnt last night, in which Mrs. King, two children and a servant were burnt to death.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

WASHINGTON ITEMS.—Washington, Dec. 31.—Senator Houston arrived to-day, direct from Texas in good health.

The Hon. Graham N. Fitch has gone to Indiana to be at the meeting of the Legislature next week. He will be returned Senator for for the unexpired term of Mr. Whitcomb. So say leading men from that State.

We understand that Col. Forney went to Concord to sustain M. Buchanan's claims to a position in the Cabinet.

QUARRELLING IN HIGH PLACES.—Mayor Kingsland, of New York, and Mr. Compton, President of the Board of Aldermen, got into a quarrel on Friday in relation to some public business, and would have come to blows had it not been for the interference of others who were present. The Mayor then ordered the President out of the office but he would not go. The City Marshal was then called in and ordered to remove him, but with no better success. Finally, the Chief of Police induced him leave the office, and thus the difficulty was settled for the time being.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—We learn from the Worcester Spy, that two little girls, aged 3 and 5 years, daughters of Mr. Dexter Perry, who resides in Quinsigamond district, in that city, were drowned Thursday afternoon. After dinner, Mrs. Perry was called to her husband, who was sick above stairs, leaving the children below. When she returned, they were missing, and she went in pursuit of them, and, after a short search, found them both drowned in the mill pond near by. Appearances indicated that the youngest fell in first, and that the older girl was drowned in endeavoring to rescue her. A faithful dog, belonging to the family plunged into the water, and probably would have saved one or both the little girls, but alas! he was muzzled and could not grasp them.

Mrs. Farnham, formerly matron of Sing Sing prison, who organized a company of females for California, married after she arrived there a Mr. Fitzpatrick. Her domertic relations, it seems, have not been of a most happy character. A late California paper states that she has had her husband bound over to keep the peace, he having struck her, and subsequently snapped a pistol at her head.

A MAN STABBED IN GREENFIELD, MASS.—Greenfield, Jan. 1.—A nearly fatal case of stabbing occurred here this morning between 12 and 1 o'clock. Michael Porter becoming rather noisy from liquor at the Mansion House, Jerry Morgan, one of the servants, attempted to quiet him, when Porter drew a dirk and attacked Morgan with great ferocity, inflicting several severe wounds, from one of which, passing nearly through his thigh, he came near bleeding to death before assistance could be rendered. It is thought that he will recover, although much prostrated by loss of blood. Porter was arrested and lodged in jail.

SENTENCE.—At Taunton, Mass., on Wednesday, James Clough was found guilty of murdering Mr. Manchester, a sheriff, who was attempting to arrest him. On Thursday morning Clough was sentenced by Chief Justice Shaw to be imprisoned in the state prison for one year, and then be hung by the neck until he is dead, at such time as the executive of the commonwealth may appoint. The prisoner did not exhibit the least emotion. This is the first conviction under the new law, which provides that a murderer shall remain in prison one year before execution.

A STRANGE RESULT.—Goodwin, who, in the month of August last, deliberately killed Olyphant, his wife's paramour, in a most shocking and revolting manner, and who, two days after the commission of the deed, surrendered himself up, was on trial in the criminal court during several days of last week. The case was given to the jury on Friday evening, and on Saturday morning when they appeared in court, an unconditional verdict of not guilty was rendered. This result, although strange, was unlooked for, as public opinion ran strongly in favor of the accused. However, many are disposed to censure the jury for giving a verdict so clearly and diametrically opposed to the evidence.—[St. Louis Union, Dec. 18.

The British brig Rother, Capt. Morris, which sailed from Philadelphia August 14, for Pernambuco, and was recently reported missing, has been heard from. The R. was spoken by ship Rebecca, on her passage from Rio Janeiro to New Orleans, in latitude 4 degrees 8 minutes south, longitude 35 47 west, was then 103 days out, and had crossed the equator six weeks previous. They were short of everything except flour, of which the cargo consisted, and were supplied by the Rebecca. For the previous five weeks they had no water save such as they had distilled from salt water, with the help of a common sized tea kettle.

MUNICIPAL COURT, PORTLAND.—A seizure of some ten gallons of liquor was made on Thursday, at a notorious place near the head of Union wharf, known as the "Hole in the Wall," and yesterday its keeper "Tom O'Brion," was brought before the Municipal Court on the charge of keeping liquors for sale, and being adjudged guilty, was fined $20 and cost. "Tom" averred that he had no money to pay, and was in consequence taken into the jail, where upon searching about ninety dollars were found upon his person. Thereupon he reluctantly yielded the amount, and went away somewhat chapfallen.—Advertiser.

SALE OF PEWS IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, DETROIT.—A few days ago the pews in St. Paul's Church, Detriot, were sold. The number sold was 167; the highest valuation was $850, the lowest $100. The sales averaged thirty-three and a third per cent above the appraised value. This exceeds any sale of pews within our knowledge, especially when we consider that but a few years have passed since Detriot was a small frontier town, chiefly inhabited by a French population.—Commercial Advertiser.

HE WANTS A WIFE.

BY MRS. NICHOLS.

He wants a wife, and she must be
A model of propriety;
A brilliant pattern—wise, discreet,
A centre where all virtues meet;
Good tempered, just, and always kind—
As warm of heart as pure in mind;
Devoted, tender, gentle, fair;
Accomplishments and culture rare;
Low-voiced, refined with every grace—
An angel half, in form and face;
A sweet, harmonious, charming thing,
At his command to weep or sing.
He wants a wife!—we'll advertise it:—
Consents to wed—his friends advise it!

He wants a wife, with modest look,
Whose heart is like a costly book,
Which he is proud and glad to own—
Which can be read by him alone;
He wants her slender, too, and tall,
And fair as woman since the Fall;
Her eyes—it matters not their hue—
He worships black—adores the blue;
Her hair must, with her loving eyes,
Agree in shade, or compromise.
He wants her sensible and mild—
To form a woman—not a child:
He wants a wife—to love him blindly,
A partner he can govern kindly.

He wants a wife for neatness noted—
For taste unquestionably quoted:
With wholesome pride a very little—
Of self-deceit no jot nor title;
A harmless, guileless vanity
He'll not object to, if it be
A soft desire that he should praise her—
Indeed, in his esteem, 'twould raise her;
He wants her to have youth and health;
He wants her to have beauty, wealth;
He wants a careful, provident wife,
To share the nameless ills of life—
No will but his may ever answer—
A downright "yes"—not "if I can sir!"

He wants a wife to nurse his joys—
To school his girls and spoil his boys;
To make and mend their clothes, when able;
To sit as mistress at his table;
To boil his coffee, brew his tea,
To every household comfort see;
To hand his slippers, make his bed,
To softly bathe his aching head,
To be as fond as she is weak,
And in all things his pleasure seek.
He wants a wife! (poor, modest man,)
Built on this grand and perfect plan;
He'll take her then, for worse or better—
Let as devoutly hope—he'll get her!

EPITAPH ON A LOCOMOTIVE.—By the sole survivor of a deplorable accident, (no blame attached to the servants of the company:)

Collisions four,
Of live she bore,
The signals were in vain;
Grown old and rusted,
Her biler busted,
And smashed the excursion train.
"Her end was pieces!"—PUNCH.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22, State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured a week earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and access to accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by transmitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office—and of those none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE, ——.

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent in the country. I am, very respectfully, Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

Boston, Dec. 7, 1852. eodly

THE ART OF BEING BEAUTIFUL.

IT has long been a desideratum that some scientific man should apply himself to the study of the human scalp. Dr. JACOB, the great Turkish Algebist, from Berlin, has done this, and in this new field has attained the most brilliant results.—Satisfied by an analysis of the red colored alcohols and other washes, of their deleterious effects, he compounded his celebrated Berliner Hair Washes to the efficacy of which thousands of witnesses might be summoned, of the accompanying character:—

BOSTON, Jan 1, 1855.

This is to certify that I have had an article called the Berliner Hair Wash applied during the past five or six weeks to my head, for the purpose of renewing and strengthening the hair. It has been very effective in producing such a result; and I can cheerfully recommend the same to those afflicted with baldness or diseases connected therewith. JONAS CHICKERING.

It frequently happens that ladies suffer from hair eaters, and apply some of the nostrums prepared by apothecaries, who think, because they can make poor soda water, they can prepare good hair wash. The effect of these is often highly injurious. Ladies, use none of them,—consult Dr. Jacoby, who will eradicate the nuisance and guarantee a beautiful head of hair. His motto is, no cure, no pay.

To those at a distance, the Champoo Washer Nos. 1 and 2, and Haar Wasche, are recommended. There is, however, no universal specific, and all pretenders troubled, should if possible see Dr. Jacoby.

In the course of his scientific research, Dr. Jacoby has discovered a Hair Dye that does not stain the skin, will give any shade of color, and will stand exposure in all weather. The accompanying certificate, from a highly scientific source, must satisfy the most incredulous.

BOSTON, Nov. 18, 1851.

I have seen Mr. Moses Jacoby's Hair Dye, used in coloring hair of a deep brownish black, of a beautiful natural color, and can certify that it is perfectly efficient and permanent.

CHARLES T. JACKSON, M.D.,
Assayer to the State of Mass.

Dr. Jacoby's rooms are at No. 9 Franklin street, Boston, where he may be consulted at all hours.—There are always in attendance in both ladies' and gentlemen's rooms the most skilful hair dressers.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus, and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window-Shads, Table Oil-cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

THE "SERVANT"—AN ANECDOTE.

In June, 1799, the General Convention of the Episcopal Church met in the city of Philadelphia. It was the first time that the Rev. Ashbel Baldwin had been sent as a delegate to represent the Church of Connecticut in that body—an honor which he afterwards held for many successive sessions, with the addition of being its secretary. The facilities for travelling were not so numerous in those days as now. Steamboats and railroads were then unknown, and the journey was therefore a long and tedious one by stage or private conveyance. Mr. Baldwin set out in company with a lay delegate from Connecticut—a legal gentleman of some shrewdness and considerable wit. In this respect, however, he did not overmatch his clerical companion, a man who in his best days was remarkable for his cheerfulness and ready retort. As they were proceeding pleasantly on their journey, and approaching at night a place where they expected to obtain lodgings, the thought (more wicked than pious or respectful) suggested itself to the lawyer's mind, of passing off Mr. B. as his servant. It was the less difficult to accomplish this, because he was himself a man of commanding appearance, while the clergyman was quite the reverse, lame, and of diminutive stature.

Accordingly, after they had alighted at the public house, retired and sat a few minutes in the parlor, the lay delegate slipped out and whispered to the landlord that he was travelling with his servant to Philadelphia—that he might provide supper for both, and they would take it together; but they must have separate apartments for the night, and he hoped he would give his servant, as he was a clever fellow, the best quarters he could among his own domestics.

The supper was prepared and eaten, and long before the evening had passed away, Mr. Baldwin felt a disposition to retire. He was shown very familiarly by the waiter into an apartment, where to his surprise he found other occupants, and those not of the most agreeable kind. Indignant that one of his cloth should be thus treated, he limped down, hurriedly, to the landlord, and asked the meaning of this treatment.

"Have you no better accommodations in your house?"

"No better?" he replied, "why, do you, a servant, expect to have the best apartment?—The room is good enough for my servants, and it is good enough for you. The gentleman gave me directions, and said you were nothing more than his servant."

"Servant! servant! I am the servant of the Lord—nothing more."

The truth now flashed upon the mind of the landlord. He saw that he had been made the dupe of premeditated sport, and without waiting to offer his humble apologies, he conducted ed the Clergyman into one of his most spacious and genteel apartments.

All this time the lawyer was shaking his sides with laughter. He told the landlord, who came into the parlor where he was still sitting—disposed at first to be angry with him for the imposition—that he need give himself no further uneasiness about the matter; it was an innocent artifice, and he would see that no harm came from what had passed.

The two travellers rose early the next morning, but not to pursue their journey. A violent rain storm had commenced during the night, which continued for two days, and detained them as guests of the more-than-obliging, the obsequious landlord. Nothing was said in the meantime about the occurrence of the first night, though the lawyer now and then turned a look of winking remembrance upon his companion, as if he wanted to jeer him with his joke.

A bright June morning at length dawned, and the travellers are eager to prosecute their journey. The carriage was driven to the door, the baggage adjusted, and Mr. Baldwin had already taken his seat as a passenger, before the landlord ventured to intimate that he had forgotten to pay his bill.

Ah! said he quickly and energetically, my master will attend to that—call upon him.

The joke was now at the expense of the lawyer. He could put in no plea of abatement. He was fairly outwitted, settled the bill, and resolved that Mr. B. might pass for the rest of his journey as a Servant of the Lord.

ON THE FENCE.—Ravenna, the handsome county seat of Portage county, Ohio, is situated on the dividing ridge between the Cuyahoga and Mahoning rivers. It possesses one feature which belongs to no other town or city in the Union. The rain which falls upon the north side of its court house roof finds its way to Lake Erie, and that which falls on the south side runs to the Gulf of Mexico.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE BY THE "SPIRITUAL RAPPERS."—In the anxiety to learn the result of the late Paesidential election, some persons in California consulted the "Spiritual Rappers" who declared that General Scott had been elected. The rappers also named the number that voted for him, and the majorities. Pennsylvania is set down as giving Scott 8500 majority! Illinois was declared to be the State giving the largest majority for Pierce.—Boston Traveller.

A QUEEN WHO WONT BE IMPOSED UPON. A few days ago her Majesty ordered a pianoforte for one of the royal children to be sent from a London maker's to Winsor, and not arriving as speedily as she expected, she summoned the Comptroller of the Houschold to "know the reason why." "Please your Majesty, it has arrived," said Cecil Forester, "but there is 5s. 9d. carriage to pay, and it has not been unpacked yet." "Then pack it back again!" exclaimed his royal mistress; adding, "were I a private customer they would have been too glad to send it free, and they shall not impose on a Queen." Back, accordingly went the instrument.—Oxford Chronicle.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1853.

Persons about making arrangements for yearly advertising, will do well to consider the advantages offered by the issue of the Daily and Weekly Chronicle. In addition to the fact that our independence of partizanship gives us an increased and varied circulation, the like of which can be attained by no party sheet, we give advertisements the benefit of the circulation of both papers. Our terms are low—call and see.

LIQUOR JUBILEE.

Judge Curtis's decision against the Rhode Island Law seems to have created great joy among those whose business was threatened with destruction. The Providence Journal states that in the afternoon of the day when the opinion was read, considerable quantities of liquor were carted through the streets, and openly displayed in the stores; and in the evening guns were fired on account of the decision.

The Boston Chronicle, (the paper which was established by a portion of the Boston liquor dealers to put down the law,) says,

"It will take thirty years if not fifty, to place the sentiment of the public on this subject where it was when this Maine law was first agitated. And if the repeal of this law—for repealed it must be—be followed by processions, and banners, and the display of liquor everywhere, and if men restrained by this impotent law, feel the triumph of principles over fanaticism and for a time bid defiance to all law—its friends will alone be responsible. For all the rowdyism, drunkenness, and riot even that may follow, for all opposition to any law and to all attempts to license, the Maine law men are guilty—it will be their work."

We expect some reaction. We have no doubt, as the Chronicle says, there will be a "display of liquor," with "rowdyism, drunkenness and riot"—but we hardly expect to see banners and processions, certainly not in the day time. If they should come out, all "the rest of mankind" will be out to look at them.

THE LONDON TIMES ON CUBA.—The London Times of the 14th December, comments on what it terms the "prolix correspondence" of the American government relative to Cuba. It remarks that its readers will learn with astonishment equal to its own, that during the whole period of 27 years over which the correspondence extends, the exertions of American diplomacy have been directed, "if the language of the Minister and agents of the United States is to be believed," to the preservation of the just rights of Spain over the island of Cuba "against the rapacious and aggressive designs of other countries, and especially of Great Britain. It seems incredible that so preposterous a delusion should ever have been seriously entertained by the Cabinet of Washington."

However preposterous this idea may be to the London Times, it is far less so to any impartial looker on, who considers how constantly the British power has attracted to itself the colonial possessions of other powers, on this continent, and on the islands adjacent to it. Perhaps the changes in the condition of the world have changed the English policy in this regard. We hope it is changing, for the better. But history and memory admonish us to guard the avenues through which insidious encroachments might travel, to become open aggressions all at once, when occasion offered.

Besides, it is fair to judge others, (to some extent at least,) by ourselves: and as we know that many of our people, and some administrators of our government, have cast longing looks at Cuba, it is natural to suspect others, who seem to be looking that way, of using their vision for a similar purpose.

THE FRENCH CLAIMS.—It is said that a vigorous attempt will be made during the present session of Congress, to pass the bill authorising the payment of the "French Claims." The justice of these claims, (says the Dover Gazette) and the liability of our government, are well set forth in the following extract of an article in the Baltimore American:

"Among the most prominent acts demanding attention is that which has been so often passed by one House or the other, and has yet so often failed of settlement, we mean the act giving compensation to claimants for French spoliations on American commerce prior to 1800. A law for this purpose was passed by the Senate at its last session, and now lies on the table of the lower House. In the regular course it must soon be reached. Let us be amongst the earliest to announce its passage, and to present our National Representatives the sufferers' thanks. Who can hesitate as to its justice? The facts are few, and the argument may be comprised in two lines: Spoliations were committed by France on our commerce, prior to 1800; France admitted, in negotiation, that such injustice had been done by her cruisers and courts, and made the value of those spoliations—to be assumed and settled by the United States Government—the money basis of a treaty with our country.—This treaty released France from responsibility, and threw it on the United States, with full 'value received' for the liability. In other words, our Union paid a national debt with the claims of its people, and now hesitates to reimburse the parties upon whose credit it operated, though for fifty years it has enjoyed the beneficial results of the speculation. No government in the world we presume, has a private national debt so long outstanding. Let our Legislators blush—and pay!

THANKSGIVING IN THE SANDWICH ISLES. We are glad to see that King Kamehameha is following the example of the Universal Yankee Nation, in proclaiming a day of public Thanksgiving in the autumn of each year. The day this year was the 18th of November. His Proclamation is got up in the usual style of American proclamations for a similar observance. Thus:

BY AUTHORITY.
THANKSGIVING,
PROCLAIMED BY THE KING.

We, KAMEHAMEHA, King of the Hawaiian Islands, hereby issue our Proclamation, agreeably to former custom, that,

Whereas, the year now drawing to a close has been crowned with numerous and great blessings to us as a people; peace and tranquility have prevailed throughout our Islands; dangers from abroad have been averted; commerce and agriculture have been in some degree revived; crops have been good; our laws have been sustained; health has been general; religion has been prosperous and free—all of which, and numberless other blessings demand from us as a nation, a formal and general tribute of thanksgiving to that Almighty Being on whose favor all national prosperity depends:

We do therefore, with the advice and consent of our privy Council of State, designate and recommend Thursday, the 18th day of November next, as a day of general Thanksgiving to God throughout our Islands, and we earnestly invite all good people to a prayerful observance of the same.

Done and passed in Privy Council, this 11th day of October, A. D. 1852.

KEONI ANA. KAMEHAMEHA.

It is high time for us to annex these islands, now that they keep thanksgiving in good New England style. Nobody will say that that people are not qualified to be governed by our laws, or are unacquainted with our institutions.

THE BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER.

Nathan Hale, Esq., the editor of this able and most respectable journal, informed the public on New Year's Day, that he had been the sole responsible editor thereof since March 1, 1814, though he had some aid from his sons, one of whom, Mr. Charles Hale, is now to be a co-editor with his father. In the editorial notice on the occasion, we get at some curious information. Mr. Hale's modesty, or his dignity, or both, have prevented him from making appeals for patronage. Yet his list has gained, and his advertising increased, but never sufficiently to clear the concern from debt, nor has the gain been quite large enough in proportion to the additional work now imposed upon editors. He speaks thus, on the business of editing a daily paper, especially a small one.

"To those who are at all conversant with the duties of the conductor of a daily public journal of any description, however imperfectly those duties may be discharged, it is unnecessary to say that the trust is no sinecure. The daily journals published in this city are of inferior dimensions and physical capacity to those of many similar publications in some of the other cities of the Union; but the labor of management is not, on that account, the less laborious, though this labor may doubtless be essentially lightened either by a neglect of a portion of the duty. Such neglect however is less likely to attract notice, where the mass of contents is large, than where a judicious selection or consideration is required to against important omissions. The field from which intelligence is to be derived is as wide, and the topics on which the reader of the smaller journals expects information are as numerogs, as if the dimensions of the paper were more cpacious; and it often happens that the labor required in reducing the materials collected by careful selection and condensation to the capacity of the daily sheet, far exceeds that which would be demanded if the sheet to be filled were of double the size.

OUTRAGES IN SOUTHBRIDGE, MASS.—A correspondent at Southbridge gives us details of recent daring outrages there, aimed at the person and property of Mr. Irwin, on account, as supposed, of his zeal in behalf of temperance. On Friday night, Mr. Irwin's barn was fired, and burnt with its contents. On Sunday evening, Mr. I., overheard an unknown person on his premises say, "We'll make a clean sweep to-night," and thereupon established a watch, in particular about his grist mill. Mr. Bugbee, one of his neighbors, on going to the mill to watch, found three men in it, two of whom he knew, a negro and an Irishman. He was immediately knocked senseless by the negro, received other blows—as when found he was considerably bruised—robbed of his wallet and money, and left as dead. Another man sent to join him in keeping watch, found Mr. Bugbee as left by the villains; he was soon restored to consciousness, and will recover. The negro and Irishman, whom he recognized, have been arrested, and the stolen wallet was found upon the negro. One of the pair in custody has recently served out a term in prison, for selling liquor contrary to law.—Springfield Repub.

OMNIBUSES IN NEW YORK CITY.—The N. Y. Herald of Friday last, among other statistical articles, gave a list of omnibus lines in that city, from which it appears there are twenty six different lines, employing 647 stages.

ARRIVAL OF THE WASHINGTON.—The steamer Washington from Southampton bound to New York, put into Boston harbor yesterday morning, at about half-past 10, short of coal, and with loss of main and mizzen topgallant masts.

Mr. Bottlebury says if there's anything he does utterly loathe, hate, detest, abhor, it is a grog shop. It robs a man of his fourpences, his sleep, his time and his domestic feelings. If a man must drink, let him buy his liquor by the gallon, and share it with his wife and children. In this way his affections will be centred at home; besides it looks so very cosy to see a kind husband and loving father get drunk in the bosom of his family.—True Flag.

LECTURES TO YOUNG MEN.

Rev. William Lamson on Sunday evening delivered the second of the course of Lectures to Young Men, the first of which was delivered on the previous Sabbath evening. The motto or text of the first discourse was, "Run, speak to that young man."

The speaker commenced by stating that it seemed to him as if while every species of temptation, every allurement of vice, is presented in this city, as dangerously and fully as in the larger cities,—the great influence for good, societies with agents for watching, guarding, protecting and counselling the young man, are not found among us. No public libraries of easy access, no courses of lectures particularly for the young are exerting their healthful influence in this community, as in larger communities. And this being the case, he had felt it to be in the way of his duty to accede to an oft-repeated request to deliver a course of lectures especially to young men.

His remarks on the particular importance of "youth, the formative season of life," were well calculated to induce serious thought in the minds of all hearers, to check the wayward in the first steps of error, and perhaps turn from the evil of his ways many a vice-imbued youth.

The second lecture was prefaced with an admonition as found in II. Timothy, 2: 7: "Consider what I say." The young man was forcibly reminded of his responsibilities, and urged to energetic action in the cause of right. Whatsoever their hands find to do, to do it with their might—to strive for the highest and most worthy stations, to use all the talents given them, for their own good, and so for that of others—and finally, whatsoever they did, to "do all to the glory of God."

These discourses were finely and ably written, delivered in an earnest, whole-souled and attractive manner, listened to with close attention and much satisfaction by all, especially the large number of young men in the full audiences, and we doubt not will result in much good to all who heard them.

The time for the next lecture is not announced. It will be impatiently waited for.

For the Chronicle.

REV. MR BROWN.

Messrs. Editors:—I embraced the opportunity offered of hearing Rev. Thomas W. Brown, of Trenton, New York, formerly of this city, at the Unitarian Church on Sabbath forenoon. He is an uncommonly good reader and speaker, and I doubt not will do honor to his calling, and edify his hearers. His text was from Hebrews, 13: 14: "For here we have no continuing city, but we seek one to come;" and he handled his subject in a lucid and beautiful manner. This was his first sermon since his ordination, and next Sabbath he preaches in Trenton, where he will then commence his pastoral labors.

His former schoolmates were present in good numbers, and are much gratified with the fine field apparently open before one in whom they feel a deep interest. The best wishes and highest expectations of his fellow citizens go with the young pastor. UNA.

I. O. OF O. F.—At Piscataqua Lodge No. 6, I. O. of O. F., last evening, the following officers were installed for the current term:—

J. Woodman Moses, N. G.
A. Q. Wendell, V. G.
N. K. Raynes, Sec'y.
Augustus Jenkins, Treas'r.
Moses Yeaton, Warden.
Benj. M. Parker, Con.

Hon. W. R. KING, it is understood, proposes to spend the remainder of the winter in Havana, for the benefit of his health. He was supposed to be getting better, until a sudden change in the weather affected him unfavorably.

Putting together all the newspaper stories about the Vice President elect, it appears quite unlikely that he will live to take his seat in the high office to which the people have called him.

BELIEVING IN PHENOMENA.—It is stated that Hon. Robert G. Shaw believes in the phenomena of the spirit rappings, to what extent, of course, we cannot say.—Boston Chron.

So do we believe in the Phenomena of the Tides, and of Earthquakes, to the full extent—but we do not feel exactly competent to fathom the causes of either.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE LIQUOR BILL.—The New Hampshire Patriot states that the vote for postponing the liquor bill indefinitely was—131 Democrats for and 22 against that proposition, and 16 Whigs and Abolitionists for postponing, and 106 against it. Four Democrats and eleven Whigs were absent.

The Commonwealth finds by a careful comparison of the Rhode Island and Massachusetts liquor laws, that the latter contains no provisions like those in the former which were pronounced unconstitutional by Judge Curtis. The same paper also says that "Judge Curtis, if the abstract above mentioned is to be depended on, has done no more than boldly vindicate great constitutional rights, which were certainly invaded by some injudicious provisions of the Rhode Island law."

CAUTION.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish through your paper, and any others that may think the notice worth extending, to caution the public against purchasing of a travelling agent lately in Portsmouth, Recipes for making Phosgene Gas. The agent was a man of middling height, light complexion, sandy hair, a smooth fast talker—and this is to inform persons interested that the Cards he gives with the Recipes are genuine cards of D. T. Mills & Co., 60 Court street, Boston, where the fixtures for burning the Phosgene Gas may be obtained. And having proved the whole affair an imposition, and finding that D. T. Mills & Co. acknowledge they know the tubes to be worthless, but refuse to refund the money—which I do not regret, (their share of the shave amounting to but three dollars) as it gives me the opportunity to bring the whole affair before the public—and as the agent is no doubt still at the same business, and has pretty extensive designs in other places—judging by his activity and success here—I take it to be my duty and pleasure to pay you for inserting this through the next week's Daily and Weekly Chronicle. SAMUEL DONNELL.

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

THE MAINE LANDS.—The Boston Advertiser states that the offer of $606,000, made by Messrs. Clarke, Crillis, Howe, and others, for the Massachusetts lands in Maine, has been unanimously accepted by the Commissioners, and reported by them to the Governor and Council.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—We understand that a man named Cook, while on the track n Beverly, was run down by a train on Saturday evening, and severely if not fatally injured.—Salem Register.

CAMPHENE AND CARELESSNESS.—In Syracuse, last week, a woman went out to see a fire, and left two children in charge of a girl. The girl fell asleep, but soon awoke with her clothes all on fire, the children having placed a camphene lamp on the stove. Some passers-by put out the flames, but the poor girl died from her injuries.

Gerritt Smith having been invited to partake of a public dinner, on the occasion of his being elected to Congress, says in reply—"I am now too old—have too long cultivated the modesty of private life, to venture on being the hero at a public dinner table. I should be confused. My tongue would stammer—my hand tremble,—and I should spill my wine. My bringing in a bill for the purchase of Cuba, is indeed rare news. I had not heard of it before."

A DANGEROUS LEAP.—An intoxicated Irishman bound for Brighton, finding himself on the Express train of cars for Worcester, which does not stop this side of Framingham, leaped off the cars at Brighton, the cars going about thirty miles an hour at the times, injuring himself severely, but not fatally.

PROVISIONS have advanced within the past few days to an extravagant price in Columbia and vicinity. Fresh pork sells at from forty to fifty cents per pound; flour $60 per barrel; fresh beef twenty-five cents per pound, and other articles necessary to sustain life have advanced in an equal ratio.—San Joaquin, (California,) Republican.

FROM EUROPE.

By the New York steam packet Pacific, which arrived at New York on Saturday, after a boisterous passage of 17 days, London papers to the 14th ult., four days later than were received by the Canada.

There had been very heavy rains during a great part of the preceding week, and in certain parts of England much damage had been done by heavy floods and extensive inundations. On the Tyne there was considerable loss to the shipping, and a number of seamen were lost. At Ulverstone, in Lancashire, rain fell to the depth of 340 inches on the 11th.—There was danger that some of the houses would be washed away, and from some of the cottages the inhabitants were removed in carts. In some places serious damage was done by the flowing of water into the coal pits.

FRANCE.—There was a renewed discussion on the subject of the Emperor's matrimonial negotiations. There were other reputed candidates for the alliance, one of whom is his cousin, the daughter of the late Emperor Don Pedro I., of Brazil, by his second marriage with the daughter of Prince Eugene Beauharnais. This Princess is half sister of the Queen of Portugal, and was born Dec. 1, 1831.

Two hundred additional pardons had been signed, of persons of no great notoriety beyond their own departments.

Abdel Kader did not leave Paris until the 11th. It is said that the government proposes to allow him an annuity during his residence at Brussa, of 100,000 francs.

END OF THE SONORA WAR.

All apprehension of French ascendency in Sonora, may now be dismissed. Late accounts from Mexico announce the death of the French Count Boulban de Raousset, the leader of the enterprise at Sonora, and the defeat and submission of his whole party.

The following letter from a correspondent of the New York Times, dated at Acapulco, Dec. 10, gives the particulars of this signal defeat:

If you have not previously got the news, via city of Mexico, I will inform you that the war between the force of Count de Raousset and the soldiers of Sonora is at an end. A battle took place the first part of November, at Hermosillo, between 214 French on one side, and 700 regular Mexican soldiers on the other, the French burying after the fight, 83; the Mexicans having lost, at the first fire of the latter, 21 men.

The French at the time were marching towards Guyamas, when, as they reached Hermosillo, the Mexicans suddenly fired upon them from a large walled square, killing every one of their officers, which staggered them for an instant; but they rallied, mounted the walls, and fired down into the yard upon them as they would have done upon a flock of turkeys. The fight was afterwards continued for a short time in the streets, with a supposed loss of about 75 men to the Mexicans, and none to the Count's party.

The French then continued their way to Guyamas, but were met by a messenger from the city, who represented that the town was destitute of food, and deserted; and that they would inevitably all perish, unless they gave up the war. Count de Raousset at the time was being carried forward on a litter, nearly dead of the dysentery. All of his officers having been killed at Hermosillo, the men agreed to lay down their arms, on condition that Blanco should pay them $11,000 with which to embark for California and Mazatlan, which he did. Raousset was taken on board for Mazatlan in almost a dying state.

COURTING is an irregular active transitive verb, indicative mood, present tense, third person, singular number, and agrees with—it agrees with all the young girls in town, don't it?

HOUSE AND LIFE PROTECTORS

PATENT METALLIC

THIS new and important invention is one that should receive the attention of every person who owns a building, or who is interested in that which presents a "permanent safeguard" against lightning, and at the same time a light, strong and ornamental Ladder, which will securely warrant the inmates of any house the ready means of escape in case of fire.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co., of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

A SECRET WORTH KNOWING.

"Truth is strange—stranger than fiction."

Under this heading the Long Island Star publishes an interesting tale, for the extended details of which we cannot find room, but must content ourselves with giving the leading facts, in a condensed form, for the benefit of our readers.

A young grocer, of good character and correct habits, commenced business in a good and improved neighborhood. His stock was small as were his means, and his stock of customers still smaller. His sales hardly met his expenses, and he was evidently going "down hill," and an old grocer at the opposite corner predicted that he would soon be at the bottom.

That the young grocer had reason to regret this opinion of the old grocer, will appear.—The latter had a daughter, who had won the heart of the former. He offered himself to her and was rejected. It was done, however, with the assurance that he was the man of her choice; but that she acted in obedience to her father's commands.

Assured of the affections of the woman of his choice, he set himself about removing the only obstacle in the way of their union—the father's objection to his pecuniary prospects.

A year had elapsed, and lo! what a change. The young grocer was now going up hill with the power of a steam locomotive; customers flocked to his store from all parts, and even many had left the old established stand on the opposite corner, for the younger favorite.—There was a mystery about it which puzzled the old grocer sorely, but which he could not understand. He at length became nearly sick with losses and aggravations, and vain attempts to discover the secret of his neighbor's success.

At this juncture, Angelica—for that was the daughter's name—contrived to bring about an apparently accidental interview between the parties. After the old man had become, through the intervention of his daughter, tolerably good humored, he inquired with great earnestness of the young man, how he had contrived to effect so much in a single year, thus to extend his business, and draw off the customers from the older stands.

The young man evaded the answer—but inquired if he had any further objections to his union with Angelica.

"None," replied he, "provided you reveal the secret of your success."

This the young man promised when his happiness was made complete. The old man commended his prudence on this point. The affair was all settled, and the morriage soon took place.

The friends of the young couple were all assembled, among them many of the customers of the two stores. Angelica and Thomas were as happy as they well could be, and the old gentleman was if possible, happier than they. The bride cake was about to be cut, when the old man called out for "the secret."

"Ay the secret, the secret," said Thomas; "I ADVERTISE!"

The old gentleman was very, very old fashioned, and while he shook Thomas by the hand, and kissed Angelica fifty times over, he merely muttered,

"Why the dickens didn't I think of that?"

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any otherstove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the State," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Angelo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window Shads, Table Oil cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

THE SHINING EYES.

The first meeting of Daniel Boone, the "hunter of Kentucky," with the maiden who afterwards became his wife, is thus narrated by his biographer:

"Young Boone was, one night, engaged in a fire hunt with a young friend. Their course led them to the deeply timbered bottom which skirted the stream that wound round Byran's pleasant plantation. That the reader may have an idea what sort of a pursuit it was that young Boone was engaged in, during an event so decisive of his future fortunes, we present a brief sketch of a night fire hunt.

Two persons are indispensible to it. The horsemen that precedes, bear on his shoulders what is called a fire pan, full of blazing pine knots, which casts a bright and flickering glare through the forest. The second follows, at some distance, with his rifle prepared for action. No spectacle is more impressive than this, of pairs of hunters thus kindling the forest into a glare. The deer, reposing quietly in his thicket, is awakened by the approaching cavalcade, and, instead of flying from the portentous brilliance, remains stupidly gazing upon it, as if charmed to the spot. The animal is betrayed to its doom by the gleaming of its fixed and innocent eyes. This cruel mode of securing a fatal shot is called in hunter's phrase—shining the eyes.

The two young men reached a corner of the farmer's field at an early hour in the evening. Young Boone gave the customary signal, to his mounted companion that preceded him to stop—and indication that he had shined the eyes of a deer. Boone dismounted and fastened his horse to a tree. Ascertaining that his rifle was in order he advanced cautiously behind a covert of bushes, to rest the right distance for a shot.

The deer is remarkable for the beauty of its eyes when thus shined. The mild brilliancy of the two orbs was distinctly visible. Whether warned by presentiment, or arrested by a palpitation and strange feeling within, at noting a new expression in the blue and dewy light that gleamed in his heart, we say not. But the unerring rifle fell, and a rustling told him the game had fled.

Something whispered to him it was not a deer; and yet the fleet step, as the game bounded away, might easily be mistaken for that of the light-footed animal. A second thought impelled him to pursue the rapidly retreating game, and he sprung away in the direction of the sound, leaving his companion to occupy himself as he might. The fugitive had the advantage of a considerable advance of him, and apparently a better knowledge of the localities of the place. But the hunter was perfect in all his field exercises, and scarcely less fleet footed than a deer, and he gained rapidly on the object of his pursuit, which advanced a little distance parallel, with the utmost accomplishments of gymnastics, and cleared the fence at a leap.

The hunter, embarrassed with his rifle and accoutrements, was driven to the slow and humiliating expedient of climbing it. But an outline of the form of the fugitive, fleeing through in the direction of the house assured him that he had mistaken the species of the game. His heart throbbed from a hundred sensations, among them an apprehension of the consequences of what would have resulted from discharging his rifle, when he had first shined those liquid blue eyes.

The planter was aroused by the barking of his dogs,—who rushed on him as he approached the house, and advertised the master of the house that a stranger was approaching. Having hushed the dogs, and learned the name of his visitant, he introduced him to his family as the son of their neighbor Boone.

Scarce had the first words of introduction been uttered, before the opposite door opened, and a boy apparently of seven, and a girl of sixteen, rushed in, panting for breath, and seeming affrighted.

"Sister went down to the river, and a panther chased her, and she is almost scared to death," exclaimed the boy.

The ruddy, flaxen-haired girl stood full in view of her terrible pursuer, leaning upon his rifle, and surveying her with the most eager admiration.

"Rebecca, this is young Boone, son of our neighbor," was the laconic introduction.

Both were young, beautiful, and at the period when the affections exercise their most energetic influence.

The circumstances of the introduction were favorable to the result, and the young hunter felt that the eyes had shined his bosom as fatally as his rifle shot had ever pierced the innocent deer of the thickets.

She, too, when she saw the light, open bold forehead, the clear, keen, yet gentle and affectionate eye, the firm front, and the impress of decision and fearlessness of the hunter—when she interpreted a look which said as distinctly as looks could say it, "how terrible it would have been to have fired!" can hardly be supposed to have regarded him with indifference.

Nor can it be wondered at that she saw in him, her beau ideal of excellence and beauty. The inhabitants of cities, who live in mansions, and read novels stored with unreal pictures of life and the heart, are apt to imagine that love, with all its golden illusions, is reserved exclusively for them. It is a most egregrious mistake. A model of ideal beauty and perfection is woven in almost every youthful heart, of the brightest and most brilliant threads that compose the web of existence. It may be said that this forest maiden was deeply and foolishly smitten at first sight. All reasonable time and space were granted to the claims of maiden modesty.

As for Boone, he was remarkable for the backwoods attribute of never being beaten out of his track, and he ceased not to woo, until he gained the heart of Rebecca Byran In a word, he courted her successfully, and they were married."

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent I am very respectfully,

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 5, 1853.

Persons about making arrangements for yearly advertising, will do well to consider the advantages offered by the issue of the Daily and Weekly Chronicle. In addition to the fact that our independence of partizanship gives us an increased and varied circulation, the like of which can be attained by no party sheet,—we give advertisements the benefit of the circulation of both papers. Our terms are low—call and see.

A Piece of Poetry Every Day.—A reader of the Boston Daily Advertiser who expresses pleasure at reading the fine verses attributed to Longfellow called "The Warden of the Cinque ports," copied from Putnam's Monthly into the Daily Advertiser, inquires why that paper does not, like some of its contemporaries, have a piece of poetry in each day's paper. To this the editor answers, "we might as well make it a rule to have just one "Shocking Murder," or one "Dreadful Accident"—always one and no more—in every paper. There is no reason for making an exception in favor of poetry; we must take things as they come. We give our daily readers three hundred and ten papers, more or less, in a year. There are not that number of pieces of good poetry written in ten years. If we printed one piece per diem, we should be obliged to make large use of that plentiful article, of which the supply we believe vastly exceeds the demand, "poor poetry." If good poetry were written every day, the six thousand years that the world has lived would count its verses by millions instead of by scores."

"Body Servants."—There is wit enough in the following, from an exchange paper, to atone for its malice, even in the estimation of a pretty strong "Webster man," who called our attention to it:

The Bee has a pleasant and chatty letter from its correspondent at Washington, which contains many piquant passages. Speaking of the establishment of the late lamented Webster, it says:

"William, the great statesman's "body servant," (whom he emancipated) and who possessed his entire confidence, will probably be in the service of Gen. Pierce, at the White House."

We have no doubt he had many "body servants" (all of whom are not yet emancipated) who flattered themselves that "they possessed his entire confidence," and who will offer to enter the service of Gen. Pierce, or whoever else may "occupy the Whith House."

New Year's Day.—The Providence Journal, in a notice of the observance of New Year in that city, says:

Although the Maine Law has been declared unconstitutional, and although the weather might have furnished a pretext, we believe that there were very few instances of excess in the use of wine; and that the new holiday commenced with an excellent temperance reputation.

This speaks well for the reputation of the citizens of Providence. Though the Maine Law is overthrown, there is no occasion for public demonstrations of rejoicing at its downfall.—Boston Chronicle.

We think so too. There is, rather, occasion for humiliation, on account of the intemperate habits that seemed to render such a law necessary.

Shipwreck.—The ship Amulet, Capt. Howe of Boston, was lost at sea, Dec. 28, on her passage from Cette for Boston. She was loaded with salt, sprung aleak in a gale about midnight, and sunk in the morning, carrying down fifteen men. The captain and three mates were saved in a boat, which was picked up three days afterwards by ship Annawan. Two other boats were left for the crew—but the captain supposes they got stove in launching. He laid by all night to take the men off, but the sea was too heavy, and they all went down with the ship.

His Name.—The name of the clerical delinquent, who is now imprisoned in Yates County Jail, New York (whose case we mentioned in last Saturday's Daily,) is Rev. G. J. Garretson, late pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church at Lodi, N. Y. He protests that he is innocent.

Northern Indicator.—This is a new paper, just published at Concord, N. H., by Charles L. Wheler, who has for a co-editor, Rev. Daniel Lancaster. The paper is devoted to literature, historical research, biography, &c. &c. and is published once a week, at the low price of $1.00. The number before us speaks well for both the editors: and our knowledge of Mr. Lancaster's talent and industry, enables us to say with confidence, that he will make a paper interesting for each week, and valuable for preservation and reference.

Extraordinary Change of Position.—The present emperor of France, who now rules the destinies of one of the most powerful and enlightened nations in Europe, was sworn in special constable by Mr. Broughton, on the 10th of April, 1848, during the Chartist riots, and did duty as a special constable up and down the Newroad, London.

N.H. General Court—Nov. Session, 1852.

[Abridged from the Patriot.]

The Legislature of New Hampshire has moved along, during the present session, like an old fashioned ship under easy sail. A vote of both Houses stands recorded, to close the session next Saturday. Yet the Senate did not sit last Saturday, and the House managed as if to-morrow would be as to-day, only more abundant.

The House wished the speaker a happy new year, and he wished them a good many.

The House took up and considered the resolution on the petitions for the removal of the police justice of the city of Portsmouth.

A lengthy debate ensued on a question being put respecting what degree of censure was implied in the words of the resolution—that the committee "disapprove of certain remarks of said justice?" Several members of the Judiciary explained that the resolution had been drawn with the view to express their opinion of the weight of the charges brought against the justice in question, and their censure of his conduct, in the smoothest manner possible. Mr. Bartlett said the gentleman who made the enquiry could not be a friend of Justice Parker, otherwise he would not have awakened this subject. A motion to recommit the report to the committee on the Judiciary was made, and on that motion more debate was had, of a discursive kind; after which, on Mr. Hackett's expressing his satisfaction with the enquiry and report, the motion to recommit was negatived, and the resolution passed.

So the petitioners have leave to withdraw, and the Police Justice remains in his office.

The session was a short one, and after some humorous speech making on the subject of female influence in promoting adjournments, the House adjourned to Monday at 3 P. M.

On Monday, the Senate met at 3 o'clock, P. M.—indefinitely postponed a bill to incorporate the Union Meeting House in Madison, probably deeming the Union in some danger from a charter—ordered to a third reading half a dozen acts to incorporate an aqueduct, a meeting-house, a turnpike and some factories—and ordered a number of bills to a second reading. Among the latter was the bill to facilitate justice and save expense in jury trials. All the others are charters or amendments of corporations.

In the House, the most interesting business was a sort of compromise resolution to pay each printer ten dollars for printing the liquor bill, at the request of the Senate; $21.60 was the regular price, according to rule and precedent. $4 was another price, graduated on the skinflint tariff; but the united wisdom of the two Houses will probably dole out ten dollars as a quantum meruit. The resolution was ordered to a third reading, and will probably pass. Present appearances indicate that the Sugar River Bank at Newport will be incorporated with a capital of 50,000 dollars, and the time extended, to take up the stock of the Grafton Bank.

Insurance Agents.—On motion of Mr. Knowlton of Hopkinton, the bill referring to the appointment of insurance agents was taken from the table.

Mr. Knowlton moved to amend the 3d section by providing that insurance companies should be held responsible for the full amount of insurance when the value of the property insured is fixed by such agent, and a policy issued, signed by the proper officers of said company.

The Dover Enquirer calls the bill to divide the State into three Congressional Districts, which passed the House on Thursday, a Gerrymander, and says,

"It is somewhat different from that which has been contemplated, and is about as unfair and unequal as could well be devised. By it, Rockingham, Strafford, Belknap and Carroll, with the towns of Bartlett, Jackson and Hart's Location (which have just been annexed to Carroll) constitute the 1st District, with a population of 119,579; Hillsborough and Merrimack form the 2d District, with a population of only 96,922; and the remaining four Counties the 3d with a population of 101,363. We are somewhat surprised that no member of the House raised his voice against a bill so unequal and unjust."

We suppose they thought it was of no great consequence. Majorities and parties are quite uncertain—and the districts may disappoint their makers.

Heavy Damages—but not too heavy to be just, were given in the Massachusetts Supreme Court Saturday afternoon, Judge Cushing presiding.

The verdict was, $2,716 66 cents damages. The suit was brought by Nahum S. Lund and wife, against the town of Tyngsboro. Four years since, the plaintiffs were passing over one of the roads in Tyngsboro, shortly after dark, when the carriage in which they were riding, was overturned. They were both thrown with great violence upon the ground and much injured thereby, being disabled for many months. On examining the cause of the accident, it was found that there was a large embankment in the highway, created by digging a hole in the ground, for the purpose of effecting repairs. No lantern, or other indication to warn travellers of danger, was put forth. Hence the accident and the suit.

The case was tried about two years since, when the jury awarded damages to the amount of $1,500. Exceptions were filed by the Counsel for the town, on the ground, mainly, that the damages were too heavy. A second trial has resulted as above, by which it would appear that the town of Tyngsboro has not been particularly successful in reducing the amount of damages.

The case occupied the Court several days, and attracted much attention.

LOCAL.

The Lyceum.—Mr. Bodwell's Lecture at the Portsmouth Lyceum, last evening, was fully attended, notwithstanding the unfavorable circumstances of darkness and slippery walking.

The subject was Rural Life, and the Country People of England. The lecturer spoke of Noblemen living in the country, of the Gentry, the Farmers and the Peasants, and lastly of an order above the mere peasantry, consisting of gardeners, cow-keepers, carpenters, bricklayers, &c. It is not easy to give an abstract of such a lecture, nor would an abstract be of much value. The lecturer is an admirer of Cobden, and glories in free trade and a large loaf. His picture of the English peasant shows him up as a half starved slave, not indeed wearing iron chains on his hands, but with the iron entering his soul. His antagonism to Macaulay in several particulars is distinct and marked. The beauty of the English landscape, the thorough farming exhibited, the division and distribution of labor, the skill of each man in his own calling, and his strict confinement thereto, were all described so as to be seen and understood, by every hearer.

Mr. Bodwell is generally, (though not universally) popular as a lecturer,—and draws full houses.

MISS WHEELOCK.

Mr. Moses' Concert, on Monday evening, was a most brilliant affair. Owing to the brief notice given, and the very unpromising state of the weather, all Miss Wheelock's admirers were not present. She was in better voice than at the last time she sang here,—and the chorusses were given with more spirit and better effect.

The whole troupe went by invitation to sing in Newburyport and Amesbury, last evening and this. On their return they will give one more entertainment, on Thursday evening, with new programme—which will be the last opportunity at present to hear them.

☞ We learn that Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody is expected to lecture before the City Lyceum, on Friday evening of this week.

How to get up a Dinner without regard to Expense.—The delegation from the city government of Boston, who visited Gen. Pierce at Concord a few days since, gave him a dinner at the new Eagle hotel. A member of the New Hampshire Legislature, writes—"Major Gibson had been notified by the Boston committee, a few days previous, to get up a dinner in the best style he could, for eight or ten, without regard to the expense. Now the Major is not to be outdone in a matter of this kind, and as the city of Boston was to foot the bill, he thought he would let them know what could be done in New Hampshire. He accordingly took measures to procure all kinds of game and every rare luxury that could be obtained, and after completing the department of the dinner he went into the fancy line, spending about seventy-five dollars in the purchase of boquets of flowers, a single one of which was prized at ten dollars; the bill of fare provided for each one was elaborately adorned and printed on some very nice satin, and cost two dollars apiece, and every thing else was of course on the same magnificent scale. The bill for the whole dinner amounted to four hundred dollars, or fifty dollars apiece, and this is said to be exclusive of the wines used on the occasion, which probably amounted to fifty or a hundred dollars more.—Lowell Courier.

We cannot vouch for the truth of this statement. If true, we suppose it must be set down as an illustration of republican simplicity—and a lesson in economy to be copied by the nation. The Dover Enquirer says:

"If the General partakes of many such entertainments it is feared that he will not only lose caste among his democratic friends, but that he will never live to reach Washington."

Rev. Abel C. Thomas, who is now travelling in England, says, "the wages of factory operatives in Manchester, are as high as in Lowell."

North Carolina.—The Legislature of North Carolina has adjourned without electing a United States Senator to take the place of Mr. Magnum, whose term expires on the 4th of march. As it does not hold another session for two years, the State will have but one Senator during that time.

For the Chronicle.

CAUTION.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish through your paper, and any others that may think the notice worth extending, to caution the public against purchasing of a travelling agent lately in Portsmouth, Recipes for making Phosgene Gas. The agent was a man of middling height, light complexion, sandy hair, a smooth fast talker—and this is to inform persons interested that the Cards he gives with the Recipes are genuine cards of D. T. Mills & Co., 60 Court street, Boston, where the fixtures for burning the Phosgene Gas may be obtained. And having proved the whole affair an imposition, and finding that D. T. Mills & Co. acknowledge they know the tubes to be worthless, but refuse to refund the money—which I do not regret, (their share of the shave amounting to but three dollars) as it gives me the opportunity to bring the whole affair before the public—and as the agent is no doubt still at the same business, and has pretty extensive designs in other places—judging by his activity and success here—I take it to be my duty and pleasure to pay you for inserting this through the next week's Daily and Weekly Chronicle. SAMUEL DONNELL.

Portsmouth, Jan. 1, 1853.

A Waste.—The New York Sunday Atlas in speaking of the "awful waste" of twenty, five casks of liquor poured upon the ground in Maine, says reproachfully that such an amount "properly distributed," would have carried the primary elections in two or three wards of that city.

A Rush for Australia.—From all parts of the world people are rushing to the gold mines of Australia. A late Buenos Ayres paper states that three vessels are filling up with passengers at that port for the gold mines of that country.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE
IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

STATE PRISON.—Hon. Rufus Dow, warden of the State Prison, has resigned his situation, and is about to become a business resident of Boston.

DARING BURGLARY AT JAMAICA PLAINS.—We learn from the Traveller, that, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, the dwelling of Col. Fessenden was the scene of a burglary of a most unexampled character. The house of Mr Fessenden is situated in a secluded lane, Green street, Jamaica Plains, at a considerable distance from any other house, and in the vicinity of woods. The house was entered by four burglars, through the lower windows. The lower part of the house was thoroughly ransacked, and silver plate and other articles, all to the value of several hundred dollars, were gathered together.

The robbers then proceeded to the chambers, probably with the object of obtaining the money of the sleeping inmates,—but Mr. Fessenden, his son, wife and daughter were awakened, and made resistance. The robbers got off, however, with the booty from below,—but took nothing above stairs.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The Hon. Wm. R. King has resigned his seat as Senator, the resignation to take effect immediately. Gov. Collyer will appoint Benjamin Fitzpatrick, Esq. to fill the vacancy.

BIG LUMP.—We have to record the finding of another "big chunk" of the precious metal in the prolific vicinity of Sonora. It was found on Wednesday last by a couple of Frenchmen, at the head of Dragoon Gulch, and weighs 116 ounces. It was sold to Mr. Hammond, the banker, for $1600. It is of an oblong form, and has somewhat the appearance of a large Irish potato. The finders were merely prospecting, and found it only a few inches below the surface of the ground.—Sonora, (California,) Herald.

WRECK AT SEA—LOSS OF LIFE.—Yesterday evening we were shown a letter from Richmond Randolph, dated at Rio Janeiro, November 7th, and directed to the wife of the writer, who resides in this city. Mr. Randolph was a seaman on board the brig Amelia Jane, Captain Foxwell, which left this city for the western coast of South America, some time during the early part of last summer, and was wrecked on the 14th of August last, off Cape Frio, on the coast of Brazil. The writer states that he is the sole survivor of those on board the unfortunate vessel, and it was only after a long period of intense suffering that he escaped with life. He succeeded in clinging to the wreck, and for thirty-eight days subsisted entirely on wheat flour and salt water, being a great portion of the time out of the sight of land; finally, however, the wreck drifted ashore on the coast of Brazil, when he was taken off by the inhabitants, and comfortably provided for until he had regained his strength. He was then sent on to Rio Janeiro.

The brig Amelia Jane was built and owned in this city, and at the time of being wrecked was out on her first voyage.—Baltimore American, Dec. 31.

COMMERCE OF BOSTON.—The number of foreign vessels arrived for the year ending Friday, is 2971. In 1851, 2872. Increase of 1832, 99. Total number of vessels arrived during the month of December, 557; cleared, 436.

EARTHQUAKE AT ACAPULCO.

A correspondent of the New York Times, under date of Dec. 5, gives a particular account of the late earthquake at Acapulco :—

I walked through all the principal streets. The sight was a most singular and interesting one. Not a house, thatched or adobe was occupied. The whole town was in the streets and public squares. Every few feet chairs were placed, against the backs of which were standing framed pictures of Christ or Mary, some thin saint, a bishop, or burly pope. In front of the picture each chair had two candles placed, while all around were men, women and children kneeling, some holding tallow candles, and praying in one united voice, or singing in their singular and monotonous but plaintive way, praises to God, or beseeching the interference of the Virgin to avert the catastrophe they feared. Many were in tears, while some were lying flat on their faces, apparently senseless.

Of the two hundred buildings of adobe, eight or ten are completely down, while most of the others have their walls opened in every part, and not one has escaped with a whole roof. The loss is fairly estimated at $200,000. Not a bar-room or shop but had every bottle thrown on the floor and broken; while crockery, glass ware, and water jars in the private houses suffered the same fate.

Under date of Dec. 10, he writes,

The shock still continues at intervals of every hour. Two days since, several houses which had been injured at the first shock, fell, and the walls of several others opened. Long processions headed by priests, with figures of Christ and the Virgin, on platforms carried on the shoulders of men, fill the streets daily. Two days since a procession of at least 2500 persons, almost every one with a lighted candle, passed my house. They had a band of music, and marched to its solemn strains and muffled drum, to the Square of the Church, in front of which they kneeled, and all united in grand mass.

From Dickens' Household Words.

THE HOME OF TASTE.

"Give him a home—a home of taste."—Elliott.

My Margaret, our lowly home shall be a home of taste,
A sunny spot to nestle in amid the "strected waste;"
Though round our door no cool green grass, no cheerful garden grows,
The window-sill shall blossom with geraniums and the rose.

Our parlor wall, both up and down, for moral and delight,
We'll hang with pleasant pictures—of landscapes green and bright—
Of portraits of the wise and good, the deathless sons of man,
And, to teach us love for all that live, the good Samaritan.

Of Burns, too, and his Highland maid, much loved, lamented Mary,
And by its side that AGED PAIR whose love no time could vary;
For love up-welling, pure and deep, from youth to sober age,
Shall be a light and blessedness through all our pilgrimage.

A goodly book-case we will store with learning's precious gold,
A hallowed temple to enshrine the mighty minds of old:
With a plaster cast of Milton decked, and one of Shakspeare, too;
And when my work is done, my love, I'll sit and read to you

Some thrilling tale of olden time—love true in evil day—
Some lofty song of holiest bard, some gentle minstrel's lay,
Or wondrous revelation of science deep and high,
Or Christian theme, that we may learn in peace to live and die.

And we'll not forget your music, love, the songs we used to sing,
You sang to me with a tearful eye in your father's calm retreat;
That simple music of the heart, we'll sing it o'er again,
And link our days together still with its enchanting chain.

Will not our life be happy, love? Oh yes, for we will seek
The spirit of the Spotless One—the beautiful, the meek;
All pure desires and high resolves, all lofty thoughts and true,
And that which duty bids be done, our ready hands shall do.

Will not our life be happy, love? Oh yes, for we will bow
Together at the throne of Him "from whom all blessings flow;"
And deep in his eternity—beyond the change of time—
And deep within our inmost soul, possess a peace sublime.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented, no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.
This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.
We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Reserve Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.
Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window Shads, Table Oil cloths, &c.
All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

A THRILLING INCIDENT AT SEA—SAVING OF SIXTEEN LIVES.

The New York Tribune contains the following extract of a private letter from Marcus Spring, Esq., of that city, giving an account of the saving of the crew of the Scotch barque Jesse Stevens, by the steamer Pacific, on her last passage from New York to Liverpool.—We are sure that no one can read this simple narrative without something of the emotions it so vividly expresses.

One morning, while lying wrapped up in blankets, overcoats, &c., on the sofa, the wind and sleet and snow roaring round the heaving ship, one of the passengers came down and reported that a wreck had been seen in the midst of the storm, and men clinging to it, and calling out, "Save us! Save us!" Though so nearly stupefied as to care for nothing, even if we had been the wrecked ones ourselves, and hardly believing, at first, it could be so, I roused myself, and, sure enough, all my stupid and selfish feelings, all nausea and headache, and, all murmuring spirit, in view of our own condition, were instantly dissipated, and gave place to the heartiest sympathy and earnest prayers for sixteen poor fellows in a shattered barque, with sails, torn and streaming in the wind, masts wrenched off and swept away, and the water rushing through the sides of the vessel as she rose now and then on a high wave, the sea rolling over her, a perfect flood, every minute.

Our ship had stopped her engines, and was hovering about; coming near enough, in the brief intervals of the storm, for Capt. Nye to speak through his trumpet a word of encouragement. The captain had been sick with a violent cold and inflamation of the lungs, (the first time, I think, since he became a captain,) but this had called him from his bed, and, dressed in his great tarpaulin coat, with his hat drawn down over his ears, a sailor holding him from falling, as he stood on the steep deck, the ship tumbling almost over on its sides at every roll, his fine face flushed with excitement, as the wind and sleet dashed into it, and against him as if they would take him off his feet; his trumpet in his hand, and raising above the war of the storm his voice of command to engineers, sailors, &c., to go on or stop, or go to the other side of the wreck, trying to keep near it, and avoid dashing against it, to the certain ruin of all.

All this lasted for an hour or more, while we passengers on the upper deck, holding on to ropes to keep from being dashed overboard, and watching the poor fellows, when the mists, and clouds, and spray, gave us opportunity to see them climbing the waves in their shattered bark, all looking anxiously toward us, and waving hats and hands. The rolling of the sea, some movements on the deck, and something I heard the captain say, made me fear it was a hopeless case, and we should have to go and leave them, when all at once a gleam of light broke from above, and a splendid rainbow appeared on a dark background of clouds behind us. It seemed indeed a heaven-sent sign of hope and promise, and I eagerly scanned the upturned faces of the wretched crew, to see if they did not hail it as such, but I since learn they interpreted it according to the sailor's adage.

"A rainbow in the morning,
Is the sailor's warning;
A rainbow at night,
Is the sailor's delight."

While I supposed the bow of promise was filling their hearts, as it was mine, with joy and gratitude, the captain seized the moment of a lull in the storm to say to Tompkins, his third officer, (blessed be the noble fellow!) "Are you willing to risk going in the life-boat to their rescue?" "Ready and willing," was the prompt reply; and soon the beautiful boat, with Tompkins and three sailors, were bounding over the foaming waves. They had a rope soon drawn from ship to bark, passing through the life-boat. The brave little company were soon under the stern of the wreck, receiving with open arms, as they were dropped or thrown down (for some were so stupefied with wet and cold they had to be thrown into the boat) the dripping sailors of the "Jesse Stevens." The waves ran so high it was unsafe to lie near the wreck, so the boat was hauled up by rope, at intervals, near enough for them to drop in one or two men—then they would slacken the rope and let the boat recede before the returning wave should come and dash them together, then they would return, in like manner, for one or two more; and, finally, all were safe in the boat, and we only hoped they would get it back to the ship with its freight of several lives. Proudly again it bounded over the billows with its heavy load as if it had been a swan or a seabird, and though several times, when it went out of sight in the trough of the sea, we trembled lest we had seen it for the last time, it still mounted the top of the next wave and dashed down the watery-hill side towards us, again to rise and descend till they reached our ship's side, when a hundred men, with boisterous shouts and ropes let down, with nooses at the ends, soon hauled up every man of them. And so sixteen nice, respectable Scotchmen, from Augustine on their way home from Canada, with a load of lumber, are fellow passengers with us, with thankful hearts only and no lumber, and will reach home before they are looked for, to tell of their marvellous escape.

Since this incident, certainly the most heart-thrilling and sublime it has been my lot to witness, and well worth, we all say, all the sufferings of the voyage, we had all been in better spirits, and have slept, I imagine, with more grateful and happy dreams. We had a meeting of passengers and raised five hundred dollars as a purse for Tompkins and the three men who aided him. Tompkins looks very happy as he walks the deck and is a great favorite with us all.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1853.

Persons about making arrangements for yearly advertising, will do well to consider the advantages offered by the issue of the Daily and Weekly Chronicle. In addition to the fact that our independence of partizanship gives us an increased and varied circulation, the like of which can be attained by no party sheet,—we give advertisements the benefit of the circulation of both papers. Our terms are low—call and see.

DEBATES IN CONGRESS.—The reader will perceive, on a perusal of Monday and Tuesday's proceedings in the House, that it is quite as much in order to debate one subject as another, without any reference to the bill or resolution which is nominally before the House or Committee. Thus the West Point Academy bill, and the deficiency bill, were both considered in Committee of the Whole on one day, and under their cover, speeches were made on the creation of a Major General. It was voted to close debate on a certain bill in two hours. The House did close the debate, as agreed—but we see not one word about the bill during the whole debate. It may be all right, but it seems farcical.

MURDER IN NEW JERSEY.—Probably the most shocking and unnatural murder upon record, occurred on Friday evening last, in Washington township, Bergen county, New Jersey. A man named William Kating came to this county a few years ago, and took up his residence with Timothy O'Brien, a distant relative, living in Washington township, and shortly after his arrival he placed about $150 in the hands of O'Brien, to deposit in the Seaman's Savings Bank of this city, in O'Brien's name, for the benefit of two children of the latter.

A few weeks ago, it appears that Kating, who is about 55 years of age, made application to his friend O'Brien to allow him to marry his daughter, only 11 years of age, which request was of course denied.

Kating at first was angry, but afterwards dissembled and appeared satisfied. Mrs. O'Brien went to visit friends in New York; and her husband went away to work, leaving Kating at home with the children, the girl aged 11, and the boy 9 years. On O'Brien's return in the evening, he and his neighbors found both the children dead, killed with an axe, and a medical examination showed the poor girl to have been abused before her death. Kating, the murderer, had absconded, and has not been taken.

WILL CASE.—We learn from the N. Y. Herald, that the celebrated will of Rt. Hairston, of Henry county, Miss., by which his whole estate, amounting to half a million of dollars, is given to a little negro, was admitted to record at the last term of the county court.

That is, we suppose, the will is approved and allowed.

MR. THACKERAY.—The Boston Transcript says:

"There seems to be a considerable diversity of opinion as to the merits of Mr. T. as a lecturer, and this very variance will probably operate in his favor. As far as we can gather the verdict of the best judges, Mr. T. is hardly considered as coming up to the mark, which such lecturers as George S. Hillard, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Doctor Holmes, Wendell Phillips, Edwin P. Whipple, Rufus Choate, and some others whom we could name, have made for themselves in the public estimation. The disproportion between the prices which these gentlemen receive for lecturing and that which Mr. Thackeray commands, is simply absurd; and shows how strong is the Yankee propensity to hail anything foreign, as de necessitate rei, superior to any home production.

A man's best things are nearest him,
Lie close about his feet,
It is the distant and the dim,
That we are sick to greet."

AN ARTESIAN WELL IN LOUISIANA.—The Baton Rouge Vis-a-Vis states that an Artesian well, the first of the kind ever begun in Louisiana, was commenced in that place some time since, by a negro named Geo. Menard. The Vis-a-Vis adds:

"The undertaking, whether successful or not, reflects much credit upon the undertaker, and evinces an indomitable energy of character worthy of imitation; a few years since George Menard was a slave; by industry and fidelity he accumulated funds sufficient and purchased himself. A few months ago Geo. Menard took it into his head that he would go to Alabama, learn something of Artesian wells, come home, dig, bore, or make one.—He accordingly, at his own expense, went on, aided in boring three or four, and comes home confident of success; as an evidence of which he now, at an immense cost to himself, commences the first Artesian well in Louisiana, relying upon the liberality of the people to reward him in the event of his accomplishing what seems to him so certain."

THE CALORIC SHIP ERICSSON.—A despatch states that the Caloric steam ship Ericsson went on her trial trip in New York harbor Monday morning. She started off at fine speed, making 12 knots with the wind and tide.

The American Whig Review has been discontinued.

N. H. General Court—Nov. Session, 1852.

The proceedings of Tuesday, Jan. 4, occupy two and a half columns of the Daily Patriot. Of course we have not room for a quarter of it.

The principal business in the House of Representatives, was the consideration of the bill to unite the Concord and Claremont and N. H. Central Railroad. The consideration of this bill was so warm and earnest that the discussion became almost a quarrel in certain cases, and insinuations of outside interference, amounting almost to bribery, were freely made by some speakers, and as earnestly repelled by some others.

The resolution in favor of erecting a monument in memory of Gov. Meshach Weare, was indefinitely postponed, by a vote of 138 to 126.

Several acts of incorporation, and amendments of charters, passed both Houses—and some progress was made in the apportionment of taxes.

A bill for districting the State for the choice of Senators, has been reported, and is under consideration.

In the Senate on Tuesday, an animated debate of two hours' duration, took place between Messrs. Wells and Bennett, on the bill to facilitate &c. proceedings in trial by jury.

The two Houses must labor diligently to complete their work on Saturday.

Thirty-Second Congress—Second Session.

MONDAY, Jan. 3.

SENATE.—Mr. Fish presented the Memorial of the proprietors of the New York and Havre Mail Steamers, asking an increase of compensation, or a release from their contract.

Mr. Cass presented the Memorial of the Baptist Union of Maryland, praying the interposition of the United States in behalf of the enjoyment by Americans in Europe of religious liberty, and made a speech in favor of the memorial.

After some remarks from Mr. Hale, the memorial was referred.

The resolution of Mr. Mason, calling for information in regard to Cuba, was adopted.

Several private bills were passed.

The bill compensating Maine and Massachusetts for lands taken from them by the treaty of Washington was taken up, passed, and then reconsidered.

The bill to revive certain acts, granting pensions to widows of revolutionary soldiers, was taken up, debated, and was still under consideration when the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—By a vote of 85 to 61, the House went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, for the purpose of taking up the general Appropriation bills.

The committee took up the bill for the payment of Navy Pensions, and after reading, without debate, it was laid aside to be reported to the House.

The invalid pension bill was similarly treated.

The Military Academy bill was taken up.

Mr. Venable, of North Carolina, delivered a speech in regard to the acquisition of new territory to the United States. He was opposed to all fillibustering, and declared his intention to stand by the Monroe doctrine.

Mr. Stephens, of Georgia, said that fillibustering was at par eighteen months ago, but he believed it had now fallen decidedly below par. He was not in favor of taking Cuba, but was not willing to declare that he would not have Cuba under any circumstances, nor did he think it proper to say it was best for Spain to have Cuba. Let the future take care of itself.

The debate was continued by several gentlemen, when the Committee rose.

The bills for the payment of the Navy and Invalid pensions were passed.

Mr. Ficklin reported a bill prohibiting notes under $5 as a currency in the District of Columbia. Referred to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, and made the special order of the day for to-morrow week. Adjourned.

TUESDAY, Jan. 4.

SENATE.—Mr. Cass introduced a resolution that no European power be allowed to colonize on this continent, and disclaiming any design on Cuba; but that the United States will resist with all its force, any attempt of any other power to obtain possession of Cuba. Ordered to be printed.

Mr. Shields reported a bill appropriating $19,500 to discharge the judgments against Col. Fremont in Europe for liabilities incurred in California. Passed.

A bill reviving acts granting pensions to widows of revolutionary soldiers, and extending its provisions to the widows of soldiers of 1812, was passed.

Mr. Hale's resolution, calling for information on the conduct of Commodore Morgan, in the Mediterranean, was, after debate, postponed.

HOUSE.—A resolution was adopted to close the debate on the Military Academy bill in two hours after it should again come up in committee.

The House then went into committee on said bill. Mr. Polk spoke on foreign affairs, and against conferring the rank of Lieut. General upon Winfield Scott.

Mr. Lane opposed the idea of taking Cuba from Spain, but said it would eventually be ours. He spoke against the Lieut. Generalship.

Mr. Brooks defended the administration.

Mr. Chandler advocated the measure, and Mr. Carter opposed it.

The deficiency bill was taken up, and Mr. Gorman spoke in favor of the Lieut. Generalship.

The Committee then rose.

The West Point Academy bill was then passed and the House adjourned.

Letters from Athens, Greece, state that Dr. King is now pursuing his missionary labors in quietness, preaching every Sabbath.

LOCAL.

"Envy came next, envy with squinting eyes,
Sick of a strange disease, his neighbor's health;
Is never poor, but in another's wealth."

We would respectfully suggest to the editor of the Messenger to keep cool. If our friends or strangers choose to advertise in our paper in preference to his, he will not be to blame. And if they happen to advertise in a Daily, on a day of the week when no other paper is printed, we don't see that any body is much to blame.

☞ Our announcement of Rev. Dr. Peabody's Lecture before the City Lyceum on Friday evening,—proves to be incorrect. We now state, on the best authority, that he will not lecture at that time before that body,—though he has consented to lecture at some time during the proposed course, if it should be continued.

I. O. or O. F.—At New Hampshire Lodge No. 17, I. O. of O. F., last evening, the following officers were installed for the current quarter:—

George W. Ayres, N. G.
Samuel Gray, V. G.
Wm. B. Grogan, Sec'y.
Oliver Ayers, Treas'r.
Wm. P. Gookin, Warden.
Joseph B. Adams, Con.

☞ Mr. Moses' Concert comes off this evening. See advertisement.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The Legislature met on Wednesday at 11 o'clock. Charles H. Warren, whig, was chosen President of the Senate, having 9 votes. J. S. C. Knowlton had 6, and Henry H. Cook 1. Charles Calhoun was chosen Clerk.

In the House, George Bliss, whig, was chosen Speaker, having 146 votes. James M. Usher, democrat, had 80, and Samuel Clark, free soil, 51. Wm. Schouler was chosen Clerk, having 151 votes.

AN UNSUSPECTED DANGER.—A cask of gunpowder was lately shipped in a small sailing craft, to be carried to one of the Islands, for use in blasting. The crew supposing it to be a cask of crackers, placed it close to a hot stove, where it remained for the entire passage without accident. The men were a good deal startled when they learned the nature of the article which they had placed in such a dangerous position for their safety.—Boston Trav.

The Committee of Ways and Means have had no holidays whatever, and don't mean to have any. They have already reported every regular appropriation bill, with the exception of that of the navy and post office. The estimates for the latter have not yet been sent in, consequently the committee could not operate upon them. It is impossible for the Committee of Ways and Means to perform its task more faithfully.—Washington Correspondence of Baltimore Sun.

PERSEVERANCE REWARDED.—An exchange paper states that a well has been sunk in Hocking Valley, Ohio, to the depth of six hundred feet, for the purpose of obtaining salt water. The object of the enterprising individuals has been fully accomplished, a supply of water having been reached which requires but fifty-three gallons to make a bushel of salt of fifty pounds. The water rises spontaneously to the surface, and flows at the rate of 4000 to 5000 gallons per day.

REV. ALBERT BARNES, of Philadelphia, preached farewell sermons to his people on Sunday week. The physicians have prescribed absolute rest as an indispensable condition of recovery, and his eminent pulpit talents will be lost for a season. The whole community sympathize with this affliction.—His disease is loss of sight.

MR. JOHN OESER, the new Democratic sheriff of New York, assumed his official duties on New Year's Day. His prospect is not particularly pleasant, six men being already sentenced to undergo the extreme penalty of the law under his supervision, if not actually at his hands.

FULFILMENT OF SCIENTIFIC PREDICTIONS.—Capt. McKay, of the clipper Sovereign of the Seas, previous to sailing from New York for San Francisco, in August last, addressed a letter to Lieut. Maury, of the National Observatory at Washington, requesting a copy of the fourth edition of his "Sailing Directions," for the use of the voyage. Lieut. Maury answered the letter, stating that if Capt. McKay would follow the directions laid down, the Sovereign of the Seas would be able to cross the Equator in the Pacific on or before the 25th day of October, and would reach San Francisco in one hundred and three days.

The Sovereign of the Seas crossed the line only 14 hours behind the predicted time, and dropped anchor in the harbor of San Francisco one hundred and three days and two hours after leaving New York.

This prediction on a voyage of 17,000 miles, is a forcible illustration of the benefits of modern scientific research.—Boston Journal.

RACHEL PARKER.—Baltimore, Jan. 4.—The case relating to the freedom of Rachel Parker, alleged to have been kidnapped from Chester Co. Penn., and claimed as a slave, was commenced in the County Court to-day. 70 witnesses were present. Judge Campbell, Attorney General of Pennsylvania, Judge Bell, of Pa. and William Norris of Baltimore, were employed by the legislature of Pennsylvania, appeared for the Petitioner.

Most of the receipts at New Orleans of barrel pork this season, are short in weight from two to ten pounds each barrel, causing great complaint among dealers. It is attributed to fraud or gross carelessness on the part of Western packers, who deserve to be soused in to make up the weight.

FOUNDLING.—A male infant child was left on the door step of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Fitzpatrick, Federal street, Boston, on Friday evening. The child was provided with comfortable quarters for the night by Capt. Allen, of the Centre Watch, and on Saturday sent to one of the city institutions.

A HOG STORY.—The Nashua Telegraph speaks of a large hog in that place which has on one of its fore legs, above the dew-claws, a perfect human thumb, "with the two joints all complete and thumb nail as regular as need be, so that to take the grunter's foot, as one would the hand of his rival who walks on two legs, in the manner of shaking hands, the appearance of a human hand is perfect." Perhaps the departed grunter has been often seen with that thumb to his nose, and gracefully twirling his fingers. We seem to see the editor, while telling the story, going through the same operation.—Lowell Journal.

For the Chronicle.

CAUTION.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish through your paper, and any others that may think the notice worth extending, to caution the public against purchasing of a travelling agent lately in Portsmouth, Recipes for making Phosgene Gas. The agent was a man of middling height, light complexion, sandy hair, a smooth fast talker—and this is to inform persons interested that the Cards he gives with the Recipes are genuine cards of D. T. Mills & Co., 60 Court street, Boston, where the fixtures for burning the Phosgene Gas may be obtained. And having proved the whole affair an imposition, and finding that D. T. Mills & Co. acknowledge they know the tubes to be worthless, but refuse to refund the money—which I do not regret, (their share of the shave amounting to but three dollars) as it gives me the opportunity to bring the whole affair before the public—and as the agent is no doubt still at the same business, and has pretty extensive designs in other places—judging by his activity and success here—I take it to be my duty and pleasure to pay you for inserting this through the next week's Daily and Weekly Chronicle. SAMUEL DONNELL.

Something New.
THE subscribers have been appointed Sole Agents in this City for the sale of W. D. Rose's PORTABLE BED CHAIR (Patent applied for.)—A new and desirable article for Invalids suffering from Rheumatism, Dislocations, Headaches, and other complaints to which the human frame is subject. By means of this Chair being attached to Bedsteads of any kind, the patient may be raised or inclined at any desired angle or comfortable position, with perfect ease and without any handling of the patient. It is truly an article which should be in every house, as its trifling cost places it within the means of all.
The public are requested to call and examine it.
BROWN, TREADWELL & CO.
Jan. 1, 1853. 35 Market street.

"PORTLAND, Dec. 26, 1852.
I have been exceedingly pleased with Mr. W. D. Rose's Portable Bed Chairs. The ease with which they can be put upon any bed, and raised or lowered when so placed, seemed to render them far superior to any article of the kind I have ever before seen. GILMAN DAVIES, M. D."
"I fully concur in the above recommendation of Mr. Rose's Bed Chairs. E. CLARK, M. D."

THE ROGER WILLIAMS COOKING STOVE.
FOR COAL OR WOOD.
THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the
Most Complete and Efficient
Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tin Kitchen.
The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.
The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.
Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.
Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.
Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE ASIA.

Defeat and Dissolution of the British Ministry.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The steamship Asia arrived at her dock early this morning, with the following:

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 18.—The English Ministry was defeated on Thursday night, upon the subject of the House Tax, which it was generally understood would decide the fate of the present Ministry. M. Disraeli defended himself in a long speech, full of bitter sarcasm. The result was a majority of nineteen against the measure. The House adjourned until Monday.

Latest advices state that the Earl of Derby had gone to the Osborne House post haste, to place his resignation in the hands of Her Majesty. The future Cabinet, already spoken of, is thought to be a coalition of Whigs, Peelites, and Moderate Radicals. Lord Aberdeen is spoken of as being likely to take the lead in the House of Lords, and Mr. Gladstone in the Commons.

A Cabinet Council was held at noon on Friday; all the Ministers were in attendance. After rising, the Earl of Derby started, by express train and steamer, to the Queen, probably to request the formation of a new Ministry.

Latest Intelligence.—By telegraph to Liverpool, we learn that a new Ministry had been formed, to be composed as follows:—Premier, Lord Lansdowne; Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Lord John Russell; Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Gladstone; Secretary of War Department, Sir John Osborne; Lord Lieut. of Ireland, Earl of Newcastle; First Lord of the Admiralty, Mr. Herbert.

The Earl of Derby had not returned from his visit to her Majesty.

The country has been deluged with rain.—Several towns situated on rivers and the coast, have suffered greatly in consequence of the encroachments of the water.

ITALY.—The Pope had expressed his satisfaction at the establishment of the French Empire, and will certainly visit France at the period of the coronation.

COCHECHO RAILROAD.—The stockholders of this corporation had a meeting at Dover on Wednesday last, and voted to aid in the immediate construction of the road to Portsmouth, and also took measures to liquidate the floating debt of the company, by the issue of bonds which are to remain open to stockholders alone until January 15, the whole of which is expected to be taken by them, and $30,000 were subscribed on the spot. It is stated that for the six months preceding the first day of December, the Cocheco Railroad Company has laid up, over and above all expenses, a net income of three per cent. per annum, on a capital of over $700,000.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The President to-day sent to the Senate the nomination of Hon. George E. Badger of North Carolina, to the vacant Judgeship of the Supreme Court.

Mr. King's physicians think it most prudent to avoid changes at Norfolk. It is uncertain, however, when he leaves Washington.

Gen. Jackson's statue stands in its old position in Lafayette Square, where it will remain housed until the 8th inst.

U. S. FRIGATE COLUMBIA.—Norfolk, Jan. 1.—The frigate Columbia, Capt. Pendergast, was put in commission yesterday. She is attached to the home squadron, and will be the flag ship of Commodore Newton.

NARROW ESCAPE OF A CLIPPER SHIP.—The clipper ship Southern Cross, Capt. Stevens, which arrived on Sunday, in 153 days from Boston, had a very narrow escape from being destroyed by fire on the 16th of August. On that day, being in lat. 44 S., lon. 61 30 W., smoke was seen issuing from the after hatchway. Search for the cause was instituted, but in fifteen minutes the men below became almost suffocated by the smoke. It then became necessary to close the hatches, without discovering where the fire was burning.—Small holes were cut in the decks and water poured down, but without effect. All communications below were then cut off, and the ship hauled in for land; the wind at the time was blowing heavy from the northwest. During the night the decks became much heated, and the smoke oozed from the seams that were not perfectly tight. After getting in with the land it was then determined to make for Montevideo, that being the nearest port where engines and assistance could be procured. The vessel arrived there on the 31st, when the appearance of the fire became truly alarming, it having been raging for a period of fifteen days. Engines and a plenty of men were procured from the U. S. Frigate Congress, and after seven hours of unremitting labor, the flames were finally subdued, boxes and bales of merchandise having been thrown overboard in the meantime. The fire originated in the lower hold, near the after hatch, and burned through the deck in several places, but fortunately did not reach the sides of the vessel. No cause for the fire has yet been discovered. On the 18th of September, having been held back from her due course a period of thirty-six days, she was repaired and sailed for this port, meeting with heavy gales which detained her twenty days off Cape Horn.—San Francisco Shipping List, Nov. 30th.

DISGRACEFUL CONDUCT OF A NIGHT POLICEMAN.—A disgraceful act of one of the night policemen was witnessed on Friday last, by many of the persons about the Railroad depot. One of these pure and moral guardians of the night had provided himself with a jug of cherry brandy, and was earnestly soliciting persons about the depot to drink the liquor out of the jug, while travellers and other persons were looking with disgust at this disgraceful sight. And what adds to this transaction is the fact that this officer is one of the men who have been engaged in prosecuting for a violation of the exploded liquor law, and one of the most zealous in this crusade.—Providence Mirror.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

A Good Carrier.—The Cincinnati Gazette says, the most opulent private banker of that city, began his active life as a carrier of that paper. Of course he was remarkable for the care, speed and faithfulness with which he performed his work when a boy, or he would not be so successful when a man. He was so well liked by the subscribers of the paper, that on New year's day he received three or four times as much as any other carrier in the city. The foundation of his present enormous fortune, was made from his small savings at that time.

The duty of calling the Massachusetts House of Representatives to order will probably devolve on Giles C. Kellogg, of Hadley, he undoubtedly being the oldest member.—He held a seat in the House in 1809—44 years ago. He performed the same service in 1837 and in 1848.

Labor Row.—The Mobile Advertiser of Monday says—"There was quite a demonstration made by the 'Dagoees' last night, on occasion of the steamer Empress being unloaded by negroes. On the latter commencing their duties, they were assailed and driven off by the white laborers, who, exhibiting strong symptoms of riotous conduct, were only quieted by the active interference of a strong posse of police making their appearance, and taking some of the ringleaders into custody."

Hard Coal.—A gentleman who has kept a careful record of the amount of hard coal received in Boston and vicinity during the past year, reports the amount to be 384,371 tons.

A few days since, a Rochester, N. Y., paper announced that the body of Wm. McLaughlin had been found in an unfinished building, and that a coroner's jury had returned a verdict that his death was caused by intemperance, exposure and want of food. A correspondent of the Boston Transcript states that the body of McLaughlin was taken home by some of his friends, placed in a rough board coffin, and as they were placing a cloth wet with whiskey, over his face, to keep him from spotting, as they stated, he wakni up and opened his eyes! McLaughlin crawled out of his narrow resting place, and his first inquiry was for "a drap o' whiskey, just to take the taste out of me mouth."

THE IMPROVED
EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved this season, it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—Housekeepers may be assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.
This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts exposed to the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus, and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new stove, to the first cold weather, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.
We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Planter," "Union of States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, Fire Wood or Coal; also, Box Stoves and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.
Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window-Shads, Table Oil-cloths, &c.
All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

WHAT CONSTITUTES AN EARTHQUAKE?

There has been, lately some agitation in the North which everybody seems to admit was an earthquake. It may have been something of the sort, but we cannot help being struck by the mildness and variety of the indications which have been accepted as proofs of an earthquake. The Times says:

"Our correspondent, who resides at Jericho, was awakened by a peculiar trembling sensation. All his joints appeared to be loosened.' We were not aware that our contemporary ever sent its correspondents to Jericho, and, thought we have heard occasionally of the 'Times being out of joint,' we never heard of the Times newspaper, or any of its correspondents, being in that predicament. 'At Seacombe a gentleman was so much shaken while asleep,' that, on awaking, he didn't know what to make of it. Perhaps the gentleman had overslept himself, and the shaking was administered to wake him up. He, however, prefers to take an earth quakerly view of the matter.

Mr. Donaldson, of Gloucester Place, Edge Hill, says, with reference to a noise, 'At first I thought it was occasioned by a cat.' On second thoughts, not exactly seeing how the cat jumped, he jumped himself, to the conclusion that it was an earthquake.

Mr. Beauchamp, of Bootle, finds his clock stopped, and sends up the fact as an evidence of an earthquake.

A gentleman at Toxteth Park wakes 'quite bewildered.' He looks at his watch, and finding that it is half-past 4, he supplies further evidence of an earthquake.

Another gentleman in Toxteth Park finds his bed swinging like a cradle, and 'some people next door jumped out of bed'—a piece of neighborly sympathy there is some difficulty in accounting for. Nevertheless, it all goes to prove an earthquake.

Mr. Chadburn 'heard a noise as if a heavy person was walking across the room. He raised himself in bed at once,' and wrote to the papers to confirm the rumor of an earthquake.

Mr. Wood seems to have been in a most absurd state of mind. The wooden rings on his bed rattled. His first impressions was that 'a boy, who slept overhead, had fallen out of bed.' But his next impression was, that there had been an earthquake.

Capt. Greig, head constable, 'heard his earthen-ware shaken about and rattled. He got up, fancying some one had broken into the house, called up the man on duty at the station, and examined the roof of the building to see that no person was there.' Finding there was no person there, he went to bed again with the comfortable conviction, that it was only an earthquake.

The reasoning faculties of those who felt the shock seemed to have been rather oddly affected, for the logic displayed on the occasion was of the very lowest order. For instance: 'A manufacturer, feeling his bed shake, came to the conclusion that a servant in a room above had been seized with a fit.' Why he should have drawn such an inference is not very clear to us, but finding himself mistaken, he admitted his error, and pronounced the affair to have been an earthquake. Even the dogs are dragged in as witnesses, and the fact that some dogs trembled is cited as a proof of the earthquake, which seems to have announced itself by shaking curtains, imitating the sound of a jumping cat, swinging beds, stopping a watch, intimidating a few dogs, and loosening the limbs of an unfortunate correspondent who had been already sent to Jericho.

JUDGE BISHOP.—The Springfield Republican says that "Judge Bishop proposes to be consoled for the untoward results of his Congressional and Gubernatorial experiments, by the Collectorship of Boston; but the soldier of fortune is ahead of him there. It is thought, too, that the Judge's extraordinary efforts in behalf of Charles Sumner's election as U. S. Senator, will not secure him much favor at the court of Franklin the First."

NEW YEAR'S PRESENT TO REV. DR. LYMAN BEECHER.—Some of the friends of the venerable Dr. Beecher, have purchased an annuity of five hundred dollars a year, and presented it to him on New Year's day, as a token of respect for his long and faithful services in the cause of religion and good morals. The letter accompanying the same is signed by John Tappan, Samuel H. Walley, Enoch Train, George W. Crockett, and J. C. Proctor.—Daily Advertiser.

AUSTRALIA,—If John Bull is the sensible old fellow that we take him to be, he does not look with great favor upon the emigration to Australia which is setting out from this country. The discontent under colonial subjection which had already manifested itself very decidedly in that remote region, has been strengthened by the discovery of gold. It will receive a new impulse from the infusion of Yankee ideas. The genuine Yankee thinks no more of organizing a government than of building a schooner, and understands the management of one as well as of the other.

The ultra dandies of New York are adopting the mouse tail fashion for moustaches.—By means of gum or soap the moustaches are made to stand out on either side of the face like the horns of a catfish.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE, ———.

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully, Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK, Commissioner of Patents."

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, JANUARY 7, 1853.

Persons about making arrangements for yearly advertising, will do well to consider the advantages offered by the issue of the Daily and Weekly Chronicle. In addition to the fact that our independence of partizanship gives us an increased and varied circulation, the like of which can be attained by no party sheet,—we give advertisements the benefit of the circulation of both papers. Our terms are low—call and see.

THE BATTLE OF NEW ORLEANS.

THE EIGHTH OF JANUARY.—To-morrow being the eighth day of January, is the anniversary of the memorable battle of New Orleans, when Gen. Andrew Jackson, with the American Army under his command, defeated and beat off the English Army which had been selected, equipped and landed on purpose to capture and probably to destroy the city of New Orleans.

This memorable event is to be commemorated in Washington City, to-morrow, by the Inauguration of a Statue of General Jackson, on which occasion a variety of imposing ceremonies will be performed, which will doubtless be attended by a great concourse of people, including officers of government, army and navy, members of Congress, and foreign dignitaries. Both Houses of Congress will doubtless adjourn, in order that the members may attend.

The Battle of New Orleans was fought on the 8th of January 1815, and was looked for with great anxiety and interest, in this country and in Europe. Our treaty of Peace was actually signed before it took place; but of course it was not known exactly when it would be fought. And when the treaty was signed, one of the British Commissioners at Ghent said to ours, You have made a good bargain; for we shall have to give up New Orleans, which our army has taken before this time. Mr. Clay is said to have answered, No: Gen. Jackson, and the Western Riflemen will take care of that.

Mails by sea and by land did not travel then quite so rapidly as they do now. But in due time the good people of the town of Portsmouth learned that Gen. Jackson and his army had stood their ground, and defeated their assailants with great slaughter. Just about the same time they heard the news of peace. After waiting a few days for the confirmation of both statements, they took measures for a grand day of rejoicing at both the events.—They had a military turn out, a civic procession, and a general illumination of the town. They had moreover a great dinner, or supper, we don't recollect which, but we do remember that it lasted nearly all night, and was accompanied with speeches, cheers, toasts, and some wine. We think the people of Portsmouth, generally, have never been gladder since that day, then they were then, when the warlike could rejoice in victory, and the pacific could, without extravagance, flatter themselves by expectations of abundance of peace. Indeed there was no division of parties here that day—but everybody rejoiced at both events.

N. H. General Court—Nov. Session, 1852.

[Abridged from the Patriot.]

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 5, 1853.

SENATE.—The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill to facilitate &c. proceedings in jury trials. Another lengthy and very animated discussion ensued. Upon the question of its passage the Senate stood as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Woodbury, Freeman, Whittemore, Taylor, Bennett, Williamson, Rix—7.

NAYS—Messrs. Hoitt, Wells, Shannon, Tuttle, Merrill—5.

So the bill passed.

The resolution in favor of the 1st Co. Infantry, 1st Reg., was read a third time and passed under a suspension of the rules.

The House resolution providing for payment for advertising the Liquor Bill was reported by the committee on Claims, and ordered to a third reading.

HOUSE.—Mr. Bartlett of Portsmouth, from the select committee on the subject of a State Reform School, reported a resolution that it is expedient to convey our public land trustees for the support of a State Reform School for Juvenile offenders; and that the committee having that matter before them be instructed to report a bill for that purpose.

This resolution was laid on the table, and its consideration specially assigned for the day and hour at which the subject of establishing a State Reform School is assigned for discussion.

Unfinished Business.—The House then resumed the consideration of the bill for uniting the Concord and Claremont and N. H. Central Railroads.

A motion by Mr. Hackett, to take the question, on ordering the bill to a third reading, at 12 o'clock to-day, was agreed to.

The question before the House was the adoption of an amendment, moved by Mr. Chamberlain.

Charge of bribing members.—Mr. Flanders of Manchester, called on Mr. Cragin of Lebanon, for proof of the charges he had made, by implication, that there had been members of this House bribed, or attempted to be bribed, to vote in favor of the union of the Concord and Claremont and N. H. Central roads.

Mr. Cragin said that his statement yesterday was, that one member of the railroad committee had been offered money if he would go for this bill during its hearing before the committee. That statement he made again to-day. The gentleman was before him, in the House—and if a committee was appointed to inquire into the matter, he would be able to prove what offer had been made to him; and perhaps another, not a member of the House, could make some disclosures of similar nature.

A debate ensued, in which Messrs. Bartlett, Cragin, Gove, Wiggins, Pike and Cushing, took part.

Mr. Bartlett of Portsmouth moved that the Speaker be directed to put the question—whether any offer had been made to Mr. Freese, directly or indirectly, to influence his vote as a member of the committee on Railroads? The House gave its assent to the motion.

The Speaker put the question to Mr. Freese, who kept his seat while the earlier portion of his report was made. Our reporter heard him imperfectly, but understood him to say that he had some business transactions with a certain gentleman, who paid him some money, and had some left. In coming towards the State House the gentlemen spoke to him concerning the inquiry before the committee on Railroads on the subject of uniting the railroads, and, showing a roll of bills, said, if he, (Mr. Freese) "would go for the union, a bunch of that money would be no object." Mr. Freese, after this statement, sat down.

Several voices called out—"name the man!" "who is he!"—"name him aloud!" &c., &c., and considerable confusion prevailed.

Mr. Freese—"I would rather not tell the name of the man; he is not a member of this House."

Many voices shouted—"who is he?"—"out with it!"—"let us hear his name!"

Mr. Freese rose, and the most rapt attention succeeded the most noisy demonstrations, which the Speaker could not suppress. Mr. Freese said—"The name of the man is James H. Butler, of Nottingham!"

Another tumultuous scene was closed by Mr. Bartlett's moving to lay the orders of the day on the table, to which proposal the House assented.

Mr. Cragin of Lebanon then offered the following preamble and resolution, which were unanimously adopted:—

Whereas it has been openly stated in the House that an attempt has been made to bribe a member of the Railroad committee by certain parties interested in a bill now before the House—therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed, with power to send for persons and papers, whose duty it shall be to investigate the truth of said statement, and report as soon as may be to the House; and that the same committee have power in like manner to inquire into any other similar offers made to any other member of the same committee, or any other member of the House, or any officer thereof, by any party.

The Speaker appointed Messrs. Cragin of Lebanon, Sargent of Wentworth, Pike of Franklin, Weeks of Canaan, and Cushing of Charlestown.

The committee had leave to sit during the sessions of the House.

[A considerable amount of business was then done, in passing acts of incorporation, acting on the Warden's resignation of the State Prison, &c.]

Unfinished Business.—Mr. J. H. Wiggins of Dover said he had a communication which he desired to have presented and read to the House. The Speaker read the document of which the following is a copy:—

Concord, Jan. 5th, 1853, 2 o'clock, P. M.

To the House of Representatives of New Hampshire:

I have just arrived in town, and learn that a very serious charge has been, either directly or indirectly, made against me by a member of the House.

The statement, as represented to me, as far as relates to an attempt to bribe any member of the House, is unqualifiedly false; and I ask, in justice to myself, that my accuser and I may be heard this afternoon in committee of the whole House.

With great respect,
Your ob't serv't,
(Signed,) JAMES H. BUTLER.

Mr. Wiggins then offered a resolution discharging the committee of five from considering Judge Butler's case, and giving the Judge a hearing at the bar of the House, before a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Bartlett objected, and deemed the committee sufficient.

Mr. Wiggins considered that the time of the House would be saved by the process recommended.

Mr. Flanders said that it would appear that the whole evidence against Judge Butler was not in this House. Finding that he could not influence Mr. Freese, Judge Butler went to Northwood, saw a man who he thought could do something in this matter—offered him $50 for a share of his stock, and also $75 if he would go to Concord and influence Mr. Freese to support the union of the railroads. This was mord bribery; and that person from Northwood was bound here to testify.

Mr. Bartlett moved that the subject be indefinitely postponed.

Messrs Metcalf and Everett objected to the select committees. Mr. Sargent defended them, but advocated the committee of the whole.

On the question to indefinitely postpone, yeas were 78; nays, 165.

So the motion to postpone was negatived, and the resolution adopted without any division.

Mr. Hackett of Portsmouth moved the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Speaker be authorized to appoint two members to conduct the examination on the part of the House, and that said Butler be heard by himself and counsel.

This resolution was unanimously adopted, and Messrs. Cushing of Charlestown and Pike of Franklin were appointed a committee.

In Committee of the whole, [Mr. Bartlett of Portsmouth in the Chair.] Hons. Ira Perley and N. B. Baker appeared at the bar for the respondent, and Messrs, Cushing and Pike for the committee.

After some preparatory business, the committee rose, reported progress, and the House assigned 7 o'clock this evening, for the trial.

Dover and Portsmouth Railroad.—Mr. Kittredge of New Market, moved an amendment to the first section, providing that no part of the road be constructed until the whole of the capital stock be subscribed and ten per cent. of its par value paid into the company's treasury, and that no preferred stock should be issued of greater value than the par stock.

Mr. W. B. Wiggin of Dover said the motion to amend was made by a Director and large shareholder in the Boston and Maine Railroad, and was calculated to defeat the purposes of the friends of the bill. The amendment was rejected, 87 to 43; but no quorum having voted, the House adjourned.

In the evening, the House met in committee of the whole, to proceed with the investigation of the bribery case; but on account of the absence of a witness, the matter was postponed to Thursday morning.

City Council—Jan. 6.

In Board of Aldermen Thursday, several bills were passed for payment of claims against the city.

A communication was received from Mayor Toppan, stating that, as the time of his service was about expiring, and the accounts of the city for the year about being closed, he wished to make a proposition, which was in substance as follows:

That his salary, amounting to three hundred dollars, should be placed by the City Council in such a position that the interest of the same may be perpetually applied by the Overseers of the Poor, to the object of providing the Annual Thanksgiving Dinner for the poor at the Alms House, in addition to the usual sums appropriated for that purpose.

The object of the donation is to show our unfortunate brethren at the Alms House that they are thought of and cared for by their more fortunate fellow citizens. The mayor requested the appointment of a joint committee to carry the same into effect.

The communication was read in both Boards, accepted, and the following committee was appointed,—viz. Aldermen Knowlton and Spalding, and Messrs. Adams and Laighton.

Messrs. Editors:—The Hon. NEAL Dow of Portland, will address the citizens of Portsmouth on the subject of Temperance, at the Temple, on Monday evening next, January 10, at 7 o'clock.

Yours, &c., JOHN CHRISTIE.

LADIES' FAIR.—The Ladies' Fair at Congress Hall, last week, was not only pleasant to the spectators and actors, but profitable to the object of charity to which it was devoted; as the net proceeds paid over to the Howard Benevolent Society amount to $247.35.

CONCERT AT NEW CASTLE.—The New Castle Brass Band give a Concert this evening at one of the churches on the island.

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.—Our legislative report to-day, brings out the serious charge against one of our County Judges, Mr. Butler, that he has endeavored to bribe a member of the legislature into the support of a particular measure. The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole, and were engaged in a sort of trial on Thursday morning.

PATENT AGENCY.—We invite attention to the advertisement in this day's Chronicle, of a Patent Agency, by John S. Gallaher, Jr. & Co., Washington City.

A FUND FOR THE ERECTION OF CHURCHES.—An extensive organization has been effected among the various Congregational churches throughout the country, for the purpose of raising funds to be applied in the erection of churches in the west, or the assistance of those already established. The money is to be distributed equally among all the churches, $300 being the largest amount which will be given to any one church. The sum to be raised must not be less than $50,000, but it is said that twice that amount has been collected already.

In this city alone, a large amount was contributed for the purpose on Sunday last. In Dr. Cheever's Church the collection amounted to about $1500, and in the Tabernacle to more than $1000. The well known merchants, Messrs. Bowen & McNamee, have, it is said, offered to subscribe $10,000, should $50,000 be realised.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

COUNTERFEIT ENGRAVER.—The Boston Herald of Thursday evening, says, the Chief of Police, from the constant increase in the market of counterfeit notes on the Merchants' and others of our banks, caused the arrest this forenoon of W. W. Wilson, engraver, No. 23 Court street.

At his place of business, at his residence, and upon his person were found a great variety of plates, moulds, dies, and other articles for the manufacture of spurious money; also, a large sum in good and counterfeit bank bills. Wilson has for some time been suspected of bogus operations.

The tree on the field of Waterloo known as the "Duke's tree," has been cut down.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS
COOKING STOVE.
FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE, is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modelled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Dutch kitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas escaping from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

DREADFUL AND FATAL ACCIDENT.

We learn by passengers from Concord, that the Thursday forenoon train of Railroad Cars from Boston for Concord, on the Boston and Maine Railroad, met with a sad accident, about one and a half miles from Lawrence, by the breaking of an axle. Gen. Pierce, the president elect, with his lady and son were in the unfortunate car; and sad to say, the son was instantly killed. The parents escaped with little injury. Several other persons are said to be wounded, some of them mortally; and the car was turned completely over, rolled down the embankment, and broken in pieces.

We learn from the Boston Express of Jackson & Co. that the accident happened in consequence of the breaking of a wheel, and not an axle; that the car fell and broke in two pieces, rolling down over an embankment of thirty feet in height. The embankment was mostly composed of rough rocks, blown from a deep cut, and its roughness destroyed the car almost entirely, as well as bruised the passengers. The son of Gen. Pierce, aged 14, (his only son, having lost another previously,) was instantly killed, his head being crushed. Mrs. Pierce was considerably hurt. Gen. Pierce himself, slightly. Several passengers were badly bruised and burnt,—but no more killed outright.

Thirty-Second Congress—Second Session.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 6.

SENATE.—A message was received from the President in reply to Mr. Mason's resolution for information concerning the Tripartite treaty. Ordered to be printed.

A resolution was passed directing that Mr. Meriwether, of Ky., be paid per diem allowance and mileage up to the time when Mr. Dixon was admitted to his seat.

HOUSE.—Mr. Seymour, of New York, called up the resolution allowing further time to steamboat owners to conform to the provisions of the new steamboat law. The resolution was amended, extending the time ninety days, and passed.

The House passed the resolution giving the widow of General Worth $60 per month for life.

The House then went into Committee.

The Deficiency Bill being under consideration, Mr. Smith, of Alabama, spoke in favor of conferring the title of Lieut. General on General Scott, his remark being principally in reply to Mr. Polk.

Mr. Marshall, of California, afterwards obtained the floor, when the committee rose and the House adjourned.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce says "it is generally believed that Congress will attempt to secure the commencement of a national highway to the Pacific during the present year, and its completion within five years. They may pass some bill specifying some general terms of a contract for this purpose, and authorizing the Executive to conclude a contract, after advertising proposals for three or four months."

KATING, THE MURDERER.—It appears by the New York Herald, that Billy Cating, or Kating, who killed the little girl and boy named O'Brien, in New Jersey, has been caught and placed in jail at Hackensack. He confesses the murders—and seems to have had little motive; as it now appears he did not commit other outrages as reported. The wretched man must be either a maniac or a fool.

☞ In the Legislature of Massachusetts, on Thursday, the House of Representatives chose Rev. Stephen Lovell, chaplain, and Benj. Stevens sergeant at arms.

LARGE FREIGHTING BUSINESS.—A despatch from Baltimore of January 5, says a meeting was held this morning of the Cumberland Region Coal Companies, to confer with the President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, when twelve companies offered to furnish for transportation over the road an aggregate of 7000 tons daily.

A GREAT MISCALCULATION.—The propeller South Carolina, 1300 tons, which was intended for a trade between Charleston and Liverpool, but drew too much water to pass the bar without great delay and difficulty, is fitting at New York for a sailing ship by the removing of her machinery, &c.

CAUTION.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish through your paper, and any others that may think the notice worth extending, to caution the public against purchasing of a travelling agent lately in Portsmouth, Recipes for making Phosgene Gas. The agent was a man of middling height, light complexion, sandy hair, a smooth fast talker—and this is to inform persons interested that the Cards he gives with the Recipes are genuine cards of D. T. Mills & Co., 60 Court street, Boston, where the fixtures for burning the Phosgene Gas may be obtained. And having proved the whole affair an imposition, and finding that D. T. Mills & Co. acknowledge they know the tubes to be worthless, but refuse to refund the money—which I do not regret, (their share of the shave amounting to but three dollars) as it gives me the opportunity to bring the whole affair before the public—and as the agent is no doubt still at the same business, and has pretty extensive designs in other places—judging by his activity and success here—I take it to be my duty and pleasure to pay you for inserting this through the next week's Daily and Weekly Chronicle. SAMUEL DONNELL.

Portsmouth, Jan. 1, 1853.

AGAINST FIRE AND LIGHTNING

PATENT METALLIC
LADDER AND CONDUCTOR.

THIS new and important invention is one that should receive the attention of every person who owns a building, or who is interested in that which presents a "permanent safeguard" against lightning, and at the same time a light, strong and ornamental Ladder, which will securely warrant the inmates of any house the ready means of escape in case of fire.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

☞ Price per foot, 20 cents; including Lightning Rods and Points of the most approved material.

Specimens of the article may be seen at the office of the subscriber.

COX'S SPARKLING GALATINE and Cooper's Isinglass for making jellies. for sale by S. J. DODGE & CO. j6

LARD OIL of best quality this day received and for sale by S. J. DODGE & CO.

The following prophecy, from an old book, seems to be applicable to the present time.

When legislators bold invade
The laws which they themselves have made;
When the parson 'gainst the Bible preaches,
And modest virgins wear the breeches;
When women scorn domestic cares,
And bold intrude on men's affairs,
Aspiring with mistaken pride
The war-horse of the world to ride,
Then will wild chaos come again,
And Eve with the old serpent reign;
A second time will pay the price
Of wit, by loss of Paradise.
The world, tail foremost, will advance,
Like freedom in regenerate France;
By going backwards all come right,
And men grow blind by too much light.

DEATH FROM GRIEF.—Two maiden ladies, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Mary Beaufort, aged 77 and 73 respectively, resided at Tavistock all their lives together, doing acts of charity and benevolence. On Monday, Miss Elizabeth, who had been ailing for some time past, died, and her sister was so affected by the circumstance, that she too died within an hour, although she had been up to that time in the enjoyment of her usual health.—London Shipping Gazette.

Boston papers notice an article called "smoking tea," to be used as a substitute for tobacco. Tea used with a pipe is said to somewhat resemble good flavored Spanish cigars.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—to save time, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.
This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State Stove.
We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Franklin, Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.
Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window Shade, Table Oil-cloths, &c.
All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

DODGING A DUN.

Some know how to do it and can scent a dun at any distance, and can dodge him effectively. It is a knack acquired by long experience. If the dun, however, by his experience becomes expert, the dunee stands a slim chance of escape. The dun becomes equally sensitive in detecting the debtor, and often are practised between the two, manœuvres that would pale the reputation of even Napoleon himself.

We heard a story the other day of old Dr. G., of Portsmouth, which, though not having any very great relevancy to the preceding paragraph, is nevertheless to the point as regards amateur dunning. For there is a wide difference between the amateur and the professional.

Dr. G. was a man of great integrity and worth, and his business habits were on the square—exacting every thing that was his own, and paying every man his due. He held a note against a gentleman of Hampton for some considerable amount, and wherever he met him, the Doctor was ready, note in hand, for the payment of an installment. It became at last an agonizing dread with the debtor about meeting the Doctor, particularly at a time when troubled with a disease known in financial parlance as "shorts." But whenever he met him, the Doctor's dun would be anticipated by his debtor's movement for his pocket book, and frequent payments were made without seeing the note at all, or inquiring as to the chances of its eventual payment. He knew that the Doctor was honest, and that it would be all right, and several payments were thus blindly made.

A great dearth of funds made him more shy of meeting the Doctor, and as he passed through the town, his eyes wandered in all directions to catch a glimpse of his dread and avoid him if possible. He succeeded admirably for a while, and out-generalled the old man several times; but fate does not always favor the brave, and the Doctor from a distant position saw his victim tie his horse to a post and enter a store. He made all the haste he could, and entered the store just as his debtor dodged behind a rice cask.

"Didn't I see Mr. ——— come in here," asked the Doctor.

"He did come in here, sir," said the shopkeeper, "but he has gone somewhere now."

The Doctor said he was not in a hurry and could wait as well as not, he saw his horse at the door, and thought he would be back before long. The man remained hid, and the old Doctor waited a long time. At last he went out, to the man's great relief, and after a while he himself went out, and was just stepping upon his wagon, when the Doctor darted at him from a door-way.

"Well, Mr. ———," said he, "you needn't dodge me any more; that note has been paid up these six months, and I have been trying to see you that I might pay you back twenty dollars that you overpaid me."

The recollection of hiding behind a rice cask to avoid being paid twenty dollars, haunted the man as long as he lived, and among other advice which he gave his children was this; contained in a couplet of domestic poetry, written in chalk on the old dresser—

Never run
When you see a dun."

BUTTER.—The steamship Pacific, at New York from Liverpool, brought a large consignment of butter, which is now rather dull of sale as well in Boston market as in that of New York.

All the butter in this country, (except the little that has been made this winter,) has been bought up at high prices. The holders do not like to lose on it, and as money is plenty, they hold on. The consumers buy sparingly—and many families have learnt that they can live comfortably on half the usual quantity of butter. The price of butter can go no higher—neither can it be very cheap, this winter.

NIAGARA FALLS AND LAKE ERIE.—Professor Silliman, the eminent geologist, discredits the opinion advanced by some, that the gradual wearing away of the rocks of Niagara Falls may possibly result in draining Lake Erie. In a recent lecture he remarked:

"They will not halt at their present station, but retreat slowly and surely about two miles further, where they will stop again for an unknown period, and probably forever, since at this place the hard limestone will form both base and top of the falls, and thus stop the rapid destruction of the rock. Some have thought that they would finally reach Lake Erie, and that then the lake would be completely drained. Such an event is impossible. At the point already mentioned, the torrent will gradually wear away the surface of the limestone, forming a rapid, and henceforth Niagara will be one of the lost wonders of the world."

THE FIRST LIEUTENANT GENERAL.—On the 2d of July, 1798, President Adams transmitted to the U. S. Senate, the following message:

Gentlemen of the Senate: I nominate George Washington of Mount Vernon, to be Lieutenant General and Commander-in-Chief of all the armies raised or to be raised in the United States.

United States, July 2, 1798.

JOHN ADAMS.

On the 3d of July, 1798, the Senate took into consideration the message of the President and unanimously confirmed the appointment.

MANY TITLES.—The plate on the Duke of Wellington's coffin, bears the following inscription:—"The most high, mighty, and most noble Prince Arthur, Duke and Marquis of Wellington, Marquis Douro, Earl of Wellington, Viscount Wellington of Talavera and of Wellington, and Baron Douro of Wellesley; Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, one of her Majesty's Most Honorable Privy Council, and Field Marshal and Commander-in-Chief of her Majesty's Forces. Born 1st May, 1779, died 14th September, 1852."

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
SATURDAY, JANUARY 8, 1853.

Persons about making arrangements for yearly advertising, will do well to consider the advantages offered by the issue of the Daily and Weekly Chronicle. In addition to the fact that our independence of partizanship gives us an increased and varied circulation, the like of which can be attained by no party sheet,—we give advertisements the benefit of the circulation of both papers. Our terms are low—call and see.

HOW IT WORKS.

We mentioned in Friday's Daily Chronicle, that Rev. Stephen Lovell was chosen chaplain of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. We did not state who his competitors were, because we supposed there was no particular reason for it, though we rather wondered how such a man as Mr. Lovell should happen to be chosen over such another man as old Doctor Beecher. But the Boston Chronicle of Friday makes it all plain. That paper informs us that Rev. Dr. Lyman Beecher, on the first ballot, was one of the two candidates who received the highest number of votes. A motion was made to declare the two highest candidates to be elected, as usual, but this was voted down, and on the third ballot, Rev. Stephen Lovell was elected. The Chronicle says,

"Under other circumstances the election of Dr. Beecher would have been made certain. His age, his position, and his leisure, would all have plead for him. But he has chosen to put himself before the public as the Maine Law champion. He has attended polit cal conventions; he has made political speeches, and preached political sermons. He opposed, as a politician, the re-election of Mayor Seaver. He was brought forward by Maine Law Men; his election would have been heralded as a Maine Law triumph by these men; his vote indicates their strength; he was defeated; he now has his reward."

From all this we are to understand that Mr. Lovell owes his election to the chaplaincy, to the liquor interest, or "liberal union" men, who held the balance of power between opposing or rival religious sects in the House, and who combined on Mr. Lovell to defeat and thereby punish Dr. Beecher, who has been a notorious temperance preacher and lecturer for thirty years. We do not suppose it follows that Mr. Lovell is opposed to temperance in general or the Maine Law in particular; nor do we suppose he was chosen on this issue alone, and openly. Indeed, there was some electioneering for him in the House, on the ground of his having twelve children, and having "just married a second wife." [By the way, she must be a third if married lately—for he married a second, years ago.

The operation of political parties, religious sects, and the liquor law, in this instance has produced a singular coalition on a man of talent, who will probably be a popular chaplain, but who could hardly have been elected under other circumstances.

THE RELIGIOUS TEST.

The N. H. Patriot informs us, that on Tuesday, in the Senate, Mr. Whittemore introduced the following joint resolution, which was unanimously adopted by that body, and sent down to the House for concurrence:—

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That the provision of our State Constitution, commonly called the "Religious Test," which makes the profession of a certain religious faith an essential qualification for certain offices, is unjust, anti republican, contrary to the spirit of the present age, and discreditable to our State and people; and when the proper time agrives for again calling a convention to revise the Constitution, we will spare no efforts to induce the people to assent to the calling of such convention, and to the abrogation of a principle which should find no place in the Constitution of a free State.

When this resolution was read in the House, Mr. Preston of New Ipswich moved that it be laid on the table, giving as his reason that it was desirable to have it acted upon by a full House. The motion was agreed to without objection; but the Patriot calls on its friends to take it up and pass it. There is a constitutional difficulty in the way of doing anything more. A convention was held in 1850, and another cannot be held until 1857.

The Patriot says,

"This supposed constitutional difficulty has deterred as and many earnest advocates of the abrogation of the religious test, from urging the calling of another Convention at this time. But it is due to the character of our State that the Legislature should pass the above resolution, and we hope our friends in the House will see that it is done."

We think the resolution will pass,—but do not greatly expect to see the Convention in our day. The present Constitution is defective in some respects—but the people are attached to it. They are not Frenchmen and free-thinkers—but New Englanders of a conservative puritan cast. We would gladly abolish the test—but the people would not, when last it was tried. We are not sure they have become any more liberal in the mean time.

LOCAL.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE, No. 2, is ready for delivery this morning—$1 a year in advance, 3 cents per single copy. It contains the news of the week, home and foreign markets, miscellaneous reading, etc.

☞ Rev. Dr. Burroughs's Biblical lecture, at his Chapel on Wednesday evening, was on the Rechabites, who are noticed in the 35th Chapter of Jeremiah. They obeyed the injunctions of their ancestor, Jonadab the son of Rechab, (who is also mentioned in II. Kings, chap. 10,) "to drink no wine, neither they nor their sons forever, nor to build houses, nor plant vineyards, nor have them."—On account of their obedience to these injunctions, the prophet Jeremiah pronounced upon them this blessing,

"Because ye have obeyed the commandment of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according to all that he hath commanded you; therefore thus saith the Lord of Hosts, the God of Israel, Jonadab the son of Rechab shall not want a man to stand before me forever."

Dr. Scott, in his commentary, conjectures that the Rechabites may still be in existence, as a distinct people; and Dr. Burroughs, in his lecture introduced modern testimony of the highest order, to establish the fact of their present existence, to the number, it is said, of sixty thousand, and the more gratifying fact that they still abide by their ancient rules.

These facts, and such as these, go to establish the popular belief in Sacred History and Prophecy more strongly than the most subtle and ingenious arguments without such foundation. The most distinguished men are well employed in bringing out such evidences, and presenting them to the view of many persons, who might otherwise never see them.

FIRE.—An alarm of fire was raised yesterday morning about nine o'clock, which was caused by the burning of the floor in Mr. Larrabee's harness shop, in the building opposite the Chronicle office. The fire was supposed to have caught from the stove. Damage trifling.

THE RAIL ROAD ACCIDENT.

Our account of the accident on the Concord and Boston Railroad, given on Friday morning, was correct in every important particular. The Boston Journal gives additional statements.

It is indeed a most remarkable fact that of the sixty passengers in the car, but one life was lost;—and it is equally remarkable that with that exception only four were seriously injured, although several received slight contusions and bruises, but not to such an extent as to prevent them from extricating themselves from the ruined car, and in some cases to render assistance to others.

Scarcely an instant before the accident occurred, a brakeman was standing on the forward platform of the passenger car, when he had occasion to step across to that of the baggage car, and before he had fairly turned about the coupling had broken and the car he had just left was rolling down the embankment.—His escape was indeed a very narrow one.

Nearly every passenger was more or less injured.

Mrs. Pierce was comparatively calm on Friday morning.

Mr. Cheney narrowly escaped being thrown down the bank with the other passengers, he having but a moment before the occurrence of the accident, stepped from the platform of the passenger car to that of the baggage car.

"ENGLAND'S HUMANITY."—An article under this title appeared in the Boston Post a week since, as being a true account of certain scalps, found in the baggage of Burgoyne's army, and was copied into several papers. We did not copy it; but read it carefully, and were disposed to wonder why we never before heard of it. Yet, knowing that one of the editors is both a historian and an antiquarian, we did not hasten to call it in question. Since then, we perceive it is said by the Boston Courier to be a fiction of Dr. Franklin, while in Paris. The Courier adds—"He printed it in imitation of a Boston newspaper, which he struck off from a small press of his own. His object was to circulate this fictitious newspaper in England, in order to excite horror at the atrocities of savage warfare, which the British had excited against the colonists. Whether the end proposed by Franklin fully justified the means, is a point on which casuists will probably not quite agree."

There are six acres of barrelled pork, three tiers high, at Louisville, and about six acres of live hogs in pens. That is, we suppose, about twenty-four acres of pork, in the whole.—Chronicle.

What an appalling thought that all these acres of fat and nastiness are to find their final sepulchre in the human stomach! To become part of belles and fine ladies; to be kissed in the maiden's cheek; to give plumpness to her figure, roundness to her arm, and gleam from her "ripe red lip!" Oh, go away, hog!—Portland Transcript.

N. H. General Court—Nov. Session, 1852.

[Abridged from the Patriot.]

THURSDAY, Jan. 6.

SENATE.—The bill to raise $70,000 for the use of the State, sent up from the House, was read three times and passed, under a suspension of the rules.

The bill to incorporate the State Capital Bank came up in the orders of the day, and Mr. Whittemore moved to lay it upon the table, which was negatived. Mr. W. then moved its postponement to the next session, assigning as a reason, not any objection to this particular bill, but a disposition not to enlarge the banking capital of the State. He was followed by Messrs. Wells and Freeman in favor of the bill, and Mr. Woodbury in opposition. Mr. Wells was proceeding again in some remarks, when the intelligence of the lamentable railroad accident fell upon the members like an electric shock, and the Senate adjourned immediately.

HOUSE.—Mr. Tennant of Allenstown, from the committee on Finance, reported a bill to authorize the raising of $70,000 for the use of the State, which, under a suspension of the rules, was finally passed.

Bribery Case.—This case occupied the principal part of the sitting. There was a formal statement made, of Judge Butler's offering Mr. Freese money, corruptly, and with intent to bribe him to favor the union of certain railroads.

From the testimony of Mr. Freese and Hollis J. Clark, sustained by Judge Butler's own statement, it appears that he knew or supposed Freese was against the union of the roads, which Butler favored and earnestly desired. Judge B. bought Mr. Clark's stock, five shares, at 75 dollars a share, and sold them next day at 60 dollars, with the proviso of receiving 15 more if the roads are united. But Judge B. says:

"I never requested or solicited Mr. Clark to use undue influence over Mr. Freese; but I wished the road to be carried through for my benefit and that of our section; but I never took any improper steps for effecting our benefit. I thought that when Mr. Clark's stock was out of the way, Mr. Freese's influence would not be guided by his friend's interest.—That was my sole object in purchasing it.

I do not know any one here whom Clark could have any influence over but Mr. Freese. It was my expectation that the influence of Clark was to be used to promote the union; but no special arrangement was made that he should influence Mr. Freese. He (Clark) had been a member of the Constitutional Convention, and I had some belief he would have influence among members with whom he was acquainted. I know who paid Mr. Clark's expenses here. It was myself; and I have no expectation of being repaid by any one. I said to Mr. Freese what he stated—that I hoped, or wished, he would, or could, go for the union of the roads, and if he could go for it, one bunch of this money would be no object. * * * *

I don't deny that I said something like these words; that I said one package of these notes would be no object if the road was carried through. If I had had a horse I would have made the same comparative observation. I did not mean to say anything of his going for it. * * *

I did not think of anything of the sort; my idea was never once to offer him any money for his vote. I never said that if he would or could go for the union that a bunch of money would be no object; but I said if the union of the roads could be effected, it would be so."

In Committee of the Whole.—[Mr. Bartlett in the chair.]—Mr. Cushing said it was in accordance with parliamentary rule to report by resolution, which resolution he and his colleague had prepared and would offer.—The resolution was read as follows:—

Resolved, That, in the judgment of the committee, it is proved that James H. Butler did during this session of this Legislature, make to Benjamin J. Freese, whom he knew to be a member of one of the standing committees of the House of Representatives, a proposition which the said Freese had reason to understand and did understand, to be an offer to give him money if he would vote in favor of a bill then under consideration of said committee; and that the same was an improper interference with the course of legislation and a breach of the privilege of said House.

Mr. Cushing moved that the chairman of the committee report the above resolution to the House.

A division was called for on the adoption of the motion, and 126 voted for and 63 voted against it—consequently the motion to report was carried.

Mr. Cushing moved that the committee now rise, report progress, and asked to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject. The motion was adopted, and Mr. Bartlett reported the resolution in accordance with its provisions.

HOUSE.—[The Speaker in the chair.] The above resolution was read to the House by the Speaker, and the question put as to its adoption, when 123 voted in favor and 126 against the resolution—which was lost by 3 votes.

Mr. J. H. Wiggins of Dover presesented the following resolution:—

Resolved, That the charge brought against Hon. James H. Butler, of attempting to bribe a member of this House, has not been sustained and proved.

Mr. Flanders asked for the reason why the resolution was offered; and Mr. Bartlett of Portsmouth, not being desirous, in these hurrying times, of legislating doubly, moved that the resolution be laid on the table. The resolution was then withdrawn.

The closeness of the vote is a peculiarly unsatisfactory settlement, or rather abandonment, of the charges against Judge Butler. But the House did the best they could, as the main facts in the case are agreed in by all parties, and as the intent of the judge, must, from the nature of the case, be matter of opinion in the minds of the members.

Portsmouth and Dover Railroad.—The bill in relation to the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad was read a third time and passed.

The House adjourned soon after hearing of the accidentson the Boston and Concord Railroad.

MRS. PARTINGTON'S LAST.—"Does Isaac manifest any taste for poetry, Mrs. Partington?" asked the school-master's wife, while conversing on the merits of the youthful Partington. The old lady was basting a chicken that her friends had sent her from the country. "Oh, yes," said the old lady, smiling, "he is very partially fond of poultry, and it always seems as if he can't get enough of it." The old spit turned by the fire-place in response to her answer while the basting was going on. "I mean," said the lady, "does he show any of the divine afflatus." The lady thought a moment. "He's had all the complaints of children, and when he was a baby, he fell and broke the cartridge of his nose, but I hardly think he's had this you speak of." The roasting chicken hissed and sputtered, and Mrs. Partington basted it again.—Carpet Bag.

PRINTING THE LIQUOR BILL.—It will be remembered that most of the papers in the State published the Liquor Bill of the June session at the request of the Senate. Its substance had appeared in almost all of them. It was not a 'law' and no printer ought to have thought of publishing it at any other rates than ordinary advertising. Not willing to disregard the request of the highest branch of the Legislature, we published it, as did other printers, and charged $21.60, knowing of course that the request of the Senate was not an act of the Legislature, but trusting that the Legislature would in honesty pay the bill at fair rates. They now seem inclined to refuse to do it. Well, if they choose to go on excursions to Boston, and adjourn over on Fridays, charging the State $600 for each performance, and then defraud publishers, they can do it. They gave the warden of the Prison $200. Why can't they restrain their benevolence until they pay honest debts?—Manchester American.

SYMPATHY FOR THE IMPRISONED CHRISTIANS.—There will be a public meeting at the Metropolitan Hall this evening, to express the sympathy of the Christian public, and the friends of religious freedom in regard to the Madiai family, and others imprisoned in the grand duchy of Tuscany, for possessing and reading the holy scriptures. Mayor Wentworth will preside. A statement will be made by the Rev. Robert Baird, D. D., and addresses are expected by the Rev. Drs. Cox, Kennedy, Bethune, Murray, Hon. E. D. Culver and others.

A FEMALE DIDDLER.—"A charming young lady" has been "doing" the good people of Birmingham, Ct., out of considerable sympathy and some "material aid," by popping incidentally among them as an escaped Shakeress from the Enfield Society of Shakers.

CAUTION.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish through your paper, and any others that may think the notice worth extending, to caution the public against purchasing of a travelling agent lately in Portsmouth, Recipes for making Phosgene Gas. The agent was a man of middling height, light complexion, sandy hair, a smooth fast talker—and this is to inform persons interested that the Cards he gives with the Recipes are genuine cards of D. T. Mills & Co., 10 Court street, Boston, where the fixtures for burning the Phosgene Gas may be obtained. And having proved the whole affair an imposition, and finding that D. T. Mills & Co. acknowledge they know the tubes to be worthless, but refuse to refund the money—which I do not regret, (their share of the shave amounting to but three dollars) as it gives me the opportunity to bring the whole affair before the public—and as the agent is no doubt still at the same business, and has pretty extensive designs in other places—judging by his activity and success here—I take it to be my duty and pleasure to pay you for inserting this through the next week's Daily and Weekly Chronicle. SAMUEL DONNELL.

STEAMBOAT EXPLOSION—SEVERAL PERSONS KILLED.—New Orleans Jan., 4.—The Steamer A. The captain was terribly wounded, and probaply will not recover. The Steamer Texas brought the survivors to this city.

Thirty-Second Congress—Second Session.

THURSDAY, Jan. 6.

SENATE.—Mr. Cass's joint resolution declaring the Monroe doctrine, was taken up and fixed for Wednesday next.

Mr. Mason gave notice that on Wednesday next he would move to refer to the Committee of Foreign relations, the message of the President relating to Cuba, and the correspondence communicated yesterday, and on that day the debate would take place.

HOUSE.—Mr. Preston King, of the select committee heretofore appointed to examine the charges of Mr. Olds against Secretary Corwin, with the alleged fraudulent Gardiner claim, called up the report of the Committee. The question being on recommitting it.

The bill accompanying it, to prevent frauds on the Treasury of the United States was read, when Mr. Preston King briefly explained its provisions. A debate ensued.

CONGRESS.—Washington, Dec. 7th.—In the House it was resolved, on motion, that on adjournment, the House adjourn until Monday, in order to afford the members an opportunity to attend the ceremonies of inauguration of the Jackson equestrian statue.

Mr. Houston asked leave to report from the Committee of Ways and Means the last of the General Appropriation bills.

Mr. Stanley objected.

The House then went into committee on Private Bills.

PROFESSOR WILSON.—The death of Professor Wilson, the Christopher North of Blackwood's Magazine, has been announced. This distinguished literary man was one of the last of that bright galaxy of talent which was originally connected with Blackwood. The "Scotch Reviewers" par excellence have, with the exception of Lockhart and Brougham, paid the debt of nature.

The Boston Advertiser states that Benjamin Peirce LL. D., Professor of Astronomy and Mathematics in Harvard College, has been chosen a Fellow of the Royal Society of London. Dr. Franklin and Dr. Bowditch are the only citizens of the United States who have before received the distinction of membership of this ancient Society.

HIGH PRICE OF SHIPS.—The Saco Union records the following recent sales:

"We learn that Messrs. Bourne & Kingsbury, of Kennebunk, have sold their beautiful 'Northern Crown' for something above $82,000, which is $2200 more than their price two weeks since. The ship Charles Hamberston, mostly owned in Kennebunk, was sold last week in Boston, for $33,000; she is about 14 months old, has never been coppered, and after having made the owners two good voyages, has been sold for about $11,000 more than the original cost.

MURDER BY POISON.—The Cincinnati Gazette gives the particulars of the murder in that city of a blind beggar and wood-sawyer named Edward Breslin, by a bont hand, name unknown, by giving him laudanum mixed with whiskey. The beggar had $40 in gold on his person, and it was to obtain possession of this money that the deed was committed.

SAD ACCIDENT.—On Thursday, the 23d inst., as some workmen on the first section of the Great Falls & Conway Railroad, at Milton, were engaged in blasting on a ledge, the powder took fire from a spark produced by striking the tamping iron against the rock while "tamping down," severely injuring three of the workmen. One man had an eye blown out, and otherwise injured about the head, and the other two were severely burnt by the powder.—Gt. Falls Journal.

NEW NAMES FOR LOCOMOTIVES.—It is stated that a locomotive for the Rochester and Syracuse Railroad has been adorned with the title or inscription "I still live"—the last words of Daniel Webster. The New York and Erie Railroad Company have one bearing the last words of John Quincy Adams "This is the last of Earth." The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin wickedly comments on these names, by saying that dying speeches seem singularly appropriate on New York rail roads.

NEW WARDEN.—The Governor and Council have appointed Gideon Webster, Esq., of Kingston, Warden of the State Prison, in place of Col. Dow, resigned. This is believed to be a good appointment. Mr. Webster is a man of energy, intelligence and business habits, and will doubtless make an efficient officer.—Daily Patriot.

The Philadelphia Inquirer contains the following paragraph: "It is said that Simeon Draper, Esq., the well known auctioneer and banker, No. 46 Pine street, New York, has cleared the handsome profit of $250,000 the past year, by transactions in stocks and real estate."

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. R. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS
COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tin Kitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market. Persons who can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window-Shade, Table Oil cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

UNPUBLISHED LETTER FROM JOHN RANDOLPH, OF ROANOKE.

The Washington Union, of the 19th, has the following:

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., Dec. 14, 1852.

To the Editor of the Union:

DEAR SIR—Not satisfied to partake alone of the mingled emotions of pleasure and sadness which have been awakened in reading the following letter from the brilliant and eccentric orator of Roanoke, I send it to you for publication, that the readers of the Union and the public generally, may share in the sorrowful gratification which I have experienced in its perusal. It proves, beyond question, that while, from disease and other causes, Mr. Randolph exhibited on some occasions an irascible and peevish disposition, his heart was, nevertheless, the depository of some of the finest and noblest feelings of which our fallen nature is capable. I do not accord fully with all the sentiments he has here expressed, but in its general tenor and spirit the letter has my most hearty approbation. It is a beautiful specimen of fraternal sympathy and affection, expressed in terms of tenderness and propriety which I have never seen excelled. It was written to his half-brother, Hon. Henry St. George Tucker, on the occasion of the demise of his eldest son, a youth of singular promise, possessing largely the personal and intellectual attractions of his accomplished father. It is proper to remark that the letter was found among the private papers of the distinguished gentleman to whom it was addressed, by his son, John Randolph Tucker, of Virginia. Having been long associated with the family of Judge Tucker, in terms of intimate friendship, I have obtained permission from Mr. Beverly Tucker, of this city, to dispose of the communication as my judgment and sense of propriety might dictate. I therefore send it to you for publication, and bespeak for it especially the attention of those who, in the days of other years, were associated with its distinguished author in the relations of personal and political friendship. Very respectfully, your friend, and obedient servant,

SEPTIMUS TUSTIN.

THE LETTER.

May He who has the power, and always the will, when earnestly, humbly and devotedly entreated, support and comfort you, my brother. I shall not point to the treasures that remain to you in your surviving children, and their mother, dearer then all of these put together. No; I have felt too deeply how little power have words that play round the head to reach the heart, when it is sorely wounded.—The commonplaces of consolation are at the tongue's end of all the self-complacent and satisfied, from the pedant priest to the washerwoman. (They who don't feel can talk.) I abjure them all. The father of Lord Russell, when condoled with according to form, by the book, replied—"I would not give my dead son for any other man's living."

May this thought come home to your bosom too, but not on the same occasion. May the spirit of God—which is not the chimera of heated brains, nor a device of artful men to frighten and cajole the credulous, but is as much an existence that can be felt and understood as the whisperings of your own heart, or the love you bore to him you have lost—may that Spirit, which is the comforter, shed His influence upon your soul, and incline your heart and understanding to the only right way, which is that of life eternal! Did you ever read Bishop Butler's Analogy? If not, I will send it to you. Have you read THE BOOK? What I say upon this subject I not only believe, but I know to be true—that the Bible studied with an humble and contrite heart, never yet failed to do its work, even with those who, from idiosyncracy or disordered minds, have conceived that they were cut off from its promises of a life to come.

"Ask and ye shall receive; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you." This was my only support and stay during years of misery and darkness; and just as I had almost begun to despair, after more than ten years of penitence and prayer, it pleased God to enable me to see the truth, to which, until then, my eyes had been sealed. To this vouchsafement I have made the most ungrateful returns. But I would not give up my slender portion of the price paid for our redemption—yes, my brother, our redemption—the ransom of sinners—of all who do not hug their chains and refuse to come out from the house of bondage.—I say that I would not exchange my little portion in the Son of David for the power and glory of the Parthian or Roman Empires, as described by MILTON, in the temptation of our Lord and Savior—not for all with which the enemy tempted the Savior of man.

This is the secret of the change of my spirits, which all who know me must have observed within a few years past. After years spent in humble and contrite entreaty that the tremendous sacrifice on Mount Calvary might not have been made in vain for me—the chiefest of sinners—it pleased God to speak his peace into my heart—that of peace of God which passeth all understanding to them that know it not, and even to them that do.

And although I have now, as then, to reproach myself with time misspent and faculties misemployed; although my condition has, on more than one occasion, resembled that of him who, having one evil spirit cast out, was taken possession of by seven other spirits more wicked than the first, and the first also; yet I trust that they, too, by the power and mercy of God may be, if they are not vanquished.

But where am I running to? On this subject more hereafter. Meanwhile assure yourself of what is of small value compared with that of those who are a piece of yourself—of the unchanged regard and sympathy of your mother's son. Ah! my God! I remember to have seen her die, to have followed her to her grave, to have wondered that the sun continued to rise and set, and the order of Nature to go on. Ignorant of true religion, yet not an atheist, I remember with horror my impious expostulations with God upon this bereavement—"but not yet an atheist." The existence of atheism has been denied; but I was an honest one. HUME began and HOBBS finished me. I read SPINOZA and all the tribe. Surely I fell by no ignoble hand. And the very man (——) who gave me HUME'S "Essay upon Human Nature" to read, administered "BEATTIE upon Truth" as the antidote—Venice treacle against arsenic and the essential oil of bitter almonds—a bread and milk poultice for the bite of the cobra capello.

Had I remained a successful political leader I might never have been a christian. But it pleased God that my pride should be mortified; that by death and desertion I should lose my friends; that, except in the veins of a maniac, and he, too, possessed "of a child by a deaf and dumb spirit," there should not run one drop of my father's blood in any living creature besides myself. The death of TUDOR finished my humiliation. I had tried all things but the refuge to Christ, and to that, with parental stripes, was I driven. Often did I cry out with the father of that wretched boy, "Lord! I believe—help thou mine unbelief;" and the gracious mercy of our Lord to this wavering faith, staggering under the force of the hard heart of unbelief, I humbly hoped would, in his good time, be extended to me also.—St. Mark, vii., 17—29.

Throw Revelation aside and I can drive any man by irresistible induction, to atheism. John Marshall could not resist me. When I say any man, I mean a man capable of logical and consequential reasoning. Deism is the refuge of those that startle at atheism, and can't believe Revelation; and my ——, (may God have forgiven us both,) and myself used, with Diderot & Co., to laugh at the deistical bigots who must have milk, not being able to digest meat. All atheism is derived from Revelation—that of the laws confessedly.—Our own is from the same source—so is the false revelation of Mahomet; and I can't much blame the Turks for considering the Franks and Greeks to be idolaters. Every other idea of one God that floats in the world, is derived from the tradition of the sons of Noah, handed down to their posterity.

But enough—and more than enough—I can scarcely guide my pen. I will, however, add that no lukewarm seeker ever became a real Christian; "for from the days of John the Baptist until now, the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force;"—a text which I read five hundred times before I had the slightest conception of its true application.

Your brother, J. R., of Roanoke.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, JANUARY 10, 1853.

JOHN RANDOLPH'S LETTER.

The reader will find on the first page of this day's Chronicle, a characteristic letter of the late John Randolph, said to be previously unpublished.—We copy it at the request of a friend, who assured us, as he put it into our hands several days since, that the contents had greatly interested his own mind—on account probably of his having passed through mental exercises similar to those described in the letter.

John Randolph was a most eccentric Virginia gentleman, proud of his descent from Pocahontas the Indian princess, and proud also of his relation to the first families of the Old Dominion. The associate and friend of Virginia's great men at the time when French Jacobinism and French Infidelity were received with favor by many of them,—he drank in their spirit and embraced their opinions—but the loss of friends, the disappointment of political hopes, his own loneliness and his slender health, forced him into a train of thinking where Atheism could not satisfy his mind nor cheer his heart,—and here it was that the life-like pictures and spirit-stirring strains of the sacred writings commended themselves to his soul almost with the force of inspirations.

WOMAN IN A NEW SPHERE.—The New England Farmer states that the Trustees of Antioch College, soon to go into operation at Yellow Springs, Ohio, have conferred the appointment of Professor of Natural Sciences upon Miss Pennell, a niece of Hon. Horace Mann, who has been elected President of that institution. The lady thus elevated to a seat in a college faculty, has been, for the last seven years, at the head of the female department of the State Normal School, in West Newton, Mass., and is said to be one of the most accomplished instructresses in this country.

The Trustees of Central College, in New York State, design to have two of the professorships of that institution filled by women, if the right ones can be obtained. No difference is made in the compensation of instructors, in this college, on account of sex.

☞ In the Maine Legislature, the Senate "are in a fix," by reason of one Mr. Shepard Cany's strong desire to be president of that honorable body.—There are vacancies in the Senate, and twenty-two Senators only are returned. Lewis Cowan received 14 votes, as president, and took his seat,—but one of Mr. Cany's men objected, as only 15 votes were thrown, not a quorum. Mr. Cowan vacated the chair,—and at every subsequent voting the Cany men have abstained from voting, to keep the number too low for a valid election,—hoping the whigs will join them, and elect Cany.—The people are beginning to grumble at the delay and waste.

THE SAFE LINE.—A correspondent who is himself a safe rather than a "fast man," sends us the following thoughts on the comparative advantages of slow and fast travelling.

"What tedious business this is, riding in a slow (!) Railroad at only 20 miles per hour; the risk to life and limb is only very trifling. But how delightful to be wheeled on a rail at 30 or 40 miles per hour. There is something exhilirating in it; one thereby secures the chance of having his head broken without knowing who or what it was that did it; or of getting maimed and disabled without any fee in advance: perhaps he may have the privilege of being stewed or roasted a little, provided there was a fire in the premises; or, should the scene be laid near the bank of a river, perhaps there might be a chance of practising the art of swimming in search of a little "fresh air." At any rate, those who would argue for "moderation" in speed are old fashioned.

"RAILROAD."

Fools invest, wise men buy. The genius who taught people to print with steam power, died a pauper.—Exchange paper.

Did he? We don't believe a word of it. Mr. Waite, of Boston, a good old printer, invented the Horse Press; and he surely did not die a pauper. Treadwell bought Waite's press, improved it, and called it the Power Press. We never heard of his being a pauper. The application of steam to printing, after the power was made, was the work of no genius at all.

MUSICAL WORLD AND TIMES.—We have just received No. 2 for 1853. The publishers will please send us No. 1, and continue the exchange.

STOP MY PAPER!—The Vermont Patriot complains that it has lost two subscribers, because it does not sustain the liquor law of that state. The editor is not without company, and must learn to bear such rebuffs and reverses without grumbling. We learn from Jacob Faithful that "there is a good deal of human nature in man."—Boston Courier.

N. H. General Court—Nov. Session, 1852.

[Abridged from the Patriot.]

FRIDAY, Jan. 7.

HOUSE.—Union of Railroads.—The bill to unite the Concord & Claremont and the New Hampshire Central Railroads, was passed—146 to 113.

The Religious Test.—The religious test resolution was approved by the House, after being amended so as to leave out the expression that its having remained so long on the statute book was discreditable to the people and the State.

SENATE.—The Senate passed the Railroad Union Bill—7 to 5.

SATURDAY, Jan. 8.

State Reform School. — The State Reform School scheme was postponed to next session.

Senator Districts.—The bill to divide the State into districts for the election of State Senators, was passed—114 to 55.

Adjournment of General Court.—Both houses adjourned sine die on Saturday morning.

CHURCH MUSIC.

A "nervous man," and a regular attendant at one of the Boston churches, pictures forth a serious grievance, through the columns of a contemporary, as follows:

"We have a noble organ and one of the most accomplished organists in New England. I am passionately fond of music, and our choir sings with great taste and in exact time.—We pay more than one thousand dollars a year for music; so you may judge, that if we get our money's worth we must have good music. The tunes sung are many of them new; many of the old tunes used have a new arrangement. Many of our congregation persist in singing, whether they know the tunes or not—when they do not know them, they hum a sort of accompaniment, and get as near the tune and time as their ability will allow. One of the most earnest and dogmatical of this class, has a pew not far from my own. He sings everything that comes along, duets, solos, and all; and all in the same measure and strength of lungs. His voice is as melodious as a peacock's, and it seems to be a sort between a hard saw used upon a board full of hard splinters, and the tones emanating from a coarse comb; he keeps about two beats behind the time and endures unto the end.

We find in the New York Musical World and Times, a letter from Prof. Erickson to a friend in Norway, giving the impressions of an intelligent foreigner and musician, of our American church music. We quote some passages from this letter, which is full of intelligent critisism and useful suggestions.

Concerning the music of our public worship, I could say much; but, at present, can only give you a few particulars, by way of showing how greatly this Ars sacra is misunderstood in New York. Only think that the churches and congregations, instead of joining in the singing of the psalms and hymns, keep a choir, and sometimes only a quartet, who perform this important part of the worship alone! What are psalms and hymns, but prayers and praises? And what is the intention of their being sung in the house of God, other than the whole congregation should unite, as with one soul in the music, and, on the wings of melody, rise to the throne of the Most High?

* * * * *

When, on Sundays, I am playing the organ, I do not hear the sweet and hearty voices from the pews! The congregation do not join, as the pious worshippers in my native land did, in the singing of the psalms and hymns. I only hear the three or four voices in the choir; but this cannot inspire me to so high a devotional feeling, as when the voices from a whole worshipping congregation (properly guided and conducted) are in melodious and harmonious accords heard together in solemn hymns of praise and thanks, to the glorious and beneficent God. Here, a few amateur voices are heard, because they are hired to sing; whereas, in my native land, the members of the church and congregation sing; because they came to the house of God for the very purpose of worshipping, and to pay to him their thanks and praises.

In the different American collections of psalm and hymn tunes, I often meet with not only bad, and—for the purpose—very improper music, but also with great mistakes against the rules of harmony and thorough base. Yet there are also some few good collections; but they are little used, and the better they are, the less they are employed; which altogether shows the folly, not to say wickedness, of leaving the arrangements and performances of "sacred music" in the hands of ignorant and incompetent persons.

I am sure you will be surprised that Christian churches can be satisfied with this state of things; but I hope better views of this matter are beginning to prevail. The people here, generally, (I really believe,) think good congregational singing impossible. But how wrong this idea, it is unnecessary to tell you. You know, both how practicable and how delightful good congregational singing is.

ANNUAL HIRING OF SLAVES.—Alexandria, Va., Jan. 1—New Year's Day is always a period of intense interest here. It is the set time for the annual hiring of colored servants. The ceremony usually takes place at "Catt's Tavern," an ancient establishment at the eastern extremity of King street. Here are congregated, in a large number, the sable sons and daughters of toil, from childhood to years of full maturity. Assembled, also at this point are the owners, overseers and representatives of the estates to which these servants belong, and they are met by our citizens who wish to renew their present leases, change their domestics or employ additional "help." The obligation on the part of the employer is, in addition to the wages, that each person is to be fed, clothed, and have medical attendance when necessary. The year commences on the 2d of January, and closes with Christmas day. Such is the increased demand for labor here, that the terms to-day average about one hundred per cent. over those of last year. Men servants were hired from $80 to $110; women $20 to $65; girls and boys from $40 to $50.

LOCAL.

MUSICAL CRITICISM.

The Boston Journal criticises the musical critic in the Chronicle ("A Hearer,") who expressed the opinion a couple of week's since, in noticing the singing at the Ordination of Mr. Brown, that Church Music would sound better if performed by female voices only, without base—and asks him to tell how many parts in the score there are in the "music of the spheres." He, in his turn, promises to tell, when he learns more about music than he knows now. We commend him for his caution.

In the mean time, we copy some rare bits of mucical criticism from other quarters, which will be found in another column.

Another correspondent thinks "a hearer's" remaks unjust—and that the base on the occasion referred to was fine. So did we think it was good, and we stated at the time that we did not agree with our correspondent. On the contrary, the distinct enunciation of the words in chanting, which "a hearer" described as being "too much like loud talking,," we regard as adding decidedly to all musical performances. But tastes differ,—and we have no desire to force a standard.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—The Democratic delegates from the several towns in Senatorial District Number One, assembled on Saturday, January 8, at the Temple in this city. The Convention was organized by electing Richard Jenness, President, and Octavius Laighton, Secretary. The Convention then proceeded to ballot, and unanimously made choice of Mr. John M. Weare of Seabrook, as their candidate for Senator. There was, as we understand, a full attendance of delegates.

☞ The New Castle Brass Band met with good success at their Concert at New Castle on Friday evening last, and we are informed by those that heard them that their performance was of a superior order. Their next Concert will be given on Tuesday evening next at Kittery. We understand they are to give a Concert in this city sometime next week.

For the Morning Chronicle.

CORRECTION.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—That the public may not be misled, the undersigned would respectfully remark, touching the communication of Samuel Donnell, in your paper of the 5th inst., that the facts in the case are simply as follows, namely; It appears that Mr. D. purchased of a Pedlar, whom Mr. D. describes in said communication, a recipe for making Phosgene Gas—that said Pedlar, in order to secure sales of his recipe, represented that the proper fixtures for burning the Gas were kept for sale by D. T. Mills & Co. And Mr. Donnell finding the Gas of said recipe was not what he expected, has, in the article alluded to, implicated us as being concerned in the matter, between him and the Pedlar;—to which we reply, that Mr. D. on finding himself duped, must be cautious how he seeks revenge by insinuating that we were the means of his being taken in, lest he should expose his own weakness and sagacity. If he finds himself "sold," we should not be the sufferers. The Pedlar whom Mr. D. insinuates is our Agent, we desire to inform the public, is not our Agent, has no authority from us, and is in no way connected with us in business; neither do we sell the fixtures recommended by said Pedlar.

Persons wanting the true article and the right fixtures are referred to our Advertisement in this paper.

Very Respectfully Yours,
D. T. MILLS & Co.,
60 Court Street, Boston.

Jan. 8. 1853. $1.50

MR. THACKARY'S LECTURE.—Mr. Thackary delivered the last of his series of lectures, at the Melodeon, on Friday evening, to a very full company, who sat through the entertainment with exemplary martyrdom. If we should say that in our humble opinion the lecturer was a humbug,—a mere retailer of old anecdotes and fragments relating to the history of the life and times of the men upon whom he has advertised to speak,—without originality, and without any kind of sense of judgment or impartiality—we might provoke the anger of the admirers of Vanity Fair and Pendennis. Nevertheless it is so. People who have had the opportunity of hearing Hilliard, Giles and others like them,—ripe scholars, overflowing with pathos and passion,—when speaking of such subjects as have been presented by the English lecturer, could not help being astonished at the meagreness and poverty of language which he displayed, in comparison with their brilliant and striking illustrations. Anybody with a file of old newspapers or magazines at his hand, must be a poor speaker indeed, if he could not have enlightened his audience as fully and as profitably as Mr. Thackary delighted the audience which sat before him.—Boston Courier.

Per Contra.—The Boston Journal praises Mr. Thacakry's Lectures, and cuts up the Courier's criticism.

BEET ROOT SUGAR.—The production of beet root sugar is increasing in France. The factories at work on the 1st of December, in 1851, were 254, and on the 1st of December of this year, they numbered 325, an increase of 81. The quantity of sugar made last year was ten millions of pounds, while that of this year will not be far from thirty-seven millions of pounds. The best quality retails at sixteen cents a pound.

A man in Bristol was such an inveterate gambler, that he not only gambled away all he possessed one evening, but lost his way home!

PURCHASE OF DAPHNE.—The Boston Journal informs us that Messrs. Charles Lanman, George J. Abbott and Ben Perley Poore, have issued a circular dated Washington, to the friends of Mr. Webster asking their aid to purchase "Daphne," the wife of William, the faithful body servant of the great statesman, and now a slave in the District of Columbia. It was Mr. Webster's intention to have purchased her freedom, but it was postponed by the pressing cares of business, and finally arrested by the hand of death. Circumstances have rendered it necessary for "Daphne" to be sold, and unless her freedom is secured she may be sent South. Doubtles many of the admirers of Mr. Webster will be happy to aid in carrying out this work of his. Mr. James French is the agent for the movement in Boston, and will forward whatever may be contributed.

We hope soon to hear of Daphne's ransom and emancipation by Mr. Webster's admirers. The moral effect of the transaction will be admirable.

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

MELANCHOLY RESULT OF SPIRITUAL RAPPINGS.—New York, Jan. 8.—Yesterday afternoon, a man named Matthew Langdon, aged 40 years, a printer, committed suicide by cutting his throat. He was a believer in spiritual rappings, and for the last twelve months his mind has been almost wholly absorbed by spiritualism. The Coroner's jury returned the following verdict:—That Matthew Langdon came to his death by exhaustion consequent upon mental excitement, and from a wound inflicted by himself upon his throat.—We also find that this state of mind was superinduced by his connection with persons calling themselves spiritual media. We also recommend the Grand Jury to take measures for the suppression of circle meetings.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6.—From Mexico—Spread of the Revolution.—Tampico dates to the 25th ult. are received. The revolution was spreading with amazing rapidity over Tamaulipas, and all the adjoining states.—Most of the leading officers of the regular army had pronounced in favor of the revolution. There is every indication that Arista's government will soon be overthrown.

FROM PORTO CABELLO AND ST. JAGO, CUBA.—New York, Jan. 7.—A letter from Porto Cabello, dated Dec. 18, states that some cases of fever had occurred among the foreign crews in port, which had terminated fatally. Business was quite dull.

A letter from St. Jago de Cuba, Dec. 18, states that since the 18th of October last, that city had lost by cholera alone at the least one-tenth of its inhabitants. Business was dull; but little doing among the shipping, and the few cargoes recently arrived from the United States scarcely met with sale at any price.

A RUMOR RESPECTING THE SLAVE TRADE.—New York, Jan. 8.—The Herald learns from private letters from the Coast of Africa, that the British government are about to withdraw their naval forces from the Coast and abandon its efforts for the suppression of the slave trade.

[Some error about this matter, we think.]

SEARCH OF AN AMERICAN VESSEL.—New York, Jan. 7.—Capt. Steller, of the schooner Aid, which arrived at Charleston on Saturday from Cardenas, states that on her passage from Matanzas to Cardenas, the Aid was boarded by officers of a British sloop-of-war. The vessel was thoroughly searched, and her papers overhauled, &c.

The British mail steamer Petrel, for St. Thomas and Bermuda, sailed this morning. She takes out $10,047 in specie.

MEETING OF THE SONS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.—At the meeting of the sons of New Hampshire, held at the Revere House, Boston, on Thursday evening, a letter was received from the venerable Samuel Appleton, conveying a check for $500, to be devoted towards defraying the expenses of the Association incident to the Webster obsequies.

Louisville, Jan. 7.—The Steamer John Simmons left this afternoon for New Orleans.—When rounding out from Portland, three miles from this city, one of her flues collapsed and scalded 26 or 28 persons; 12 are already dead. Our report is as yet imperfect, but particulars will be sent soon.

THE WINTER AT SEA.—The New York Courier gives a list of the bad passages and disasters to steamers this winter, observing that "While the winter on shore has been one of the mildest ever known, at sea tremendous gales have swept the ocean, rendering the efforts of the most powerful steamships to make headway against them almost ineffectual. The steamer which left England during the month of December, suffered most severely.

The New York Evening Post, referring to the cause of the recent accident on the Boston & Maine Railroad, says:

"The morning had been exceedingly cold, and it is supposed that the fracture of the wheel was a consequence of frost in the iron. If so, and if cold weather can unfit this metal for use in rail wheels in wintry weather, it was time the fact was ascertained and some more suitable metal employed for such uses."

Accidents of a similar nature are not of unfrequent occurrence in cold weather, and are at all times liable to result seriously. It has been stated that a wheel has been invented which is not liable to break. If so, every railway company should adopt it at once.

SWINDLING OPERATIONS.—The Worcester papers contain accounts of two successful swindling operations in that city. The first is that of the individual who some years ago figured so extensively in this vicinity as Lieut. Hunter, of the navy, and at last was arrested in his swindling career and sent to the State Prison, from which he was discharged in September last. About a fortnight since, he introduced himself to the pistol manufactory of Messrs. Allen & Thurber, in Worcester, as a son of Hon. David Sears of this city, and an officer in the navy, authorised to contract for a quantity of pistols for that department. By plausible representations, he succeeded in obtaining a loan of $100 from Messrs. Allen & Thurber's clerk, since which he has not been seen.

In the other case a woman calling herself Hannah Priery is the operator. A Mr. Wm. Kronskop was returning to Massachusetts with his wife from Wisconsin, found her at a hotel in Chicago, Ill., where, she insinuated herself into their confidence, representing that her husband, who, she said, was a wealthy oil owner in Worcester, had gone on business to a distant part of the State, and the money he had left her was exhausted. Mr. Kronskop took her under his charge, paid her expenses, amounting to about $50, and when they got as far as Brookfield she suddenly disappeared from the cars. This was some days ago. On Wednesday she was arrested at Ware and taken to Worcester, but as her false representations were made in another state she could not be held to answer, and was suffered to go at large.

HOUSE AND LIFE PROTECTORS

PATENT METALLIC
LADDER AND CONDUCTOR.

THIS new and important invention is one that should receive the attention of every person who owns a building, or who is interested in that which presents a "permanent safeguard" against lightning, and at the same time a light, strong and ornamental Ladder, which will securely warrant the inmates of any house the ready means of escape in case of fire.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

☞ Price per foot, 20 cents; including Lightning Rods and Points of the most approved material.

Specimens of the article may be seen at the office of the subscriber.

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, is being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tin Kitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE, ——

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I do not say more.

Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

THE ART OF BEING BEAUTIFUL.

IT has long been a desideratum that some scientific man should apply himself to the study of the human scalp. Dr. JACOBY, the great Pathologist, from Berlin, has done this, and in this new field has attained the most brilliant results.—Satisfied by an analysis of the red colored alcohols and other washes, of their pernicious effects, he compounded his celebrated Berliner Haar Wasche, to the efficacy of which thousands of witnesses might be summoned, of the accompanying character:—

BOSTON, Jan 1, 1848.

This is to certify that I have had an article called the Berliner Haar Wasche applied during the past five or six weeks to my head, for the purpose of renewing and strengthening the hair. It has been most effectual in producing such a result; and I can cheerfully recommend the same to those as afflicted with baldness or diseases connected therewith. JONAS CHICKERING.

It frequently happens that ladies suffer from hair-dyes, and apply to Dr. Jacoby's Harmless one, prepared by apothecaries, who think, because they can make poor soda water, they can prepare good hair wash. The effect of these is often highly injurious. Ladies, use none of them,—consult Dr. Jacoby, who will eradicate the nuisance and guarantee a beatiful head of hair. His motto is, no cure, no pay.

To those at a distance, the Champoo Washer Nos. 1 and 2, and Haar Wasche, are recommended.—There is, however, no universal specific, and all persons troubled, should if possible see Dr. Jacoby.

In the course of his scientific research, Dr. Jacoby has discovered a Hair Dye that does not stain the skin, will give any shade of color, and will stand exposure in all weather. The accompanying certificate, from a highly scientific source, must satisfy the most incredulous.

BOSTON, Nov. 18, 1851.

I have seen Mr. Moses Jacoby's Hair Dye, used in coloring hair of a deep brownish black, of a beautiful natural color, and can certify that it is perfectly efficient and permanent.

CHARLES T. JACKSON, M D.,
Assayer State of Mass.

Dr. Jacoby's rooms are at No. 9 Franklin street, Boston, where he may be consulted at all hours.—There are always in attendance to both ladies' and gentlemen's rooms the most skilful hair dressers.

Numerous testimonials might be appended, but the proprietors rest upon its merits. Sold by the principal Grocers throughout the country. All orders promptly attended to.

THE IMPROVED
EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE, having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented at very expense, time of trouble having been bestowed to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best appanatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE, ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.: with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Reserve Air-Tight, Star, Severe Parlor, Cover Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also, an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window-Shade, Table Oil cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

RECOLLECTIONS.

A SCRAP FOR THE OLD YEAR!

BY CARL CAREY.

The fire blazed upon the hearth, and sent its ruddy glow into every nook and corner of the old farm kitchen. Its cheerful light fell upon the clock, illuming the countenance of old Father Time, who swung his scythe at every motion of the pendulum. It was an old clock. It had come across the great ocean. It had ticked for centuries. Many an old year out, and a new year in, had tolled from its chime. Its hands went round and round—now pointing to the earth, and now to heaven—never growing weary, never resting. It was a curious clock; an artist made it. It was musical, joyful, young heart music; and slow, melancholy strains came from its antiquated case. It had music for all seasons, and all hours of the day. It had strains of adoration in the morning, when the first rays of the sun streamed across the eastern hills and lighted up its face—and melodies, full of mournful prayers, chimed on the evening hour.

There were two strains, heard but once a year, "Time's Nativity," and "Death Song." The first was light, joyous and happy, as a child amid the flowers—the second sad, lonely and mournful as the wind upon the mountains. The one came with the first breath of the new year, the other died with the last of the old.

Ten o'clock came round. We sat by the mouldering fire, and talked of the "giant killers." The slipper had been hunted, and the blind man's buff was wearisome. Young hearts had floated on the buoyant hours. We had drunk of pleasure, and now the unsatisfied soul was longing for something undefined, but beyond the pastime of the moment. Its immortality was argued in the desire, and time was matched with eternity. Grandfather came to join our circle. He would be a child again, he said; and then he went back to his youth, and travelled the path once more. He told of his school-boy days,—his frolics with the master.

"Tell us the frolics," said we, in chorus.

"Come then, Nelly, and sit upon my knee," said grandfather. He loved Nelly. It was the name he had spoken through life, and if was on grandmother's headstone, in the church yard. I loved her too—because grandfather loved her, and because she had such a pretty name, and was so pretty herself,—and because she was a distant relation!

"I was a child, and times were different," said grandfather, as he placed my darling upon his knee; "everything is changed, except the old clock; that ticks just as it did on old year's night, sixty years ago. Old Time swings his scythe now as he did then. He will reach me soon; but no matter—'the reaper should cut the grain when it is ripe;'" and grandfather smoothed the locks that hung round his forehead.

"We had rare times then—happy as larks. We watched the old year out and the new one in, and listened to the death song and the nativity, just as you are doing to-night."

"But the frolics, grandfather."

"Ah, yes, the frolics. We always had them new year's morning with the master, and with each other. It was too bad, as I think of it now; but it was rare sport then.

"It was one new year's morning, I recollect; I had listened to the old clock. The stars were shining bright and beautiful, and the day-break had just begun, when I arrived at the old school house. It stood down by the brook, and the willows that stand there now were no bigger than my arm. I thought I would be early, before all the rest, and wish them happy new year. I walked into the house, and the shout that greeted me told that I was too late. The whole school was there before me.

The master came early that morning. Perhaps he thought to catch us; but we caught him. He didn't know much, and in sport we took him up gently, carried him out, dug a hole in the snow-drift, put his head into it, and then laughed to see him kick in his struggles to get out! But it wasn't right, and it troubles me now, as I think of it.

We had another master. We thought we would smoke him out. One of us climbed upon the roof and covered the chimney. He was a keen-eyed master. He looked out of the window and saw the shadow of the school house and a boy upon its roof. The smoke came down the chimney. He knew the reason. We came in from our play, and wondered at the smoke.

He remarked that his eyes were sore; he hoped the school would excuse him. He put on his goggles and placed himself before the door to prevent a retreat, telling us not to mind the smoke, but keep on with our studies. The blinding smoke came down. It filled the room. We coughed, and the tears ran down our cheeks, and when at last, he opened the door and told us to go out, we were almost turned to bacon. We had no more fun with him.

Then there was a dear kind lady who taught us in the summer. Somehow we never had a heart to trouble her. She went away over the water, and talked to little children about Heaven. She has gone up there now. And there was Rattlebones; we never had fun with him. We called him Old Buzzard. New Year's morning saw us in a long line, receiving the salutation—a blow upon each hand.—If we winced, the dose was doubled. We could make no wind-mills. He saw all our playthings, and they kindled the fire in the morning. There was a sharp stone in the corner; we sometimes sat upon it. We were dunces and wore the hateful cap. Our hearts grew sour, and we hated the Buzzard.

There was a little Nelly then, just such as you, my darling; and grandfather kissed the soft cheek that was pressed to his. The Buzzard struck Nelly. My blood was up. My inkstand struck his face, and his two squirrel teeth, that always seemed to snap at us, went down his throat. I was black and blue that night; but the boys called me 'heartie.' He couldn't talk next day; and we laughed as we looked at the dark toothless cavern that glowed upon us. I longed to send a second messenger down the grotto. Little Nelly cried when she saw the blisters—that healed them.

He didn't stay there long. We didn't cry when he got into the stage coach. He had a dry, dusty heart. No one loved him. He thought of matrimony. Miss Mehitable lived beyong the bridge. He called there. Her heart was dusty, too. Forty years had passed over her head, though she said 'twas but thirty-five. People said the hair upon her forehead was not her own. She said 'twas false.

Rattlebones whispered words of withered love—that he was wasting away for her. She sighed, and said it was a beautiful decay.—Cupid heard them, and thrust an arrow through the withered parchments.

"Who is Cupid?" said Nelly.

"Ah! you will know bye-and-bye, darling."

And he smoothed the glossy hair, looked at the old clock, and went on talking about the old meeting house—the good pious parson—the elders with their snowy wigs, and the man that sung through his nose.

"Just as I do now," said grandfather; and we laughed, to hear grandfather.

Then he talked of the battles. How he marched night and day, over hills, and through forests. And then on a calm still morning, when the sun shone upon the dew drops and the fog rolled from the valleys, how he saw before him long lines of soldiers. How his comrade fell by his side, with the red blood flowing. How he stooped down and gazed into the closing eyes, heard the last prayer, and received the last command to carry a lock of hair to his comrade's sister,—Nelly. How he carried it, and that Nelly was our grandmother,—the same Nelly that is asleep by the little church. And here my grandfather kissed the Nelly that sat upon his knee, again; I did the same, and thought how nice it would be, if my Nelly only had a brother, and he and I should go to battle, and he fall by my side,—how nice to carry to her a lock of his hair.

The hours passed on. The fire grew low upon the hearth. The old clock raised its never weary hands, and pointed towards heaven. We gathered round it. We all joined hands; grandfather and I held Nelly's. We heard the melancholy Death Song. It changed to the Nativity. We wished a happy new year; grandfather blessed us, and then our eyelids closed upon the world, and we dreamed upon our pillows.

Morning dawned. The beams again streamed over the eastern hills, and fell upon the old clock. Father Time seemed to smile as he swung his scythe. We gathered round the table and waited for grandfather. He did not come,—he was asleep. We went to wake him, but he did not wake. The scythe had touched him, and he slept on forever. It was a happy new year to him.

The Nelly that sat upon his knee is now sitting by my side, and another little Nelly sits upon my knee. The old clock ticks in the corner; its hands point to heaven. I hear the Death Song—and now the Nativity. 'Tis done. It is the "Happy New Year."

PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1853.

GENERAL COURT'S DOINGS.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LAWS.—Among the doings of our General Court, at their late session, was the passage of an act in amendment of the act passed July 13, 1850, relating to rates of toll, free passes, &c., of railroad companies; also authorizing conductors to remove passengers refusing to pay their fares.

After their own acts had so dreadfully broken this law, our legislators felt bound, we suppose, to amend it, as well as they could.

They passed Resolutions, authorizing the Governor to draw $1000 for the erection of a monument to Hon. Meshech Weare in Hampton Falls; appropriating $200 for the purpose of providing the indexing and arrangement of revolutionary papers; appropriating $300 for the State's Prison; and appropriating $300 to repair the "Franconia Notch Road" in the town of Lincoln.

Among the Private Bills, were Acts to establish a corporation by the name of the "Trustees of the New Hampshire Conference Seminary and the New Hampshire Female College:" to incorporate the New Hampton Literary and Biblical Institution at New Hampton, N. H.; to incorporate the Sugar River Bank at Newport—capital $50,000; to increase the capital of the Manchester and Lawrence Railroad Co. $100,000, by creating 1000 new shares at $100 each; to incorporate the State Capital Bank at Concord—capital $100,000; authorizing the Portsmouth and Concord Railroad Co. to issue 4000 shares of preferred stock, at $100 per share, and an additional amount of preferred stock to redeem its present mortgage bonds with: authorizing the Peterborough and Shirley Railroad Co. to issue 2000 shares of same at $100 each, and additional preferred stock as above; authorizing the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad to extend their road to Great Falls, through Dover, extending time for completing same two years in addition to time now authorized, and adding $100,000 to the present capital stock.

COMMODORE MORGAN.

The Portland Advertiser of Monday, contains a notice of Commodore Morgan, late commander of the Navy Yard at Washington, who died a few days since. Com. Charles W. Morgan was a native of Virginia, and had been forty-five years in service—having entered the naval service of the United States, as a Midshipman, Jan. 1, 1808. He was promoted to a Lieutenancy, March 3d, 1813, received his commission as a Master Commandant, April 15th, 1820; and was commissioned a Captain, Feb. 21, 1831.

He was the sixth Lieutenant of the "Constitution," in the action with the "Guerriere," August 19, 1812, and was also her fourth Lieutenant in the action with the "Java," Dec. 29, 1812. The following act of heroic daring is related of him. Soon after the commencement of the battle with the Guerriere, both vessels became enveloped in a heavy cloud of smoke, from the incessant cannonade, so that it was impossible to distinguish either from the deck of the other. At this period, young Morgan respectfully suggested to Com. Hull, that a man should be sent aloft, where the smoke was not so densely packed, in order to ascertain the position of the Guerriere, and direct the men how to point the guns. The Commodore declined to send any man on a service so desperate.—Young Morgan immediately volunteered, ran up the shrouds, and in a few moments was directing the men at the guns, from amidst a shower of balls. His clothes were cut in half a dozen places, and he received one or two slight wounds while in this perilous position. When the British frigate surrendered, her commander inquired of Commodore Hull whether it was a real man who had been stationed in the shrouds of the Constitution.—"Yes," was the reply, "why do you ask?" "Because," said Dacres, "we have been firing at him this half hour; he must have a charmed life."

There are now living and in the service, only three officers, who were officers of the Constitution in the capture of the Guerriere, viz. Capts. Morris, Reed and Salter.

Of the officers on board the Constitution in her action with the Java, Midshipman John C. Long, (a native of Portsmouth) now a Captain, and in command of the United States steamer Saranac, is the last remaining in service. He will be recollected as the Commander of the steam frigate Mississippi, when Kossuth was on board.

IN THE STONE JUG, AT LAST.—Wilson, the Boston engraver of counterfeit bank notes, has has been out on bail since his arrest. But the Boston Courier informs us that one of Mr. Wilson's bondsmen came into the Police Court on Saturday, and after stating that he did not desire longer to be responsible for his appearance at the upper Court, surrendered him. Wilson is now in jail.

SEVEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE AMERICA.

By the America we have accounts of the London and Liverpool Markets to Dec. 14th. Cotton was steady, with a partial advance of 3 8d. in the middling qualities. There was an advance of 6d. per cwt. on Sugar—Breadstuffs and Provisions generally, unchanged from last week. Pork is again dearer with an upward tendency; 1000 bbls French (!) have been taken at 80s. Nearly all the late import of Apples have been taken by dealers, but without any improvement; Baldwins rather better, say 23s a 24s 9d per bbl.

Respecting the new English Ministry, all that is known at present, is, that Lord Aberdeen is now the head of the Government, with the entire concurrence of Lord Landsowne, and of Lord John Russell, the latter of whom, it is said, prefers to hold a seat in the Cabinet, without the emoluments and labors of a department. Some accounts state that it is expected that Lord John Russell will consent to take charge of the foreign affairs, and Lord Palmerston that of the home department.—This, however, seems impossible.

A meeting of gentlemen was held at Manchester, during the past week, to invite Mr. Ingersoll, the American Minister, to a banquet in that city. Mr. Ingersoll accepted the invitation for January 7th. On the 4th, he will dine with the American Chamber of Commerce at Liverpool.

A peace conference is to be held at Manchester on the 27th and 28th of January.

The proceedings in Parliament have reference solely to a change of Ministry. Both houses of Parliament met on the 20th, when the Earl of Derby officially announced in the House of Lords the resignation of the Ministry, and entered into a lengthy statement of the causes that had led to that result.

Mr. D'Israeli, in the House of Commons, made a similar announcement, and both Houses then adjourned until Thursday, the 23d.

On re-assembling on that day, a further adjournment was made until Friday, and subsequently till Monday, the 27th, until which time nothing definite can be known by the public.

IRELAND.—The Limerick Chronicle understands that Mr. Russell, M. P. for that city, is forming a company, with a prospect of success, for a line of steamers between Limerick and America.

FRANCE.—Parisian news relates wholly to the imperial movements. It is duly chronicled that His Majesty reviewed the troops, and attended divine service, and took exercise in the forest of Compeigne, with a numerous retinue. On his return to Paris, on the 24th, a series of balls and soirees would commence at the Tuilleries, something of this kind being much needed, Paris being extremely dull at the present.

It is believed to be true that overtures of conciliation had been made by the chiefs of the moderate republican or Cavaignac party, but they were firmly declined.

Napoleon does not disguise his want of able men, or the hostility to his government of all the statesmen of eminence, also, who were in office under previous monarchies.

The marriage of the Princess Vasa with the Prince of Saxony is officially announced, leaving the Emperor a not very disconsolate wooer.

ITALY.—A movement is on foot to continue Prince Tocolonies' monopoly of salt and tobacco for nine years more, on condition that he pays up part of the paper money; all gold, silver and copper coin struck at Milan by the Provisional Government is ordered to be cancelled.

PRUSSIA.—The Emperor of Austria is visiting the King of Prussia at Berlin. The King of Hanover and some smaller potentates are also there, and great festivities are going on.

TURKEY.—Accounts from Constantinople say that the question of the holy places had been settled, by the Turkish government conceding to all the demands made by the French Ambassador.

The whole of the Sclavishan races of Turkey in Europe appear to be in a state of insurrection. A remarkable rising in Albania is reported.

A new Ministry has come into power in Spain, under the presidency of General Roncali.

THE LEMMON CASE AND ITS RESULTS.—Under this head the Boston Courier states, that the Legislature of Virginia have instructed the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom the matter was referred, to report in favor of prosecuting the Lemmon case before the Supreme Court of the United States.

"In the New York House of Assembly, Mr. D. B. Taylor of New York city has given notice of the introduction of a bill repealing the law that denies the transit of slaves through New York territory; the ostensible design being to meet such exigencies as may grow out of future Lemmon cases. The case will produce much bad feeling between the two branches of the New York Democracy when it comes up for consideration."

At the first view we should pronounce it quite unlikely that such a bill should pass the legislatere of New York—but then we remember that New Hampshire has repealed her "personal safety law,"—and we begin to consider it possible that New York may be no more consistent or firm than her smaller sister.

We do not believe the repeal of that law would make it safe to carry slaves through a free state—for we suppose the common law would pronounce them free—but if it would create a carrying trade in slaves, then the serious question would arise, whether it was, on the whole, best to make New York city such a slave mart as Washington used to be. The subject will doubtless cause an interesting discussion in the New York Legislature, when it comes up for action.

LOCAL.

NEAL DOW'S LECTURE.

Neal Dow, Esq., the author of the Maine Liquor Law, lectured in this city, on Monday evening, to a crowded audience in the Temple. He is an easy, fluent speaker, who tells a story in a taking way, and with a strong effect on his audience. His lecture last evening was designed, of course, to promote the cause of temperance in his favorite way. One of his stories will bear repeating.

Mr. Dow thought the lash of punishment very often fell on the wrong shoulders.—To illustrate this idea, he cited the case of a public ship with the gallant crew on a cruise.—Several times a portion of the crew suffered flogging for the crime of drunkenness. On one of these occasions, when poor Jack was stripped for the lash, the captain was horror struck to see his back already seamed and enflamed by recent stripes, and asked him what his crime was. Drunkenness, said he. How could you get drunk on one allowance? I didn't, sir; Tom gave me his in exchange for something I didn't want. Cast this man lose, and bring up Tom. It was done; and Tom's back, smooth and fair, received the lashes for [innocently] tempting Jack to get drunk.

Mr. Dow's story, if applied to Congress, would lash the backs of some honorable men who tempt poor Jack—and if applied to the community at large and to ourselves, might leave us more guilty than some whom we condemn.

Mr. Dow was frequently applauded—but the noisy plaudits of boot heels clattered down by great boys who cared nothing for the subject matter, are as distasteful to us in a temperance lecture as they are in a concert.—They are a nuisance, and belong to the department of rowdyism and vulgarity.

POST OFFICE LITERATURE.

The following superscription is copied from the envelope of a newspaper received in this city, recently, and was one of the playful scraps which were quite common to the pen of the late B. F. McIntire.

Ye faithful clerks, oh do not rail
Because I send this sheet by mail;
'Tis true, your time it will delay,
But don't find fault, dear sir, I pray!
"Where shall it go?" You know my will!
Then let it pass to JOHN R HILL.
"Well, where is he?" you madly cry.
He's in a place adjoining Rye.
"Well, where is that?" again you ask:
(I cannot bunger patience task;)
It is a town much famed for sand,
Where lives in ease, old "pater ——,"
He keeps the town's divining rod,
And makes sad havoc with the sod,
He digs for gold,—but let this pass—
He's not the only two legged ——!
"Come," cries the clerk—"where shall it go?"
Be patient, sir, I'll let you know:
Here I stop, and close the ditty;—
Let it loan to PORTSMOUTH CITY, N. H.

THE ERICSSON.—We can find no account in the New York papers of the return trip of the Ericsson. The engineer's statement simply says that she got underweigh and returned to the city. It is stated, however, that the inventor is very much pleased with the performance. The consumption of coal, it has been ascertained, will not exceed six tons per twenty-four hours, while a Collins steamer consumes from 60 to 75 tons in the same time.—What is the real saving of coal will of course depend on the relative speed of the two vessels. The Ericsson will make another trial trip next week.

George St. P. Brewer, an artist, died at St. Louis on the 26th ult. Mr. Brewer was the painter of a panoramic view of the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, and also of a "Glance at the World."

CAUTION.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish through your paper, and any others that may think the notice worth extending, to caution the public against purchasing of a travelling agent lately in Portsmouth, Recipes for making Phosgene Gas. The agent was a man of middling height, light complexion, sandy hair, a smooth fast talker—and this is to inform persons interested that the Cards he gives with the Recipes are genuine cards of D. T. Mills & Co., 60 Court street, Boston, where the fixtures for burning the Phosgene Gas may be obtained. And having proved the whole affair an imposition, and finding that D. T. Mills & Co. acknowledge they know the tubes to be worthless, but refuse to refund the money—which I do not regret, (their share of the shave amounting to but three dollars) as it gives me the opportunity to bring the whole affair before the public—and as the agent is no doubt still at the same business, and has pretty extensive designs in other places—judging by his activity and success here—I take it to be my duty and pleasure to pay you for inserting this through the next week's Daily and Weekly Chronicle. SAMUEL DONNELL.

Portsmouth, Jan. 1, 1853.

CAUTION, &c.

Messrs. Editors:—The correction of the foregoing as appears in your paper yesterday morning, is not in my opinion, sufficiently luminous, and is more likely to mislead than the real article. I wish you to keep that in your paper for the present, until I order otherwise, and in addition thereto, I will say that I wish to attach no more blame to the travelling agent than belongs to him. I received of him the receipe and Card of D. T. Mills & Co.—The three dollars was sent by one of our expressmen to D. T. Mills & Co. 60 Court st. Boston, and therefor I received 1½ doz. tubes. I am fully of opinion that D. T. Mills & Co. are not (now) agents for the same article that I bought of them the 13th of last month.—Probably they never advertised it through the public papers. If my statements are anyway incorrect, I hope they will take the proper course to make me prove them. SAMUEL DONNELL.

Portsmouth, Jan. 11, 1853.

MAINE.—The Senate of Maine have got out of their "fix," by choosing a President. Their organization had been delayed for a week. But on Saturday morning, that portion of the democrats who had refused to vote, and thus prevented a choice, finding their opponents stood firm, (as we learn from the Portland Advertiser) joined the whigs in balloting for a President. There were nineteen votes thrown, of which Samuel Butman, the whig candidate, had thirteen. A quorum of the Senate having voted, Mr. Butman was declared elected, and took the chair.

New York, Jan. 10.—An inquest was held on Saturday evening at the Belvidere Hospital, upon the body of a man named Cornelius Crimmings, who died from the effects of injuries produced by means of a piece of rock being driven, by the discharge of a blast, through the roof of a house in which he was eating his dinner. The verdict is against the Farmers' Trust and Loan Company, to whom the property belonged upon which the men were quarrying.

ARRIVAL OF THE NORTHERN LIGHT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.

The steamship Northern Light, with 250 passengers, arrived at 9 o'clock this morning, and reports that the steamer Pacific arrived at San Juan del Sud, from California, on the 27th ult., with 300 passengers, and dates from San Francisco to the 15th December.

The steamer Isthmus sailed from San Francisco on the 14th for Panama.

The steamer Tennessee, with the mails and treasure, was to leave the 16th. Amount not stated. [One account says $2,000,000.]

Great complaints were uttered against certain parties in San Francisco, who had monopolized important articles of consumption, and demand for them exorbitant prices. Indignation meetings had been held in several of the mining towns, and threats were made.

The emigration to California and Oregon the past year amounts to 108,000, of which 65,000 went overland. The amount of live stock driven over the plains was 200,000.—Vast herds were luxuriating in the rich valleys of the interior.

The fire at Shasta was not in the business part of the city, consequently the amount of goods destroyed was small.

There was a terrible gale and flood at Sonora, on the 30th November, causing a great destruction of property. The Eagle and City Hotels, and Masonic Hall, were nearly destroyed, besides many other buildings.

The murderers of Gen. Bean had been taken, and were to suffer lynch law at the hands of the Vigilance Committee, at Los Angelos.

A later account states that one of the murderers of Gen. Bean, named Rupez Feluz, was hung by the people, on the 29th of November. He confessed his guilt.

The United States ship Portsmouth was at San Diego November 28th.

Disastrous floods were occurring throughout the country, and the plains and valleys were fast filling with water. Marysville and Yuba City were inundated and suffered much damage.

The mining news is generally very favorable.

Immense preparations were made for putting down the price of wheat, corn, rye, &c., the coming season.

DIED IN CALIFORNIA.—Hezekiah Niles, Boston; Capt. Freeman, John E. Arnold, Maine; Major Albert S. Miller, U. S. Infantry; E. F. Chadbourne, Peter McDermick, Geo. McNeil, Maine; George Whiddon, Halifax, N. S.; C. H. Day, H. E. Smith, Willis Rice, Massachusetts; Johnson Dunn, Saco.

PATENT METALLIC
LADDER AND CONDUCTOR.

THIS new and important invention is one that should receive the attention of every person who owns a building, or who is interested in that which presents a "permanent safeguard" against lightning, and at the same time a light, strong and ornamental Ladder, which will securely warrant the inmates of any house the ready means of escape in case of fire.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

☞ Price per foot, 20 cents; including Lightning Rods and Points of the most approved material.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 50 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired THRIFT. The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding Drawer is as improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscribers are assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.
This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.
We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Ansgo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.
Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Lead, Iron and Chain Pumps; Window-Shads, Table Oil-cloths, &c.
All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

A YANKEE BUGLE PLAYER IN LONDON.—Some ten or twelve years since, an American bugle player concluded to make a trip to England, to learn by personal observation the state of instrumental music in that country.—A day or two after his arrival in London, (in which place he was almost a total stranger,) he saw an advertisement in the Times for a bugle player in one of the regiments of the Guards. Our American presented himself, the next morning, to the band-master of the regiment, and introduced himself, by saying that he had seen an advertisement for a bugle player, and he had come to offer himself as a candidate for that situation.

The band master, not thinking the stranger presented a very promising appearance, treated him rather cavalierly, but finally told him that there would be a rehearsal the next morning, and he might come and show what he could do, intimating at the same time that his qualifications must be very high to obtain the place. Nothing daunted, our American made his appearance, with his E flat bugle in his hand, and took his place in the band.

The rehearsal commenced with a new piece, containing a solo for the clarionet, which the performer upon that instrument found great difficulty in executing.

After several failures, the Yankee bugle-player requested permission of the band master to play the solo upon the bugle.

The band master laughed at him, and ridiculed the idea of his being able to perform it upon that instrument. However, the American being very sanguine, consent to the trial was finally obtained, and the band having performed the prelude, the solo was commenced, but scarcely had our hero sounded half a dozen notes when the whole band were electrified, and listened with wonder and admiration at the magic notes!

The solo was concluded, having been executed to perfection. An universal storm of applause shook the building.

The band master, rushing up to the performer and grasping his hand, exclaimed, "Who are you?" "My name is Kendall," replied the Yankee.

"What? Edward Kendall of Boston?—You are not only the great bugle player of America, but also of the world," said the band master.

The rehearsal was over for the day, and Ned Kendall was the guest of the band during his stay in London.—Peabody's American Chronicle.

"NO PAUPERS HERE, EITHER."—In the town of Plymouth, this State, there is a hotel which has long been kept without any "medicine." During the up-going travel to the White Mountains, last summer, a Southron stopped at this hotel, one who was not going up altogether for a look at Nature's grandest scenes, or a draught of cold water from the mighty alembics of Argenocook. He sent from his room for a bottle of Bardolph's "best wine," to which summons the landlord replied that he kept no wine. The answer brought the southern gentleman himself down.

"Landlord, havn't you got any kind of liquor?"

"I don't keep liquors at all," replied the landlord.

"Don't keep liquors! How in the name of common sense do you accommodate travellers without it? I want some, and I had a right to expect that you kept it. I shall tell all my friends to stop somewhere else where there is better accommodation."

"Tell 'em what you please," replied the independent landlord, "but don't forget to add that there isn't a pauper here, either!"—Northern Indicator.

A leading medical practitioner at Brighton, England, has lately given a list of sixteen cases of paralysis, produced by smoking, which came under his own knowledge, within the last six months.

"What did you give for that horse?" "My note." "Well, that was cheap, I must say."

QUAKER WIT.—A letter from a Baltimore correspondent of the Republic, has the following, which is both new and good:

Quite a funny story is told of one of the elder members of this brotherhood. On Monday, while one of the omnibuses was going down town, the driver was stopped by a plain looking old gentleman in drab, who took a seat inside, with the intention of going to Fell's Point. The vehicle had not gone far when it turned up North Gay street—quite a different direction. The friend inside, observing that he was being carried towards the north, when he had bargained for the east, told the driver that he was carrying him out of the regular route, and entered complaints.

"No matter," said the man with the reins, we'll come out right at last.

"But I'll get out," said the Quaker.

"Not until you have forked over a fip," was the driver's reply, pulling the strap that held fast the door.

Putting his hand into his pocket, the old man in drab said, "Friend, we will not quarrel, thy strap will cut," and applying his jack knife, severed it, and walked out. "Thee cannot swerve me from my course, but thou mayst go thine." The driver looked rather nonplussed for a while, and after studying for a moment, said—

"Well, you are some pumpkins—I guess you can pass." The Quaker took the next omnibus and went on his way rejoicing, while the outwitted driver pulled ahead, minus his fip.

"I have a great ear, a wonderful ear," said a conceited musician in the course of conversation. "So has a jackass!" replied a bystander.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE, having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best appanatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

RAILROAD TO DOVER.

A meeting of the Portsmouth and Dover Rail Road will be held at Dover on Monday next to accept the act extending their charter to Great Falls. It seems that a union of interest is bringing about a union of feeling between Great Falls, Dover and this City, and there is a fair prospect of its resulting in giving us the long desired Rail Road both to Dover and Great Falls, and furnishing a new outlet to the Cochecho, Great Falls and Conway, and York and Cumberland Rail Roads, as well as giving great facilities for freight between this City and the manufacturing establishments of the county of Strafford.

Efforts were begun many years ago, and continued for several years, to gather the requisite funds and cut a canal from Dover to Winnipiscogee Lake, thereby extending a water communication between all the Lake country and Portsmouth. One of the most active movers in these efforts was Hon. Ichabod Bartlett, of this place, who was sanguine in the hope of great benefits to flow from the canal to every place thus connected, and especially to Dover and Portsmouth.—Our capitalists, however, were not generally disposed to aid the scheme, and it failed.

The introduction of railroads has made it wholly inexpedient to dig that proposed Canal—but it has by no means diminished the importance of connecting the Lake country with Portsmouth Harbor. Other circumstances have tended to increase the desirableness of such a communication. The population and wealth of this city have increased—and so also have those of the whole country, through which those railroads pass, with which the Portsmouth & Dover Road is designed to be connected.

In order to bring ourselves in close connexion with a very large territory and with 100 miles of railroad and steamboat communication, we have to build only ten miles of Railroad, including one bridge from Newington to Dover Point.

This improvement seems to be quite within our means, and to afford a fair scope for a little enterprise, as well as a chance greatly to increase and improve the business of the city, as well as that of Dover and Great Falls.

AN INDIAN WAR IN PROSPECT.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Herald reports the following intelligence from Billy Bowlegs and the Seminole Indians:

Private letters have been received here from Florida, stating that Billy Bowlegs and the rest of the Seminole chiefs had refused to ratify the treaty made with Gen. Blake, and that Billy and his followers, after gathering all the arms they could, had fled. Gen. Blake had proceeded to the Florida Legislature and asked for the immediate raising of a large number of volunteers to quell the war.

It appears that when Billy got back, and informed his people that he had signed a treaty agreeing to leave Florida, they at once refused to ratify it; and, as a means of reducing Billy to obedience, took his wives away from him, and threatened to place another man at the head of their affairs. Billy stood to his word for about four weeks, when he gave in, and, telling General Blake that he could not help it, fled.

The War Department has not yet received official notice of the matter, but will, as soon as it is received, order all the available troops to the scene of difficulty.

This looks as if there was a "right smart chance" of another Florida War about a handful of Indians. Florida was first invaded by us, and then bought from Spain, because it was a place of refuge for runaway negroes from Georgia and Alabama, who mingled with the Indians; and our wars with the Florida Indians have been a great bill of cost to the nation, amounting, years ago, it was said, to forty millions of dollars. It seems now, "there are a few more [Indians] left, of the same sort," as those we killed before. We are now in a fair way to tax ourselves a few millions more, for an object which does not commend itself very heartily to our favor. But our general government has pledged itself to remove these Indians, and it will be done, at whatever cost.

PANTS vs PANTALOONS.

Great rogues sometimes creep out at a small hole, and for a time go unwhipt of justice.—But small rogues rarely get off so nicely, as did an Irishman who was tried at Cambridge, Mass., on Monday, on a charge of stealing a pair of "pants." The fact was proved beyond question by the concurrent testimony of nine witnesses. No witnesses were produced by the defendant; but his counsel took occasion to ask the Court what were "pants." He had looked in the dictionary, and found that they were a sort of breathing operation. He moved that the complaint be dismissed on the ground that it did not specify the article alleged to have been stolen. The motion was entertained, and before a new complaint could be made out, Paddy was out of sight.

A NEW VIEW OF CUBA.

The New York Tribune in answer to the popular manifest destiny talk about the annexation of Cuba, boldly says:

We believe that the finger of destiny points to an issue entirely different from that so confidently anticipated by our universal annexationists. We think that there is less likelihood of Cuba's coming to the United States, than there is of a portion of the United States going to Cuba. In other words, we think that in the lapse of time, a considerable portion of the southern country will be abandoned to the black race. Already the race has obtained a large predominance in all the West India Islands. What has thus begun will go on. So far as human vision can discern, that race will gradually gain upon the whites until it shall obtain entire and exclusive possession of all the islands of the Carribbean Sea. Our southern country is more likely, we apprehend, to slough off upon those islands, at some distant day, a portion of their superabundant black population, or to join hands with them in forming a league of black States, than that we are hereafter to take that chain of islands, or any one of them, to our bosom."

We give the above, as a fair exposition of a view of Cuba, and its prospects, taken by an editor whose opinion is entitled to respect, though we dissent from it entirely. We think Cuba will be revolutionized and freed from the Spanish yoke at a day not very distant, and enjoy an independence something like that of Texas, only shorter—and that we shall then buy out the Spanish claim to it at a round price, and annex the island to our own republic. We know there are difficulties and objections in the way—but avarice, ambition and enterprise may overcome them all.

At the same time, we neither desire nor hope for the event we expect, in regard to Cuba. We think our domain large enough, and thought so years ago, when we had less land than now. But the adventurers and aspirants, who make or control public opinion in our nation, thought differently. By all sorts of means, they added much territory, and made many fortunes. And now their cry is, give! give!—We deem our federal union capable of an indefinite expansion—and can't see why it may not harmonize the negroes and creoles of Cuba, as sweetly as it now does the Chinese idolaters in California, and the Mormons of Salt Lake City. And then on the other hand, we are not sure that Cuba could be worse governed than it is now, even if it became a black republic or empire.—We suppose that life and property are as safe now at Cape Haytien, as they are at Havana. We do not, however, seriously apprehend an emancipation of warlike negroes and wild Africans by the Spaniards in Cuba,—nor the establishment of a black empire there by any means.

Sad Scene.—Lyman Perry, Esq., a merchant, and an Alderman of Boston, who died on Saturday, aged 60, was buried in that city on Monday. The funeral services were in the Lynde street church. The venerable father of the deceased—who is now 84 years old—was present at the obsequies. It is worthy of remark that he then followed to the grave the last of seven sons. As the old man committed his last offspring to the silent tomb, the tears of a sad and mournful heart coursed down his furrowed cheeks, and the emotions which found utterance in the utmost tones of anguish, presented a scene of the most affecting and memorable nature.

Shocking Railroad Accident.—On Friday afternoon, at about 4 o'clock, Evan's gravel train had just started from the pit in Quincy, when the brakeman saw a man seated on one of the cars with his feet on the bunter. He went up to him, and asked him why he was there. He replied that he was going to the city, and thought he would get a help on his way by riding. The brakeman warned him of his danger in sitting as he was, and then turned to look another way, when he heard a shriek, and missed the man from his seat. The gravel cars, as one by one they rose from the track as they passed over his body, revealed to the brakeman the fate of his passenger. The train proceeded nearly a mile before it could be stopped. A party of repairers, following the train in a hand-car, found the body most frightfully mangled.

The fragments were scattered along the road for more than fifty rods. The repairers picked up all the pieces of the body, and placed them in a box, and brought them to South Boston. Coroner Herrick was called and held an inquest. A verdict of accidental death was rendered. The deceased was recognized, during the evening, as Mr. Frank Ward, a wheelwright, residing on Bolton, near F street, South Boston, who leaves a wife and two children the mourn his loss. Ward was a very temperate and industrious man. He had purchased a house in Bolton street, South Boston, and had it all paid for but $200.—Finding no employment in Boston, five months ago he went to Braintree, and was on his return with the $200, which was found in his pockets when the terrible accident occurred.

The Catholics of Roxbury, Mass., on Saturday, purchased the Baptist meeting house in the square, in that city, for the sum of $9000. The church is quite new, and was built a few years ago, at a cost of over $11,000.

The Catholic churches never get into debt. We do not know the history of the very beautiful and costly house now sold to them in Roxbury, but suppose there is no risk in saying it began its life under a load of debt which never suffered it to breathe freely. Protestants ought to take a few lessons of the Mother Church about this matter.

LOCAL.

THE LYCEUM.

Professor Felton's Lecture last evening, before the Portsmouth Lyceum, was on Athens and the Greek Stage, or in other words, "Modern Life anticipated by the Athenian Stage." Prof. F. is not a finished orator, and he began his lecture by saying, "Ladies and Gentlemen," with a shrug exactly as if he did not like to say it. He was too closely confined to his notes, and did not read eloquently with the ars rotundo. Nevertheless he gave us an interesting, amusing and witty lecture, stored with apt quotations from the Greek Comedy, and hitting all round among political parties, sham philosophers, pseudo philanthropists, and spiritual rappers. He drew some amusing parallels between the ancient and modern demagogues, conservatives and availables. The picture of the Greek demagogue who wished to be the Secretary of the new ruler, seemed to have been sent for by some man of to-day; and the well known passage on woman's rights, though quite familiar, was yet so perfectly in its place, as to be quite effective.

Rev. Mr. Judd, of Augusta, Me., is to be the lecturer next Tuesday evening.

MUSICAL.

In consequence of the great improvement of the New Castle Brass Band, under their present instructor, they have re-engaged him for three weeks; and he intends before his departure to give a concert, assisted by eminent musical talent in this city. The Band give a series of concerts in the interval, at the adjacent towns. They gave their first on Friday the 7th, at New Castle, to a very large audience, and gave great satisfaction. The pieces they played were all new and well selected, many of them requiring considerable power of execution and good taste to give effect. They were performed in a manner highly creditable to both the band and their instructor. The principal feature in the improvement of the band, next to the combined harmony of the pieces performed, was their strict attention to the soft and loud passages, a great point to be observed when a brass band plays before an audience. They gave their second concert at Kittery, on Tuesday evening, by invitation.

COUNCILLOR CONVENTION.

The Democratic Delegates from the First Council District in New Hampshire, (comprising the old County of Rockingham) met in this city yesterday, at the Piscataqua House, whence they adjourned to the Court House.

The Convention chose Hon. Cyrus Barton, of Concord, President, and Henry Bacon, of Exeter, Secretary. Uri Lamprey, Esq., of Hampton, was chosen candidate for Councillor.

The Hutchinsons.—These old favorites of the Portsmouth concert goers, are to sing at the Cameneum, this evening. There can be no doubt of their having a house full of hearers, on account of their good singing, low prices, and rich programme.

Unseasonable Foliage.—At the front of a house in State street, in this city, yesterday, might be seen a honeysuckle, well clothed with leaves, which had been brought out by the unseasonable mildness of the weather.—Buds and leaves are starting all around us in warm and sheltered spots.

There is a great want of School masters in this vicinity, we are told, and some of the country districts are deprived of their customary schools from the difficulty of procuring suitable instructors.—Belfast Signal.

The young men have gone to California, we suppose, but why don't the School Committees employ female teachers?

The Liquor Law in Minnesota.—The liquor law in Minnesota has been declared unconstitutional, though not on its intrinsic merits. The enacting power in Minnesota is vested in the Assembly and Governor. They passed the act, but referred it to the people for their sanction. This, in a territory, is manifestly illegal, as Congress retains jurisdiction until it is declared a State.

The number of vessels built at Quebec in 1848, was 41, tonnage 19,608; 1849, vessels 37, tonnage 24,336; 1850, vessels 45, tonnage 30,389; 1851, vessels 52, tonnage, 40,567; 1852, vessels 42, tonnage 27,856.

Singular Case of Suffering.—A young man, apparently a Frenchman, was discovered in the barn of Mr. Sawyer, in Westbrook, on Monday morning last, almost dead with cold and hunger. He was entirely naked, with the exception of a horse blanket, hanging about his shoulders, which Mr. S. missed some three or four weeks ago, and there is reason to believe that he had concealed himself in the barn for a month or more, his only food for the time, being a pot of soap grease, and an occasional drink of milk taken from the cow,—the pot being found with nothing but a little milk in it, in the hay where he had slept. His feet were badly frozen. After furnishing him with some warm victuals, &c. he was given in charge of the overseers of the poor, and is now, we learn, in the Westbrook poor house. He seemed not to understand our language, and could give no intelligible account of himself.—Portland Adv.

OLD TIMES LIKE THE NEW.

It is rather common at the present day, to declaim against the degenerate legislators of modern times—deeming the ancients, (as we call those of 50 years ago, in this country,) to be pure patriots. But 'tis distance lends enchantment to the view. A fair history of their transactions shows them to be like other men, fallible. For example, read the following good story, told by the Boston Journal, in relation to the proposed sale of lands in Maine, owned by Massachusetts.

Massachusetts has once suffered before from a similar act, when she sacrificed her lands in Western New York. She once owned the rich Genesee country, whose lands now command the highest prices; and sent out commissioners to explore the wilderness. They returned with the report that the land was nearly worthless, so wet as to be little better than a marsh, a mere swamp, fit only for the residence of frogs and snakes. Upon their report the land was sold, but even then the question was submitted to the Legislature, and discussed for several days. The late Benjamin Russell used to give a graphic description of the proceedings. Many favored the proposition, but one man from Maine opposed it. He suggested caution, further exploration, and the possibility of mistake; and the House adjourned. He was seen to walk away with one of the leading buyers, whose arguments were so conclusive, that the next day he wheeled into line and favored the sale. The sale was made and large profits realized by the buyers; profits which would have been vastly increased if the State had deferred the sale; and many were so uncharitable as to ascribe the subsequent wealth of the gentlemen who changed his opinion to some participation in the purchase.

Robert G. Shaw, Esq., of Boston, has in his possession a spiritual communication from Daniel Webster, written through a powerful "medium" in that city, which is pronounced to be Mr. W.'s hand writing in genuine characteristics.

Mr. Webster's hand writing was not so much better than other men's, as was his style and manner of construction. If the spirits, or media, would copy his style, it would be a great improvement on most of their published documents.

Australia.—The advices from Australia by the way of San Francisco, are fifteen days later than by the way of England. The reports from the gold mines are as favorable as before.

The First Congregational Church and Society in Northampton, Mass., have invited Rev. John P. Cleaveland, D. D., of Providence, to become their Pastor, with a salary of fifteen hundred dollars.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE BALTIC.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The Collins line of steamship Baltic, from Liverpool 29th ult, has arrived at this port.

The Baltic encountered a severe gale in the Channel, with thick weather.

The Pope's Nuncio, Signor Garibaldi, is charged to recognize Napoleon III as Emperor.

The nomination of Jerome Bonaparte and son as heirs to the throne is very ill received in Paris.

From all parts of the country we continue to receive accounts of damage by the late storm, both on the land and sea.

ENGLAND.—The following are the names of the persons comprising the new British Ministry:

Earl of Aberdeen, Premier; Lord Cramworth, Lord Chancellor; Hon. Mr. Gladstone, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Lord Palmerston, Home Secretary; Lord John Russell, Secretary of Foreign Affairs; Duke of Newcastle, Secretary of the Colonies; Sir James Graham, First Lord of the Admiralty; Earl of Granville, President of the Privy Council; Duke of Argyle, Lord Privy Seal; Hon. Sydney Herbert, Secretary of War; Sir John Wood, President of the Indian Board; Sir Wm. Molesworth, President of Public Works; Marquis of Landsdown, seat without office; Hon. Mr. Cardwell, President of the Board of Trade; Sir A. Cockburn, Attorney General; Sir W. P. Wood, Solicitor General; Earl S. Germain, Lord Lieut. of Ireland; with other inferior appointments.

The House of Lords met on Monday, the 26th, to hear the announcement of the new Ministry.

The Earl of Aberdeen, as head of the Government, in the course of one week has succeeded in forming a Cabinet which had met the Queen's approval, and now stood for the judgment of the country. The foreign policy which had been pursued by Great Britian for the last thirty years would be continued. The policy was to admit the perfect freedom and independence of every country of Europe, in whatever form of Government it might choose to adopt, and especially, to maintain peace.

At the same time the Government were not disposed to relax those measures of defence which the country might seem to require.—The commercial system would be founded upon the maintenance and extension of the principles of free trade as established by Sir Robert Peel, to which he, Lord Aberdeen, believed the present prosperity of the country was owing.

A terrific gale occurred at Liverpool on the night of the 26th. Among others more or less damaged were the ship Manilla, for New Orleans, cut to the water's edge by contact with the ship Elizabeth, for Savannah. The ship Conway, for New Orleans, had her masts cut away. The Abba Brake, for Mobile, put back with loss of a topmast. The Childe Harold, for New Orleans, lost spars.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.

The nomination of Mr. Badger was announced in the Senate, but not acted upon.

Senator Upham is a little better, though still quite ill.

Negotiations are in progress, for the sale of the Republic newspaper establishment to certain disaffected Democrats.

The following is the resolution, which has been agreed to, upon Mr. Soule's suggestion to that effect. It will probably be offered in the House or Senate, either to-morrow or the day after.

Resolved, That the sum of ten millions of dollars be set apart out of any funds in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated, and be placed at the disposal of the President, for the purpose of enabling him, during the recess, to meet such exigencies as may arise out of those momentous subjects connected with the present state of the relations of this country with the other powers of the earth, so liable, on account of their character and complexion, to present themselves from hour to hour for practical and immediate consideration.

Mr. Hunter has positively and firmly declined any Cabinet appointment.

THE CATASTROPHE AT ANDOVER.—Mr. Benj. Kittredge, of Pelham, N. H., who had a leg broken, and was severely bruised, besides receiving internal injury, is not expected to live. He is at the Andover Poor House. Mr. E. A. Bailey, of Dunbarton, N. H., whose thigh was broken, is also lying at the point of death, at Lawrence.

James Gillepsie has been sentenced to forty years imprisonment in the Penitentiary, for the murder of William Smith, in Cass County, Missouri.

CUBA.—Willis, in one of his letters to the Home Journal, says—"Whatever republican love for us there may be among the creoles in other parts of the Island, there is no trace of it to be found in the scornful lip of the Havana gentleman recognizing an American. A coffee-house in the suburbs, the walls of which were painted with caricatures of us, gives a key to the feeling most prevalent in the metropolis."

FROM PERNAMBUCO—NAVAL.—A letter from Pernambuco states that the U. S. war steamer Saranac, Capt. Long, hove to on the 27th, off that port, for the purpose of landing the Minister of Brazil and suite, from Washington. She left again on the following day for the south. The port and province were healthy. The tranquility of the empire was undisturbed, and its prosperity great. Fine weather had set in, affording the planter a favorable opportunity of bringing his produce to market. The receipts of the new crop of sugar were large, but it was thought it would be considerably below the average on account of the humid weather which prevailed during the early growth of the cane. The quality of cotton was good, and from the increased attention to cultivating it, the crop was much larger than at any previous year.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS

COOKING STOVE

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOKING STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of the most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market. It being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tin Kitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The eliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE HUNDRED have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is hoped that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

ORIGINAL PRIZE POEM.—The American Union of the present week contains a series of prize articles of more than ordinary merit, and which show that Mr. Fitts, the proprietor, is determined to be behind none of his contemporaries in the original character of his paper. We quote from the Union, the prize poem, happily bearing its name.

THE AMERICAN UNION.

Flag of our country! haughtily waving
Over a coast, two oceans are laving—
Sunrise emerging, sunset declining
Where her horizon of billows is shining—
Not for the breadth of her region's unfolding,
Kindle my eye and my heart, thee beholding;

But that a home and a refuge she giveth
Freely to every freeman that liveth;
But that she standeth, a peaceful redressor
To the oppressed against the oppressor;
None to cast insult or outrage upon her,
None, haughty banner, thy sign to dishonor!

What though inherited evils may vex us,
Our gloomy problem divide and perplex us?
Preachers of treason and seers of disaster
Make us but cling to our Union the faster;
Be we by pledges of faith but restricted,
Time shall provide for what Time has inflicted!

Ay, while the breezes of Heaven shall fan her,
We will desert not America's banner;
Clouds shall not frighten, foes not prevent us,
Ready to die for what Heaven has lent us!
Flag of the star and stripe! ever be streaming,
While waves are rolling, while suns are beaming!

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to procure Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can have avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who transacted much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

MY SCISSORS.

BY FRANCES DANA GAGE.

"Good morning" Mrs. Wicks; hope I see you well this morning."

"Well, yes, pretty well, all but my hands."

"Your hands! What's the matter with your hands; not been scalding them I hope?"

"No! worse than that; I have got them all blistered up, trying to cut out the children's fall clothes with my old scissors; I've had them these ten years, and they're just as dull as a hoe, and every time I cut a roundabout, shirt, or pair of pants, I have just such a time of it. Susan Williard is sewing for me now, and I wanted to get my cutting done while my hand was in, so I just wanted to see if you would not lend me your nice large tailor shears a day or two, for I won't do another thing with mine for a week to come."

"Really, Mrs. Weeks, I would like to accommodate you, but I am very busy with mine just now, cutting rags for my carpet, and could not possibly spare them without great inconvenience."

"Well, I don't know what I'll do; I can't cut out any more with mine, and Susan has only two weeks to stay. Do you know of any one that has a good pair?"

"No, I do not. Would it not be better for you to purchase a good pair? I could hardly get along without mine for a single day, without feeling the want of them."

"What did yours cost?"

"Two dollars and a half."

"Two dollars and a half—goodness! Mr. Wicks would no more let me have the money to buy such a pair of scissors than he'd fly."

"Oh, I think you are mistaken; I have always thought Mr. Wicks very indulgent."

"There's where you are altogether mistaken. I hardly ever ask him for money but what he says something to hurt my feelings, and I often do without things I really need rather than have any words. Why, yes, today I asked him for money to get my fall trimming for my bonnet and Rosina's, and it was all I could do to get it out of him—"

"How much did it require to fit your bonnets up for winter?"

"Only five dollars; it would cost ten you know to get us both new ones. I thought he need not have complained at fixing up the old ones."

"And you have the five dollars in your possession—"

"Yes, and we thought we would get trimmings at Grant's. That beautiful royal purple with the orange edge, it's a love of a ribbon, and so cheap, only twenty-five cents a yard."

"My dear Mrs. Wicks, let me give you a new idea. Would your husband complain if you should trim your bonnets with ribbon worth half that sum, and appropriate the balance to the purchase of a good pair of scissors?"

"No, of course he would not; but who, I'd like to know, is going to make themselves the town-talk for the sake of gratifying a husband's whims?"

"Do it to gratify yourself, to add to your own comfort. My bonnet trimmings and all will not cost me over one dollar and a half, and I don't believe the town will trouble itself one bit about it. Town-talk or no talk, you may be sure I'll never run about with my fingers in rags while I can save the price of a pair of scissors in one bonnet trimming. Now don't be offended, Mrs. Wicks; I know you really think you can't get along any other way than just as you do; but if you will only make the effort to economize in your items of dress, &c., you will soon find yourself amply supplied with all these little household conveniences which you seem so much to want, and my word for it, your husband will not make half the objection to purchase-money for usefuls that he now does for the purchasing of non-essentials."

"Now there is neighbor Pennyman's wife flourishing in a fifteen dollar crape shawl, but her girl complains that she has to borrow wash-tubs, weekly, and that Mrs. P. says that it is all Mr. Pennyman's fault."

"Why, Mrs. Smith, I thought you were a Woman's Right's woman."

"And so I am; but I assure you I am no advocate for women's injustice and folly, and while I feel that the law of the land oppresses her to some extent and in some respects, I feel also that she greatly oppresses herself, and lays heavier burdens upon her own heart than she is willing to bear, and to excuse her own weakness of purpose, her own foolish love of display, lays all the blame upon her husband, who would willingly indulge every reasonable desire, and only frowns when ungenerous demands are made upon his means."

"Well, I don't know, Mr. Wicks seems more willing to give me money for dress than anything else."

"Is not that because he does not feel at liberty to deny you any personal gratification, because he feels that he can make you happier thus than in any other way? Try the experiment, Mrs. Wicks. Tell him you will reserve half of your usual expenses for household conveniences, and if he does not fill your purse with a more cheerful heart, I am much mistaken in him. Begin on the scissors, and if he makes one word of objection, I will agree to change with you for a week, and wear my hands to blisters on your old ones."

"Well, I'll try this once. Good morning."

"Good morning, Mrs. Wicks."

Mrs. Wicks went home, and when her husband came in to dinner, the first thing that took his attention was a beautiful pair of polished steel scissors, not worth less than two dollars.

"Whose are these? been borrowing again, Sarah?"

"No," replied Mrs. Wicks; "I blistered my hands yesterday, with my old ones, and I just concluded I would wear my old, last winter trimmings and have me a good pair of scissors for my work. Don't you think they are nice ones? I thought you would not care how I spent my money." Her voice was kinder than usual.

"Of course not," he replied. Nothing further was said. In the evening, instead of going out, he drew up his chair by the work-stand.

"Ain't you going down street?" inquired Rosina.

"No, I believe not to-night; I like the clink of your ma's new scissors, and if I go down street, I am afraid they will lose their pleasant tone."

Mrs. Wicks did not look up; her heart was full, for just then a little roll of "royal purple with orange edge," "cheap at seventy-five cents," fell into her lap.—Ohio Farmer.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pumps; Window-Shads, Table Oil-cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, 1853.

Persons about making arrangements for yearly advertising, will do well to consider the advantages offered by the issue of the Daily and Weekly Chronicle. In addition to the fact that our independence of partizanship gives us an increased and varied circulation, the like of which can be attained by no party sheet,—we give advertisements the benefit of the circulation of both papers. Our terms are low—call and see.

PARTIES IN ENGLAND.

The new British Ministry should not be deemed Whig nor Tory, nor extreme in any views of protection or free trade.—It is rather a selection of the more moderate and yet firm men of several parties. It may be added the new ministry commands more of the respect and confidence of the nation than any partizan ministry could possibly obtain.

The London Morning Chronicle says of this matter,

The traditional rivalries of the great Whig houses against the old Tory families—the mere faction fights of the Cavendishes and Lonsdales and the like—were never smitten to the death before the struggle of the past summer. We hold the Parliament of 1852 to be a new starting point in constitutional history. The Derby administration passed away, not merely upon a defeat on the Budget, but because the principle which it embodied, and which gave it being, had become extinct.—Lord Derby's ten months' occupation of office was the last effort of the old hereditary principle of the successive tenure of power by the noble families, which, more or less, has prevailed in England since the war of the Roses. Future administrations must be founded on a new principle.

Lord Derby himself attributed his defeat to "an unprincipled combination of parties."—But the Boston Courier in commenting on this, remarks, "Why these people leagued themselves together to destroy his ministry, cannot be learnt from anything he says; and we rather think he does not tell us, because he does not know. He dreams of the old Whig and Tory times, and wanders after the ghosts of defunct parties. The real distinctions at the present moment seem to be these. First, there are the Conservatives, or those who are hostile to reform and change. Secondly, there is a party headed by Lord John Russell, which, on account of its parentage, bears the name of Whig. Third, there are the Radicals, or the party of "progress." And fourthly, there is a party smaller than either of the preceding, composed of the men who followed Sir Robert Peel during his life-time, and who are therefore now called "Peelites." Not one of these parties has strength to reign alone, though the Conservatives outnumber either of the others singly. It will be easily understood that a minister must possess uncommon dexterity to be able to play these four parties one against another, in such a manner as to obtain from them anything in the nature of a safe and manageable support.

"The people of England, in short, are opening their eyes to the fact that the old party names have lost their significance, and are therefore not worth fighting about. The true question before them is not whether the party in power shall go by the name of Whig or Tory, but whether the country shall be well or ill governed. The time has gone by when they can be led to abandon the substance for the shadow."

The Courier intimates its belief that some of the same feeling exists in this country, and adds, the national spirit and common sense of the American people are now urging the pertinent question, whether old party names, that have ceased to represent real interests and distinctions, shall any longer lead us astray from the great purpose of providing for the real welfare and good government of the country.

SPIRITUAL MEDIA.—We have already noticed the death of Matthew Langdon, of New York, and now copy the verdict of the coroner's jury:

Verdict.—That Matthew Langdon came to his death by exhaustion, consequent upon mental excitement, and from a wound inflicted by himself upon his throat. We also recommend the Grand Jury to take measures for the suppression of circle meetings at the houses named in the testimony.

Such, says the Boston Courier, is the verdict given by an intelligent jury at New York, upon the body of a man whose connection with the spiritual rapping imposture led him to commit suicide. It appeared by the testimony of his wife, that Langdon, who was a journeyman printer, lost a daughter by death ten months ago and since that time he has been attending spiritual circles, and reading spiritual papers, until he became crazed. He used to sit alone in his house one hour in each night, ordering his wife not to speak to him, "to prepare him to become a seeing medium, when," as he was advised, "he would see his dear child." There are no limits to human credulity.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Hon. John H. Clifford was elected Governor, on Wednesday, by the Legislature

DEBATE IN THE U. S. SENATE,—On the Freedom of Religious Worship in Foreign Countries.—Mr. Cass, on the 3d of January, presented a petition from the Baptist Union of Maryland, praying the interposition of the United States in behalf of the enjoyment by Americans in Europe of religious liberty, and accompanied the motion for its reference to the appropriate Committee by some remarks in favor of the petition.

Mr. Hale followed and approved highly of the object of the memorial, but did not see how this country could make such an appeal. Religious freedom was forbidden by the laws of those European nations, and the memorial just presented prayed the interposition of this Government in order that religious freedom might be permitted. Was not this asking for the admission and observance by those nations of a law higher than the supreme law of the land? Was not this spreading a "higher law?" The doctrine of a higher law had been condemned in this country.

Mr. Cass—If I understood what the Senator meant, I would, perhaps, reply to him.

Mr. Hale—The difficulty is that I meant just what I said, which is such an unsual thing here that the Senator cannot understand me. (Laughter.)

The memorial was then referred.

MR. EVERETTS ABLE STATE PAPER.—The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writes:

Mr. Everett's letter, unfolding the reasons of the President for declining the offer of England and France to become a party to the proposed convention in respect to Cuba, is one of the ablest and most satisfactory and triumphant state papers that ever emanated from our government. It will be read with pride and gratification by every American who may glory in our past history, or cherish confidence in our future destiny.

Mr. Everett's view of our territorial development is a satisfactory vindication of our policy of extension, from the reproaches of the narrow and grudging jealousies of Europe. He shows, too, most conclusively, that the acquisition of Cuba is imperatively demanded by the law of our progress. Though it repeats assurances that we have no design to wrest Cuba from Spain, yet it also shows that it is neither probable nor desirable that Spain should long continue to possess that island. In fine, it is the strongest view ever yet put forth of the benefits likely to arise to the United States, and to Spain, and to the world, from the incorporation of Cuba into the American republic.

SUCCESS OF THE ERICSSON.—The second trial of the caloric ship was made at New York on Tuesday, and she is pronounced successful by the Mirror, Commercial Advertiser, and other papers, whose editors were on board. So ships can be propelled by air without sails, and by fire, without steam.

The Ericsson ran down some ten miles below the Narrows and back to her anchorage off the Battery. Both going and coming she had the tide against her, and yet, though her engines are little more than half finished, she made nine miles an hour. She carried little more than six pounds pressure, while she is calculated for twelve.

MACKEREL FISHERY.—The Newburyport Union says the depression of the mackerel business is felt by carpenters who have been engaged in building that class of vessels. On the Merrimack there are no mackerel vessels building, and people out of the business are not inclined to go into it. In Essex there are not half the number there was last year.

THE VACANCY IN THE SUPREME BENCH.—Our telegraphic report stated that the Democrats in caucus, had decided not to confirm the nomination of Mr. Badger to the vacant seat on the supreme bench. We regret to see this disposition on the part of a portion of the Senate, to prevent President Fillmore exercising that power which rightfully belongs to him, when a vacancy occurs; and as the opposition seems to be based upon political grounds only, no objection being urged as to the fitness and character of the nominee, we cannot but regret that party spirit should be carried so far. We cannot believe that General Pierce approves of the course proposed by the Democratic Senators.—Boston Transcript.

If any persons think so, they don't know Gen. Pierce as he is known in New Hampshire.—No man in the State has been more accurate and precise in his adherance to the usages of the Democratic party than he has. And if he was now in the Senate of the U. S. we should expect to see him vote to lay Mr. Badger's nomination on the table.

An immense meeting of the citizens of New York was held on Friday evening, the Mayor presiding, and a great number of celebrated clergymen being the speakers, to express their feelings in regard to the imprisonment of the Madiai family, who have been imprisoned for nearly five years in the Grand Duchy of Tuscany, for possessing and reading the scriptures. Strong resolations were passed, appealing to the President of the United States to use his influence in their behalf. It is indeed the most miserable of tyrannies, that punishes a person for reading the Bible, the Koran, or any other book, sacred or profane; but we do not see how a meeting in N. York can influence the matter any more than the meeting of the Duchess of Sutherland and the English females can the institution of slavery. The imprisonment is probably legal; and we cannot perceive why Tuscany, if she thinks her safety requires it, has not the same right to imprison those who circulate the Bible, that South Carolina has, when her safety demands it, to imprison those circulating the Liberator. It is a mere local and legal question, and, unless a man advocates the "higher law," which these sympathizers denounce, we should not think he would meddle with the affair.—Newburyport Union.

LOCAL.

THE MESSENGER vs. THE CHRONICLE

☞ The Messenger would do well to keep its temper sweet, and learn to make its manners good. A "sober second" reading of our claim to such an increased and varied circulation as no party paper here could claim, would satisfy its editor that he tilts against a windmill, when he charges us with saying what we have not said, and doing what we have not done. We did not quote the poetry either to dodge or to answer his charge of wilful falsehood. We shall never do either. If any choose to believe it on his assertion, they are welcome to all they can make of it, and so is he. But the poetry was quoted as the proper answer to another paragraph from the same pen, which was a mere ebullition of envy because certain amusements were advertised in our columns and not in his.

Now what we do claim, positively, is, that the Daily Chronicle is seen and read every morning by "every body that is any body" in Portsmouth,—and as much by one party as another—that it is circulated by carriers in New Castle, Kittery, Greenland and Epping, and is sold regularly on the Concord Railroad.

The Weekly Chronicle is sent into every town in the county of Rockingham—and to every town which our canvasser has been able to visit, we send a bundle of good size. The subscription of the Daily is increasing gradually—that of the Weekly is growing rapidly. And our business in the Advertising and Job Printing line, is quite encouraging. We are very grateful for it, and mean to spare no pains to deserve it.

☞ THE HUTCHINSONS sang to a full house in the Cameneum on Wednesday evening, with their usual life, spirit and naturalness. Their plain English songs, sung in good full tones, accompanied by their own tuneful playing on stringed instruments, are always acceptable and pleasant to the audiences they gather in this city. They are a company of vocalists worthy of the old Granite State, and have been as permanently successful as any company ever formed in this country.

BEQUESTS OF COUNTESS RUMFORD.—The following is a correct statement of the bequests made by Countess Rumford, for charitable purposes, taken (by the Concord Patriot) from the will on file in the Probate office:—

For the N. H. Asylum for the Insane,	$15,000
For the Rolfe and Rumford Asylum, Concord, her real estate in Concord—valued at	5,000 and in money	15,000
For the Female Charitable Society, Concord	2,000
For Children's Friend Society, Boston	2,000
For the Fatherless and Widows' Society, Boston	2,000
	$41,000

To certain relatives and friends, $14,000. The balance to residuary legatees.

Professor Wilson, of Edinburgh, alias Christopher North, whose imagined death has been lamented by several of the American newspapers, is alive and as well as ever. The man who died was a Professor Empson.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH, BROOKLYN.—The N. Y. Independent says that Pews in this Church, of which the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher is pastor, were rented for one year at auction on Tuesday evening. There was more demand than ever before. The total amount rented the first night was $9300; premiums $850, or nearly double the amount of last year. There are 125 more pews to be rented; and, if taken, the total rents of the house will be between 12 000 and $13,000.

ROBBERS AND BURGLARS CAUGHT.—The Boston Daily Advertiser states that the officers of Dorchester arrested, on Monday night, two of the burglars who broke into and robbed the store of William F. Pope, of that place, on Saturday night, and all the goods stolen were recovered. There were three of them seen, and their purpose at the time of the arrest, was to carry off the goods which had been stolen. The names of the men are Michael Doyle, alias John Dow, and Charles Butler, alias Charles Scott. The third rogue, Michael Lavery, discharged his pistol at one of the officers twice; fortunately neither shot took effect, but the robber escaped. He was, however, arrested, on Tuesday, in the Court House, by officer Ham. A fourth rogue, named Wm. McGee, lately discharged from the service of Colonel Fessenden, of Jamaica Plain, and supposed to be one of the parties to the robbery of the Colonel's premises, was also arrested, on Monday evening, in Cambridge. One of Colonel Fessenden's pistols was found on the person of one of the rogues caught in Dorchester, and other facts lead strongly to the belief that these four are the persons that so boldly robbed Colonel Fessenden's house, and who have committed the several bold robberies that have been perpetrated within a short time, in the vicinity of Boston. They are young men, but old rogues, all of them having been convicted of crimes, and been imprisoned.

ANOTHER DEATH FROM THE ACCIDENT ON THE MAINE RAILROAD.—We learn that Samuel Newell, Esq., who was injured by the accident on the Boston and Maine Railroad, died in consequence thereof, at the residence of his son, in Lawrence, yesterday.

A post mortem examination disclosed that the vertebrae was split vertically—a very remarkable occurrence, the spine otherwise injured, and a paralysis of the extremities up to the stomach.—Boston Transcript.

COST OF INTEMPERANCE IN NEW YORK. There are 7000 grog shops in the city, and allowing the expenditure in each to be ten dollars a day, the aggregate in one year's time amounts to more than twenty-five millions of dollars. Barnum, who is always ready for a speculation, in a temperance meeting the other night, said, if they would give him the amount of expenditures in the grog shops, leaving out the wholesale dealers, and stop selling liquor for one year, he would pay all the city taxes, amounting to four millions; send every child to a good school, present every family with a library of one hundred good books, three barrels of flour, and a silk dress to every female, old or young, a suit of broadcloth to every male citizen, old or young, and a ticket to the Museum for the whole population.

The average amount of butter produced by the milch cows of this county annually is 49 pounds, and the average produce of cheese is nearly 17 pounds. Pennsylvania makes 40,000,000 pounds of butter a year. New York, in the productiveness of its dairies, is in advance of any other state, yielding one fourth of all the butter, and nearly one half of all the cheese made in the Union.

BURNT TO DEATH.—On Friday morning, Mrs. Mary Lovell, a lady aged 73 years, residing at Weymouth, Mass., was burnt to death. She occupied a room in the house of a friend, and rose in the morning and built a fire. While standing to warm herself, her apron took fire, and before aid could be rendered, she was so badly burnt as to cause her death. Journal.

The marriage of Colonel the Hon. Alexander Gordon, son of the Earl of Aberdeen, with Miss Herschell, daughter of Sir John Herschell, the astronomer, took place on the 19th ult.

A special correspondent of the New York Tribune says that the Hon. W. R. King of Alabama, Vice President elect, has made his will: was born in 1786, own, 5,000 acres of land in one tract, in Dallas county, Alabama, and upwards of one hundred slaves. He is worth about $160,000, and is a widower.

A LARGE CARGO OF LIVE FREIGHT.—The Bremen ship John Lange, Capt. Lanke, arrived at New Orleans on Thursday, 23d ult., in 64 days from Bremen, with 700 passengers—the largest number, according to the Picayune, ever brought to that port by one vessel.

Rose's PORTABLE BED CHAIR (Patent applied for.)—A new and desirable article for invalids suffering from Rheumatism, Dislocations, Headaches, and other complaints to which the human frame is subject. By means of this Chair being attached to Bedsteads of any kind, the patient may be raised or inclined at any desired angle or comfortable position, with perfect ease and without any handling of the patient. It is truly an article which should be in every house, as its trifling cost places it within the means of all.
The public are requested to call and examine it.
BROWN, TREADWELL & CO.
Jan. 1, 1853. 35 Market street.

"PORTLAND, Dec. 26, 1852.
I have been exceedingly pleased with Mr. W. D. Rose's Portable Bed Chairs. The ease with which they can be put upon any bed, and raised or lowered when so placed, seemed to render them far superior to any article of the kind I have ever before seen. GILMAN DAVIES, M.D."
"I fully concur in the above recommendation of Mr. Rose's Bed Chairs. E. CLARK, M.D."

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.

The health of Vice President King is getting worse. Mr. Cass intimated in debate yesterday, that he could have no more conversation with him on the Clayton and Bulwer treaty. There is very little chance of h's recovery. His voice can scarcely be heard even in a whisper. He is said to feel excessively annoyed by the position in which Mr. Cass's remarks have placed him.

In the case of Morse vs. O'Reilly, the Supreme Court have decided that an art cannot be patented. This important decision foreshadows the result in any case in which art is a material element.

The Homestead bill will soon be taken up in the Senate. Its fate is doubtful.

The reported sale of the Republic newspaper is premature.

Mr. Soule will speak to-morrow if his health, which is not good to-day, permits. In that case special orders will be stayed off, and Mr. Cass's speech postponed. Mr. Soule, it is said, will strike out an original plan for acquiring Cuba, and present new and commanding views.

Dr. McCoun, Surgeon in the Navy, has arrived under orders to accompany Mr. King to Cuba, and says that they will leave in the Fulton to-morrow for Havana direct, the weather being favorable.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.

A letter from Tampa Bay dated January 2, says: General Blake is now here, on his way to Tallahassee to confer with the Governor. Much excitement exists among us. Rumor has it that General Hopkins, Captain Jennyman and five or six men had been killed by the Indians. If such be the case, an outbreak may be looked for.

The Astor Place Opera House has been bought by the Mercantile Library Association for $150,000.

It is snowing fast here; commenced with sleet and hail about 12 o'clock last night.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.—Harrisburg, (Pa.) Jan. 10.—A bill was introduced into the Senate this morning, to allow citizens of other states passing through Pennsylvania, to hold slaves during their transit.

New York, Jan. 11.—A large building up town, occupied by Parmelee & Harvey, wire-manufacturers; and Upham & Co., India rubber works, was burnt this morning with stock, machinery, &c. Loss $100,000. Supposed to be fully insured.

Cleveland, (Ohio,) Jan. 10.—The steamer Sultana arrived here yesterday from Buffalo, with a heavy cargo of merchandize, and returns to-day loaded with pork and lard, mostly from Cincinnati. The weather is as warm here as if it were summer, and there is no ice in the lake.

DEFECTS IN THE HIGHWAY.—Liabilities of Individuals.—In the Supreme Court of Boston, in the case of the city of Boston vs. W. A. Hersey, an important principle was laid down. The facts are as follows:

In 1846, the defendant erected a store on Pearl street, Boston, and in so doing dug a coal-hole in front of his store. On the 24th of October, Elisha H. Hall, now of Portland, Maine, while walking along Pearl street, fell into the hole and was badly injured. Hall sued the city and recovered a large sum as damages and costs. The city then brought this action against Hersey to recover the amount which it had been compelled to pay to Hall. It appeared that Hersey gave his men strict orders to put up barriers around the hole, but they neglected so to do. The Court fully recognized the principle that an individual who causes a defect in a public way, by which another suffers injury, is liable to the city or town, which by law is bound to keep the same in repair, and his liability is the same whether such injury be caused by his own neglect or that of his agents. The case resulted in a verdict of $2,643.27 for the city.

IRELAND.—The news from Ireland is encouraging. The Chronicle correspondent writes from Dublin, December 23d.

The steady improvement of the country is referred to in the accounts from almost all parts of the South and West, and this change for the better is observable particularly among the agricultural classes. Landlords are obtaining their rents with a degree of punctuality rarely known in Ireland. I have been assured by a Roscommon proprietor that rents are generally paid to the day in that quarter. In the adjoining county of Sligo it is remarked by one of the local journals, that many of the farmers still retain a considerable portion of their wheat and oat crops, and that they have a fair surplus, after meeting their engagements to the landlord. Pauperism is rapidly diminishing; the poor-rate, unless in some few unions, has ceased to be a heavy burden, and a system of industrial employment has been established in most of the work houses, which ultimately must prove highly beneficial to the rate-payers as well as to the poor inmates themselves. The prices of agricultural produce continue on a most remunerative scale, and the prosperity of the rural districts is leading to a decided improvement amongst the population of towns and villages, which had been reduced almost to a state of ruin during the famine.

RESCUE FROM DROWNING.—While some small boys were playing upon the ice on the Back Bay, yesterday afternoon, one of them, by the name of Edward Kendall, son of the far-famed "Ned" Kendall, broke through, and would have been drowned, had it not been for the timely assistance of two other boys, one named George Tates, the other David Clark, jr., who swam out to him and rescued the little sufferer from his perilous position. He was conveyed to his father's residence in Boston, and the young heroes received a handsome reward from the thankful father. We understand that this is the second time within a year that young Tates has saved a Kendall boy. He well deserves the attention of the Humane Society.—Boston Herald.

PATENT METALLIC
LADDER AND CONDUCTOR.

THIS new and important invention is one that should receive the attention of every person who owns a building, or who is interested in that which presents a "permanent safeguard" against lightning, and at the same time a light, strong and ornamental Ladder, which will securely warrant the inmates of any house the ready means of escape in case of fire.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) is of great capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. also for roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tinkitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of the over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

MORNING AND EVENING.

When the morning sweetly breaking,
O'er the hill and meadow shines,
And when nature freshly waking,
Rock and grove with joy resound;
Let us 'mid her beauties roving,
Catch the truth her form inspires,
She the youthful spirit moving,
Can enkindle all its fires.

When the evening shade is falling,
And its voice is low and sweet,
Other days long past recalling—
Other scenes we loved to meet;
To glad nature's path repairing,
By the streamlet and the grove,—
Let us dream, together sharing
Her sweet voice and song of love.

Thus to hearts all freshly glowing,
Morning lends its gladder light,
And the lovely stars are throwing
Beauty o'er the fragrant night.
Thus for all who truly love her
Nature hath a magic spell,
Wooing every heart to love her
In the woodland rock and dell.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent, than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE, ——

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent I am very respectfully,

A COURTING STORY.

That was a good courting story our old friend B. used to tell. The thing happened many years ago, about the time the Connecticut system of doing such things gave way to the modern system. The object of the affections of F. was blessed in having an old codger of a father, watchful as an Argus, and jealous as a Turk, and withal a deadly hater of B. It was one cold night in winter, a romantically clandestine meeting was arranged. It was to take place in the very chamber of the damsel which, besides being a dormitory, was a sort of business office for the old gent. As a matter of course, fire and light were out of the question, as being instruments to interrupt the course of true love, which never did run smooth. The walls were full of cracks and holes, and the frosty air bit shrewdly; but never a jot did the lovers mind it. But presently, to their dismay, a step was heard on the stairs. Of course B. must be off, and his charmer must be asleep; so one goes under the bed, while the other takes a more comfortable place above. The old man entered, and to the dismay of B. sat down to posting up his accounts. Perfectly insensible to the cold he kept on. The clock struck twelve, and one, and there was no sign of his leaving. B. had become perfectly benumbed, and the only sign of muscular action was the castanet-like chattering of his teeth. Presently the old man got up. Was he going? No; but he felt cold. He lighted a few shavings, and sat down to his compound interest. No heat radiated to B. and the flame was tantalisation.

A gentle snore from above convinced him that the third party was oblivious to his situation. The clock struck three—the flame had gone out, and by the light of the embers, B. saw the old man depart. "Jerusalem!" our friend used to conclude his narrative, "Jerusalem! didn't I straddle those andirons?"

It is useless to add that the arrangement was broken up. Our friend to this day feels a cold chill at the recollection of it.

SARDINES.—A Paris correspondent of the Washington Republic gives the following particulars of the sardine fishery: "How many sardines do you suppose have been taken this year upon the coast of Brittany, two hundred miles long? Five hundred and seventy-six millions. Half of them are to be preserved and sold fresh, and half are to be put down in oil. One hundred and sixty vessels, manned by five thousand five hundred sailors and fishermen, are engaged in the trade. The preparation, transport and sale of the fish, employ ten thousand persons. Nine thousand of these are occupied all winter in the making and mending of nets.

The fishing lasts two hundred days, and yields a net profit to all concerned of three million francs. The sardines disappear in November and return in April. Where they go during these four months, why they go, or what they do while gone, has never been discovered. The fishermen say that the same individuals never come twice—that every successive arrival is composed of fish of smaller size than those that last left, and that they appear to be their young. At any rate, they count implicitly on their appearance, and no sardine was ever yet known to break an engagement thus tacitly entered into."

The "civil list" of Louis Napoleon, under the new imperial regime, has excited astonishment. It appears that the Emperor has coolly decreed himself a "dotation" of twenty-five millions of francs, one million sterling, for the maintenance of his imperial dignity. The £360,000 a year granted to Queen Victoria, for keeping up a monarchical establishment, of which, by the way, she has the actual control of £60,000 only, seems but trifling after this; and, by comparison, all grumblings on that score are at a discount.

MAD THROUGH EXCESSIVE JOY.—A writer, describing the Lunatic Asylum at Blackwell's Island, says:

"Here is a woman whom joy has deprived of her senses. Her husband and child were on board a vessel which was wrecked. Going down to the shore every day, as if with the wish of being nearer the beloved objects that lay buried beneath the sea, suddenly she beheld them landing from a vessel which had picked them up and saved them. An overwhelming flood of joy pervaded her bosom—and then reason was gone forever. She never has known them since, but sits on what she thinks the same rock, where she used to bewail their fate, wringing her hands, and moaning most piteously—while every week the husband and son come and gaze on her face, in hope to rouse one gleam of memory—but in vain!"

ECCLESIASTICAL.—The organization of the Payson Congregational Church in Easthampton, Mass., the dedication of its new house of worship, and the installation of Rev. R. S. Stone, as its pastor, were solemnized, with appropriate and deeply impressive services, on Tuesday and Wednesday of the last week in December. The dedication sermon was by Dr. Adams of Boston, from Rev. 21: 22; the installation sermon by Dr. Hitchcok of Amherst College, from Rom. 9: 1—3. The church is named in memory of Rev. Payson Williston, first pastor of the first church in this place, who still lives in his ninetieth year, to rejoice in the prosperity of his people.—Northampton Gazette.

A man in Connecticut has just invented a potato-digging machine, which is drawn by horses down the rows, digs the potatoes, separates them from the dirt, and loads them up into the cart, while the farmer walks alongside, whistling "Hail Columbia," with his hands in his pockets.

Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, JANUARY 14, 1853.

THE STORM.

A strong North Easter commenced in this section, on Wednesday afternoon, and continued on Thursday, with a slight fall of snow. The gale still continued on Thursday night at midnight.

In New York, a despatch says a tremendous storm is raging, more severe than has been experienced for many months. It commenced early yesterday morning, and continued with incessant violence all day. At nine o'clock this morning there was but little abatement.—The wind was from the N.E. during the day, and at sunset blowing a gale from E.N.E.

In Boston, the storm began on Wednesday evening, and at noon on Thursday, the Transcript says:

The storm is increasing here, and the snow falling fast. As good old Cotton Mather would say, we are having "an horrid snow."

The Greenfield Gazette states that the sleighing in that vicinity has been excellent for a fortnight past. As far south as Northampton there is no sleighing, and none west of Claremont.

At Binghampton, N. Y., snow is ten inches deep. The trains on the Erie Railroad have all been detained by the storm.

At Narrowsburg, there is a terrible storm prevailing; snow 12 inches deep.

The wind is high, and it is hailing at Philadelphia.

It is snowing at Harrisburg, Lewiston and Pittsburg, Pa. The snow is very heavy on the mountains.

In Baltimore, rain has poured down in torrents all day; wind N. E.

In Washington, bad weather all day; snow prevailing.

By telegraph, it will be seen that the storm continued to rage with great severity on Thursday morning in New York, and that the steamer Asia was detained.

A PUBLIC NUISANCE.

A correspondent of the Newburyport Herald wishes "to draw public attention to a class of persons always, resent at Lyceum lectures and other entertainments, whose services on such occasions have not been suitably acknowledged—their performances not even announced in the bills," and desires the editors, when they again give notice of a forthcoming lecture, "to add that the occasion will be enlivened by the performance, by certain young ladies and gentlemen, of a play entitled "a running commentary upon the manners of the times," consisting of whispering, soft and loud—giggling in all its varieties—fidgeting about in an unique and graceless manner—eating sweetmeats, cracking nuts and throwing the shells at one another—all of which have been found to aid and assist the listeners to hear and understand the legitimate performances of the evening."

The writer "cheerfully concedes to the ladies the right to practice a thousand and one little arts to attract attention, but when it comes to the right of burning by the hour into the ears of unwilling listeners, he demands and most respectfully suggests to these ladies and to all others who are in the habit of offending in this way, that they in future take seats in the gallery, (seldom occupied) where they may enjoy the privilege of being seen without being heard."

We hope our Portsmouth young ladies and gents never offend in this way.

MAINE LEGISLATURE.—It appears that the friends of the "Maine Law," in the Maine Legislature, triumphed in filling up the vacancies in the Senate of that state. They selected for the Cumberland county vacancies two Whigs and two Democrats—all of whom are understood to be in favor of the Maine liquor law. From Hancock county the Legislature took John Bridges, Democrat; from Waldo, Nelson Dingley and John T. Rowe, Dem., David Vinal, Whig. The original Maine law men have prevailed, so far as to put down a Democratic organization of the upper branch of the Legislature. The Whigs have the Senate by five majority. The House is composed of 85 Democrats, 61 Whigs, and 5 Free Soilers.

So, as to politics, the Whigs have a majority in one house, and the Democrats in the other; which circumstance will be likely to prevent the election of a Senator to Congress.

And as to the Maine Law,—these events indicate its popularity and power in the state where it was devised and where it has been in force longer and more fully than elsewhere. It is not all probable, therefore, that it will be repealed speedily—but if found to be unconstitutional and inexpedient in any of its provisions, it may be amended. It is not improbable that it will be.

IRELAND.—Patrick Donahoe, Boston, has published a History of the attempts to Establish the Protestant Reformation in Ireland, by Thomas D'Arcy M'Gee. It is dedicated to Bishop Fitzpatrick. This of course, is radical and Catholic. But it must have interest, to every person who considers the Irish Catholic emigration into this country as an important element in our social system. We would like to see the book.

GOLD AND PAINT.

Prof. Hubbard, of Dartmouth College, has specimens of gold, found on the Quechee river, Vermont. The specimens are not washings, but from a vein. The rock in which the gold lies, is quartz, containing also considerable sulphuret of iron, sulphuret of lead, and sulphuret of zinc, particles of gold being found in these, as well as in the quartz. What quantity of this ore exists there, that is, what quantity of auriferous quartz and sulphurets, the information does not state, but these specimens are worth working; and if the vein is extensive, gold might be expected from washing the sands of the Quechee. We do not expect much gold from Vermont, however,—but the same professor has other specimens of more consequence, viz. of ochre [paint] from Strafford, Vt., a new and interesting discovery. It is no other than taking the spent ore of the copperas works, and subjecting it to various degrees of heat; the result when pulverized is pure ochre, varying in color according to the degree of heat. The copperas ore is a sulphuret of iron. The sulphur being extracted, which makes the copperas, the residuum being heated becomes an oxide of iron, otherwise ochre. From this, by a refining process very simple and at small expense, is obtained the pigment,—bright red, pale red, brown, and various hues of yellow.

And so there are inexhaustible mines of ochre in Vermont; for the formation extends from Strafford to Shrewsbury, at least.

THE NAVY.—In the Senate of the United States on Monday, Mr. Stockton presented a bill for the reorganization of the Navy, accompanied by a report, explaining the grounds of the proposed change. The National Intelligencer gives the following account of the views taken in the report:

It recommends a retired list as indispensable to the efficiency of the service, and deprecates promotion by seniority of commission without regard to other considerations. It holds that as officers in command are sometimes required to compete with the highest professional talent of Europe, and to exercise great discretion in the protection of our commercial marine, they should be selected with a proper regard for their suitability to such command. It approves of the ranks Commander, Lieutenants Commanding, and Second Lieutenants, but suggests the abolishment of the grade of Masters and Passed Midshipmen. For the seamen it recommends such increase of pay as will approximate the amount paid by the commercial marine, and proposes rewards of merit, besides opening the way to promotion to the sailor boy whose conduct is worthy of it.

☞ The New York Herald comes out with new type, putting on a new and beautiful appearance. Its correspondence, foreign and domestic, reaching to every part of the country and to most parts of the world, gives a constant freshness and novelty to its columns—while its ample details, and extended statistics, render it valuable for reference.

THE MONTHLY MUSICAL GAZETTE, vol. 1, No. 1, for Jan. 1853, is received. It is published in New York; is edited by Richard Storrs Willis; and contains 8 quarto pages, 4 of which are easy and yet pleasant and popular music. It is fitted for those who love music, but cannot afford the money to buy the Musical World, or the time to study it.

A BAD PHRASE.—One of our best newspapers, as to grammatical correctness, says, an article "was copied into the —— with a perfect ignorance of its meaning, for we had no knowledge by which we could render it intelligible," &c.

Ignorance may be entire, or utter, or absolute, or egregious,—but it can hardly be perfect.

THE SILVER CHANGE TAX.—A subscriber to the Boston Courier, being the treasurer of one of the Lowell manufacturing companies, writes in reference to the scarcity of silver change, "There is no doubt of the fact that the tax to the trading community is vastly greater than is supposed. As an evidence of it, I pay on an average $30 per month, or $360 per annum, for small change to pay off the operatives of our mills, and all such establishments pay in proportion.

☞ There are in England 130,000 houses opened for the sale of intoxicating drink, at a cost of £42,000,000 annually.

DELAWARE SENATOR.—Hon. John M. Clayton is elected Senator by the Legislature of Delaware, for six years from March next.

MAINE LAW IN RHODE ISLAND.—In the Rhode Island Legislature on Tuesday, Mr. Barstow gave notice that he should ask leave on Thursday next to introduce an act for the more effectual suppression of drinking houses and tippling shops.

A CURIOSITY IN ROXBURY.—The Boston Bee states that the Roxbury Cave, or "Robber's Den," as it is sometimes called, is being visited by hundreds of people every day. It is situated on the Turnpike, where there is an entrance; as also on Walnut street. At the distance of 60 feet from the opening, there is an immense chamber. Bones of animals have already been found. Explorations are daily being made, we understand. It is supposed to have been the depository of robbers, which it may be still.

LOCAL.

City Council—Jan. 13.

In Board of Aldermen, several bills were presented and passed for payment.

A communication was received from O. W. Penhallow, Esq. former collector, stating that the out-standing taxes of his list amounted to about $18, and that he had used his best exertions to collect them, but without success; he was willing to give 25 per cent. for them—referred.

The committee on claims, to whom was referred the bills of the Health Officers, reported that some deduction should be made—report accepted.

The committee of conference to whom was referred the item of the Billiard, &c. ordinance respecting allowing minors to visit those places, reported that the Aldermen recede from their amendment, which was accepted; so that it now requires that no minor shall visit these places unless by the written request of parent, guardian or master.

[The Ordinance requires such Rooms and Alleys to procure a license from the city; orders them to be closed at 10 o'clock on Saturday evenings, and at 11 o'clock on other evenings; and prohibits their being kept open on Sundays.]

☞ There was an alarm of fire yesterday morning, about a quarter before seven, at the north end, occasioned by the burning of a chimney in Deer street, near the railroad.—The fire was extinguished without a general alarm.

☞ Six hundred barrels of flour came over the Concord railroad on Wednesday, from Ogdensburgh, N. Y., for a merchant in this city.

SALLY MAMINASH, THE LAST OF THE INDIANS.—Sally Maminash died in this town, Jan. 2d, aged 88 years. She was the last of the Indian race in Northampton. Her father's grave-stone stands alone in a field, near the pine grove on the plain, with this inscription—Joseph Maminash died May, 1767, aged 40 years." Her mother, who died in 1780, aged 60, was Elizabeth Occom, of Mohegan, near Norwich, Conn., the eldest sister of Rev. Samson Occom, the celebrated Indian preacher. After the death of her mother, Sally supported herself by spinning and weaving in different families. At the age of 50, in the year 1816, she made a profession of religion under the ministry of the Rev. Mr. Williams, with 70 other persons. During the remainder of her long life, she was an exemplary Christian; and she died in the peace, and faith, and hope of the gospel. Under the infirmities of years, she found an excellent Christian friend, who took her into her own family, saying, "As long as I live, Sally shall be provided for." Such was the noble purpose of charity of Mrs. Sophia Clapp, the wife of Mr. Warham Clapp, which she carried into effect. After her death, her son, Mr. Edward Clapp, and his wife, continued to the last the same charity.—Hampshire Gazette.

A CIRCULAR STORM.—The ship Centaur, Capt. Perriam, from Boston for London, put into Topsham, England, on Christmas day, having experienced heavy gales through the passage.

On Dec. 15, lat. 40 30 N., lon. 17 12 W, encountered a revolving storm, which commenced at S. taking an easterly direction until it arrived at the same point. The sea became like boiling foam. Providentially the sails were close reefed and mostly furled. The crew had just taken shelter below, with the exception of one man on the lookout at the companion, when a tremendous sea struck the ship, throwing her on her beam ends, swept away the wheel, binnacle and compasses, round house, and all it contained; both boats, chocks and lashings, a massive iron wheel fixed to the deck, galley, caboose, &c.; sprung the bowsprit, twisted out the knight-heads, and tore an iron breast hook from the same, which was fastened over the bowsprit, broke the pall bit, and made almost a clean sweep of stancheons, bulwarks and rails, the jibboom, jibs, and all the gear attached, with the topgallant and maintop mast. The wreck was cut away, but it was some time before the ship lighted and became manageable. On sounding the pumps found the vessel had made much water, which she continued to do up to her putting into this port.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.—The President has authorized Mr. Everett to write to the Duke of Tuscany, requesting him to release the Madisi family, and permit them to come to this country. This is not to be considered an official document, but a private letter, expressing Mr. Everett's wishes and those of Mr. Fillmore. Mr. Everett's personal acquaintance with the Duke of Tuscany will probably add weight to his communication.

THE LIQUOR TRADE IN BANGOR.—The Bangor Democrat publishes the report of the committee of the Bangor City Council on the business of the City Agency for selling liquor, and adds:—It appears to be a large, prosperous and profitable business. About seventeen thousand dollars worth of liquors have been purchased, and all but $6,852 worth of it sold between the 3d of May and the 23d of Dec., a little less than eight months, and at a profit of some $4000. The demand for liquors for medicine and for mechanical uses has been surprisingly large. New England rum especially has been much sought for, and has gone off like hot cakes, at a fair profit. The medicines are said to be of a good quality, some of them the very best that are imported, and this is the best feature that the case presents.

[If used only for medical and mechanical purposes, the amount, $10,000 worth, is somewhat large; but if much of it was drank, $40 a day is not very large.]

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMER ILLINOIS.—New York, Jan 13.—The steamer Illinois came up to her dock at 11 o'clock this morning. She arrived at Sandy Hook at 5 1-2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

She left Aspinwall Jan. 3d, and Kingston on the 5th, and brings the California mails to the 16th Dec. She has $2,015,000 of gold dust, with 208 passengers—among the latter Col. Moore, the Postmaster of San Francisco, and family.

N. Y. POLICEMEN ARRESTED.

Arrest of two Policemen in New York charged with Burglary, and one of them shot.—We gather the following particulars from the New York Mirror of Wednesday evening:

For some time back Mr. Hopkins, who keeps a grocery store at the corner of Harrison and Greenwich streets, has missed articles of value from his establishment, and discovered traces of burglars who seemed to be in the habit of obtaining entrance by means of false keys; and last night he kept a watch. He obtained leave to stop for the night in a store adjoining, and kept a sharp watch through a crevice in the wall.

During the early part of the night, and up to nearly three o'clock in the morning, no one appeared about the premises. About three o'clock, a man was seen to go to the grocery and enter, and another followed, and remained on the sidewalk. The door was instantly closed.

Mr. Hopkins, upon making this discovery, sent his clerk, Mr. Roberts, to the store immediately, and Mr. R. arrested the fellow who stood in front of the door. This person was John Smith, a policeman of the 5th ward.—Mr. Hopkins and his clerk, after securing this prisoner, entered their store, where they found officer Kennedy.

Both policemen were then in custody.—Smith made an effort to escape, and in so doing was shot in the back by a revolver in the hands of Mr. Roberts. He fell, but the charge did not kill him. The wound inflicted, however, was dangerous, and may prove fatal. Captain Hutchings was immediately informed of the occurrence, and he sent for the Chief of Police, who quickly made his appearance, and ordered Kennedy to be locked up. Smith being seriously wounded was conveyed to his residence.

The prisoners endeavored to justify their entrance to the premises, by saying that they were themselves in search of burglars, but such did not appear, as the stars of the officers were not concealed. A bag of coffee and some other articles were found packed ready for removal, when the arrests were made.

The officers in question were, previous to this occurrence, so far as we can learn, of fair reputation.

TERRIBLE EARTHQUAKES.—The earthquakes at the East were more destructive than previously reported. The Pekin (China) Gazette of August, reports that in the province of Kansuch, 20,000 houses had been destroyed, 300 of the inhabitants killed, and 400 wounded. During the early part of September there were several slight shocks of an earthquake experienced in Manilla. On the 16th, at 6 o'clock in the evening, a shock occurred which nearly destroyed the city. Many houses were entirely thrown down, and others rendered unsafe to inhabit. Two churches were destroyed; one of them the fine church of the Company of the Phillippines. Many inhabiting the houses on the river, are in the arched godowns of their buildings, but the greater part of the citizens are encamped in bamboo houses in the suburbs. The palace, the town hall, and the custom house are so much damaged as to be uninhabitable. Three lives were lost, and one person wounded. Accounts received from the provinces tell of great injuries committed in all directions; many of the churches were partially or wholly thrown down, the damage done is very great. The inhabitants who, on the night and on the morning of the 17th of September, fled to the country districts, or sought an asylum in boats on the river, have returned to the city; but it is impossible to conceal the fact, that a general apprehension prevails that the terrific phenomena have not yet ended.

The editor of the Chicago Democratic Press has received a legacy, the Chicago Tribune says, of not less than $100,000, from an uncle who has just died in St. Louis.

A gossiping Washington correspondent of the Tribune says that a marriage will be solemnized in Washington on the 29th inst., between William Follet Lynge, Attache to the British Legation, and Miss Wainwright, daughter of the late Capt. Wainwright, U. S. Navy. Also, that the Washington fashionables "are in a blaze—fired up by the approaching nuptials of the Attorney General." A magnificent trousseau is in preparation for the bride, which is to cost some $3000.

THE OBSERVATORY AT DARMOUTH COLLEGE—The Trustees held a meeting week bfore last and voted to accept the donation of Dr Shattuck of Boston, with its condition, and to erect the oservatory next summer. It is to be set on the eminence a little north-east of Wentworth Hall. The telescope now in the temporary observatory works well. The new observatory will be furnished with other necessary astronomical instruments, and a set of geodetic instruments for surveying on a large scale. These latter are to be from the Chandler fund, and primarily for the use of that department. The observatory is to be built under the direction Prof. Young; his brother, Ammi B. Young, of Boston, being the architect. Prof. Young will go to Europe in March to purchase instruments and books. A valuable addition of books to the library is expected from this source.—Cor. Vermont Chronicle.

The New York Mirror gives the following advice: "If a man complains to you of his wife, a woman of her husband, a parent of a child, or a child of a parent, be very cautious how you meddle between such near relations, to blame the behavior of one or the other. You will only have the hatred of both parties, and do no good with either."

HOUSE AND LIFE PROTECTORS

PATENT METALLIC
LADDER AND CONDUCTOR.

THIS new and important invention is one that should receive the attention of every person who owns a building, or who is interested in that which presents a "permanent safeguard" against lightning, and at the same time a light, strong and ornamental Ladder, which will securely warrant the inmates of any house the ready means of escape in case of fire.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

☞ Price per foot, 20 cents; including Lightning Rods and Points of the most approved material.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS

COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operations, has been passed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired TinKitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that, since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

Boston, Dec 8, 1852. 2aw6w

THE PAST.

BY MAJ. G. W. PATTEN, U. S. A.

The past, the past—'tis all my dower;
For that I love alone
To sit from morn till evening hour,
And dream on what is gone.
And as through memory's shadowy glass
My fading sight I strain,
Dimmages of youthtime pass
Before my eyes again.

The parent forms so much I loved,
I see beside the hearth;
And where my little sisters roved,
I hear the laugh of mirth;
And from the window where the sun
Shone at the rise of day,
The garden flowers I looked upon
In the sweet month of May.

I see the time-piece where it stands
In the old oaken hall,
And watch the movement of the hands,
As 'round the face they crept;
They always went so slow for me,
I would have whipt them by—
Thinking amid my childhood's glee,
Time should be made to fly.

They tell me now my sire is dead,
And that my home is changed;
That brothers, sisters, all have fled,
Since I abroad have ranged.
It may be what they say is right—
I'll think it if I can;
But memory has a living light
Stronger than living man.

And if our house is "turned around,"
It is not turn'd for me;
Full well I know the garden ground,
And every room can see.
And of my parents if 'tis told
That one is left to grieve,
And one is sleeping 'neath the mould,
The tale I'll not believe.

My brother's features too I see;
And beaming like a star,
My sisters' eyes look soft on me—
My sisters—all but one!
She changed—she died—her heart was flame,
And was too warm to last—
Save that—our home is still the same—
I live but in the past.

California, Nov. 1852.

A WICKED PARODY.—English's famous "Ben Bolt," is thus parodied:

Old Towser, so shaggy and kind;
How he used to lay, day and night, by the gate,
And seize interlopers—behind!"

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and Scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent than most other agencies. They can serve avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE, ———,
"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.
"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent I am very respectfully,
Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

"DOLLAR A FOOT"

The Farmer's Monthly Visitor copies an article, stating that the Concord and Montreal Railroad Co. had settled with all the persons injured and not killed by the accident at the Wiers last fall, by paying them satisfactory sums; all along from $500 to upwards of $2000, and then tells the following "dollar-a-foot" story:

The Mirror is generally pretty correct in its figures, but in this paragraph has made a slight mistake. We are told that when the Agent of the Railroad went to one of the sufferers by the collision of the 8th of October, the following dialogue and settlement took place. "Well Mr. ———, you were hurt by the collision?" "Yes sir." "Well now, 'twas a shocking affair—so many hurt—some killed, some with broken legs and"—"Yes, Squire, 'twas a sad thing, and all from carelessness, sheer carelessness; if the careless could only have suffered, I would'nt have cared much."

"Nor I, but Mr. ———, it was no fault of the stockholders and they have to pay for it. Now they're willing to pay, to pay liberally, in fact to do all they can—but they are poor you know, and trying to do the best they can."

"I know it, but still they must pay for this job, if they are poor, you see, people don't like to have their heads smashed and their legs broken for nothing."

"No sir, I am aware of all this and so are the Company, they'er willing to settle the matter right. Now Mr. ———, what will you take and be satisfied, for the injuries you received?" "I don't know, what will you give?" "Well now, that's Yankee, Mr. ———, the company want you to name a sum; you know the damages, and all that, so just set the amount."

"Well then Squire, I had my hat smashed my sides thumped, my wrist jammed, and besides you know, I was thrown into the bay, and went plump to the bottom, where the water was full ten feet deep; well I got out alone thank God, and I think the Company should pay me just about a dollar a foot!" It is needless to say that the ten dollars were paid over by the 'Squire, and thus the Company settled their liabilities in "sums from $10 to upwards of $2000."

THE MADIAI FAMILY.—The following account of the sufferings of Francesco Madiai is from the correspondence of the London Daily News:

"Francesco Madiai is seriously ill, wasted, and debilitated, and unable to stand for more than an instant. His vigorous frame and robust constitution have at length succumbed under the continued influence of prolonged confinement, anxiety of mind, separation from his wife, and the hopeless prospect of imprisonment for years, uncheered, unalleviated, at the close of life, and without the solace of the prayers and exhortations of a minister of the creed he professes, glories in, and suffers for. It is, however, most cheering to be able to add, that he remains 'steadfast in the faith,' calmly beholds his approaching end, which, humanely speaking, cannot be far distant; and though feeling acutely his position, imprisoned as a felon, treated with scorn and contumely, he remembers with joy and gratitude that he has been thought worthy to suffer in so good a cause, and places his hope and reliance in that future where 'the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest.'"

It is stated that the punishment of death has been revived in Tuscany for "offences against religion," under which phrase is comprehended every species of dissent from popery objectionable to popish authorities. A mere suspicion of such offences is punishable with imprisonment for three years. As far as control can be established over thoughts, it is committed unreservedly to the hands of the priesthood. All schools not under the immediate management of priests, will at the expiration of twelve months from the present time be absolutely suppressed, and the amount, degree, and nature of the instruction obtainable by the Tuscan people will be determined exclusively by the popish priests.

EMPLOYMENT.—It is said of Count de Caylus, a wealthy French nobleman, that he devoted himself to the art of engraving, and acquired no mean degree of skill therein.

"Why," inquired one of his noble friends one day, "do you, a gentleman of so princely a fortune and of such noble blood, confine yourself, like a poor artist, to the graver's tool and bench?"

"I engrave that I may not hang myself," replied the industrious Count.

This odd reply contains a great practical truth. It teaches that action is essential to happiness; that a man without some regular, congenial employment, is a prey for ennui, despondency and despair to feed upon and destroy. Here is an important lesson for the youth.—Exchange.

COURT SCENE.—"Sir!" said a fierce lawyer, "do you on your solemn oath before the high God, swear that this is not your hand writing?"

"I reckon not," was the cool reply.

"Does it resemble your writing?"

"Yes, sir, I think it don't."

"Do you swear that it don't resemble your writing?"

"Well, I do, old head."

"You take your solemn oath that this writing does not resemble yours in a single letter?"

"Y-e-a-s, sir!"

"Now, how do you know?"

"'Cause I can't write."

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pump; Window-Shades, Table Oil-cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

PORTSMOUTH:
SATURDAY, JANUARY 15, 1853.

A CITIZEN'S CONSCIENCE.

Under the head "All sorts of paragraphs," in that ably edited paper, the Boston Post, we find the following paragraph:

Hobbes says:—and a vast amount of cogitation should grow out of the paragraph, at this time—"The interpretation of the law is to be sought, not from preceptors and philosophers, but from the authority of the state; for it is not truth, but authority, that makes law. The public law is to be instead of the conscience of every individual. It is, therefore, false, that every violation of conscience in a citizen is a sin."

Now the application of all this, to our own country, where the people themselves are supposed to make the laws, is somewhat different from the application in France or Russia. But the principle is a strange one, however applied. There was a certain law, made by authority, which condemned Galileo for saying the earth moved. But Galileo's conscience taught him that it did more. He obeyed the law so far as to go down upon his knees and recant what the law called his error,—but as he rose, the story runs that he reasserted it, saying, "it does move, after all." The public law was instead of his conscience so far as outward observance went; but in thought he despised it.

So of any unjust or inexpedient law—people may obey it somewhat, from force, or fear, or prudence,—but they will keep up a thinking process, in spite of laws or threats.

Hobbes, from whom the extract is taken, is commonly styled an infidel. We do not condemn it on that account, however, but because it is false in itself.

RACHEL PARKER'S CASE.

We believe that figures will not lie—and we have the same kind of faith in telegraphs—but sometimes, when they get into careless hands, they mangle the truth most dreadfully.

We had a case in point a day or two since. A Baltimore telegraphic despatch of the 12th, was printed in the Boston papers in this way:

"The case of Russel Parder, a petitioner for freedom, was decided in his favor yesterday, the respondent abandoning the case.

The citizens of Chester county, Pennsylvania, offer $1000 reward for the apprehension of the murderers of Joseph C. Miller, who was assisted in the capture of Rachell, and who shortly after was found dead in the woods near Steamer's run. It was supposed at the time that he committed suicide through remorse. The occurrence took place a year ago."

To begin to understand this, let us say that Russel Parder means Rachel Parker; and then we will tell her story in a few words.—She was a free colored girl who had always lived in Chester County, Pennsylvania, and was kidnapped about a year ago by three or four scoundrels, who pretended she was a fugitive slave, and who hurried her off into Maryland. Miller and others, white men, of Chester county, who knew her, pursued after the gang and overtook them, and had them arrested as kidnappers. They were bailed, and we believe got clear somehow; but the Maryland courts retained the girl in prison for a legal investigation, which has now resulted in her freedom.

Miller never captured Rachel at all, but he was a principal witness for her freedom, and also against the kidnappers—and was doubtless murdered by them or their confederates, to get him out of the way. No living man ever "supposed he committed suicide through remorse" at the idea of having tried to save the freedom of a well known neighbor. Somebody, (probably one of the gang, or a confederate,) said something like it in the papers, and a coroner's jury in Maryland brought in a verdict of suicide. But no man, who read the evidence in Maryland and Pennsylvania, could believe for a moment that he died by his own hand.

The Executive of Pennsylvania took Rachel Parker's case in hand, wrote to that of Maryland, and employed able counsel in her behalf, whose labors have rescued her at last, from the hands of the kidnappers. But Miller lost his life, and his neighbors now offer the reward of $1000, in the hope to arrest the murderers and bring them to justice.

CHARACTERISTICS.—The Boston Chronicle has a lively correspondent called Pennacook, who jots down the legislative doings, and don't forget the extras. Pennacook describes one Maine Law man as "mighty thin and remarkably pale," and speaks of the rest as looking like consumptive patients. We hope he don't mean to insinuate that all the opponents of the law have red noses.

MEAGHER.—The celebrated Irish refugee, Thomas Francis Meagher, will deliver a lecture upon "Australia" at the new Music Hall, Boston, on the 25th inst., at the request of Mayor Seaver, Mr. Choate and others.

Good butter is selling in New York at 18½c per lb.,—so says the National Democrat.

THE CALORIC SHIP.

The new fashioned hot air ship Ericsson, at New York, it is said is about to go on a voyage across the Atlantic, the captain and builders having satisfied the public that she can go, and does make her way with a new power, before unknown.

The following is an extract from Mr. Ericsson's description of the ship as given by the Journal of Commerce:

Under a pressure of twelve pounds to the square inch, the ponderous hulk was put in motion, at will, and maintained a speed judged to exceed eight miles per hour, against wind and tide, the wheels making ten and a quarter turns per minute. The engine worked with perfect regularity from the commencement to the end of the trip, and without any jarring, except what is common to the best constructed engines. A loud hissing noise proceeded from one of the cylinders arising from defective packing, but which could be easily remedied. The valves, too, allowed of some escape. The action of the engine upon the air affords of itself perfect ventilation in all parts of the vessel. So cool was the fire-room, ordinarily heated almost beyond endurance, that the fireman,(only one fireman is required and but one engineer,) worked in his pea-jacket.

* * * * *

Mr. E. said the chief principle involved in the operation of this engine, was that of using the same heat over and over again. This was effected in a very simple way, through the intervention of what is called a "regenerator" between the valves and cylinder, which is nothing more or less than a mass of 1-16th inch wire, compactly interwoven, the whole containing 24 square feet. When the heated air passes through this, the caloric is absorbed, and the cold air, in returning, is again heated nearly enough to continue the motion of the engine. Seventy five tons of air is drawn through the meshes of the wire each hour. The resistance to its passage is almost imperceptible. In its passage through the meshes, the air is instantaneously heated to 400 deg.—as rapid as the electric flash. The wires are not oxidized by the process.

THE FOREIGN NEWS.—The steamship Arctic brings Liverpool news down to New Year's Day at noon. The most interesting news by her is personal.

Queen Victoria, it is said, is about to add another heir to the British throne.

Mr. Heald, Lola Montes' husband, was drowned at Lisbon by the upsetting of his yacht.

A mutiny of Chinese occurred on board the ship Gertrude, from Amoy to Havana. The mutineers were shot and the vessel carried to Singapore.

The Spanish Count Villeneuve, long the Cuban Intendente, and the richest man in Spain, is dead.

Kossuth's mother died at Brussels on the 28th Dec.

The Belgian government refused Kossuth permission to visit his mother in her last moments.

Dates from New Zealand to September 14th states that a considerable amount of emigration to Australia was taking place.

Cotton had declined 1-16 to 1-8d. Breadstuffs barely maintained their prices. Provisions unchanged.

The following comprise a few of the additional appointments to the English government, which have been made since last advices:

Judge Advocate, Mr. Villiers; Solicitor General, Mr. Bethel; Lord Chancellor, Sir W. Page Wood; First Lord of the Admiralty, Lord Berkely; Comptroller of the Household, Lord Drumlanrig; Treasurer, Lord Hervey; Ordnance Clerk, Mr. Monsell.

☞ The Family Circle and Parlor Annual, for January, contains a new steel plate of the New Crystal Palace at New York, with a description. Also another of those beautiful flowers personified—Dahlia, on steel, colored, with a continuation of the Floral Festival, complete in each No. Old Year's Realities and New Year's Anticipations; a new Morning Song, by Thomas Hastings, Esq., &c.—This work gives 25 steel engravings, 12 of them colored, and nearly four hundred pages of original reading matter, during the year, on good paper, with index for binding. Also, a beautiful steel plate of Stewart's Washington, 14x22 in. or Christ Blessing Little Children, as a premium, at subscribers option, for $1 a year, in advance, by mail. Agents wanted. Address, post paid, James G. Reed, publisher, 140 Fulton street, New York.

MACHIAS, ME.—A correspondent of the Boston Daily Advertiser, at Machias Port, Me., writes under date of 11th:

The large quantity of liquor, (1000 gallons,) which was seized here a few weeks since, has been given up by order of the Court, on account of an informality in the warrant, viz. the words "in said town" being omitted, thus not specifying the place where it was intended to be sold.

Two barrels seized some time before, were also ordered to be given up. This decision, and similar decisions elsewhere of late, will prove to be a damper upon any further efforts in this vicinity, it is to be feared, to enforce the "Maine Law."

The decision here named, is no doubt correct, and is fully sustained by the reasons here given for it, viz. gross informality. The decision is not against the law, but against carelessness,—and no sound lawyer could have given any other.

LOCAL.

SAD ACCIDENT.

We are sorry to state that Mr. Robert Annable, a careful and excellent Conductor on the Eastern Railroad, was dangerously hurt yesterday forenoon, at Wenham station. As his train approached that station, he looked out, as usual, from a platform between the cars, to see if all was clear, when his head struck against a freight car standing on the other track, depriving him at once of speec and consciousness. He was taken up and carried to Salem, where surgical aid was procured, and in the afternoon, accompanied by a surgeon, he was brought home to this city on a mattress, in the train, which arrived here about six o'clock, P. M. There is a deep sympathy for him here, and an earnest desire for his recovery, not only for the importance of his station, but also for his worth as a man and a citizen.

SHIP BUILDING ON THE PISCATAQUA.

About two months ago, when the ship Judge Shaw was launched, we remarked that there was not a ship on the stocks, nor a keel laid, in any of our private yards on the Piscataqua River. Now, we are happy in being able to state that there are quite a number.

George Raynes is building a clipper ship of about one thousand tons, and a packet ship of sixteen hundred.

Fernald & Petigrew have now under way a clipper ship of eleven hundred tons, and will lay the keel of another ship of the same size and class in a few weeks.

Samuel Badger is engaged in building a freighting ship of about one thousand tons.

Tobey & Littlefield are making preparations to lay the keel of a clipper ship of sixteen hundred tons, in a new ship yard, on Noble's Island. This is a new firm of ship-builders, both the partners of which have formerly been foremen of some of our best yards—and are therefore, as practical men, prepared to sustain the high reputation of Portsmouth ships.

LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN.—The third of the series of lectures to Young Men will be delivered in the middle St. Church to-morrow evening. Services to commence at 7.

☞ We learn that Mr. Samuel Newell, who was mortally wounded in the late railroad disaster at Andover, and who has since died at Lawrence, was one of our near neighbors, having his summer residence at Kittery Point, (in the old Sparhawk Mansion House,) where he was highly respected.

THE UNCLE TOM MANIA.—At the first masked ball in Paris, among the principal characters were Uncle Tom, Topsy, Eva, and Cassey, from Mrs. Stowe's novel. Negro melodies are also played at the Concerts in Paris.

EMIGRATION TO TEXAS.—The population of Texas was increased two hundred thousand last year, thinks the Houston Telegraph. The editor says:—"The roads through the eastern counties are literally lined with emigrants. The ferries on Red River are constantly employed in transporting emigrants from the east to the western shore. The steamers on the gulf are conveying nearly as many emigrants to our ports as there are crossing the ferries. Every steamer comes completely crowded with passengers."

The Northern Democrat, published at Meredith Bridge, says,

It strikes us that we read of many "distinguished" men just about this time, who never were heard of twenty miles out of New Hampshire till after Gen. Pierce was elected. We hope the Boston papers will not overdo the matter too extensively.

NORTHERN VOYAGERS.—The friends of Capt. Collinson of Her Britanic Majesty's ship Enterprise, will be delighted to hear that he has been seen by some American whalers.—This officer it will be recollected went in search of Sir John Franklin, and was supposed to have been lost for nearly two years.

CHINA.—Dates to 31st Oct. have been received via California. Pirates were committing outrages at Ningong, and other points. A battle had taken place between the piratical fleet and a Portuguese force sent to capture them. The pirates finally escaped by putting to sea in a storm.

The total amount of Teas exported from Shanghai to the United States, from the 1st of July to Oct 28th, is 10,000,268 lbs., being an excess of nearly 6,000,000 over the exports for the same period last year.

Capt. Wm. Drew, formerly of Duxbury for many years a shipmaster from Boston and of late employed in the Boston custom-house, died in Boston on the 12th inst. He sailed from Boston in a privateer, soon after the breaking out of the war of 1812, and was sent as one of the prize crew on board one of the captured vessels, from which they were retaken, when within a few hours sail from port, by a British cruiser and confined in Dartmoor prison, where he remained until the close of the war—some twenty months.—Boston Post.

A London writer in a London Journal, in discoursing of London beer bibbing, represents the consequences of the existing "monstrous monopoly" as to beer selling, to be the largest city in the world drenched with drugged drink, at double the price at which it could refresh itself with pure malt and hops, were the trade free—and all for the benefit of a dozen bloated brewers, the corpulence of whose horses and draymen illustrate more grossly than my pen can, the exorbitance of the monopoly in which they revel.

PUNCH AND PUNCH'S ALMANAC.

The following are from the last number of Punch and from the Almanac of 1853.

SINCERE ATTACHMENT.

"Hast thou ever yet loved, Henrietta?" I sighed.
"I should rather imagine I had," she replied;
"Oh' did not my glances my feelings betray
When you helped me the third time to pudding to-day?"

The Triumph of Temperance.—The lovers and advocates of temperance need only look at the present size of the quart and pint measures to be convinced of the gradual decrease of drinking in this country.

New Sauce.—Soyer has become so imbued with the feelings of Uncle Tom's Cabin, that he has invented a new sauce, which, out of respect to Mrs. Stowe, he has christened "The Tom-Martyr."

The British Slave Market.—Anybody in England is liable to be sold by auction whom it is possible for the auctioneer to take in.

The Doctor's Best Friend.—The piano—for a young lady no sooner goes near one in society, than she's immediately seized with a cold.

An Old English Beverage.—The ancient apothecaries compounded aurum potabile—drinkable gold; which, if made out of coin, was an anticipation of the Yankee notion of mint julep.

Memorandum for Mine Proprietors.—In building a column you commence with the base, but to sink a shaft you should first lay down your capital.

Passing Strange.—A lady passing a bonnet-shop without stopping.

Discovery of an old Joke.—One of the old French noblesse (who had read Shakspeare) being asked why he had been forced to emigrate, said that like the crime of the King in Hamlet, his offence was rank.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

MAINE LEGISLATURE.—Augusta, Jan. 14.—Wm. G. Crosby, Whig, is elected Governor by the Senate to-day, by 17 to 14.

JAVA PIRATES.—Accounts from Java state that a large fleet of pirate vessels, under the leadership of a woman, several months previously established themselves at Baikonka, from whence they made incursions and captured a number of trading vessels. It is stated that the trade between Cochin China and Singapore has been almost annihilated by the numerous Chinese pirate vessels on that sea. The Free Press states that they come into Singapore and sell their plunder, and they do this boldly, because they take care to destroy all who could testify against them.

RAILROADS IN MAINE.—The Bangor papers state that the Directors of the Penobscot and Kennebec railroad are actively engaged in obtaining subscriptions to the stock of the company. Some ten or fifteen of the leading houses in the importation and jobbing trade in this city, have taken stock in it, and those engaged in other branches of trade are to be called on in a few days.—Boston Journal.

PIRACY IN THE STRAITS OF GIBRALTAR.—A bold act of piracy is chronicled in a late English paper, which says:

"A letter from Marseilles, of the 23d ult., announces the arrival there of the Prussian brig Flora, Captain Witt, with a cargo of coal from Shields, whence she sailed on the 2d of November last. On the 7th, being in the Straits of Gibraltar, she was boarded by a boat with ten men, who first fired at the crew of the Flora. They immediately commanded the captain to steer for the coast of Morocco, and to run his vessel ashore, which he failed to do in consequence of the calm. The pirates, furious against the helmsman, shot him and threw his body into the sea. The remainder of the crew, terrified at this act, fled into the hold, and left the captain and his mate on deck. The pirates next plundered the brig of the seamen's wearing apparel, the spare sails, and provisions. They then abandoned the Flora, and rowed in the direction of Morocco. These daring acts of piracy, committed in a sea so much frequented by seamen of all nations, concern the interests of commerce in general, and require prompt and energetic repression."

CALIFORNIA & ISTHMUS ITEMS.—In San Francisco at the latest advices, the recent advance in flour was maintained. Sales of Haxall brand were made at $42 per barrel; clear pork $60; mess $46 per barrel; lard 22 1-2c per lb.

The Tennessee arrived at Panama on the 30th, with $2,200,000 in gold dust, and 3000 passengers. She spoke on the 22d of December steamer S. S. Lewis, bound up.

Another severe storm had occurred at Acapulco on the 13th, doing considerable damage. The British sloop of war Amphytryte was at Acapulco bound to Panama with $800,000 in specie.

A correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce says there is now a full supply of butter in New York, but most of it is in the hands of speculators, who will, probably, be heavy losers. Butter, he thinks, will be cheaper this spring, than for many years.

THE GIRARD ESTATE.—We learn from the Philadelphia Ledger that the heirs of Stephen Girard have commenced actions of ejectment in the Circuit Court and Court of Nisi Prius, against the immense estate bequeathed by the old "mariner and merchant" to the city corporation, as trustees, &c. The present action is said to rest on the abolishment of the principle of entail, alleged to be violated in the present devise, which is perpetual; and as Girard could not entail his estate in his own family, how could he entail it in a corporation? The action is said to be timed within the twenty-one years' limit of actual possession, only by a few hours.

The First Universalist Society in Worcester have unanimously invited the Rev. John G. Adams, of Malden, to fill the vacancy in their Pastorate.

"Great events from little causes spring."

All the coffee grown in the West Indies has sprung from two plants taken thither by a French botanist from the botanic garden in Paris. On the voyage the supply of water became nearly exhausted; but so anxious was the Frenchman to preserve the plants, that he deprived himself of his allowance in order to water the coffee plants.—Portland Advertiser.

BROOKLYN FEMALE INSTITUTE.—A widow lady of Brooklyn, whose name is not made public, has offered to give the sum of $60,000 for the purpose of founding in that city a female institute, which shall afford the highest grade of instruction to her sex. The offer was made to the trustees of the Brooklyn Female Academy, which was lately burnt, who have voted to add their funds to the gift, and erect a magnificent Institute.

Bishop Ives, of North Carolina, has addressed to the clergy of his diocese a statement of the reasons that impelled him to withdraw from the Episcopal and to unite with the Roman Catholic Church. This settles the disputed question of the fact of his having gone over to Romanism.

SINGER MARRIED.—A correspondent at San Francisco, states that Miss Goodenow, of the Alleghanians, was privately married while in that place, to Mr. Robb, of Sacramento.

Zealous men are ever displaying to you the strength of their belief, while judicious men are showing you the grounds of it.

DIED OF INJURIES.—Mr. W. G. Lake, who was injured on Charlestown bridge, by being run over by his team about three weeks since, died at his residence in Topsfield, Mass., on Monday evening.

A military convention of one hundred delegates is in session at Syracuse, N. Y.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tinkitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever offered to the public. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

THE MAIDEN'S CHOICE.

A young maid sat by her cottage-tree,
A beautiful maid, at the dawn of day;
Her sewing fell idle upon her knee—
For her heart and her thoughts were far away;
When a sober old wooer came up the dell,
A wooer whose hope one would think were few;
But a maiden's heart is a puzzle to tell—
And though old his face his coat was new.

The wooer he gave her a wistful look—
And wistful, too, were the words he said;
While merry she sang like a summer brook,
And played with her needle and knotted the thread,
He spoke of the ring and the wedding chime,
He pressed her hand, and he bended his knee;
And he begged and implored her to fix the time:
No—go, ask my mother, said she;
Oh, fix it yourself, my darling, said he—
No—go and ask my mother, said she.

Scarce into the house had the wooer gone,
When a young man leap'd or a neighboring stile,
And sad was the look that the youth put on,
And playful and gay was the maiden's smile;
Pray, who is this churl that comes here to woo?
Said why at your side does he talk so free?
May I ask your mother, dear Mary, too?
No, Harry, she whispered—you may ask me!
I'd better go in your mother to see?
No, Harry, no—no! you must kneel and ask me

There was wailing one morn at the village church,
Wailing and weeping and words of wo—
For the wealthy old wooer was left in the lurch;
The maid had gone with the younger beau:
Warmly the sun on the hedgerow glowed,
Warmly it shone on the old farm gate;
And wild was the laughter upon the road
As Harry rode off with his wedded mate!
Ha, ha! he cried—Ho, ho! laughed he—
They may wait a long while ere the bride they see!

PATENTS.
American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1836 a supposed agent was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.
Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of transmitting them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.
The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents, and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and Patent Office Reports, and keeping accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, or more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

EARLY HISTORY OF NEWINGTON.

Quite a number of interesting Historical Memoranda have appeared in the Dover Enquirer, in relation to Dover, its boundaries and divisions. One of them relates to our adjacent town, Newington, and gives many particulars not generally known. Newington was incorporated in 1813.

A meeting of the inhabitants of the place now known as Newington, was held Jan. 21, 1712, at the meeting house which they had already erected, to "confer about hiring a minister among them." These inhabitants were probably nearly equally divided between Dover and Portsmouth. Of those families dwelling on Bloody Point, (the Dover section,) were Dam, Rollins, Bickford, Lankstar, Trickey, Shackford, Pomery, Furber, Knight, Nutter, Leighton and Downs, most or all of whom were descendants of early Bloody Point settlers. At the meeting above mentioned, measures were taken to procure a minister; and as it was not proper that those paying for the support of the ministry at Newington, should be taxed elsewhere, a petition was presented to the General Court to erect a certain part of Dover and Portsmouth into a new Parish, by which act only could they be freed from the taxes demanded by law for the maintenance of the ministry in their respective towns.

The petition and the action held thereon here follows:

[From Council Records.]

The Petition of the Inhabitants of Bloo[dy Point] was read at the Board in the words following:—

To his Excellency Joseph Dudley Esq. Cap[tain] General & Governor in chief in and over her Maj[estys] Province of the Massachusetts Bay, New Hampshire, and the house of Representatives now in General Ass[embly] convened:—

The Petition of the Inhabitants of Bloody Point, with[in] the Limits of the Townships of Dover with some fr[om] the outskirts of Portsmouth,—most Humbly sheweth:—

That your Petitioners living so remote from the Publi[ck] worship of God, and under great inconveniences to Att[end] the same, have of late erected a meeting house and obtain'd a Tract of Sixty Acres of Land for the Accomod[ation] of a minister among them with a firm resolution (by t[he] Divine Assistance) of giving him an honourable - - - - - - to the utmost of their ability,—But the Taxes demanded of us from whence we C[ome off] do [place us] under so insuperable difficulties of doing as otherwise w[e] wish,—

Wherefore most humbly pray that your Excelency (who hitherto has distinguished yourself from others in the publick worship of God) would please so aid [tha]t we your Petitioners by maintaining the minister, school, among ourselves may be Exempted from all the other c[harges] save only the Province Tax of the Assembly.

All which we humbly conceive to be most Reasonable, [and] whereas nothing now is wanting to effect the same but [your] Concurrence, we most humbly - - - - that - - - - - - our request herein. And your Petitioners shall pray as [in du]ty bound &c.

George Huntress, Edward Row, John Dam, Wm. Hoyt, Joseph Richards, Sam'll Rawlings, Joseph Rawlings, Sam'll Tompson, Richard Downing, William Furbur, Jethro Bickford, Clement Meserve, Thomas Bickford, John Fayban, Samuel Huntress, Nathan Knight, John Hodsdon, John Pickerin, 3d, Henry Lankstar, Benj'n Richards, John Downing, John Knight, Thomas Trickey, John Downing, Andrew Peters, John Knight, (2) John ———, John Bickford, John Rawlings, Hatevil Nutter, William Whitham, James Rawlings, Clement Meserve, Moses Dam, Alexander Hodsdon, Henry Nutter, Wm. Shackford, Thomas Leighton, Richard Pumery, Joshua Crocket, John Hutson, John Nutter, Abel Peavey, Tho Row, Edward Pevey, John Quint, John Trickey, James Gray, John Carter, Henry Bennet, Benjamin Bickford, Rich'd Nason, Thomas Downs.

15th of July 1731.

In Council read and the good Intention of Petitioners approved and ordered that the Selectmen of the Town of Dover be notified to appear by Nine o'clock to-morrow in the forenoon at the Council Board.

Charles Story, Secr'y.

Copy ex'd: P. Theodore Atkinson Jun'r; Secr'y.

16th July 1713.

Upon hearing the Selectmen of Dover and the Parties to the Petition,

[Or]dered that the Petition be granted and the Place made [a Par]ish by themselves, they forthwith establishing An able Orthodox and Learned minister amongst them And be henceforth acquitted from the support of the ministry of D[over] and Portsmouth.

And upon Representation of the great alteration this makes in the Town of Dover, Ord. that there is a me[eting] house built at Cochecho much nearer the Centre of the Inhabitants of the said Town.

Ordered that the selectmen of the Town of Dover give ear[ly] notice to the Town to choose proper persons to attend the next Sessions of the General Assembly To shew cause why that at Cochecho may not be the Place of Publick worship f[or the] future, or any other consideration thereupon.

Voted in Council & sent down to the House of Represent[atives] for Concurrence.

Charles Story, Secr'y.

16th July, 1713. Concurr'd with the Council by order [of the House of representatives.

Sam'l Keais, Clerk.

Copy exam'd. P. Theodore Atkinson Juner, Sec.

Col. Waldron and Mark Hunking of the Council, and Mr. Speaker Gerrish, Geo. Jaffrey, John Downing and Samuel Weeks of the House, were appointed to run the line between Greenland and Newington.

Upon the 6 August 1731, the inhabitants assembled under their act of incorporation, to pass such votes regarding town officers as were necessary. The main thing was "to consult together what offer to make mr. fisk in order to be settled in ad parish." Capt. John Knight was chosen Moderator of the meeting, John Dam, Town Clerk, and it was voted that "Ensign Jno Fabyan and mr Jno Downing Juner should have power as selectmen for the year ensuing." It was voted to offer the salary of £80 per annum to Reverend Mr. Fisk. But Reverend Mr. Fisk concluded not to settle at Newington, and received pay for the fifteen Sabbaths on which he had officiated.

Reverend John Emerson preached three sabbaths and a thanksgiving, but he also concluded not to settle at Newington; so he received his £4 for his services, and went his way. Reverend Joseph Adams accepted the invitation that was then given him by the committee,—which we almost forgot to mention consisted of Capt. Jno. Knight, Lt. Jno. Downing, Ensign Jno. Faybans, (plenty of the church militant at any rate,) Jno. Dam, mr. Geo. Huntress and Thomas Leighton,—and the aforesaid Reverend Joseph Adams was thereupon settled, and remained a great many years.

From the American Quarterly Register, we learn that Rev. Joseph Adams of Newington, N. H. was born in Braintree, Mass. in 1689, graduated at Harvard College in 1710; ordained at Newington, Nov. 16, 1715; died in Newington, May 26, 1783, aged 94 years.

Rev. Dr. French of North Hampton, informs us that Mr. Adams went to Newington originally to keep school.

Thayer's Family Memorial says, Joseph Adams, son of Joseph and Hannah Adams, was graduated at Harvard College, in 1710, and that same year kept the town school in Braintree. He was, while he lived, eminent in his profession. In his father's will, dated 23d July, 1731, he says, "I have given my son Joseph Adams, a liberal education, and do hereby further give to him five pounds to be paid to him in money, within one year after my decease."

Allen's Biographical Dictionary says: "He preached a sermon on the death of John Fabian, Esq., in 1757, and a sermon on the necessity of rulers, civil and ecclesiastical, exerting themselves against the growth of impiety. He preached till just before his death."

Rev. Joseph Adams was an uncle of President John Adams.

Hannah Adams, mother of Rev. Joseph Adams, was Hannah Bass, daughter of John and Ruth Bass. Ruth Bass before marriage was Ruth Alden, daughter of the Hon. John Alden, who came in the May Flower to Plymouth, in 1620, and who is said by President Adams to have been "the stripling who first leaped upon the rock."

The descendants of Rev. Joseph Adams are not noticed in Thayer's Family Memorial—they are however, somewhat numerous.—Some of them have constantly resided in Newington at the home of their ancestors—others are in this city.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pump; Window-Shades, Table Oil-cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, JANUARY 17, 1853.

ACCIDENT TO MR. ANNABLE

In one respect, our notice of the accident to Mr. Robert Annable, was incomplete and somewhat erroneous; as we perceive by an account of it given in the Boston Courier of Saturday,—from which it appears that Mr. Annable, who was standing on the platform of the rear car, hearing an unusual noise, got down upon the lower step to ascertain the cause, and found that the break-rod had broken, and become displaced. While in that position, the train being in motion, his head came in contact with a car standing on the opposite track, which knocked him from his posture, with fatal injury.

The Courier then very justly remarks:—

We cannot dismiss this melancholy case, which involves the loss of such a man, in such a manner, without expressing our feeble tribute of respect to him as an officer, a citizen, and a friend, and that tribute will be adopted by every person who knew him. He was a gentleman, in the widest extent which the word can be used. He was one of the old mail-stage drivers between Boston and the East, before railways were established, and since then he has been a conductor on the Eastern Railroad. He was distinguished for integrity, honesty and intelligence, for kindness of heart, suavity of manners, politeness and readiness of accommodation towards all with whom his business relations existed. His fellow-conductors loved him as a father and a brother, the government of the road respected him as one of the most valuable men whom they employed, and the travellers who were used to his familiar and always pleasant face, felt at home with him upon their journey. If he dies under his wounds, as in sorrow we expect he will, or has, the annals of railroad disasters will never chronicle the loss of a more valuable man to the community, or of one more loved and respected by all who knew him.

RHODE ISLAND.—We have seen several intimations in the papers, that Rhode Island has, like New Hampshire, a Protestant test in her Constitution. It is not so. The Providence Journal says,

"The qualification in our constitution applies equally to Protestants and Catholics. No distinction is made here on account of a man's religion, and no amount of property is required to qualify a man for office, if he is an elector."

There is, however, a pretty high property test, required of all naturalized foreigners, before they can be electors, while all native born citizens are admitted to vote without said test, and without asking whether their fathers were born in Europe, Asia or Africa.

IDLE RUMORS—The rumors from Washington, in relation to the purchase of the Republic newspaper, contradict each other every other day—proving conclusively that the concoctors of the reports know nothing about what they write.—Boston Post.

Exactly so; and we have not published one of them, having every reason to doubt the truth of the first report, and having no confidence whatever in any other,—except the denials.

SHORT CAREER.—A Philadelphia despatch of Friday the 14th Jan. says,

Benjamin Benjamin of this city, who married on Wednesday last Deborah Mark of New York, hung himself in his house in Pine street to-day, having discovered that his wife was a lunatic."

Poor fellow, he became a lunatic also, and made a rash into suicide to escape from the wreck of his earthly hopes.

GEN. SCOTT.—Col. Gorman, in a recent speech in the House, to show with what complacency Gen. Scott looks upon his late defeat, referred to a recent conversation he had with the old hero, as follows:

"I asked him," said Gorman," why he did not come down and let us see him."

The General replied;

"I have not been out, and have been engaged in official business, but I should be glad to see any of my friends. I was invited not long since to visit New York, to attend the funeral of the Duke of Wellington, but I declined, giving as a reason that I had been buried myself two weeks, and it would not look well to see a dead man walking in a funeral procession."

DEATH OF SENATOR UPHAM.—In the U. S. Senate, on Friday, Jan. 14, the death of Senator Upham, of Vermont, was announced.

He died at his lodgings at 11 o'clock that day, of varioloid, after about ten days sickness, aged 58. He died easily and calmly. His wife arrived from Vermont a few days ago, and was with him at his death.

☞ We have received the January number of "The Phrenological Journal" and "The Water-Cure Journal," from Messrs. Fowlers & Wells, publishers, New York. They are each $1 a year—and we know of no magazine which gives so much useful information for so little money as these,—especially the Phrenological Magazine. The popular style in which they are published, and the able and attractive manner in which they are conducted, account for their universal circulation.

PRICE OF NEGRO SLAVES IN SOUTH CAROLINA.—The Charleston Courier publishes the following extract from the Lancaster, S. C., Ledger of the 5th inst.:

We attended the sale of negroes belonging to the estate of the late S. Beckham, on the 22d of last month, and were somewhat astonished at the high prices paid for negroes.

Negro men brought from eight hundred to one thousand dollars, the greater number at or near the latter price. One, (a blacksmith) brought $1,435.

At a hiring which took place here on the 1st inst., field hands averaged from $100 to $130, and a blacksmith $229 for one year.

A negro woman we had occasion to purchase the other day, cost us $1,000.

We learn from the Winnsboro' Register that on Monday the 3d inst. a large sale of negroes was made by the Commissioner in Equity for Fairfield district, principally the property of Jacob Gibson, deceased. The negroes were only tolerably likely, and averaged about $620 each. The sales were made on a credit of 12 months. In one instance a likely field hand sold for the round sum of sixteen hundred and thirty dollars. The purchases, however, were principally made by the distributees of the estate.

An account is given in a Java newspaper called the "Bode," of a public auction of three families of slaves belonging to the estate of a deceased Chinese lady. A large number of persons were in attendance, and when the sale was about to commence, the twelve slaves stood up, and begging pardon for the liberty, displayed a few rupees which they had scraped together, and besought the favor to be permitted to bid with the rest for the purchase of their liberty. The Government broker seconded the request and commenced a bid on their behalf. Although nearly the whole Chinese population was present, not a bid was made against them, and they all obtained their liberty for thirty-seven francs.

BRICKMAKERS IN WASHINGTON.—The Hartford Times has a letter from Washington, which says: 'Brickmakers here are making fortunes; and why can they not, when bricks are selling as now, at seven to nine dollars, and the demand increasing? It is estimated that 20,000,000 more will be required to finish the Capitol extension, and about 12,000,000 more for the Patent Office, besides a government hospital, and asylum, private residences, &c.

DANGEROUS FLOUR.—Patent self-raising Flour is an article entering into very general consumption, one thousand barrels being now manufactured at the Croton Mills per month. Its peculiar properties are imparted by incorporating with the flour, during its manufacture, super-carbonate of soda, and tartaric acid, in suitable proportions. We hope any incorporation of drugs in flour, the food of the million, will be avoided. A slight mistake in the article might send thousands from the table to their graves. Out with such compounds. —Cincinnati Gazette.

DROWNED.—Coroner Rice of East Boston held an inquest, on Thursday, on the body of Thos. Henry Deering, at the Rolling Mill in East Boston, who was drowned at about six A. M., at the Mill wharf. Deering left the mill and went down the wharf, when it is supposed he accidentally fell overboad, as some of the workmen heard him cry out and hastened to his assistance, but were unable to rescue him. He was about 22 years of age, and leaves a wife. He was the son of the Rev. Mr. Deering, clergyman at East Boston.

THE MASON WILL CASE.—In the case of the will of the late John Mason, which has been in litigation for thirteen years, and is said to involve property to the amount of a million of dollars, and which has been before the circuit of the State Supreme Court, sitting in New York city, Judge Roosevelt delivered his charge on Thursday, and the jury after three hours consultation, found a special verdict against the validity of the will.—Boston Daily Advertiser.

A GOOD DAY'S SPORT.—Mr. C. Mason, a young lad of this village, shouldered his rifle one day last week, marched off to the hunting grounds, and, in one day, killed five deer, and wounded the sixth, which he says he might have got, but thought five about as many as he could carry out of the woods in one day.—Sandy Hill Herald.

POST OFFICE OPERATIONS.—The Postmaster General has established new post offices at North Weare, Hillsboro' County, N. H., Moses A. Cartland, P. M.; and at West Cheshire, New Haven County, Ct., Samuel Hitchcock, P. M. The name of the office at South Levant, Penobscot, Me., is changed to Levant; that at Gaylord's Bridge, Litchfield, Ct., to Gaylordsville, and that at West Springfield, Sullivan, N. H., to Springfield.

Ahmet Jayor Pasha, who recently died at Alexandria, Egypt, assured an English traveler that in one season he had lost 30 of his children, by infantile complaints. This calamity reduced the number of his offspring to one hundred and thirty.

The Ericsson is a "pulsating" as well as a "breathing" ship. She has a heart, where the heat is generated, as well as lungs—and thus endowed like an animal, she literally, in Byron's famous and oft-quoted expression, "walks the waters like a thing of life."

TUFTS' COLLEGE, SOMERVILLE.—The arrangements for this new Universalist Institution are rapidly progressing. Its beautiful location is the eulogistic theme of all who have visited it.—Boston Bee.

Two shares of the capital stock of the Great Falls Manufacturing Company were sold at the broker's board in Boston, on Tuesday last for two hundred and twenty dollars per share.—Gt. Falls Jour.

A long list of the presidents and cashiers of nearly all the banks in Illinois, who have been indicted by the grand jury for illegal banking, is published in a Chicago paper. Nearly all have given bail to appear for trial.

LOCAL.

MR. ANNABLE.

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. Annable was still alive, but his condition did not appear to to be improved, a high fever having set in.—He had not opened his eyes or recovered his speech, while his breath had become short and quicker. But slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

P. S.—Mr. Annable died on Sunday evening.

HISTORICAL ACCOUNT OF NEWINGTON.

All our readers in Newington, and not a few in other towns, will peruse with some interest, the account of that place, which appears in our columns to-day. In addition to the particulars therein noted, Adams's Annals of Portsmouth state that "his Excellency Governor Dudley named the parish at Bloody Point—Newington."

Alden's account of Religious Societies in Portsmouth, informs us there is a tradition that the people of Greenland, which formed a part of Portsmouth, voted with the north-enders, to occupy the present Old North Meeting House in 1713, on condition that these north-enders should vote to have Greenland set off as a separate parish in due time, which coalition was duly carried out. Several circumstances induce us to believe that a similar arrangement was made with Newington, which was actually set off in the same year in which the North Meeting House was first occupied.

Rev. Mr. Adams was succeeded in the ministry at Newington, by Rev. Joseph Langdon, a native of Portsmouth, and graduate of Dartmouth College, who preached there a number of years, and after his dismission resided here until his death. The meeting-house in which they both preached is now standing, having been neatly remodeled and repaired by the town.

CHEMICAL LECTURES.

Our readers will see this morning in our advertising columns, a very brief and modest notice of a course of Chemical Lectures by Prof. Henri Erni. We hope the modesty of the notice and of the writer will not be an obstacle in the way of his success in getting up a course of such lectures in this city. His credentials are of the very highest order, as he is recommended by Agassiz, Professor Silliman, and other scientific men, all of whom give him the character of an able and skilful chemist, and a sound philosopher, an adept at once in the art and the science of Chemistry.

Thus recommended, there can be no doubt of his competency to give us exactly such a course of lectures as we ought to have in this city. His terms are quite reasonable, and we hope he may at once meet with encouragement sufficient to commence his course.

A GRAND EXHIBITION.

The Panorama of the Mammoth Cave, the Crystal Palace, &c. at the Temple, has already been witnessed by nearly "all the world," and will be open for exhibition to "the rest of mankind" this evening—which is positively the last chance. It is rarely we have so much real merit embodied in a ninepenny exhibition. Good singing, good playing, full explanation of all the scenes, and the certainty of a good audience being present, combine to give Mr. Howworth a full attendance. Remember, this is your last chance.

TWO CRAYON DRAWING.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. Gerry is prospering with his drawing class, at the corner of Vaughan and Hanover streets, where all who wish to avail themselves of excellent tuition in this fine art would do well to make speedy application.

RATHER HARD.—At Capt Towle's auction, on the Square, last Saturday, a lot of gents' under garments were among the articles sold. A single shirt was left—bidders were not very brisk—the auctioneer, urging them a little, cries out, "Who takes the last shirt?" "The Deputy Sheriff!" replies a teamster, who happened to be passing. The laugh was rather against the Capt.,—he acknowledged the corn, and sang not long "the song of the shirt."

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—As the 6½ o'clock train from Boston on the Eastern Railroad, was coming down between Swampscott and Castle Hill, on Thursday evening, Mr. Franklin Barrett, fireman of the engine, fell off, and was considerably injured. He was found sitting by the side of the road, with his face and neck badly bruised, and his skull considerably cut. Mr. Barrett is a young man from Vermont. He will probably be confined for a month or two.—Salem Observer, 15th.

The recently prepared pre-paid postage envelopes have been rejected by the department; the contractors are to furnish better specimens by the 1st of February.

The lord mayor of London lately fined an omnibus conductor twenty shillings for turning a little boy out of his omnibus to accommodate a "gentleman."

In the reign of Queen Elizabeth, if bad fish were sold to the poor, the knavish fishmonger was decorated with a necklace of his own unsavory commodity, and was then perched on a stand in the market.

PORTRAIT OF MR. WEBSTER FOR THE LAW SCHOOL.—We learn from the Cambridge Chronicle that the portrait of Mr. Webster to be placed in the lecture room of the Dane Law School is nearly completed. The editor pronounces it the best likeness he has ever seen of the distinguished statesman, representing him as he had been known in Boston for the last ten or fifteen years. It is painted by Mr. Joseph Ames of Boston. The cost will be about $1000. Among the subscribers are the names of Hon. Josiah Quincy, Judge Shaw, Jonathan Phillips, Esq., Hon. R. C. Winthrop, Hon. Nathan Appleton, President Sparks, Samuel A. Eliot, W. P. Cushing of Watertown, and Hon. Ichabod Goodwin of this city. The picture is to occupy a place in the lecture room by the side of that of Chief Justice Marshall. The portrait will probably be placed in the Hall by the first of next term.

SHIP BUILDING AT PASSAMAQUODDY.—The number of vessels built at Eastport, Robbinston, Pembroke, Calais, Lubec, Perry, Trescott, Dennysville and Whiting, last year, was 46, viz: 5 ships, 18 barks, 9 brigs, 13 schooners, and 1 steamer; total tonnage 14,086.

"PORTLAND, Dec. 26, 1852.

I have been exceedingly pleased with Mr. W. D. Ross's Portable Bed Chairs. The ease with which they can be put upon any bed, and raised or lowered when so placed, seemed to render them far superior to any article of the kind I have ever before seen. GILMAN DAVIES, M. D."

"I fully concur in the above recommendaton of Mr. Rose's Bed Chairs. E. CLARK, M. D."

SUGAR HOUSE BURNED.—New Orleans, Jan. 6.—The sugar house of Dr. J. Pritchard, in Sherville, was burnt on the 3d inst., together with all the stock and improvements.—Loss $50,000. There is no insurance.

SHIPS REPORTED ASHORE.—New York, Jan. 15.—Two ships are reported ashore on the north part of Squam Beach. One of them is the Cornelius Grinnell, from London, with 200 passengers; the other is unknown. Orders have been issued by the Underwriters for two or three steamers to go to the relief of the unfortunate vessels.

TAMPICO A CLOSED PORT.—New York, Jan. 15.—The Mexican Secretary of the Treasury has ordered the Consul General of Mexico here in New York, to inform the public that the port of Tampico is closed to interior and exterior trade. In consequence thereof no papers will be delivered for vessels clearing for the said port.

Thirty-Second Congress—Second Session.

FRIDAY, Jan. 14.

SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Mallory, the joint resolution authorizing the President to incorporate the Officers of the Texas Navy of the United States was taken up, and after a short debate was postponed.

Several private bills were passed.

A debate on Mr. Badger's nomination was abruptly interrupted by the announcement of the death of Mr. Upham, when the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The bill to prevent frauds on the Treasury, perfected yesterday, was passed. Yeas 134; nays 23.

Mr. Marshall asked leave to introduce the following resolution:

Resolved, That the sum of $10,000,000 be set apart out of any funds in the Treasury, not otherwise appropriated, and be placed at the disposal of the President, for the purpose of enabling him, during the recess of Congress, to meet any exigencies which may arise out of the momentous subjects connected with the present foreign relations of the country and the other powers of the earth, liable on account of their character and complexity to present themselves from hour to hour, and requiring immediate consideration. Objected to.

The House then went into Committee on the bill for the suppression of small notes in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Dean wished to have the bill recommitted, with instructions to report one authorizing free banking.

A discussion ensued, but without coming to any conclusion the committee rose and the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON NEWS, January 14th, 1853. The impression gains ground that the Senate will not act finally upon Mr. Badger's nomination until after the 4th of March.

We learn from Wilmington that the friends of Mr. Clayton are greatly elated at his double triumphs and the same feeling is expressed here.

The New York correspondent of the London Times says:

"By every arrival from Cuba we learn that the slave trade is increasing, and private information I have received, and on which I rely most implicitly, convinces me that the public reports on this subject are by no means exaggerated. The captain general of Cuba is deeply concerned in this traffic, and you will have observed that, under false representations, a fine clipper-built American ship, with an American crew, and sailing from one of our own ports, has recently been purchased in Havana, destined for the slave trade. As these clippers are built, it is in vain for the now English men-of-war to attempt to overtake them in a sea chase, while their steamers can do it only when these clippers are becalmed. That there has been the most flagrant violation of all good faith on the part of the provincial government of Cuba at least, if not of the government of Madrid itself, I entertain no doubt."

NEW YORK CRYSTAL PALACE.—Hogg & Delamater, of New York, are making the frame for the Crystal Palace. It will be a large structure, built of iron trestle-work, and weighing fifty tons. The diameter of the dome will be 100 feet, and its height 52 feet. It will be covered with wood. Other iron girders are employed on other portions of the building.

The house of the editor of the New York Day Book, at Jamaica, L. I., was broken into on Tuesday night, while the inmates were asleep, the burglars taking everything they could carry away, their hands on—coats, shawls, dresses, silver ware, fancy articles of various kinds, &c. and making off with their booty without disturbing any of the family. They even took the gold pen and writing-desk.

The court martial which some time since tried Captain George Maclane, of the army, for the assault upon a superior officer, growing out of the publication relating to Gen. Pierce, sentenced him to be cashiered—but by virtue of gallant services and recomendations of the members of the court, individually, the President has commuted the sentence to a suspension and stoppage of pay.

A young lady at Elkton, Md., had some difficulty with her mother last Thursday evening, on account of her lover, who was present, in a fit of desperation she went into the yard and plunged head foremost down the well.—Her lover leaped in after her, and by great exertion succeeded in rescuing her from a miserable end. When taken out, her head was found to be badly cut.

Licensed gambling is to be restored in France; the emperor has been practising a daring game there for some time, in an unlicensed manner.

THE ART OF BEING BEAUTIFUL.

It has long been a desideratum that some scientific man should apply himself to the study of the human scalp. Dr. JACOBY, the great Pathologist, from Berlin, has done this, and in this new field has attained the most brilliant results.—Satisfied by an analysis of the red colored alcohols and other washes, of their deleterious effects, he compounded his celebrated Berliner Haar Wasche, to the efficacy of which thousands of witnesses might be summoned, of the accompanying character:—

Boston, Jan 1, 1848.

This is to certify that I have had an article called the Berliner Haar Wasche applied during the past five or six weeks to my head, for the purpose of renewing and strengthening the hair. It has been very effective in producing such a result; and I can cheerfully recommend the same to those afflicted with baldness or diseases connected therewith. JONAS CHICKERING.

It frequently happens that ladies suffer from hair eaters, and apply some of the nostrums prepared by apothecaries, who think, because they can make poor soda water, they can prepare good hair wash. The effect of these is often highly injurious. Ladies, use none of them,—consult Dr. Jacoby, who will eradicate the nuisance and guarantee a beautiful head of hair. His motto is, no cure, no pay.

To those at a distance, the Champoo Washer Nos. 1 and 2, and Haar Wasche, are recommended.—There is, however, no universal specific, and all persons troubled, should if possible see Dr. Jacoby.

In the course of his scientific research, Dr. Jacoby has discovered a Hair Dye that does not stain the skin, will give any shade of color, and will stand exposure in all weather. The accompanying certificate, from a highly scientific source, must satisfy the most incredulous.

Boston, Nov. 18, 1851.

CHARLES T. JACKSON, M.D.,
Assayer to the State of Mass.

Dr. Jacoby's rooms are at No. 9 Franklin street, Boston, where he may be consulted at all hours.—There are always in attendance in both ladies' and gentlemen's rooms the most skilful hair dressers.

Numerous testimonials might be appended, but the proprietors rest upon its merits. Sold by the principal Grocers throughout the country. All orders promptly attended to. M. B. BIGELOW,

PATENTS.
American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of securing their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. Eddy, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent in the city, respectfully, Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

The sale of the greatest flax mill on the continent, says the Paris correspondent of a London paper, situated on the frontier, close to Courtrai, has been the greatest commercial event of the week, but would be of little import to us, did it not exemplify the prognostic of the advent of women to the rule of the commercial world in France, as well as that of the world of politics and that of gallantry, which they have so long swayed. The purchaser of that vast concern is Madame L——, to whom it was knocked down after the warmest competition on the part of some of the greatest mill owners of Europe. The history of this lady is perhaps one of greater interest than that of many of the wisest men and bravest conquerors of the earth; exhibiting, moreover, the French element of character in its most striking and advantageous light:

"Madame L—— is the daughter of a merchant at Marseilles, and when still very young was married to a Catalan officer in the service of Don Carlos. During the whole of the disastrous war which preceded the entire defeat of the Pretender, and his final expulsion from Spain, Madame L—— followed the fortunes of her husband, and it was doubtless during this time of hardship and danger that both mind and body became fortified to the task which was subsequently imposed upon her. During one of the skirmishes in the mountains, her husband was shot. Madame L—— with her own hands dug his grave, and fled alone with her two children into the deepest solitudes. She well knew that neither her sex nor her foreign birth would have saved her from the fate of all connected with the fortunes of Don Carlos. The peasants of the district, although destitute as herself, were less ferocious than the soldiers of her majesty, and she took shelter in the ruins of an old convent, situated on a steep acclivity, frequented only by the shepherds who came from the valley below to tend their flocks. Wood was the only comfort which could be had during the long and dreary winter; of this Madame L——, unaided, laid in a good supply.—By attending to the sheep and stabling them during the night, she obtained a scanty crust for herself, and milk for her children, without cost.

In a little while the, inconvenience and loss of time occasioned by the obligation to ascend the mountain on the part of the women, when employed in bringing food or messages to their husbands, led her to offer to share her refuge with the poor female peasants during the day. The great refectory of the convent was soon cleared out by her industrious hands, and presently each morning beheld the arrival of the whole village up at the convent, where it was found by the women far more cheerful and pleasant to sit and spin the livelong day, in company, in a large, airy, well-warmed hall, and to see the children merry with their playmates, than to pass the hours in dreary watching for the husband's return, each one alone in her solitary bovel, worried with the cries of hungry children, and prevented from working by the daily journey up to the mountains. The only remuneration which Madame L—— received, for many months, from each of her guests was a weekly handful of spun wool, which she would now and then sell at the nearest town.

By degress, and by dint of management and industry, she was enabled to purchase for herself the raw wool of the shepherds, and to beg for work instead of material from their wives. Before the summer was over, she had already contracted for the labor of most of her protegees, and at the very next sheep-shearing became the purchaser of more than half the wool. The winter following, was one of immense prosperity in the village. No longer forced to wend their weary journey to the town in search of a precarious sale for the produce of their labor, nor up the cold mountains to bear provisions for their husbands, the women found a buyer for the whole of their work in the person of Madame L——, who, during the second spring after her establishment in the convent, was enabled to take a journey to the frontier, and there to contract with one of the greatest wool buyers of France for the produce of her next winter's spinning. In three years the old convent of F—— was found converted into a spinning factory; in fine it was renowned throughout the commerce of the north for the beauty and fineness of its produce; and at this day it is the most important and thriving establishment of the kind in all Spain.

Madame L—— has four of these great factories constantly employed in the country, seven of divers dimensions in France, beside several flax and cotton mills in Belgium, to which, by her late purchase, she has added the most important in that kingdom. She is now one of the most wealthy industrial capitalists of Europe. She is courted and applauded; associates with the highest individuals of every country she visits; is the guest of sovereigns when treating commercial questions of importance. She possesses to the fullest extent, the influence she desires and deserves, and yet she has retained the simplicity of taste she had acquired while sharing the adverse fortune of her husband, and the only selfish luxury in which she has indulged since her acquisition of wealth, is the magnificent monument of white marble which greets the astonished eyes of the traveller in one of the wildest and most solitary passes near Probeda, and records, in letters of gold, that in that spot is buried 'Iago L——, aged 27, who fell in the service of his country.'"

PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, JANUARY 18, 1853.

OREGON.

A gentleman, residing in Salem the seat of Government for this territory, writing to a friend in this city, under date of Nov. 18th, says, among other items of interest, perpaps, to those having friends there:—

"Flour is $12 per cwt., $4.50 has been the usual price. But the immense immigration has come down upon the scanty crop of this year like a famished beast, and it is almost impossible to get enough at any rate. Beef is selling rapidly at 12 cts,although there are tens of thousands of cattle roaming the hills. It is now the season of the year when in your country vegetation ceases to grow, yet the grass on all the hills and in all the valleys of this country is springing green and fresh, supporting without a spoonfull of grain, and without hay, the cattle, horses and sheep of the farmers. The cattle of the immigrants,after getting sadly reduced in crossing the plains, are turned out here with the expectation that in the spring they will be fat. * * * *

The rains of this winter have set in with more than usual violence, putting an end for the present to the ploughing and other farmer's work. * * * In the winter it is extremely unpleasant getting about here, except on horseback; in fact travelling on foot is out of the question. Every little valley, then, becomes a winter creek, and every ravine, the channel of a rushing stream, while every spot depressed below the surrounding surface becomes a pool, or pond, or lake, according to its size.

'Politics' have been running high, of late. The Governor undertook to prevent the passage of a bill locating the seat of government at Salem; intending by hook or by crook to keep it at Oregon City. He sent in what he termed a veto, but the legislature gave him to understand pretty quickly, that he did not possess this power,and adhered to the previous vote. Since then, the Gov. has constantly refused to disburse the funds provided by Congress for the erection of public buildings, raising some quibble or other, until the attention of the powers at Washington was called to the matter. The legislature was sustained, and the funds taken from 'His Excellency's' hands and placed where they will be available. The Gov. has been thrashed, both here and in Congress,—in one case with words, in the other with something more sensible. 'I, John P. Gaines,' as he is fond of stating his authority in public documents, is a standing byword with which to ridicule his egotism.

The legislature is largely democratic."

MAINE POLITICS.

Maine politics, to us, are past finding out. To be sure the Portland Advertiser, a whig paper, tells us that out of seven Councillors, chosen on Saturday, four were wild cats, and three were whigs—that certain democrats, not chosen, had 88 votes—and that Mr. Sawyer, democrat, is elected Secretary of State, by a vote of one majority over his whig competitor. But then, besides these party names, there are the "woolly heads," whom we took to be free-soilers, but now understand to be a portion of the democrats. Then we know that there are liquor-law and anti-liquor law men. But the mixture is so confused that we give up all idea of disentangling the snarl, and introduce two paragraphs from Maine papers, to tell their own story. The first is from the Expositor, democratic:

"We learn that one of the trading candidates has been very unfortunate. He was advised to get his supposed influential friends from this county to congregate at Augusta, and make a set onslaught upon the Legislature and the pending vacancies. In an evil hour he did so. But on their coming together and comparing notes, some three or four sets discovered they had severally been promised his influence with the President for the same identical office—and therefore two or three went there equally certain of being his particular candidate for the Custom House, and two or three more were each certain of the Post Office, and all the subordinate places, even to the porter's place, had been duplicated at least in promises. The consequence of this discovery—out-Cliffording Clifford, was as might be supposed, a grand stampede among this candidate's forces, so that scarcely half a dozen remain to whisper his name in the corners of the bar-rooms.

The other we take second hand from the Belfast Journal, (a whig paper, we believe:)

"But really, we have taken a sudden disgust at politics, and have it in mind to publish an agricultural, literary, or theological paper. We are most inclined to the former. The harmless earth always yields returns for labor. But in politics we gather thistles where we expected figs. We have several political communications before us, but shall not read them. One we partly read. It counsels harmony! The writer hopes "the two sections of the democratic party called 'woolly heads' and 'wild cats' will now unite!" Mirabile dictu! Oil and water! In the mean time let our readers be prepared for some fine agricultural, literary, and scientific articles. We would direct especial attention to our leader. Ericsson's caloric ship works much better than the democracy of the legislature.

MORE ALLEGED BRIBERY.

In an article in the supplement to a late number of the Crusader, published in Concord, giving the result of the action of the Legislature on the "Liquor Bill," is found in the following:—

"The twenty two thousand dollars spent by the Boston rumsellers have done more to move the little world of a legislature, than the prayers and petitions of seventy five thousand of the inhabitants of the state! Those men holding high stations of trust and importance in this state, who gave their WRITTEN WORD, signed, sealed and delivered, that the law should not pass, have kept their word, and can now humble themselves at the feet of their patrons, and ask for more work of the same degraded character! Such is their success! That Boston rumseller who now holds that document can continue log-rolling in New Hampshire, and by the influence of this act do much harm in Massachusetts, but he cannot long battle the ordinances of High Heaven by his unholy deeds! Twice he has held out this document before the eyes of New Hampshire men, and in taunting language, exclaimed,—'Thus can I buy New Hampshire!'"

A correspondent says,

"Such are the charges! What are the facts? Will any of the one hundred and forty seven gentlemen, who voted for the indefinite postponement of the bill, condescend to give the people the desired information?"

Now we know a number of those who voted to postpone the bill, to be men who were opposed to the bill on their own account, and needed no bribery,—but if the Crusader speaks truly, there has been bribery on a large scale. If this is true, the guilty parties should be exposed. If false, the falsifier should be made to eat his words. This matter of bribery is entirely distinct from the merits or demerits of the bill—and it is for the interest of every good citizen to ferret out the roguery if there is any, or to make it appear all right if there is not. We do not rely on the Crusader as the best authority—and if the statements were not direct and positive, would not notice them—but legislators ought to be, like Cesar's wife, above suspicion.

SUICIDE AT LOWELL.—The Lowell News says that on last Friday, at noon the body of Mr. James Brigham living on the back road to Chelmsford, was discovered in his barn suspended by a rope to one of the beams, with life extinct. Mr. B., left the house about 10 o'clock, saying to his wife that he was going to Mr. Smith Adam's. At noon his son went to the barn and discovered him as above stated. He had ascended by a ladder to a scaffold, drawn the ladder up and ascended to still another, and then swung off from a beam.—He had taken care to grease the rope so that it would slip easily and make sure work. A small pocket memorandum book was found by him, on a leaf of which was written the following:

"Beware of (we omit the name.) Don't cry for me. I am rational. James Brigham. In debt."

On the opposite leaf was written:—

"LOWELL, Jan. 14, 1853."

"A word or two and I am done. I am in debt and can't live. Times are so hard I can't live. I pray the God of love to have mercy on my soul and family. I can't live. Have mercy on the children. Be honest and go ahead. Don't cry for me. Beware of——"

CABINET SPECULATIONS.—The speculations of telegraphic and mail correspondents, of various papers, sent from Washington and predicting who Gen. Pierce will call into the Cabinet, seem to us utterly worthless. By and by, however, he will make up his Cabinet, and then somebody will present a claim for great sagacity in guessing right. And indeed somebody must guess right, for the letter writers have guessed everybody that is likely, and not a few that are very unlikely to be, members of a cabinet.

HORRIBLE MISTAKE.—We have recently published a statement of a mutiny of Chinese Coolies, on board an emigrant ship, the Gertrude, which was bound to Havana: but by the English papers received per steamer Arabia, it appears the supposed mutiny has turned out, on investigation at Singapore, to have been merely a difficulty among the Coolies; but having no interpreter, they were unable to make themselves understood; seventeen of them were shot dead.

The poor fellows fell victims, then, to ignorance, or cowardice, or both, in the officers and crew of the Gertrude.

MARRIAGE OF AR-SHOWE.—This celestial tea-vender was married, on Sunday evening, in South Boston, to Miss Louisa M. Henss, a young woman of German descent, but of American birth. The ceremony took place in St. Mathews Episcopal Church, where two other Chinamen, and a crowd of our own people, of both sexes, were present.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Samuel Hanscom, 2d, of Dover, while chopping wood on Mount Pleasant, on Tuesday last, had his shoulder-bone broken by the falling of a tree upon him which another man was cutting down.—Dover Enquirer.

LOCAL.

☞ MR. ROBERT W. ANNABLE, whose death on Sunday evening was matter for sincere mourning to this whole community, was a native of Wenham, Mass.—but he has been a citizen of Portsmouth for many years, without making, so far as we know, a single foe. He was one of the original members of the order of Odd Fellows in this city.—Among the trusty old stage-drivers of a former period, he was pre-eminently so—and in the midst of temptations to be otherwise, he was a teetotaller, years before there were enough of such to keep him in countenance. He was careful, both as a driver and a conductor, and lost his life ultimately, in the careful discharge of his duty. His age was 56, and his funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon, at half past 2 o'clock, from his late residence in Deer street.

FIRES.—On Monday afternoon at a quarter past 3 o'clock, an alarm of fire was given, proceeding from the large wooden store (opposite the Chronicle office) occupied by Wm. S. Hadley and J. Larrabee. The fire was in the back part of the building, occupied as a dwelling house, and probably arose from some defect in the chimney. The fire department and citizens generally were quickly assembled, and the fire was soon put out.

In the forenoon of the same day, an alarm came from a tenement in Penhallow street, occupied by an Irish family, occasioned by the clothes of a child who was playing near the stove, taking fire. Not much damage was done except to the "childer's clo'es."

☞ The Lecture before the Portsmouth Lyceum this evening, will be delivered by James T. Fields, "a Portsmouth boy," a poet, and a man of taste generally—subject, the Preparation for Foreign Travel.

INCORPORATION OF NEWINGTON.—The town was incorporated in 1764, not in 1813, as stated in yesterday's paper.

RAILROAD FREIGHT TARIFF.—There has been a meeting of some of the directors from the Western, Worcester, Vermont Central Rutland and Burlington, Ogsdenburg and some other Railroads, to discuss the present, rates of freight on these leading roads, with a view of fixing upon a tariff of prices, which shall produce a remunerative increase for the work done.

It has long been desired, that there should be a mutual understanding between the different roads, as to the rates of transporting merchandise and prevent the ruinous competition which has existed for so long a time. The Stockholders will be glad to know that the result of this conference is a mutual understanding, to raise the price of freight.—Boston Transcript.

No doubt of it; and the public, who are not stockholders, will be very sorry for that same result. Such is competition, and combination, and oppugnation, in a selfish and scrambling generation.

CITY REFORM.—A meeting of citizens,—five or six hundred of the most influential men of New York, was holden on Wednesday evening "for the purpose of taking action to remedy the corruption of the present city council. Peter Cooper, Esq., presided, and speeches were made by a number of gentlemen, among whom were Judge Vanderpool and Hiram Ketchum, the last of whom said:—

The City Council was corrupt to the core, and if the law of the land was strictly enforced, each of the members who was guilty of bribery and corruption would be punished.

James Booreman, Esq., of the firm of Booreman, Johnston & Co., informed the meeting that he had received a communication from a gentleman in Albany, who informed him that great excitement prevailed in the Senate and Assembly Legislative Halls, at the State Capitol, respecting the gross misconduct of our Common Council in the sale of the Fort Gansevoort property, and other acts of a similar character.

The Gansevoort property was bought by Reuben Lovejoy for $160,000, and was estimated to be worth $300,000. A committee was appointed to arrange matters for the reading and consideration of tax.payers,and report at an adjourned meeting.

DARING MURDER IN PHILADELPHIA.—A daring outrage was committed in a store on Chesnut street, Philadelphia, on Wednesday afternoon. The store of a Mr. Rink, an estimable man and a good citizen, was entered by a man, who stabbed Mr. R. so severely that he died in a few moments. The cause of this outrage is a matter of mere conjecture, as there was no one in the store but Mr. R. when it took place. Mr. Rink was in the habit of keeping considerable sums of money about his person. It is supposed the murderer was aware of this fact, and had gone into the store under the pretence of making a purchase, and on Mr. R. taking the wallet from his pocket, the murderer seized it, and then used the knife The weapon, reeking with blood, was thrown into the street, where it was found afterwards. The victim was stabbed in three places. The assassin fled down Chesnut street, and though pursued, managed to escape. This murder, perpetrated in broad daylight, in the very heart of the city, is one of the most bold and daring on record.

The Portland Advertiser says—"The Cashier of one of our banks saw, a few days since, a $1 bill of the South Berwick Bank, new plate, altered to $10, very neatly done by some chemical process, the denomination one extracted, and ten substituted, so as to readily deceive, although the plate is diff rent.

Counterfeit ten cent pieces are in circulation, and the public should be on their guard.

CONVERTING SALT WATER TO FRESH.—The New York Journal of Commerce says that Mr. Ericsson, the inventor of the caloric ship, "is now making a condensing apparatus for the conversion of salt water to fresh, during long voyages, for washing, drinking, &c., capable of producing from 300 to 400 gallons of pure water per day. He will thus do away, not only with large coal-bunkers, but water-tanks; and a voyage may be prolonged to almost any desired extent."

THE AMERICAN PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL—Vol. XVII for 1853, devoted to Science, Literature, and General Intelligence. Published by FOWLER AND WELLS, No. 131, NASSAU st., New York.

PHRENOLOGY, the science of MIND, includes in its wide domain a knowledge of all the faculties, passions and powers of the HUMAN SOUL; all the bodily organism over which the soul presides, with its structures and functions; and all the realm of nature to which man is related, and with which he should live in harmony. It includes a knowledge of man and his relations to God and to the universe. It is thus a central and comprehensive science, beginning with the CONSTITUTION OF MAN, and ending with all his possible relations, SPIRITUAL AND MATERIAL. It is thus that SELF-KNOWLEDGE is the basis of all knowledge.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL, therefore, has a sphere that is universal. All philosophy, all science, all art, all the details of practical life, are legitimate subjects of discussion in its columns.—The experience of twenty years has not been lost to us; nor, amid the progress of this wonderful age, have we idly lagged behind. The JOURNAL will endeavor to still be a little in advance of the age, and of its own former efforts.

PHRENOLOY, the science which unfolds to man the laws of his own Physical, Moral and Intellectual Being, will still command our first attention; all other subjects being, in fact, but applications and illustrations of the principles of this science. We shall illustrate the varieties of cerebral development by spirited and truthful ENGRAVINGS of striking specimens of Human Nature, in its highest, and lowest, its harmonious and discordant, its symmetrical and grotesque developments.

YOUNG MEN, about launching forth upon the acclivities of life, and anxious to start right and understand their course, will find the Journal a friend and monitor, to encourage them in virtue shield them from vice, and to prepare them for usefulness and success in life. The various occupations will be discussed in the light of Phrenology and Physiology, so that every one may know in what pursuit he would be most likely to succeed.

THE MERCHANT, the Farmer, the Professional man, the Student, the Teacher, and the Parent will find each number of the Journal an instructive and valuable companion.

The Phrenological Journal is published on the first of each month, at ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. Now is the time to subscribe. Address all letters, post paid, to

FOWLER & WELLS,

This Journal is doing more to benefit mankind than all the gold diggers in the two hemispheres. It is only $1 per year, and is worth ten times that in any family.—Cleaveland Commercial.

Do you wish to acquire the most important knowledge to be learned in the world? Then know thyself. To do this, send for the Phrenological Journal and read it. No other work now published can be so useful to its readers, and especially the young men and young women.—[New Era.

A journal containing such a mass of interesting matter, devoted to the highest happiness and interest of man, written in the clear and lively style of its practical Editors, and afforded at the "ridiculously low price" of One Dollar a Year, must succeed in running up its present large circulation to a much higher figure.—[New York Tribune.

WASHINGTON MATTERS.

Washington, Jan. 17.—If the Whigs are in the Senate on Monday, the nomination of Mr. Badger is to be pushed in the Senate. After the disposal of this matter, Texas is to come up, and then Cuba.

Senator Upham died of the small pox. His remains were taken by the Sergeant-at-Arms, at 10 P. M., to the burial ground, but the sexton refused to receive them into the vault.—This forced the Sergeant to have a grave dug, and this was not finished until 3 o'clock. The proprietors of the Irving House refused to allow the corpse to remain in their house, and therefore there was no public burial.

The U. S. Steam frigate Water Witch, Lt. Com. Page, left the Navy Yard on Friday, bound on an exploring expedition to the Rio de la Plata, and its tributaries.

Lieut. Hunter of the Navy, Henry May and others appointed by the government to search for the alleged Gardiner silver mine, in Mexico, have reached this city. They came in the British steamer from Vera Cruz to Havana, thence in the steamer Isabel to Charleston.—Gardiner remained in Charleston. Their report has not transpired, but it is believed it will confirm the report of the entire fraud. No mine could be found by the Commissioners, though they travelled 1600 miles in search of it.

Senator Soule, Chairman of the Gardiner Claim Committee, will give the subject an early attention.

FOREIGN PARAGRAPHS.

BY THE ARCTIC.

The Emperor of Morocco has stopped the exportation of oil and wool from his dominions, except from the province of Teafner, or Teadner.

Louis Napoleon had returned from Compeigne to Paris. No enthusiasm of any kind was manifested, notwithstanding the various stories of attempts at assassination, his death by a fall from his horse, &c. It is said that he feels much annoyed at the delay of Russia, Austria and Prussia to recognize him as a sovereign; he insists upon being called brother, not simply Napoleon, by the crowned heads. England is said to have accorded him this civility.

The Senate is convoked for the 14th February, and the Corps Legislative for the 13th.

Napoleon is partitioning out his royal residences among his relatives. He has signified to the British Minister at Paris that in future he will not receive any Englishmen who have not been presented previously at the Court of their own sovereign.

Mr. Geniller, professor of mathematics, and a distinguished republican, has been ordered to quit France.

The Pope has required the clergy of Belgium not to engage in any political movements tending to affect the relations between that country and France.

The Court of Rome has addressed a letter to all the powers of Europe inviting them to interfere in behalf of Christians suffering persecutions in Turkey.

The Porte is said to have notified the European powers that he will grant no more concessions in the navigation of the Bosphorus.

The Bank of Constantinople had refused to issue bills of exchange until it be decided whether the Bank is to wind up its affairs.

An opium dealer of Calcutta had absconded, leaving liabilities to the extent of £10,000.

SPECULATION IN CALIFORNIA.—The San Francisco papers discuss at length, and with a spirit of great indignation, the combined effort made by certain flour dealers of that city to monopolize the market; and then by holding on for enormous prices to reduce the entire population of the State to the sad alternative either to pay the most extravagant prices for that indispensable article of food, or to suffer, and perhaps in many cases to starve.—The amount of flour in the market is represented as amply sufficient to supply the demand for several months, and until additional supplies could reach there from the Atlantic cities by the way of the Horn; but according to the San Francisco papers, by a preconcerted movement on the part of speculators the whole has been concentrated in the hands of those who know no mercy, and who demand and receive the most unreasonable prices, and dole out the staff of life at a rate scarcely warranted by a seven years' famine.

Forty-five dolars a barrel for flour in San Francisco, at a time when there is at least a three months supply, and when a clipper ship can freight at New York at five dollars a barrel, and reach the Pacific with a cargo of fifteen thousand barrels in a little over one hundred days, is a price which the California papers say the people ought not and will not submit to patiently. It is the most unwarrantable extortion, and one which if not remedied, may produce very disastrous consequences. That this feeling is widely prevalent is proved by the fact that already meetings are called in various parts of the country, and coercive measures are threatened. Necessity knows no law; and starving men will not sit quietly down to die with ample stores within their reach.

We should not be surprised to receive by the next steamer, intelligence of serious riots. It will not be forgotten that fifteen dollars a barrel for flour in New York, not many years ago, produced a formidable riot, which the whole force of the city was unable to control; that warehouses were broken open, and their contents appropriated by the mob.—Boston Journal.

A CURE BY THE "HAIR OF THE SAME DOG."—A friend gives us the following peculiar case of tobacco chewing and its cure. A gentleman in this vicinity was excessively fond of the weed. A whole paper made just three "quids" for him. His better half was a neat woman. She disliked tobacco, and especially did she dislike the appearance of a pile of "old soldiers" back of a fire-board, where the gentleman was in the habit of throwing them. They were ugly looking customers, large and nasty. The gentleman himself was otherwise neat, and took pleasure in spending his evenings in his well furnished parlor.

His lady finally determined to make the "old soldiers" in the corner as odious as possible, and the next day she gathered them all together and added all the outsiders; she had no difficulty in getting enough, as the gentleman not only chewed large "ends" but changed them often. She placed them in conspicuous places upon the beautiful Bussels carpet; in the centre of the room she placed a "king pile," composed of five of the largest and coarsest. Around stood on end the sentinels in regular order. The whole were made to show to the best advantage, and they really did themselves credit. They stood up on end in full proportions.

At dark the gas-lights were brilliantly burning, and shortly after the gentleman came in.—He stopped short, and at first commenced some hard epithets, then he burst into a loud laugher, and his wife came in to see what the matter was. "Who put these nasty things here?" said he. "They'll ruin your carpet;" and he rang for a servant to clear them away, when his wife interposed: "these things came directly from your mouth," said she. "Are they nasty? will they spoil the carpet?" And then looking at him sharply, she added, "If these things are fit to be held for hours together in my husband's mouth, they are certainly no disgrace to lie upon the carpet which we tread upon."

"Just so," said the husband, and for some reason he has not had any tobacco in his mouth since that time.—Hartford Times.

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the ablest and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

PATENT OFFICE, ——

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully, Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus, and altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Tin Tea Pump; Window-Shades, Table Oil-cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modelled pattern, designed for a Cooking Stove, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner, and the oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with flues for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tin Kitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

THE ESCAPE:

A LEGEND OF LEXINGTON.

Early in the spring of 1789, Mr. Alexander M'Connel of Lexington, Ky., went into the woods on foot to hunt deer. He soon killed a large buck, and returned home for a horse, in order to bring it in. During his absence, a party of five Indians, on one of their skulking expeditions, accidentally stumbled on the body of the deer, and perceiving that it had recently been killed, they naturally supposed that the hunter would speedily return to secure the flesh. Three of them, therefore, took their stations within close rifle shot of the deer, while the other two followed the trail of the hunter, and waylaid the path by which he was expected to return.

M'Connel, expecting no danger, rode carelessly along the path, which the two scouts were watching, until he had come within view of the deer, when he was fired on by the whole party, and his horse killed. While laboring to extricate himself from the dying animal, he was seized by his enemies, overpowered and carried off a prisoner. His captors, however, seemed to be a merry, good-natured set of fellows, and permitted him to accompany them unbound—and what was rather extraordinary, allowed him to retain his gun and hunting accoutrements.

He accompanied them with great apparent cheerfulness, through the day, and displayed his dexterity by shooting deer for the use of the company, until they began to regard him with great partiality. Having travelled with them in this manner for several days, they at length reached the banks of the Ohio River.

Heretofore the Indians had taken the precaution to bind him at night, although not very securely; but on that evening, he remonstrated with them on the subject, and complained so strongly of the pain which the cords gave him, that they merely wrapped the buffalo tug about his wrists, and having tied it in an easy knot, and attached the extremities of the rope to their own bodies, in order to prevent his moving without awaking them, they very composedly went to sleep, leaving the prisoner to follow their example or not, as he pleased.

M'Connel determined to effect his escape that night if possible, as on the following morning they would cross the river, which would render it more difficult. He therefore lay quietly until near midnight, anxiously ruminating on the best means of effecting his object. Accidentally casting his eyes in the direction of his feet, they fell upon the glittering blade of a knife, which had escaped its sheath, and was now lying at the feet of one of the Indians.

To reach it with his hands, without disturbing the two Indians to whom he was fastened, was impossible, and it was very hazardous to attempt to draw it up with his feet. This, however, he attempted. With much difficulty he grasped the blade between his toes, and after repeated and long continued efforts, succeeded at length in bringing it within the reach of his hands. To cut the cords was then but the work of a moment, and gradually and silently extricating his person from the Indians, he walked to the fire and sat down. He saw that his work was but half done. That if he should attempt to return home, without destroying his enemies, he would assuredly be pursued, and probably overtaken, when his fate would be certain.

On the other hand, it seemed almost impossible for a single individual to succeed in a conflict with five Indians, even though unarmed and asleep. He could not hope to deal a blow with a knife so silenly and fatally, as to destroy each one of his enemies in turn, without awakening the rest. Their slumbers were proverbially light and restless—and if he failed with a single one, he must inevitably be overpowered by the survivors. The knife, therefore, was out of the question. After anxious reflection for a few minutes, he formed his plan.

The guns of the Indians were stacked near the fire, their knives and tomahawks were sheathed by their sides. The latter he dared not touch for fear of awakening their owners—but the former he carefully removed, with the exception of two, and hid them in the woods, where he knew the Indians would not readily find them. He then returned to the spot where the Indians were still sleeping, perfectly ignorant of the fate preparing for them, and taking a gun in each hand, he rested the muzzles upon a log, within six feet of his victims, and having taken deliberate aim at the head of one, and the heart of another, he pulled both triggers at the same moment. Both shots were fatal.

At the report of their guns, the others sprang to their feet, and stared wildly about them.—M'Connel, who had run to the spot where the other rifles were hid, hastily seized one of them and fired at two of his enemies, who happened to stand in a line with each other. The nearest one fell dead, being shot through the centre of the body; the second fell also, bellowing loudly, but on recovering, limped off into the woods as fast as possible. The fifth, the only one who remained unhurt, darted off like a deer, with a yell that announced equal terror and astonishment. M'Connel, not wishing to fight any more such battles, selected his own rifle from the stack, and made the best of his way to Lexington, where he arrived in two days.

A short time afterwards, Mrs. Dunlap, of Fayette, who had been several months a prisoner among the Indians on Mad River, had made her escape, and returned to Lexington. She reported that the survivor returned to his tribe with a lamentable tale. He related that they had taken a fine young hunter near Lexington, and had brought him safely as far as the Ohio; that while encamped upon the bank of the river, a large party of white men, had fallen upon them in the night, and killed all his companions, together with the poor defenceless prisoner, who lay bound hand and foot, unable either to escape or resist!

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1853.

SPIRITUALISM—SUPERNATURALISM.

The Boston Chronicle contains an interesting report of a lecture on these subjects by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Potter: among other things, "Bishop Potter said, that it was no part of his purpose to speak of the subject of spiritual rappings, or to explain them. That certain persons had, by fixing their minds intently upon certain objects, inanimate as well as animate, the power to affect these objects, was indisputable, and he instanced the jugglers, who by some such power would make pieces of money placed at a distance from them, move from their positions, &c. Whatever might be the solution of the mystery, it had not yet been discovered, and it was not worth investigating."

He then spoke of Salem witchcraft, 150 years ago—and of the folly of relying on such things as evidences of a Deity, or of supernatural agency, and adds,

"But whether they were supernatural or diabolical was not the question now, nor was the study of their origin and their cause, one which should occupy our time and our thoughts. Had any beneficial results been produced by them, to lead any one to attribute them to a Divine agency? God has other ways of exhibiting his wrath and his mercy, and it is not on such trivial matters that he will stoop to hold communication with his people. Alike foolish it is to attribute them to a diabolical origin. His (Bishop Potter's) advice was, to let this subject alone. We have higher and nobler aims before us. We are placed here to perform other duties, and for other ends."

We are just as much in the dark about the causes which produce the rappings, and some other phenomena, as Bishop Potter is—but we cannot like him, pronounce a thing to be useless, merely because its value is to us unknown. We have no leisure ourselves to examine, and perhaps we lack the requisite skill. But we wish some who have both leisure and skill would expose what they deem imposture if they can. The Bishop himself tells one story, as wonderful as any thing in the rappings.—The report in the Chronicle says,

"Bishop Potter related the case of the man in Northern India, who, like some others, had acquired the faculty of subducing or stopping for a time, the operation of all the functions of the body, suspending, apparently, all the vital powers. This man proceeded systematically: and after giving directions to others what to do with him, he proceeded to stop, by his own will, all circulation of the blood, and of the breath itself even. He became apparently entirely dead. The attendants wrapped up his body, placed it in a box, and then in a tomb, having the same bricked entirely up, so that it was impossible for air or nourishment to enter it. At the end of thirty days, he was taken out, his jaws were forced open, and a few drops of milk were poured down his throat. In a very short time his faculties returned, and in a few hours he was able to be on horseback."

Now if the human will can do such things as these, by learning the operation of natural laws, why can it not do all and more than all that the rappers and media have exhibited? And why should not such men as Potter and Agassiz study more deeply into these laws, and dig out the truth for the common people, and put it into an intelligible form?

We close this article, by copying from the Boston Journal, a paragraph alluding to the power of some men, who can, by their own feet and hands, or by a hazel rod, select places to dig for water, where the water is actually found.

"Perhaps the most direct and authentic evidence in favor of the reality of this gift, is that of the celebrated Adam Clarke, who in a little pamphlet published some thirty years ago, stated that when stationed in his capacity of preacher in the Guernsey islands, he found among his flock a man who pretended to, or rather did, tell people where to dig for and obtain good water. Dr. Clarke believed it to be a deception, and cited the man to trial for attempting to impose on the people.—Upon the trial the accused proved by several respectable witnesses that he had told them where to dig; that they had done so, and found water as he predicted. Still the doctor thought there was some mistake or accident, if not imposition, and requested the accused to select a spot to dig in his presence, that he might test the matter in person. This was done, and the water found. But lest this might have been an accident, the experiment was again tried, and with success. Dr. Clarke was satisfied. He attempted to find a reason for the phenomenon, but not succeeding, concluded that it was a special gift of God to some, for the benefit of the human race!

Dr. Clarke is certainly a good witness.—Our readers may adopt his theory if they please,—or find a better, and support it by facts—if they can.

ACCIDENT.—From a correspondent at Dover, we learn that on Sunday evening last, Thos. H. Cushing, Esq., of Dover, the great Railroad Contractor, and President of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, met with a severe, if not fatal accident. Intending to go out of doors, he accidentally opened the cellar door, and fell headlong down the stairs, by which fall he was so seriously injured, that it is feared he may not recover.

Col. Herbert, the newly elected democratic Governor of Louisiana, is sick and not expected to survive.

MAP OF NORTH AMERICA.

Mr. Thomas White, jr., an agent for the sale of Colton's Maps, is now in this city, and will exhibit to our citizens a beautifully executed, colored and mounted Steel Plate Map of the United States, British Provinces, Mexico and the West Indies; which is one of the most accurate, elegant and useful maps for our Offices, Parlors and Schools. It is altogether superior to any other of the same kind and size—infinitely so to some spurious and grossly incorrect maps which have been circulated in some parts of the country.

Mr. White also has two other Maps of the United States, one smaller and one much larger than the map just described. Also maps of the World, two sizes; and a map of New England. All these are published by J. H. Colton, N. Y., from steel plates. And Mr. White can furnish any map found on Mr. Colton's catalogue, to order.

The whole of these maps, which we have examined, are distinctly lettered, beautifully embellished, and correct, by every test we could apply. Two of the maps can be seen at this office.

LONG SESSIONS.

The People and the Press, in this State, complain of the long sessions of our General Court. The State Capital Reporter brings out this plan to make them shorter:

"The most effectual way both to reduce the numbers and make the sessions short, would be to have each town pay its own members. This would bring the matter directly home to the people. Now, the more members the towns elect, and the longer they stay, the more money they bring home. Then, the fewer they elect, and the shorter the session, the less money would be drawn from the town treasury, which is but one remove from the people's pockets. Let each town pay the per diem and travel of its own members, and we venture to say that there will never afterward be a winter session, nor an unreasonably long one in the summer; nor will there be any necessity to enlarge the Representatives' Hall to accommodate the increasing numbers."

Exactly so. And if it were done, the small army which now invades the State Treasury from towns in the Upper Coos, and very small towns elsewhere, would dwindle down to a corporal's guard. But there is very little prospect of any such movement.

SILVER CHANGE.—The Augusta (Me.) Journal tells us that the whole community will join in petitioning Congress for the passage of Senator Hunter's bill, or some such means of amelioration from the stringent and unprofitable rule which the scarcity of silver inflicts upon the community.

The Boston Courier understands that the city banks have petitions in circulation to procure a remedy, and that the marketmen and retailers have the subject in hand, and respectfully suggests that similar petitions should be sent forth to Congress from the Legislature of Maine, or from its individual members.

At the present time a five cent piece is worth five and a quarter cents in Boston, and other silver change is at the same advance, half dollars, indeed, being scarcer in the market than quarters. This petty annoyance and loss to the consumer and retail seller everywhere should be abated, for in its extent among the people of the whole country it is a great domestic nuisance. Senator Hunter's bill reduces the fineness of the coin. We wish, while Congress has its hand in, it would make 6 and 12 cent pieces; and also cents of half the present size.

If any one here would make and circulate a petition on this subject, almost every shopkeeper and trader would sign it.

THE $10,000,000 APPROPRIATION.

In the House of Representatives, Jan. 17th, Mr. Marshall asked leave to offer a resolution to place at the disposal of the President of the United States the sum of $10,000,000 to meet any emergency in our foreign relations which might arise during the recess of Congress.—He merely wished to have it referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, who might report at any time. Several gentlemen objected to the resolution. Mr. Marshal moved a suspension of the rules. The yeas and nays were loudly called for.

Mr. Stephens of Ga. hoped that those opposed to the resolution would vote against suspending the rules.

The motion to suspend the rules was disagreed to, yeas 26, nays 106.

Yeas—Messrs. Ashley, Beal, Brown of Miss. Burt, Carter, Dean, Doty, Florence, Gaylord, Gorman, Green, Howard, Marsh, Marshall, Mason, McCorkle, Orr, Polk, Riddle, Ross, Russell, Savage, Scarry, Stanton of Ky., S. Martin, Sweetzer.

We can hardly believe this to be a fair test vote: but if it is, the ten million project is outlawed, and had better be abandoned forthwith.

M. Eugene Sue has a feuilleton in the Presse of a late date, in which he states, among other things, that in Savoy all the farm work of plowing and drawing, instead of being done by horses or oxen, is performed by milch cows, which work eight or ten hours a day, without the slightest depreciation of the quality or quantity of milk.

Experiments in this country tell a different story. Here, it is said that six cows will do the work of four oxen, and give the milk of four cows. But most of our farmers in New England will not work cows at all.

LOCAL.

☞ Mr. J. T. Fields's Lecture on the Preparation for Foreign Travel, delivered before the Portsmouth Lyceum on Tuesday evening, was a pleasant and tasteful performance, and was received with that quiet and parlor-like ap, roval which a well bred audience awards to an orator who appreciates them and who can readily appreciate him.

The audience and the orator were mutually at ease, while he sketched out the traveller's equipage of knowledge, patience, industry and good temper, illustrating every point with some incident, real or supposed, that had happened to him or annoyed somebody else.

Among the things a traveller ought to know, was a knowledge of his own country, state and town,—and among other things he ought to be able to do, was to walk. In this connexion he praised Bayard Taylor's walking, and recommended his book, Views Afoot. And in a very natural and easy manner he suggested that the citizens of this goodly city of Portsmouth have within good easy walking distances, many of the most romantic and beautiful views in the world, of hill and dale and river and ocean, of rising and of setting sun, unbroken and unobscured.

The pictures of the intelligent youth in Paris, on the night of the Coup d' Etat, and of Webster at the tomb of Shakespeare, were finely drawn; and the close of his lecture was both patriotic and christian. He alluded to the invisible bells on imaginary towers, that ever ring out the hour of prayer to pilgrims in the Holy Land,—and exhorted the youthful American traveller in Europe, never to lose for a moment the sound of the well remembered bells on the real turrets of his own churches at home.

The lecturer for the next Tuesday evening, is to be Mr. Bunn, of London.

THE SHIP SEA SERPENT.

We noticed a few days since, the arrival at New York, of this splendid clipper ship, in the remarkably short time of 88 days, from Canton, it being her second voyage. The whole passage from New York to California, thence to the East Indies, and back to New York, has been made in less than ten months. Since her return we have seen a letter from one of the owners to the builder, George Raynes, Esq., of this city, saying: "We continue to be very much pleased with the performance of the Sea Serpent, and in justice to you feel bound to say that we do not own a ship that has given us more satisfaction. She looks as well now as the day she was launched. There is not the slightest appearance of weakness or defect about her. Capt. Howland speaks of her in the highest terms, and we feel that you have a right to be proud of her. We think we are safe in saying that there is not a clipper ship afloat that can rank higher than she."

CHEMISTRY.

This is a most interesting science, and it has been wonderfully improved or developed of late years.

We have now in this city, a professor, Mr. Henri Erni, recommended by the very highest authority, such as Agassiz, Prof. Silliman, and other scientific men.

Mr. Erni proposes to deliver a course of Lectures on the Science, if he is encouraged by a competent subscription, which we hope he will obtain, as his course could not fail to be deeply interesting and instructive.

MR. & MRS. CLARK'S CONCERT.

Mr. J. W. Clark, who is an excellent Pianist, will give a Concert at the Cameneum this evening, in which he will be aided by Mrs. Clark, an equally excellent singer, Mr. Meinerth and Mr. Kimball. All these performers are well known and highly appreciated by numerous friends in this city and vicinity, who will not fail to give the proposed Concert a full and fashionable audience. See advertisement.

☞ Whether we go in for curtailing a man's "liberty" to go "over the bay" or not, we do question the policy of appointing such men to watch our city and citizens, as are in the habit of demeaning themselves as did the watch-man we found asleep on the sidewalk at midnight on Monday.

MR. HALE AND COM. MORGAN.—Some time ago, Mr. Hale of New Hampshire, offered in the United States' Senate, a resolution of inquiry into the official conduct of Com. Morgan. The resolution was laid on the table, and while it was there, Com. Morgan died. On the 17th of January the resolution was taken up. Mr. Hale said he had no information one way or the other, either charged or implied, in the resolution, except what had been stated to him on authority which he considered good; if any injustice had been done Commodore Morgan, no one regretted it more than he did. Commodore Morgan being now dead, he hoped the Senate would allow the resolution to be withdrawn. Leave was granted.

ACCIDENT.—On Monday, at Wells, Me., a farmer, whose name we did not learn, slipped from his hay mow into the barn floor, and in his descent fell upon the point of a hay puller, which entered his abdomen and passed through his back. Thus impaled on a wooden stake, the sufferer lay on the floor in agony which may be imagined, but not described, for about an hour. He was then removed, as soon as discovered, to his house; and two neighbors went on the railroad in a hand car to South Berwick, nine miles, and returned with Dr. Trafton of that village, who was obliged to cut and make incisions in the sufferer (who is a fleshy man, weighing about 200 pounds) to the extent of six inches, before the rude instrument could be extracted from his body. He accomplished it, however, and dressed his wounds; and on Tuesday morning, the patient expressed himself as quite comfortable.

SUNDAY SLEIGH RIDING.—There has been tolerable sleighing about Boston for a few days. The Boston Journal says, the amount of riding on Sunday last would hardly be credited by those who "honor the Sabbath day and keep it holy."

Early in the morning nearly every sleigh in the city was engaged for the day, and the stable keepers were firm at ten dollars per team. By noontime, we are told, nothing in the shape of a sleigh could be obtained at the stables either for love or money. In spite of the biting and benumbing nor'wester that blew furiously through the day, every avenue in the suburbs leading from the city was thronged with fast teams. At one hotel in Brighton, nearly 2500 sleighs, single and double, stopped during the day, by actual count.

VERMONT SENATOR.—Ex-Senator Phelps of that state takes the place of Senator Upham, deceased, by appointment of Gov. Fairbanks.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framingham Centre, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.

It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of the House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the L and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.

For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

TELEGRAPH TO THE PACIFIC.—New York, Jan. 17.—Messrs. H. O. Alden of Boston, and James Eddy of Bangor, Superintendent of the Maine Telegraph, have memorialized Congress for a grant of land, to be located along the line of Telegraph which they propose to build between St. Louis and San Francisco, by the way of Salt Lake City. The projectors contemplate the construction of a subterranean line, with testing tubes every five miles, and working stations every 100 miles throughout the route. The distance from St. Louis to San Francisco, by the way of Salt Lake City being about 2500 miles, there will consequently be 24 of these stations on the route, each settled by several families, furnishing a nucleus for so many towns at no distant day, and serving from the first day of their occupation, as halting places for the innumerable caravans of emigrants that are continually travelling the great prairies of the west, between St. Louis and the shores of the Pacific.

The memorialists propose to give the Government, in return for the grant the right forever to transmit, free of charge, over the line, all official despatches and communications, with a preference over all others, and they stipulate in addition that if they or their assignees shall at any time after the line is opened, cease to operate it for the space of six months, the said line, with all its appurtenances, shall be forfeited to the Government.

Washington, Jan. 18.—A KIDNAPPED MAN RECOVERED.—Mr. H. B. Northup, who was commissioned by Gov. Hunt, to recover a free colored man who was kidnapped from New York, has arrived in this city with the negro. The man was found, after a diligent search, in the Red River country, on the outskirts of civilization.

MR. BADGER'S NOMINATION.—Mr. Badger's nomination was taken up yesterday, but in consequence of the receipt of a telegraphic despatch stating that Mr. Fitzpatrick, the new Senator from Alabama, was on his way here, its further consideration was postponed. It will depend upon the decision of the Alabama Senators whether Mr. Badger's nomination will be confirmed or rejected. The President some time ago offered the position to Mr. Crittenden, who declined it.

SINGULAR HOMICIDE.—New York, Jan. 18.—A singular case of homicide was investigated by coroner Gamble, at Randall's Island, yesterday. A boy, six years of age, was found dead in his bed by one of the nurses, and by testimony introduced before the coroner, it would seem that he had been beaten to death by two of his companions. The nurse of the ward slept in the same room with the boys, but knew nothing of the affair till morning. The supposed murderers are only seven years old.

MOVEMENTS OF THE MEXICAN REVOLUTIONISTS.—New York, Jan. 18.—Dates from Vera Cruz to the 4th inst., with corresponding advices from the capital, bring reports of the full headway obtained by the revolutionists. The leader in Guadalajara was entrenching his camp, and making preparations for an active campaign. The government troops in Victoria have been compelled to retreat, with a loss of 100 men, and they had also suffered a repulse in Michoacan.

On the 14th of December there was a garrison in Durango which declared in favor of the plan of Jalisco. Governor Jose declining to remain in office after this demonstration, was succeeded provisionally by Gen. Morrett. Other tidings of a revolt have reached the Goverment from Sonora, Tamaulipas, and various districts, besides there is a mention of a repulse of Minon at Guadalajara, in which Gen. Vasquez was among the killed, and Minon was wounded.

Nothing further has been received respecting the Tehuantepec grant.

Hugh Matthews, insane from fever, was found entirely naked in the streets of Worcester on Thursday morning, and almost frozen. He had escaped from his chamber by breaking through the window while his watchers were out of the room. He was badly cut by the glass, and was covered with blood when found.

Nye, of the American Mail Steamship Pacific; and a Silver Medal to the mate, Mr. Thomson, and to each of the seaman who so bravely manned their life-boat during a terrible gale of wind, and thereby rescued the entire crew of the British ship Jesse Stevens, just as she was sinking at sea.

DEATH OF A MUSICIAN.—John Bartlett, leader of the Boston Brigade Band, a fine performer on the trumpet, died in Boston on Sunday.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.—The New York Times says that the "New England population, of themselves, generate more practically useful inventions than all the rest of the civilized world."

A singer in the northern corner of Iowa, recently dislocated his jaw in attempting to sing "high B." It appears that there was a contest between the victim and a rival teacher as to which should be employed to teach a certain singing school, and the former made such desperate efforts to astonish the natives as led to the lamentable result above-mentioned—but he got the school.

There are 715 churches and 283,000 members of the society of Friends in the United States. Of these, Pennsylvania has 141, with 60,000 members; New York 132, with 40,314. Indiana has 36 churches, with 43,000 members.

There is a plant in the Island of Sumatra the circumference of whose fully expanded flower is nine feet; its nectarium is calculated to hold nine pints; the pistils are as large as a cow's horns, and the whole weight of the blossoms is computed to be fifteen pounds!

EARTHQUAKE AT MANILA.—A circular of Oct. 15, dated at Manila, contains the following information:

From the 16th to the 23d of Sept. we were visited by very violent earthquakes, which have done much damage to the churches, and public and private buildings. There is no record of any equally disastrous since the year 1645, when the place was nearly destroyed.—We are still occasionally alarmed by light shocks, but confidence is in a degree restored.

EPISCOPAL CHURCHES.—The Christian Intelligencer states, that the Protestant Episcopal church in this country is divided into 20 dioceses. Two years ago, the date of its last report it numbered 1,558 ministers, 1,500 parishes, 92,238 communicants, and 120 candidates for orders. Its present membership is estimated at 100,000. Nearly one-fifth of its clergy are said to be without parishes—a fact attributed mainly to the inadequate support rendered by numerous parishes.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR PATENTS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1846 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE,
"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,

THE IMPROVED
EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable in consequence of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus, and put them together, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Anglo Saxon," "Pearl of Tros," &c. with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pump; Window-Shades, Table Oil-cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.
HIRAM JONES, 61 Market street,
s27 Portsmouth, N. H.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS
COOKING STOVE.
FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) is proof of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tin Kitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this and all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

THE GOOD MERCHANT.

A passage in Eulogy of AMOS LAWRENCE, from a Sermon on "The Means of Living and the ends of Life," preached in Boston, January 2, 1853.

Only two days ago, there died, in this city, a man rich in money, but far more rich in manhood. I suppose he had his faults, his deformities of character. Of course he had. It takes many men to make up a complete man. Humanity is so wide and deep that all the world cannot drink it dry. He came here poor; from a little country town. He came with nothing—nothing but himself, I mean; and a man is not appraised, only taxed. He became obscure; nobody knew AMOS LAWRENCE forty five years ago, nor cared whether the handkerchief in which he carried his wardrobe, trudging to town, was large or little.—He acquired a large estate; got it by industry, forecast, prudence, thrift—honest industry, forecast, prudence, thrift. He earned what he got, and a great deal more. He was proud of his life; and honorably proud that he had made his own fortune, and started with "nothing but his hands." Sometimes he took gentlemen to Groton, and showed them half a mile of stone-wall which the boy Amos had laid on the paternal homestead. That was something for a rich merchant to be proud of.

He knew what few men understand—when to stop accumulating. At the age when the summer of passion has grown cool, and the winter of ambition begins seriously to set in, when avarice and love of power, of distinction, and love of office, begin to take hold of men, when the leaves of instinctive generosity fall off, and the selfish bark begins to tighten about the man—some twenty years ago, when he had acquired a large estate, he said to himself—"Enough! No more accumulation of that sort to make me a miser, and my children worse than misers." So he sought to use nobly what he had manfully won. He didn't keep

"A brave old house, at a bountiful rate,
With half-a-score of servants to wait at the gate."

He lived comfortably but discreetly.

His charity was greater than his estate. In the last twenty or thirty years, he has given away to the poor a larger fortune than he has left to his family. But he gave with as much wisdom as generosity. His money lengthened his arm, because he had a good heart in his bosom. He looked up his old customers whom he had known in his poor days,—which were their rich ones,—and helped them in their need. He sought the poor of this city and its neighborhood, and gave them his gold, his attention, and the sympathy of his honest heart. He prayed for the poor, but prayed gold. He built churches,—not for his own sect alone, for he had piety without narrowness, and took religion in a natural way; churches for Methodists, Baptists, Calvinists, Unitarians, for poor, oppressed black men, fugitive slaves in Canada; nay, more, he helped them in their flight. He helped colleges, gave them libraries, and philosophical apparatus. He sought out young men of talents and character, but poor and struggling for education, and made a long arm to each down to their need, sending parcels of books, pieces of cloth to make a scholar's jacket or cloak, or money to pay the term bills. He lent money when the loan was better than the gift. That bountiful hand was felt on the shore of the Pacific. He was his own executor, and the trustee of his own charity-funds. He didn't leave it for his heirs to distribute his benevolence at their cost. At his own cost, he administered the benefactions of his testament. At the end of a fortunate year, he once found thirty thousand dollars more than he had looked for as his share of the annual profits. In a month he had invested it all—in various charities. He couldn't eat his morsel alone—the good man.

His benevolence came out also in smaller things in his daily life. He let the boys cling on behind his carriage—grown men did so, but invisibly; he gave sleigh rides to boys and girls, and had a gentle word and kindly smile for all he met.

He coveted no distinction. He had no title, and wasn't a 'General,' a 'Colonel,' a 'Captain,' or 'Honorable'—only plain 'Mister,' 'Esquire,' and 'Deacon,' at the end.

His charity was as ostentatious as the dew in summer. Blessing the giver by the motive, the receiver by the quicker life and greater growth, it made no noise in falling to the ground. In Boston, which suspiciously scrutinizes righteousness with the same eye which blinks at the most hideous profligacy, though as public as the street,—even the daily press never accused his charity of loving to be looked at.

Of good judgment, good common sense, careful, exact, methodical, diligent, he was not a man of great intellect. He had no uncommon culture of the understanding or the imagination, and of the highest reason still less. But in respect to the greater faculties,—in respect of conscience, affection, the religious element, he was well born, well bred, eminently well-disciplined by himself.

He was truly a religious man. I do not mean to say that he thought as Calvin or Luther thought, or believed by Peter, James or John. Perhaps he believed some things which the Apostles never thought of, and rejected others which they all had in reverence. When I say he was a religious man, I mean that he loved God, and loved men. He had no more doubt that God would receive him to heaven than that he himself would make all men happy if he could. Reverencing God, he reverenced the laws of God—I mean the natural laws of morality, the laws of justice and of love. His religion was not ascetic, but good-natured and of a cheerful countenance. His piety became morality. The first rule that he took to his counting-house was the Golden Rule; he never laid it by—buying and selling and giving by that standard measure. So he travelled along, on that path which widens and brightens as it leads to heaven.

Here was a man who knew the odds between the Means of Living and the Ends of Life. He knew the true use of riches. They served as a material basis for great manly excellence. His ton of gold was a power to feed, to clothe, to house, and warm and comfort needy men; a power to educate the mind, to cheer the affections, to bless the soul. To many a poor boy, to many a sad mother, he gave a "merry Christmas," on the earth, and now, in due time, God has taken him to celebrate Epiphany and New Year's day in Heaven!

PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1853.

MASSACHUSETTS LIQUOR LAW.

The Boston papers of Wednesday morning are quite interested on the liquor law question. It came up in the House on Tuesday, in the shape of a simple order of inquiry into the expediency of amending or repealing the law, when a motion was made to lay the matter on the table, with a view to obtaining the general sense of the House upon the question. This vote being taken by yeas and nays, 134 members voted in the affirmative and 115 in the negative, and the matter was accordingly laid upon the table, by a majority of 19.

The Daily Advertiser remarks,

"As 48 members either were absent or did not vote, we cannot decide with precision from this vote what will be the temper of the House upon this interesting question, but it must be taken as a pretty strong indication of the probable failure of any attempt to disturb the statute as it stands at present. The vote would indicate that there are certainly 133 opponents of the repeal or essential modification of the law; and we have simply to suppose that there are a dozen more members of like opinion in the rest of the House, either among those who voted on the other side or among the 48 silent voices, to swell this number to a clear majority of the House. It would seem therefore that the repeal of the law is not likely to succeed in the House, to say nothing of its chances in the Senate."

The Times, in copying the yeas and nays, says,

"This vote is generally regarded as an expression of the House against the repeal of the law."

The Atlas expresses a similar opinion.—The Courier and Post express none. But the Chronicle, (which was established to break down the law,) offers the following statements and remarks, which not only show the spirit of its founders, but also expose a few of the hidden wires of party movement.

"We do not regard this as any way a test of the feelings of the House upon the subject, nor in the slightest manner an indication of the fate of the law. But if this be so, we are glad that it has been made so early in the session. It will teach the Liberal men of the House their immediate duty; it will command them at once to compare their opinions; it will show them the imperious necessity of joining their strength, and in that union to refuse to aid the dominant party any further, till that party shall grant justice to the people.

Twelve men in that House held the organization in their hands; they were disposed to keep the House and Senate, and Government as they were, till the repeal of the present liquor law should be in some measure secured. At the personal and earnest request of the opponents of that law, this opposition yielded. Resolved to do exact justice to the representations of men, the Whigs were allowed to fill the Senate and organize the Government.—The first act done upon this matter is to refuse even the ordinary courtesy of a motion of a reference. If it means this, then we will accept it and act upon it. Twenty men can be found in that body whom parties can neither buy nor sell. These men will form a compact that will enable them to obtain justice. They can hold the power of that House in their hands. And we predict that before a United States Senator can be elected, it will be needful for the acting majority to do something more than extend the ordinary courtesies of legislation to a matter so important as repeal of the liquor law."

"LAW—IS—LAW."—In the Boston Justices' Court, last week, a case was tried where a watchman was sued for damages for the illegal arrest and detention of a person.

The Traveller states that the circumstances were, that between 2 and 3 o'clock, one cold morning, the watchman in question found in the street, in a suffering condition, a woman, accompanied by a small child, who stated that she had been turned out of doors by her husband. The officer accompanied the woman to her home, but the husband peremptorily refused to let his wife and child enter. After considerable parley, the officer took the husband to the watch-house, where he was detained until morning, and then discharged.—The counsel for the plaintiff held that it was made the absolute duty of the watchmen, by the statute, to convey their prisoners to the nearest Justices' Court, for examination, and that any other course by the officers was illegal. The Court concided in this opinion, and gave judgment for the plaintiff, and assessed damages at $5.

If this case is correctly reported, it is a very hard one for the watchman, who removed the half drunken brute of a husband to the watch house, that his family might sleep in peace; and then, in the morning, when the man was sober, let him go home without entering a complaint. The watchman will learn not to exercise such illegal lenity next time—but go as far as the law will let him, in punishing such a criminal.

A letter from Washington says:—"Attorney General Crittenden is astonishing the fashionables, by his victory over the heart of Mrs. Ashley, a wealthy dame, who has already wept over the graves of two husbands. She boards at the National, wears very low necked dresses, and aspires to lead the fashions. One of her daughters, the Hon. Mrs. Cabell, of Florida, is a lady-like, much admired person."

COINCIDENCE.—A fine picture of Gen. Pierce, hanging in the office of Maj. Avery, at Cincinnati, suddenly fell, and was broken in pieces, at the exact time that the General and his wife were made childless by the fearful accident at Andover.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

The Convention of Democratic delegates for Rockingham County, was held in Exeter on Tuesday, at the Court House. Uri Lamprey of Hampton, was chairman, and Mr. Bunker of Exeter, was secretary. The Convention nominated the following candidates to be supported by the party at the coming election in March.

Thomas Smith of Chester, Register of Deeds.

Winthrop Dudley of Brentwood, County Treasurer.

John Shannon of Portsmouth, Benjamin Coe of New Market, and Caleb Dow of Atkinson, Road Commissioners.

The Convention also passed some resolutions, of which we publish only the last, alike brief and important.

Resolved, That we go for regular nominations.

The Democrats of Senatorial District No. 2. also held their Convention at Exeter on Tuesday, and nominated Josiah Eastman of Hampstead, as their candidate for Senator.

FREE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

A free democratic convention, for the First Congressional District, will be held at Rochester, on Wednesday the 2d day of February, to nominate a member of Congress, and a Governor. The Second Councillor Convention—and the Fifth Senatorial, will be held at the same time and place,—and the Strafford Co. Convention immediately afterwards.

The Senatorial Convention for No. 1, will be held in the Court House in this city, next Monday, at 12 o'clock, noon.

WHIG CONVENTIONS.

STATUE OF WASHINGTON.—In the U. S. Senate on Tuesday, Mr. Shields reported back the House bill appropriating $50,000 for an equestrian statue of Washington. Passed unanimously.

PORTSMOUTH AND CONCORD RAILROAD.—We made our first, or "trial trip" over this road on Tuesday last, in company with a considerable party of delegates to the Democratic Councillor Convention, held at Portsmouth that day, and was surprised to find the road in such excellent running order. With the exception of a short distance between the Merrimack and the Suncook, where the frost had hoven the ground and made the track somewhat uneven and jolty, the road seemed in good condition, and we went down and returned the same evening at a rate of speed of which no one could complain. Another summer, we predict, this road will do a fair business, and ultimately, with the right management, may be made as good a road as runs out of Concord in any direction.—State Capital Reporter.

LOCAL.

THE WINDMILL CONTROVERSY.—The Messenger don't like the idea of the Daily Chronicle's being read every morning by "every body that is any body," or don't believe it, or something of that sort—but it says:

"We give its editor credit for one truth, however—that in a controversy with him we tilt against a windmill."

If we remember the story of Don Quixotte, when he undertook a similar job, the windmill was not hurt much, but the Don broke his lance, Rosinante was upset, and the Doughty Knight himself was dismounted and used up. As he looked up, bewildered, from the ground, there was the windmill going round and round, as he thought, faster and faster. Probably the Messenger would not care about applying the whole story.

☞ The Lecture at the Episcopal Church, last evening, by Dr. Burroughs, was listened to by a large and highly interested audience. Subject—Prophesies of Jeremiah and Destruction of Babylon.

☞ We were pleased to see a good house at the Cameneum, on Wednesday evening, at the Concert of Mr. & Mrs. J. W. Clark,—whose performances were favorably received, Mr. Meinerth's German song was encored and repeated. Mr. Kimball's song, "a wet sheet and a flowing sea," was given with good effect and great applause, and the accompaniment by Mr. Clark was uncommonly beautiful. The Concert is to be repeated this evening with a change of programme. See advertisement.

MASONIC.—The officers of St. Andrews' Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, were installed last week, as follows:

John Christie, W. Master.
Edward N. Anderson, S. Warden.
Thomas Norton, J. Warden.
William P. Walker, S. Deacon.
Samuel Reynolds, J. Deacon.
Joseph M. Edmonds, Chaplain.
Thomas Tullork, Treasurer.
George Rice, } Stewards.
Walter B. Laskey, }
Freeman G. Beal, Secretary.
Benjamin Weeks, Tyler.

☞ On Tuesday evening, Jan. 18th, Mr. Webster's birth day was celebrated in Boston, by a supper at the Revere House, and by firing 70 guns, one for each year.

DEBATE ON CUBA.

On Tuesday, in the Senate of the United States,

The resolution of Mr. Cass reaffirming the Monroe doctrine and applying it to Cuba was taken up, when Mr. Cass addressed the Senate.

He commenced a review of the circumstances and reasonings that led to the Monroe doctrine, and made it the settled policy as announced to be, of our Presidents Monroe and Polk, and then asks why it has become necessary for Congress to interpose and pass a legislative declaration reaffirming it? The nature of our government, he says, furnishes a satisfactory answer to this question, though there is no doubt but these executive declarations were beneficial in their operations, and aided in checking schemes of aggrandizement, which, had they gone on, would have changed the political aspect of the countries south of us, and greatly to our injury; still they have not been wholly regarded. * * * * * Occurrences announce that our declared policy of exclusion will be still farther disregarded unless authoritatively reaffirmed in the name of the American people. An experiment is making upon our forbearance or rather upon our apprehensions, and as it is arrested or submitted to it will be abandoned or pushed to results which no nation now ventures openly to avow.

Mr. Cass then proceeded to discuss the subject at great length. His speech will fill ten or twelve columns of the Washington papers.

Mr. Butler followed Mr. Cass, in explanation of the circumstances under which the Monroe doctrine was first promulgated, which he contended were peculiar.

The subject was further discussed by Mr. Hale, who thought that if annexation was to go on, we ought to turn our eyes to Canada. The commerce of the lakes he was told was far greater than the whole foreign commerce of the United States—while Canada in a military point of view was of greater importance than Cuba, as the whole internal commerce was within the reach of her shores.

ARRIVAL OF SHIP MOSES WHEELER, 68 DAYS FROM LIVERPOOL.—The anxiety concerning the packet ship, Moses Wheeler of Boston, which sailed from Liverpool on the 11th of November last, was ended by her arrival at Quarantine, yesterday morning, after having been out the almost unprecedented time of sixty-eight days.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Hon. George W. Morrison, of Manchester, has been nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the 2d Congressional district in New Hampshire.

PLAGUE IN RUSSIA.—The following is an extract from a letter, just received from St. Petersburg, and dated the 21st of December:

"There is a report that the Plague has entered Russia, and is prevalent at Astrachan and another place. The Emperor has ordered a military cordon of sixty or seventy thousand men to prevent its advancing further into the interior of the country. Some alarm is felt at St. Petersburg, though in former times, as in the reign of Catherine, it stopped at Moscow."

SMALL BILL LAW IN WASHINGTON.—Instead of passing a bill which is really needed, to give the country more small change, Congress is tinkering away upon an anti-small-bill law for Washington city.

In the House on Tuesday, the bill to suppress the circulation of small notes in the district was taken up, and the question put on the first amendment, which was adopted. The amendment makes the uttering notes as currency in the district under the denomination of five dollars, liable to indictment for misdemeanor and punishable by imprisonment for a term of not less than ten days nor more than one year, and fine of not less than 100 nor more than $500. Several other amendments were adopted, making the bill more stringent than originally reported—when the bill passed, yeas 81, nays 30.

The experience of all New England for an hundred years, shows that small bills are as safe as any others, besides being very convenient.

☞ The Ericsson ship is receiving some attention by the Naval Committees in Congress, and the ship is to be sent round to Washington in 30 days.

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

WASHINGTON, DEC. 19th.

The Attorney General in the matter of claims for extra fees by the weighers, gaugers, and measurers of the Custom Houses, has given an opinion adverse to those claims.

Senator Dixon intends to introduce a resolution instructing the committee on foreign relations to enquire whether there has been any violation of the Monroe doctrine in the Clayton and Bulwer treaty, and if so, what steps have been taken or are about to be taken, in the premises. His object is to bring Mr. Cass and his friends, to the practical question.

COUNTERFEIT ENGRAVER.—In Boston on Tuesday, at the Police Court, Wm. W. Wilson was examined on the charge of having in his possession counterfeit dies and bank plates, and making counterfeit bills on several banks, with intent to pass the same. A fifth complaint was made, charging him with having in his possession on the 9th inst., certain tools and dies adapted to making counterfeit bills on the Housatonic Bank, with intent to pass the same. About a dozen witnesses were examined on the part of the government, occupying most of the day in the examination.—Facts were elicited of sufficient importance to warrant Justice Russell in sending the case before the Grand Jury, and Mr. Wilson was bound over in the sum of $17,000 for trial.

Mr. Frederick Leopold, a citizen of the United States, who last summer was seized in Hanover, for military service due to the king thereof, has returned to his home in N. Y. He states that he was seized at night, and immediately taken to prison. His baggage was searched, and all his money taken from him. He sent for the American Consul, but he said he could do nothing for him, and so Mr. Leopold compounded the matter by paying $250 for a substitute. Thus it seems, though an American citizen, yet inasmuch as he emigrated to this country without leave, he was still liable to serve in the army of the King of Hanover.

PROPOSED LIGHTHOUSE FOR "MINOT'S LEDGE," DESIGNED AND EXECUTED BY JERVIS MCLEOD.—The columns—sixteen in number, one foot in diameter—are to be made of half inch boiler iron, rivetted in the same manner as steam-boilers, and sunk five feet in the rock; then there is to be ten feet of cut stone built up round the columns; the first course sunk one foot into the rock, and bolted to it, and the succeeding courses dove-tailed and bolted to each other. This ten feet cut stone adds greatly to the strength of the columns by taking off ten feet of lever power when struck by the sea. The columns are to be securely braced to each other, and also to one stout centre column. There are, also, to be two strong cable chains to each column; one chain at one-third and the other at two thirds the height of the column, and bolted to the rock. At sixty feet from base is to be the first floor of the keeper's house, which is to be two stories high, with proper conveniences, &c. Above this is to be the lantern, six feet in height and twelve feet in diameter, with thirty-two reflectors, &c. The whole height of lighthouse is to be eighty feet. Total cost estimated at $80,000.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH.—We learn from the Elkton (Md.) Whig that a few nights ago, a calathumpian band undertook to annoy a wedding party at the hotel of Mr. Bouchell in that county, and among other things they used an old broken cannon, which was brought in front of the hotel, charged with two pounds of powder, to which a slow match was attached. The result was the bursting of the piece, and but for the intervening of a column supporting the roof of the porch in front of the building, the breach of the gun would have gone directly into the parlor window, where some forty or fifty persons were at the time, a large part of whom were females. The escape was a most miraculous one: scarcely a whole window pane was left in the lower part of the building, the roof in one place was lifted from its bed, while several portions of the front porch were much shattered and torn.

DEPOSITION OF A PRIEST FROM THE MINISTRY.—Norman C. Stoughton, one of the missionary ministers of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in this diocese, officiating in Green county, having broken his ordination vows, and connected himself with the Romish church, is to be deposed, or degraded, from the ministry, as Canon V. of 1850 provides, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at Trinity church, by Rt. Rev., the Provisional Bishop, (Wainright) of New York.—N. Y. Express.

A TRAGEDY ON THE GLACIERS.—Two of the adventurous chamois hunters in Switzerland have just lost their lives at the glaciers of Argentieres, under circumstances peculiarly distressing. M. Carrier went out with his son, a lad of nineteen, to hunt marmots. The father had discovered a burrow such as the marmots are accustomed to dig, and laying himself on the ground, face downwards, began to enlarge the entrance, hoping to take the animal at the bottom. Suddenly a large quantity of earth fell on him, and he was unable to rise. He called to his son, who crept in after him, and tried in vain to extricate his father from the load which was pressing upon him. While thus engaged a second slip of the earth took place and covered both. After two hours suffering the son died, lying on the back of his father. His last words were full of filial affection and anxiety for his parent. Three long days and nights, without food or light, far from all human aid, unable to move, and with the corpse of his son on his back, did M. Carrier lie in this place, until his friends, who had come out in search of the lost hunter, found him at the point of death. The unhappy sufferer only lived long enough to communicate these particulars, and died while his friends were carrying him home.

Stephen Spaulding, one of the veterans who composed the famous Life Guard of Washington, died at Monroe, Me. on the 30th ult. aged 97. James Laffoon, a soldier of the revolutionary war, died at Fayette, Ky. on the 27th ult. aged 90 years.

d2 J. H. THACHER.

An inhabitant of Ely, after reading Disraeli's budget, thus expressed himself upon the subject: "What's the use of taking the duty off tea? None whatsomever. I know it will be a bad thing. There's my old woman, for instance; where she gives one tea party now, she'll give three then. And see what a lot of victuals they eat!"

You rarely, if ever, see a politician with smooth hair, a great scholar with fine hair, an artist with red hair, a fop with coarse hair, a minister with long hair, or an editor whose hair is carefully adjusted.

A monument in a Highland strath bears the following inscription:

Here lies Alexander M'Pherson.
Who was a most superior person;
He was six feet two without a shoe,
And was slew at Waterloo.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They have avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had as much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with the Patent Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,

Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Angelo Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pump; Window Shades, Table Oil-cloths, &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this, the most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner, and is (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tin Kitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and novel principle, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, JANUARY 21, 1853.

CUBA AND ST. DOMINGO.

One of the most interesting pieces of news by yesterday's mails, relates to St. Domingo, and another to Mexico, both received via Havana. A third from another quarter, refers to Cuba, or rather to Spain, and exhibits a little fire which may aid in kindling a great matter, on some of these days. The Boston Daily Advertiser has received by the steamer Black Warrior at New York the Havana Diario to the 13th inst. That paper of the 12th says "we are able to state that there passed through this port in the English steamer a commission appointed by the actual government of Vera Cruz, whose object is to proceed to Carthagena, to insist on the immediate return of Gen. Santa Anna to the Mexican territory. It appears also that the same commisioners are authorized to offer to Gen. Adrian Woll the command of the forces assembled at Vera Cruz." The New York papers say that the Mexican committee, two in number, who arrived in the Trent, were bound to Jamaica for the purpose of meeting Santa Anna. A correspondent of the Journal of Commerce under date of the 13th inst. contradicts the reports of disease at Havana in the U. S. papers, and says that there have been no new cases of disease for the past ten days; and the writer considers Havana as healthy as any northern city. He says that the arrival of Mr. King, the Vice President elect, is expected, and that lodgings are prepared for him at Messrs. Brewer's Hotel on Cuba street.

The Journal of Commerce says that the Small Pox at Havana was fast disappearing. It adds:

"The Spanish steamer Isabel II. arrived at Havana about the 10th inst. from St. Domingo, where she was welcomed by the inhabitants with many demonstrations of rejoicing. She confirms our previous information that the story of the cession of Samana to France for a naval station, is entirely without foundation. Also, that the secret filibustering project set on foot in St. Domingo, had completely miscarried. Exactly what this means, we do not know. The account, however, says, 'If the Spanish inhabitants of that island gladly consented to the admission of colonists, because they supposed them to be friends, general indignation had ensued on discovering the true aims or tendencies of Mr. Duff Green and his associates. The adventurers had not yet trod upon the soil of St. Domingo, and probably would not venture to do so, on learning the unanimous and desperate resistance which awaited them.'"

These things look as if filibustering from the United States was not very popular in any of the W. I. Islands—and as if Mexico was determined to bring its own affairs to a crisis by importing Santa Anna once more.

The matter relating to Spain, will be seen under the head of Congress, on Wednesday, where the famous Amistad case is agitated once more. The decision of that case, by the Supreme Court of the United States, was probably a sound decision, on the acknowledged principles of the law of nations, as it certainly was in harmony with the law of nature. But Spain makes out her bill and demands payment with "an earnest wish." The President, having already incurred the censure of many distinguished democrats by his earnest, (and as they say timid or traitorous,) efforts to keep peace with Spain,—now very politely hands the matter over to both Houses of Congress, requesting them to do just what they please with it—very well knowing all the time, that it is a case in which they may possibly burn their fingers, whether they settle it now, or leave it for the incoming administration.

We have no idea that we shall ever pay the claim, and not much that Spain would go to war to enforce it;—but if she should—Cuba is gone quick, and gone forever, from Spanish rule.

RESIGNATION OF JUDGE FLETCHER.—We learn that the Hon. Richard Fletcher has resigned his office as Associate Judge on the Supreme Bench of Massachusetts; and is to resume practice as a lawyer in Boston. He will make double the money as a lawyer, with half the labor required of him as a judge.

PATENT SPIKES.—In a Court in New York city, a perpetual injunction has been issued, in the case of the infringement for making hook-head spikes, with orders to account and pay damages, which it is said will amount to near $200,000.

HOLLIS STREET CHURCH.—The Boston Transcript states, officially, that the Rev. Thomas S. King has decided to decline the various calls which he has received from parishes in Boston and other cities, and that he will remain with the Church in Hollis street.

WHIG CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.—The Whigs of the several towns in District No. 1, met at the Town Hall in Rochester, on Tuesday the first day of February, at 11 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate to be supported by the Whigs of this District at the next election.

DEBATES.—Reference to the Congressional proceedings of Wednesday, will show the progress of the Debate on Cuban affairs and the Monroe Doctrine. A Washington despatch says:

"The difference of opinion between Mr. Cass on one side and Messrs. Mason and Hunter on the other as to the proper interpretation of the Monroe doctrine, has caused considerable talk here, and various speculations are afloat as to the effect it will have in arranging the foreign questions and forming the new cabinet."

It is true, beyond question, that the old issues, which divided parties thirty, twenty, and ten years ago, are obsolete ideas now; and that new questions, of as much importance as any of them, now divide and distract the existing parties. How the whig party was split and paralyzed by a diversity of view and of action on slavery, we need not say—but the great party which so decidedly prevailed against them, is now, in the day of its triumph, doubting and debating what it shall do, on two or three important points of policy.

TAMMANY HALL, NEW YORK.—On Friday evening last week, the Democratic General Committee met at Tammany Hall to receive and inaugurate the new members into office. Two sets of members presented themselves, and the committee split upon a question which we can hardly explain in few words, but which really amounts to a division between Hunkers and Barnburners. The latter are said, by the N. Y. Day Book, to be in the ascendant, and if so, a new Tammany Hall will be built by the National Democrats. Then there will be two Tammanies,—exactly as now there are two Presbyterian General Assemblies, the Old School and the New, or the Constitutional and the Progressive.

Thirty-Second Congress—Second Session.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 19.

SENATE.—Mr. Foot presented the credentials of Mr. Phelps, Senator appointed by the Governor of Vermont.

Mr. Hamlin reported a resolution, calling upon the Treasury department for a plan of a new general revenue law.

The military appropriation bill was passed.

A message was received from the President calling the attention of Congress to the claim made by the Spanish government on behalf of its subjects in the Amistad case. The President says that respect to the Spanish Government demands that its urgent representations should be candidly and impartially weighed. If Congress should be of the opinion that the claim is just, every consideration points to the propriety of its prompt and recognition and payment; and if the two Houses should come to the opposite conclusion, it is equally desirable that the result should be announced without unnecessary delay.

Referred to the committee on foreign relations.

The Chair laid before the Senate the report of the War Department, communicating the report of the board of officers appointed to examine the Blue Lick springs with the view to the selection of a site for a Military Asylum. Ordered to be printed.

Mr. Cass' joint resolution on the Monroe doctrine was taken up, when Mr. Mason, of Virginia, desired to speak upon one point, which he thought was misinterpreted by the Senator from Michigan. Mr Monroe's message, he said, was directed to the affairs of Spanish America alone, and being asserted for a specific object it effected that object, and could not now be reasserted by the American government unless the same contingency should arise. Mr. M. adduced at length the arguments for the support of his proposition.

Mr. Cass replied briefly, and read from Mr. Monroe's message to show that it made the emphatic declaration that Europe must know distinctly, that no part of the American continent was henceforth to be subject to recolonization by any of the European nations.

Mr. Dixon gave notice that at the proper time he would move to refer the resolution to the committee on foreign affairs with instructions.

Mr. Soule moved that the subject be postponed till Wednesday next. Agreed to.

The Senate then took up the bill providing for a railroad to the Pacific. A discussion ensued, during which several amendments and modifications were offered. Pending the question the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The Speaker reviewed the decision of yesterday on the New York Mint bill, and declared that it might come up as unfinished business. The House then took up the bill, when Mr. Chandler, of Pa., expressed his views in opposition to the measure. He spoke with considerable feeling, and deprecated the haste with which the New York members were endeavoring to force the bill through.

A report from the Secretary of the Interior, stated that the efforts to induce the Florida Indians to emigrate had been unsuccessful, and suggested that other means be resorted to to compel their removal. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The Speaker also laid before the House, a message from the President, communicating despatches from the Queen of Spain, accompanied by a letter of instruction from the Spanish government relative to the Amistad case, in which an earnest wish is expressed that a final settlement of this long pending claim should be made. Referred to Committee on Foreign Affairs. The House adjourned.

POLICE BURGLARS.—At New York, Jan. 19, the two police officers Kennedy and Smith, who have been under examination on charge of burglary, were held to bail in $1000.

BELL IN TAMWORTH.—The Congregational Church and Society, in Tamworth, N. H., tender their gratitude to William M. Rogers, Esq., of Bath, Me., for his liberal donation of a Bell and ringing apparatus, for the new meeting-house erected by said Church and Society.

LOCAL.

City Council—Jan. 20.

In Board of Aldermen, a communication was received from the Mayor, informing the Aldermen that the Act lately passed by the Legislature, relating to truant children and absences from school, requires its adoption by the City, to become a law; and recommending its adoption.

Voted, That the communication be accepted, and the Act (Common Council concurring) be adopted.

Voted, That a special joint committee be appointed, to draw up an Ordinance in relation thereto.

Aldermen Spalding and Stackpole were appointed.

The Health Committee entered a protest against the decision disallowing a part of their claim, and requested a hearing in explanation, which was granted.

In the Common Council, the communication of the Mayor, on truants, &c., with the action of the Aldermen thereon, came down for concurrence.

Voted, to concur, and appointed Messrs. Brewster, Berry and Claggett a committee on the part of the Common Council.

A message was received from the Aldermen notifying the Common Council that the Board of Aldermen had receded from their amendments to the ordinance relating to Billiard Rooms, &c., which ordinance now becomes a law of the city. Adjourned.

WHIG CONVENTIONS.

The Rockingham Councillor Convention was held at Rundlett's Hotel in Epping, on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 20.

Wm. Kent of Concord presided; and the convention unanimously nominated Samu l Storer of Portsmouth as a candidate for Councillor.

The Rockingham County Convention was held at the same place, immediately after the Councillor Convention had closed.

The Convention was organized by choosing Charles W. Brewster of Portsmouth, President, and appointing two Secretaries.

The Convention then nominated J. Hamilton Shapley of Exeter, Register of Deeds,—and —— Thayer of Kingston, as County Treasurer.

Ira Blake of Kensington, D. Currier of Derry, and J. Perkins, were nominated as candidates for Road Commisioners.

Both the conventions were respectably attended; were harmonious in action; and the nominations were all unanimous.

OPPRESSIONS IN BOTH HEMISPHERES.—One effect of Mrs. Stowe's Uncle Tom, was, to call out the "affectionate address" of the Duchess of Sutherland and other English ladies, to their sisters in America, on the subject of slavery. And this address, in its turn, has had the effect to call out a great many addresses, some of them not very affectionate, from the newspapers, addressed to the English ladies aforesaid, exhorting them to look at the oppression, and degradation, and suffering of their own peasantry at home. We deem the one a fair offset for the other—and think that neither side ought to lose its temper in the discussion: for the laws, or the customs, or something else, on both sides the Atlantic, do impose fearful wrongs upon the lowly—and ought to exclude much of that boasting of which both nations are so fond.

FORTUNE'S CHANGES.—The collection of pictures made by the late Duke of Orleans, with a view to the encouragement of French art, was to be sold at London on the 18th Jan., to help secure his widow from poverty.

Well; when the Duke had money, that was a good use to make of it. Now, when the widow has none, she is about to make a good use of the pictures, by selling them off to keep the wolf (of hunger) away from the door.—The world will change. True wisdom meets the changes without flinching, and goes through them without grumbling, in full confidence that the Maker of the world is also its Governor.

As a son of Mr. Oliver Adams, of Hinsdale, N. H., was crossing Connecticut river on the ice, a few days ago, with a span of valuable horses belonging to his father, the ice gave way, the horses were drowned, and the young man very nearly so.

Rev. A. A. Livermore, of the Unitarian church, Cincinnati, has received a call to become pastor of the Unitarian church in San Francisco, Cal., with the terms of one thousand dollars for passage out, and five thousand dollars salary per annum, in the place of the Rev. Joseph Barrington, lately deceased.

The annual National Report on Commerce and Navigation shows that fourteen hundred and forty-four vessels have been built the past year, measuring three hundred and fifty-one thousand four hundred and ninety-four tons, and that our aggregate tonnage is now four millions one hundred and thirty-eight thousand four hundred forty-one tons. Maine built, last year, three hundred and fifty-four vessels, measuring one hundred and ten thousand and forty-seven tons.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

ITEMS OF MEXICAN NEWS.—New Orleans, Jan. 19.—The Mexican news is generally meagre and unimportant, but is favorable to the revolutionists. The Carthagena papers say that Santa Anna is making preparations to return to Mexico immediately.

The Mexican Senate has not acted upon the Tehuantepec question.

The State of Cordova had joined the insurgents, and Orizaba was hourly expected to do the same.

TO BE INVESTIGATED.—Norfolk, Jan. 18.—The United States steamer Princeton, which will be ready for sea about the 1st of next month, has been ordered to touch at the Island of Madagascar on her way to Japan, and enquire into the recent outrage and murder committed upon the officers and crew of the Queen of the West at that place.

THREE STEAMERS BURNED.—St. Louis, Jan. 19.—Between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon, a fire broke out on board the steamboat New England, lying at the upper part of the Levee. The flames communicated to the steamers New Lucy and Brunette, and the three vessels were soon burnt to the water's edge.

SINGULAR FACT.—It is a very remarkable fact in the history of the United States, that none of the great names among the American re-elected Presidents, had children. No one who was ever re-elected has had a son. Washington had no children,he held office eight years. John Adams had children; he was not re-elected. Jefferson had no children, he was re-elected and held office eight years. Madison had no children, held the presidency eight years. Monroe had no son, held office eight years. John Quincy Adams had sons, he was not re-elected. Jackson had no children, he was re-elected. Van Buren had children, not re-elected. Harrison died; Polk had no children. Taylor died; and, among the great names without children, is the next elected President after Taylor—President Pierce, who, by this accident, is childless.

The Medina Democrat says there is an insane man in that town, named Smith—his joints are all double, and he can displace them from their natural position without any inconvenience, or any great effort. He has two pair of lungs, and by inhaling air sufficient to fill both, can continue thirty-eight minutes without breathing. He served under Gen. Taylor in the late war with Mexico.

We think there must be an insane man in that town, but whether his name is Smith or not, we should hesitate to decide till we knew the editor of the Democrat.—Prov. Journal.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Sunday afternoon, Mr. Charles H. Spaulding, clerk for A. G. Woodward, clothing dealer, Lowell, suddenly dropped dead at his father's residence, on Merrimack st. Young Spaulding was about 20 years of age, and had been troubled with a disease of the heart. At the time of the occurrence he had just taken a pail of water into the house, and had stepped to a mirror, when he suddenly fell backward, his mother catching him in her arms, and died instantly without a word or a struggle. He was of a most estimable character, beloved and respected by all who knew him.—Lowell News.

PRECIOUS METALS.—The North American Review gives its opinion that "the annual supply of the precious metals will not fall below a hundred millions of dollars for many years, and that in a quarter of a century this supply will depreciate money to one-half or one-third of its present value."

THE NEW ENGLAND SOCIETY IN CALIFORNIA.—Arrangements were in progress, at the last accounts from San Francisco, for the celebration of Pilgrims' Day by the New England Society of that city, of which Hon. James Wilson, formerly of New Hampshire, is President.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Antone Farni, a German, at work in the East Boston Sugar House, fell into a vat of boiling syrup, on Tuesday, and was so badly scalded, nearly all the skin of his body being off when taken out, that he died on Wednesday morning. He was about 19 years of age.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—A mother and her little daughter were found frozen to death in one of the narrow alleys in New York city, last Sunday night.

LATER FROM MEXICO.— We have accounts from Mexico dated to the 1st inst. The revolutionary movement seems to be fast gaining ground, and as a consequence the prospects of the country assume a more gloomy aspect every day. With an exhausted treasury, an excited population, and no great political skill to meet the approaching crisis, there can be little hope that Mexico will be able to recover from her present embarrassment.

DREADFUL SHIPWRECK — EIGHTY-SIX LIVES LOST.—The large English ship Successor, lying at Madras Roads, having on board 244 persons and a great number of horses, foundered at her anchors, in sight of hundreds of people, on the 9th of October last. The captain and 2d officer had gone on shore, leaving the ship in the care of the mate. A squall arose, the mate at the time being too drunk to take the measures necessary to save the ship; she was consequently totally lost, drowning 86 men and all the horses. Safety lines were projected from shore by means of rockets, but the helplessness of the officer in charge rendered them of no avail.

THE MORMONS.—It is said that the greater part of the Scandinavian Mormons have decided upon emigrating to America. On Monday, the 27th ult., the Obotrit carried the first instalment, about 300 souls, to Kiel, whence they would make their way to Hamburg, Liverpool, or Hull, and New York or New Orleans. Some 600 or 700 more would follow them in a short time. They possess some capital, and are all respectable.—Salem Reg.

THE IMPROVED

EMPIRE STATE STOVE.

THIS justly celebrated COOKING STOVE having been improved in every way it could be to make its operations more complete, and its plates beautifully ornamented—no expense, time or trouble having been spared to make this the most complete Cooking Stove ever brought before the public—the subscriber feels assured in warranting the IMPROVED EMPIRE STATE superior to any stove in the market, as hundreds can testify who have used them for the past year.

This Stove has a very LARGE OVEN, which makes it desirable on account of doing more cooking with the same amount of fuel than can be done in any other stove. The flues are large, which ensures a good draft in all cases. The castings are very heavy and smooth, and those parts that come next the fire are extra thick, making it very durable. It is adapted to the use of either coal or wood, and we warrant them to operate as well with one as the other. We furnish them with the very best apparatus; and, altogether, it is the MOST DURABLE, ECONOMICAL and CONVENIENT COOKING STOVE ever made—complete in every respect. We ask the attention of all persons intending to purchase a new, or exchange their old stove, to an examination of the Improved Empire State.

We have also on hand a variety of other Cooking Stoves, called the "Banner," "Belle of the States," "King of the States," "Bay State," "Angle Saxon," "Pearl of Troy," &c.; with a large lot of PARLOR STOVES, such as the Revere Air-Tight, Star, Revere Parlor Cook, Lady Franklin, for Wood or Coal; Shop, Office and Air-Tight Stoves, of different sizes and prices for either wood or coal.

Also an extensive assortment of HOUSEKEEPING GOODS; Wooden, Willow, Glass, Britannia, Japan, Tin, Hard, Enamel, and Brass Ware; Copper, Cast Iron, and Chain Pump; Window-Shades, Table Oil cloths, &c. &c.

All the above goods will be sold lower than can be bought elsewhere in this vicinity.

THE ROGER WILLIAMS COOKING STOVE.

FOR COAL OR WOOD.

THE attention of all in want of a COOK STOVE is respectfully solicited to a consideration of the merits of this most beautifully modeled pattern; equally adapted for coal or wood, and warranted to operate successfully with either,—which is now offered to the public as the

Most Complete and Efficient

Cooking apparatus ever before introduced in this vicinity. It is an elegant model, with fine smooth Providence castings, fitted together in the most substantial manner. The oven, (by far the most important part of a cooking stove,) in point of capacity, and in regard to its operation, is unsurpassed by that of any other stove now in the market, it being lined with fire-brick to retain and equalize the heat, and provided with valves for the escape of steam, &c. arising from the roasting of meats—rendering it in this respect superior to the old fashioned but universally admired Tin Kitchen.

The broiling apparatus is constructed on an entirely new and original plan, and will not fail to recommend itself at the first glance, as no smoke or gas arising from that culinary process can escape into the room. The sliding hearth is an improvement not to be found in any other stove.

The popularity of this over all other stoves now in the market, may be inferred from the fact that since its first introduction the last season, over THREE THOUSAND have been put into successful operation in New England and New York City.

Every stove is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to the purchaser or the money refunded.

Each stove is warranted not to crack for twelve months from date of purchase. It is believed that this stove combines all the improvements that skill can invent, and is by far the most perfect cooking stove ever sold in Portsmouth. And though its price is higher than any other stove offered in this market of late, it is without question the cheapest in the end. All intending to purchase are respectfully invited to give this an examination before purchasing elsewhere.

Also, a variety of cheap Cook, Parlor, and Office Stoves, which are offered low.

SECTION 1, Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That any railroad corporation in this State shall establish from time to time, and cause to be posted up in their depots, the rates or tariffs of tolls between the several stations on such road, and between such stations and the stations of other roads with which they have a joint business connection for the conveyance of freight and passengers, and the rates thus established for the reception and delivery of passengers and freight shall be the same for all persons, and for the like description of freight between such stations, and no rates of fare or freight shall be at any time advanced except on thirty days notice established and posted as aforesaid.

SEC. 2. No person shall be allowed to pass over any railroad in this State without paying the fare thus established, except the stockholders going to or returning from the annual or any special meeting of said road; the directors, superintendent, treasurer and clerk of said company and of roads having a business connection for freight and passengers on said road; persons in charge of mails and expresses, and persons poor and in misfortune who are unable to pay said fare and to whom passes have been granted; Provided, however, that nothing in this act shall prohibit the sale of season tickets by the quarter or other specified time at reduced rates, and the transportation of passengers at agricultural fairs and on other public occasions, of military and other organized companies, and the running of special trains for companies and parties of pleasure at rates established for such occasions.

SEC 3. It shall be the duty of the conductor on each railroad to collect the tickets of all passengers, or require the fare to be paid as thus established over the whole or any portion of said road, as the case may be, and in case of refusal or neglect to pay such fares it shall be lawful for said conductor to use such force as may be necessary to remove such person from the train, and the conductor shall have the same power to command assistance in removing such persons as sheriffs by law have when serving process, and under the same penalty in case of refusal. And any conductor, ticket-master or other officer of any road who shall knowingly violate the provisions of this act relative to the sale of tickets and the collection of fares as thus established, shall be liable to a fine of not less than one nor more than ten dollars.

SEC. 4. Prosecutions for penalties under this act shall be commenced within six months from the time of the offence committed. This act shall take effect from its passage, and the four first sections of the act to which this is an amendment shall be and hereby are repealed.

SEC. 6 This act shall take effect and be in force in such towns only as shall at some legal meeting adopt the same, and in such cities as shall by their city government adopt the same, and make such ordinances and by-laws as may be necessary to enforce its provisions.

Approved, Jan. 5 1853.

AN ACT relating to foreign insurance companies.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That whenever by the laws now existing in, or which may hereafter be enacted by any of the United States, other than this State, any taxes, fines, penalties, deposites of money or of securities, statements or other obligations or requirements of any description whatever, are or shall be imposed upon any mutual insurance company or companies incorporated by or organized under the laws of this State and transacting business in such other State; or upon the agents of any such mutual insurance company or companies, then so long as such law or laws shall continue in force, the same taxes, fines, penalties, deposites, statements, obligations and requirements which under such law or laws are or shall be imposed upon any mutual insurance company or companies of this State, shall be imposed upon all mutual insurance companies doing business in this State, which are incorporated by, or organized under the laws of such other State or or States, and upon all agents of such mutual insurance Companies. And such insurance company, or their agents, shall from and after the first day of January next be liable to pay the same taxes, fines, and penalties, to make the same deposites and statements, and be in all respects under and subject to the same obligations and requirements as are or shall be imposed upon any mutual insurance companies of this State, or upon their agents by the State, by, or under the laws of which, said company is incorporated or organized.

SEC. 2. If, under or by virtue of the laws of such other State, any mutual insurance company incorporated by, or organized under the laws of this State or its agents, is or shall be required to make any deposite, oths or statements to any officer of said State, not known or existing in this State, or to pay any taxes, fines or penalties to such officer, then and in every such case, the mutual insurance companies of such State, or their agents, doing business in this State, shall make the same deposites with and statements to the Secretary of this State, and shall be liable to pay the like taxes and penalties to the Treasurer of this State.

COLONIZATION EFFORTS.

Mr. Everett, our new Secretary of State, has recently delivered the Annual Address before the American Colonization Society, which is highly spoken of as an eloquent and able production.

Almost at the same time, a proposition was brought before the legislature of Virginia, for a summary and general sale by auction, under state authority, of all the free negroes in Virginia, for one year, to the highest bidder;—such sale to be annually repeated, till a fund is raised, sufficient to commence removing them out of the State—and so on till all are gone.

The Richmond papers speak of this proposition as crude and impracticable. The movement, however, shows the uneasiness of that community on the subject. The Virginia Colonization Society have just sent in a memorial to the State Legislature, asking that an annual appropriation be made to defray the expense of removing from the state, by colonization, a number of free blacks equal at least to the yearly increment of that class of the population. From this document it appears, that there are now upwards of fifty thousand free blacks in Virginia, and their annual increase is upwards of one thousand. From an inspection of the criminal calendar of the state, it appears that the free blacks are, in general, idle, vicious, and the most corrupt element of the population. The Superintendent of the Penitentiary, in his last annual report, says that from 1830 to 1840, crime (i. e. crime which got punished) among the free negroes was 511 per cent greater than among the whites, in proportion to numbers; and from 1840 to 1850 it was greater by 780 per cent.

The Boston Courier, in noticing this matter, says,

"The public in the Northern states will be surprised to learn—and the Abolitionists will probably refuse to believe—that the free blacks themselves are engaged in carrying on the domestic slave-trade!"

That part of the northern public must be very ignorant of the subject, that is either surprised or staggered by the statement that free blacks engage in the slave-trade. We never supposed they were more moral than the whites; and don't see any reason to change our opinion now. We need waste no words on this point, however, for the memorial says,

"It is notorious that, besides the crimes with which they are directly chargeable, the free negroes are the colluding agents, the secret instruments and accomplices by which unscrupulous white men carry on the illegal, demoralizing traffic in slaves, and perpetrate, with impunity, constant and systematic violations of the most salutary laws of the land. Along the public highways and in our villages, and cities, and immediate vicinity, those evils are peculiarly felt. Each party to these three-fold crimes—the white man, the free negro, the slave—is personally corrupted by their commission, while society in general is injured and defrauded. Much, moreover, of the growing tendency to idleness and sullen insubordination observable in our slaves, is caused by their nightly association with free negroes. Instigated or rewarded by them, or incited by their bad example, an influence so powerful in ignorant minds, many of those petty thefts and those wasteful depredations upon the possessions of even the kindest masters, are committed, which detract so much from the value of property in slaves. It would not be too much to say that many of the more flagrant crimes, and fiercer scenes of violence and bloodshed, enacted in our fields and workshops, and around our firesides, are attributable to the same cause."

These statements, coming as they do from some of the first men in Virginia as to moral standing, are entitled to belief, and to the attention of all who care about such subjects. Our Virginian friends speak plainly of the illegal and demoralizing traffic in slaves, and as plainly of the ignorance and vice which grow up under their present system.

But we incline to the opinion, after all, that the crimes of the Virginia peasantry, white and black, bond and free, are not more frequent or more atrocious than those of the low and ignorant classes of the dwellers in New York, Philadelphia or Boston.

FIRE.—The great Clock Manufactory of J. Brown, Bristol, Conn. (Forestville Village) was burnt on Thursday night. Loss $35,000, insurance 30,000. Forty or fifty hands were thrown out of employ.

PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.—There is a prospect that Congress will pass the bill granting land for the purpose of constructing a telegraph across the continent.

A valuable mine of plumbago, or black lead, has been discovered in Nelson, N. H. Last year the yield was eighty-five tons; this year more than one hundred tons have been taken from the mine, about sixty tons of which have been sold in New York for $100 per ton.

In Lowell, on Saturday, a young mother went out for a few moments, leaving her child asleep in the cradle, and on returning found her room on fire, and the child burned to death.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Many persons, within the last week, have put the question, What is the Monroe Doctrine? Here we have the answer on the best authority. John C. Calhoun was a member of Mr. Monroe's Cabinet, and in his speeches in Congress gave a definition of what is now called the Monroe doctrine, which the Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce concentrates as follows:—

The facts were, as stated by Mr. Calhoun, that, after the pacification of Europe in 1815, the Holy Alliance contemplated the re-establishment of monarchial dominion over the American continent, and particularly over Spanish America. Mr. Canning, the sagacious minister of foreign affairs in England at that time, informed this government that England wished an opportunity to hold herself aloof from the alliance, and proposed that the United States should make a declaration that they would not permit the Spanish American Republics to be reduced to colonial bondage by any European powers. Mr. Canning would then be enabled to say to the Holy Alliance, that England could not unite in a pledge that might involve her in a war with the United States. A declaration was accordingly framed and promulgated in the message of 1822, to the effect that the United States would regard as hazardous to their safety and interests any attempt on the part of foreign powers to revolutionize any portion of the American continent. Therefore the Monroe declaration had a definite object, and it was intended to show to the world that we would resist what was then supposed to be the project of the Holy Alliance. That declaration, as thus explained, will ever stand good, and will ever be maintained. But the contingency is one that has not occurred, and probably never will occur.

From the above it is quite plain, that within a certain line of policy, towards other powers on this continent and its islands adjacent, Great Britain will not molest us, but hold us as friends and fellow workers. She would, no doubt, be more willing to see us absorb new territory, than to see the same process carried on by any one or any number of European sponges.

It is also plain that Great Britain, in the instance mentioned, coveted an alliance in defence of "liberty," and in restraining the grasp of the Holy Alliance, which sought to lay sacrilegous hands on liberty every where, and strangle her.

PROGRESS OF THE AGE.—The following notice appears under the marriage head of the Gardiner (Me.) Transcript:

We, the undersigned, have pledged ourselves to each other for life or as long as we can live in harmony, and now sustain the conjugal relations. This we do without conforming to the laws and customs of this nation in regard to marriage, believing it to be an affair exclusively our own, and that no others, whether of friends, church or State, have aught to do or say in the matter.

We deem it necessary to give this notice that our friends and the public may know of our union, that we may not be exposed to slander.

BENJ. F. SHAW,
HARRIET N. HOWARD.

PERSONAL.—Rev. W. H. Van Vleck, Bishop of the Moravian Church, died at his residence at Bethlehem, Penn. near Philadelphia, on Tuesday night, suddenly.

Mrs. Eliza Winnecke, wife of a German doctor, aged 20, was found dead in her bed in New York, on Tuesday. Dr. Adolphus Winnecke, her husband, poisoned himself same night, in Tammany Hall Hotel, where he had taken lodgings.

Rev. Benjamin Brierly has accepted a unanimous invitation to become pastor of the First Baptist Church in San Francisco.

Rev. James French, late of Exeter, N. H., has received a unanimous call from the Second Baptist church, Holyoke Mass., to become their pastor.

The wife of Senator Douglass died at his residence in Washington on Wednesday afternoon. The funeral will take place on Saturday. She died of puerperal fever.

Alexander Dumas, the negro author of Paris, has written fifty dramas and seven hundred volumes of fiction.

THE Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, at Manchester, N. H., have it in contemplation to build an extensive bleachery and dye house, during the approaching season, involving an outlay of $100,000.

A private despatch from Norfolk states that Mr. King, after touching, left for Havana on Tuesday evening. The bracing sea air had improved his appetite, health and spirits.

A NICE PLACE TO LIVE IN.—The New York Mirror says that "robbers, assassins and ravishers lie in wait at every corner" in that city.

On Christmas morning, when the Rev. Mr. Clarkson, Rector of St. James' Church, Chicago, went into the vestry, he found on his table a purse of gold amounting to several hundred dollars, with a line saying that it was the gift of few friends to a beloved and devoted pastor.

FURTHER WONDERS.—We are assured by the New York Tribune, that there is now at work in that city a thirty horse engine of the Ericsson principle, but much improved, giving the great pressure of fifty pounds to the square inch, that with less coal or other expense than incurred by Capt. E's original engines on the new ship.

THE MADIAI FAMILY.—Rudolph Lexow, editor of the Criminal Zietung, in a letter to the editor of the New York Herald, says that the Grand Duke of Tuscany, in answer to an application made by the King of Prussia, had agreed to liberate the Maidais on the 16th ult., and Mr. Lexow has no doubt but they are now at liberty.

COLTON'S MAPS.

These new Maps, to which we called the attention of our citizens a few days since, are really superb articles; and now is the time to purchase, while the publisher's agent is in our city. For accuracy and correctness of projection, combined with beauty of execution, they are unsurpassed, unequalled, by any other works of the kind—and they are equally well adapted to the parlor and the school. In the latter place they are most important aids to a pleasant and accurate study of geography.

WATCH STOPPED.—The distinguished watchman who was found run down the other night on the sidewalk, has been discharged from the service as an unsafe chronometer, and his pay stopped. He was a supernumerary, and being too fast that night, assumed a watch hook and went out, though not regularly on duty, and got first on the side walk, and next into the newspapers.

THE HUTCHINSONS.—These well known and favorite songsters announce this morning, in our columns, one of their deservedly popular Concerts to be given at the Cameneum next Thursday evening. See advertisement.

HAIR OIL.—"That bottle of "Hair Tonic," Dr. Gilbert sent us, we find to be a nice article—fully equal in all respects to many oils of greater pretensions and greater price. 25 cts. per bottle. Try it.

Laws of New Hampshire.

PASSED NOVEMBER SESSION, 1852.

AN ACT in relation to covered bridges.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That all towns and other corporations in this State who now have or shall hereafter erect and maintain a covered bridge across any stream in this State to be used as a public highway, shall keep the travelled part thereof completely covered with snow during the winter season in each year when there is sufficient snow upon the roads in the neighborhood of said bridges for sleighing.

SEC. 2. Any town or other corporation in this State who shall neglect or refuse to comply with the requirements of the foregoing section, shall be liable to indictment in the same way and manner as towns now are for neglecting to keep in good repair the highways within their respective limits.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect from and after the first day of November, 1853.

Approved, Jan. 7, 1853.

AN ACT to facilitate and render less expensive the proceedings in trials by jury.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That the court of common pleas, on motion of either party, may, if they think proper, refer any civil action pending therein, to one or more commissioners to be appointed by said court, who shall, before entering upon their duties, be sworn to the faithful discharge of the same: Provided, however, that no action which was commenced before the passage of this act shall be so referred, unless by the consent of the parties.

SEC. 2. When any action is so referred, each party shall prepare and file, under the direction of the court, a statement, expressed with legal certainty, of the facts which constitute his case, and the court, or such commissioner or commissioners, may, at their discretion, permit either of the parties to add to, alter or amend such written statement upon such terms as shall be reasonable and just, at any time during the pendency of such suit.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty of such commissioner or commissioners to try the questions of fact so raised and report to the court such facts as they judge to be proved; and shall also, upon request, in writing, of either party, report to the court the evidence given before them, that either party may, if he desire, use the same in the same way as depositions are used, on the trial of the action by the jury.

SEC. 4. Such commissioner or commissioners shall have power, upon the request of either party, to examine the other party as a witness in chief. And it is further provided, that, upon the request of either party, the other party may be examined as a witness in chief at any trial by jury.

SEC. 5. On such report, the court shall render such judgment as is warranted by the facts reported, unless either of the parties shall at the term at which the report is made, elect to try the case before a jury.

SEC. 6. Such party shall furnish a statement in writing, of the particulars in which he expects to change the result of the report, and at the trial the report shall be prima facie evidence of the facts.

SEC. 7. The verdict shall be specifically on the facts put in issue by the statement above mentioned, and the court shall render such judgment thereon as is warranted by the facts found.

SEC. 8. The judgment so rendered, either with or without a trial by jury, shall be as conclusive between the parties as a verdict on a matter directly in issue and a judgment thereon are now by law.

SEC. 9. If either party on due notice shall neglect to appear before the commissioner or commissioners they shall proceed exparte.

Approved, Jan. 7, 1853.

AN ACT in relation to pilots and pilotage.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That the Governor and Council be and they hereby are empowered to appoint three persons from among the members of the Portsmouth Marine Society, to be commissioners of pilotage of the harbor and river of the Piscataqua, who shall hold their offices for five years; and said commissioners and their successors are hereby authorized and empowered to make and establish all such ordinances, rules and regulations touching pilots and pilotage for the harbor and river of the Piscataqua as they may from time to time determine to be proper, and from time to time may modify, rescind or otherwise alter the same: Provided, That the same shall be published in some newspaper in said Portsmouth, at least thirty days before the same shall go into operation; also to prescribe the qualifications of pilots, and from time to time appoint and, under their hands and seals, commission such persons as they, by major vote, may determine, and the same remove at their discretion; and to take such security by way of bonds or otherwise as they shall deem proper.

SEC. 2. Whenever a vacancy shall occur in said board of commissioners, it shall be the duty of the said Portsmouth Marine Society to recommend from the members of said society three suitable persons to be commissioners of pilotage, to the Governor and Council, who are hereby empowered from one of the three so recommended, to appoint one person to fill such vacancy; and in like manner shall all vacancies which may from time to time occur be filled up. And the Governor and Council shall, from time to time, as there may be occasion, fix the fees for pilotage, and notify the commissioners thereof; and the commissioners shall insert the tariff of fees upon the commission which they shall give the persons appointed pilots; and until the Governor and Council shall otherwise order, the fees for pilotage shall be the same as now in force.

SEC. 3. That chapter one hundred and twenty-two of the Revised Statutes be and the same is hereby repealed; Provided however, That said repeal shall not take effect until the first day of February next.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect from and after its passage. Approved Jan. 5, 1853.

IN FRAMINGHAM, MASS.
THE house heretofore known as the FRAMINGHAM HOTEL, situated in Framinghan Depot, Mass., having been put in complete and thorough repair throughout, is now offered for sale. The main house is 100 feet on the street, 60 feet of which has a piazza, and contains 30 rooms, including a large hall; has a large and dry cellar, Ice House, and the best of water. The whole premises have been occupied the past year as a private residence, during which time many improvements have been made in and about the house and grounds, the front yard having been enclosed, set with large trees, and grassed. The house is well calculated for a genteel Boarding House or Hotel, for which it is much wanted; and the Board of Education have decided to remove the State Normal School, now located at West Newton, to Framingham, the site for which is only a few minutes' walk from the premises, makes this property particularly desirable for this purpose, as it will secure, in connection with boarders from the city, a profitable business the year round.
It is also desirable as a private residence, having every convenience as such, and being situated in close proximity to the Common, several Churches, High School, (free,) and only a few minutes' walk from the depot. The size of this House, to any one having a large family, would not be objectionable, as the hall and other parts could be fitted up in a manner which would add much to the convenience and comfort of a residence in the country; or a part of it could be so used, and the remainder let, without inconvenience. To persons, therefore, in pursuit of property for either of the above purposes, or for investment, an opportunity offers rarely to be met with. Terms of sale will be liberal, and possession given at any time.
For further information, apply by letter or otherwise, to L. WIGHT, Framingham, or in Boston to J. K. PORTER & CO., 27 Water st.

WASHINGTON MATTERS.—Washington, Jan. 21.—Among the arrivals here yesterday was that of Sanchez Navaro from Saltillo. He has claims against the government under the treaty of peace with Mexico for $400,000 for property carried off by the Camanche Indians of Texas.

Ephraim K. Miller, son of the late General Miller, was nominated to-day Collector at Salem, an office held by his father.

It is said that the seat of Mr. Benjamin, U. S. Senator from La., is to be contested on the ground of his not having been naturalized. Mr. B. having been born on the island of St. Thomas, W. I.

Joseph R. Pomeroy, late Third Assistant Engineer in the Navy, died at the Navy Yard yesterday.

Thirty-Second Congress—Second Session.

THURSDAY, JAN. 20.

SENATE.—Mr. Pearce presented a memorial from ship owners and others, setting forth the evils resulting from corporeal punishment in the commercial marine, and asking a substitute therefor.

The Pacific railway bill was referred to a committee of five.

The House bill to suppress the circulation of small bills in the District of Columbia was referred.

The Senate devoted another hour in secret session, relative to the nomination of Mr. Badger.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, the newly elected Senator from Alabama, arrived by the Southern boat this afternoon, and was immediately sent for, and reached in season to be sworn in and to participate in the proceedings in Executive session, but as Senator Dawson of Georgia arrived by the same boat, Mr. Fitzpatrick's presence did not alter the relative strength of Mr. Badger's friends and opponents, and the nomination was again laid over.

Washington Irving was present in the Senate Chamber to-day, and attracted the marked attention of the Senators present.

HOUSE.—The report of the Secretary of the Treasury was referred to the Committee of Ways and Means.

The Senate bill to prohibit executions in the District of Columbia, was taken up.

Mr. Jones of Tennessee moved to refer it to the committee on the Judiciary, with instructions to abolish the death penalty—voted down. The bill finally passed by about 98 to 31.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—The case of Woodyard, Adm. of Harper vs. the Phœnix Life Insurance Co. was decided, Jan. 6th, by Judge Treat of the Court of Common Pleas, in favor of the defendant.

The facts in the case are as follows: Mr. Harper, a resident of Canton, Lewis county, had his life insured for the sum of $2000, in the Phœnix Insurance Co. of this city. He subsequently became involved in a difficulty at Canton with a Dr. Correll of that place.—They had an altercation, and the evidence seemed to prove that in it Harper drew a pistol and snapped it at Correll, who, in his turn, fired the contents of his own pistol at Harper, causing his death. The Insurance Company refused to pay the policy, on the ground that the act of Harper in first drawing the pistol on Correll, was a violation of the provisions enjoined upon him when the policy was issued. The estate sued the Company for the amount of the insurance, and the decision was rendered yesterday against the plaintiffs.—St. Louis Intelligencer.

AMERICAN RAILROAD IRON.—From a well authenticated statement, we learn that American Railroad Iron, manufactured from American pig, is in quality superior, by almost 3 to 1, to the imported article. The following is the test furnished by the engineers of the Reading Railroad—a route better calculated than any other in the United States, to try the qualities of iron rails;

Annual wear of English iron, 4 1-10 per cent.
Annual wear of American iron, 1 4-10 " "

Difference in favor of American, 2 7-10

On lines principally for the conveyance of passengers, the wear is not so great, consequently the difference in favor of American iron is less; but the average disparity is about 2 to 1 in the wear, being the difference in cost for repairs. The Lowmoor iron, which stands highest in the estimation of our railroad managers, is far inferior in tenacity to the ordinary American iron in use.—Banker's Circular.

SECOND CROPS. The Charleston Courier states, as an evidence of the extraordinary mildness of the season, that full grown peppers, the second crop of the season, have been raised in a garden in that city, there being at the same time upon the plants from which they were taken, blossoms for a third crop.—The extreme delicacy of the pepper plant is well known, it being generally the first to suffer from a frost. In the same garden, have been grown Irish potatoes, of good size, the second crop of the season.

"SMARTNESS."—The general idea of increasing prosperity in our large cities induces greater expence in the style of living, which involves disaster. A failure of this nature took place last week, in New York, being that of a firm in the dry goods jobbing trade, whose capital had been a year since $12,000, and whose liabilities are $390,000. The personal expenses of the two members of the firm are given at $47,000 for eleven months, or three times the whole capital in the business. These persons were known as "very smart young men" to the trade, and were favored by the older houses, from their supposed abilities to sell a large quantity of goods.

Capt. Jesse Loveland, of bark Parthian, committed suicide at New Orleans on the 12th inst., by shooting himself through the breast.
